ANNOUNCEMENTS

Slater Hall Musical Course.

The Slater Hall Musical Course of 1923-24 offers to musical patrons an unusually attractive programme of great variety and merit.

There will be four concerts by celebrated artists of world wide fame.

On Friday evening, Nov. 2, Jeanne Gordon, a leading artist of the Metropolitan Opera Co., will appear.

The concert season just passed marked sensational achievements in Miss Gordon's career.

Queenly in her appearance, intense in her physical responses to the music, vibrant of voice in the climaxes, she is successor to those American singing actresses, Farrar and Gardan. Musical critics consider that she is now the superior of either.

On Friday evening, January 11th, Percy Grainger, the famous young Australian pianist will appear.

There is perhaps no figure in the musical world today of more vital interest than Percy Grainger, who gave up his career at what was then regarded at its height to go into service in the United States army. He gave to the army the same energy and sincerity that he has given to all his undertakings. Since his return to civil life and music he has reached far greater height than even his most ambitious dreams might have fashioned.

Percy Grainger's name has become a household word.

On Wednesday evening, February 6th, Olive Marshall, the noted New York soprano will appear with Jean Bedetti, 'cellist of the Boston Symphony orchestra.

In both concert and recital guild, Miss Marshall has achieved gratifying success and she stands today in the very front rank of the younger concert singers of this country.

Jean Bedetti, the distinguished 'cellist has been acclaimed for his artistry both in recitals and as soloist with the Boston Symphony orchestra.

Erna Rubinstein is one of the most sensational additions to the musical elect of recent years. The foremost New York critics compare her playing to that of Kreisler. Her American debut was made last February with the New York Philharmonic under Mengelberg.

In spite of the lateness of the season Miss Rubinstein appeared six more times in New York, including three more appearances with the Philharmonic. Her metropolitan successes have been repeated in the leading cities of America.

Course tickets only $6 for four concerts. Tax exempt. The course tickets will be on sale at The Cranston Co., Broadway, Monday, October 22, at 9 a. m.

Patrons are urged to send in their orders for course tickets at once to The Cranston Co.

Wears Gowns Worth $50,000 in New Picture at Broadway Theatre.

This Paramount star admitted while being fitted for some of the new creations she wears in "Bluebeard's 8th Wife," a Sam Wood production for Paramount in which she stars an which is on view at the Broadway theatre today for a run of three days more.

From this early training I have learned the real value of clothes. Because I soon learned to recognize clothes that were too gaudy or too flashy to be really fashionable and beautiful, I learned to avoid them. I learned just to what point to go in dressing to be just right.

Today that training is of inestimable value to me in my screen work. In every picture I am called upon to wear marvelous gowns. Unless I did have the early training, I would not be able to so accurately foresee women's fashions and wear them without becoming ridiculous.

In "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," Miss Swanson wears some of the leading advance styles edicted by Paris for the coming season. They were specially made for this picture and are valued at nearly fifty thousand dollars.

A new Will Rogers comedy in three reels, called "Fruits of Faith," furnished good entertainment. A News weekly closed the show.

Breed Theatre

The marvelous beauty of the silent vast spaces of the frozen Canadian northland is the background for the massive Metro spectacle, "The Eternal Struggle," which is the feature at the Breed theatre today. It was produced by Reginald Barker, credited with being the greatest director for this kind of pictures in the entire film world.

There are many thrilling episodes in "The Eternal Struggle" that will remain unrivaled for a long time. With great danger to himself and the big group of players he took with him, as well as at great expense, Mr. Barker spent many months in the bitter cold of the Arctic Circle filming dangerous scenes among gorges, ice jams and hurtling rapids.

"The Eternal Struggle" is a Metro-Louis B. Mayer presentation adapted by J. G. Hawks and Monte M. Katerjohn from G. B. Lancaster's novel, "The Law-Bringers." It was photographed by Percy Hilburn.

Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news and an educational comedy.

Guy Brothers Minstrels Coming to Broadway Theatre Friday and Saturday.

This coming Friday and Saturday will see one of the oldest minstrel shows on tour which is the Guy Brothers fiftieth year on the road with a super fine minstrel company, consisting of 20 performers. Beautiful scenery costumes, electrical scenic effects and in all a basketful of delight. The two and a half hour programme that is presented features the best dancers, singers, acrobats, laugh makers, smile producers and fun creators in the business today. It is a snappy show from the start to the finish with no slow moments at all. A show worth while for all ladies, gentlemen and children.

Popular prices will prevail which is evening 50c, 75c and $1, and Saturday matinee 25c and 50c. Show Friday and Saturday night, also matinee on Saturday.

It is easily worth double the price charged so don't miss it. Reserved seat sale Friday.

Strand Theatre.

An all around fine programme of B. F. Keith vaudeville was presented yesterday at the Strand theatre to a capacity audience.

Savoy and Williams in "A Few Different Things" opened with a fine bit of comedy characterization songs, instrumental music, and a little humorous patter and dancing.

Mabel Harper, assisted by the talented pianist, Ethel Fitzpatrick, offered "The Funbeam of Vaudeville," which consisted of comedy songs and chatter.

The Elwell Sisters closed the bill with a good line of songs and dance.

In "The Daring Years," Daniel Carson Goodman's latest screen offering for Equity Pictures at the Strand theatre today and Wednesday, Mr. Goodman proves conclusively that love is the greatest power in the world. When the boy around whom this stunningly dramatic story centers feels that he is doomed, when he is bound to the electric chair and feels that in one little second the current will have swept through him and he will be left a lifeless atom, it is the all-consuming love of his mother and his darling little sweetheart that saves him from this hideous fate!

Are you guarding against THESE DAYS?

There's a Reason

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.

Home Face Peeling Becomes Popular

No complexion treatment yet discovered seems to have become so generally popular as the mercolized wax process. Evidently the reason is that this method actually gets rid of a bad complexion, which can hardly be said of any other. To temporarily hide or bleach the defective skin with cosmetics cannot compare with the effect of literally removing the skin itself. Mercolized wax takes off the offending surface skin in fleur-like particles, a little at a time, until there's none of it left. The new complexion thus produced exhibits a healthy glow and girlish beauty obtainable in no other way. This wax, which you can get at your druggist's (an ounce will do), is applied at night like cold cream, and washed off morning.

TODAY I AM A REAL WELL

So Writes Woman After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Jamestown, N. Y.—"I was nervous, easily excited and discouraged and had no ambition. Part of the time I was not able to sit up as I suffered with pains in my back and with weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, both the liquid and tablet forms, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanitive Wash for inflammation. Today I am real well and run a rooming house and do the work. I recommend your medicine to every woman who complains, and you may use my letter to help any one else. I am passing through the Change of Life now and I keep the Vegetable Compound in the house, ready to take when I feel the need of it."—Mrs. ALICE D. DAVIS, 203 W. Second St., Jamestown, N. Y.

Often some slight derangement may cause a general upset condition of the whole system, indicated by such symptoms as nervousness, backache, lack of ambition and general weakness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine for such troubles. In many cases it has removed the cause of the trouble.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

At St. James' church Monday morning at 8:30 a nuptial mass at which Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S., was celebrant, Miss Albina R. Daume, who has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cartagher of Mechanic street, became the bride of Stephen R. Waterman of Moosup and Pascoag, R. I. Miss Mary Waterman, Pascoag, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Romeo Daume, brother of the bride, was best man.

The bride's gown was of Alice blue silk crepe and her hat was of brocaded velvet with silver lace. Her bouquet was of bride roses. The bridesmaid wore a gown of brown Canton crepe with hat to match and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. Following the marriage there was a reception and breakfast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Collins, on the West Side, Mrs. Collins being a sister of the bride. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Waterman will make their home in Moosup, where Mr. Waterman is in the employ of the American Woolen company; his home is in Pascoag.

Monday morning at 7 o'clock at St. James' church Miss Beatrice Mary Lambert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lambert, of this place and William Aquinas Reddy of Dayville and Lowell, Mass., were united in marriage by the pastor, Rev. John Roux, M. S., who also was celebrant of the nuptial mass, attended by relatives and friends and representative of numbers of towns and cities in this section of eastern Connecticut and from more distant points in New England.

As a member of the Children of Mary, the bride-to-be was met at the entrance of the church by Misses Margaret Duggan and Margaret A. Head, respectively president and vice president of the Children of Mary, and escorted to the Blessed Virgin's altar, where her medal as a member of the society was deposited and a bouquet placed, after which she read the act of consecration.

Rejoining her husband-to-be at the altar rail, the couple passed into the sanctuary where the marriage ceremony was performed.

Attending the bridal couple were Miss Elizabeth M. Dunn as bridesmaid and Edward McKeon, North Grosvenordale, a cousin of the groom, as best man.

The bride's gown was of white satin and her veil of exquisite Irish lace, the handiwork of a Sister of the Order of Mercy at Ballinasloe, County Galway, Ireland, who was a teacher of the bride's mother in her early years in that county. The veil, arranged in cap effect, was caught with a spray of orange blossoms. The bride's bouquet was a shower of roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Following the marriage there was a breakfast and reception at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride received a remarkable array of gifts that included linen, cut glass, silver and many useful and ornamental articles for her home.

Both are well known in Danielson, the home of the bride since her birth. Mr. Reddy is particularly remembered here as a star athlete during his days at Killingly High school and as a semi-professional in more recent years. At present he is located in Lowell, where he is in the employ of the Aberthaw Construction company, the concern that erected the great stockhouse and many of the dwellings in the new village at Goodyear a few years ago.

At Monday morning's session of the town court, Judge W. Fenner Woodward presiding, Wilfred Blanchette of the West Side was presented to answer to a charge of indecent conduct with two little girls, aged 6 and 8 years respectively, and after a hearing at which he was represented by Attorney Charles L. Torrey of Putnam, probable cause was found for binding him over to the next term of the superior court under bonds of $500, which was furnished by his father. Facts warranting the presentation of this case before the court were worked out by officers attached to the state police barracks here.

Also at Monday's session Milton Redel, of Moosup, was presented to answer to a charge of reckless driving. His recklessness consisted of the inexcusable, but more or less common violation of "cutting" in. In this particular case Redel's machine struck two other cars, damaging one of them to the extent of about $30, for which he will pay. He was fined $25 and costs.

Frank G. Bailey, 64, of 976 Main street, was badly burned about the face, arms and neck, and his son, Francis, 22, suffered burns of the hands and feet, during a $100 fire in the kitchen of their home at noon, today. The elder Bailey was carried from the burning building by Capt. Walter Stevens of Engine 5, and his brother, Arthur Stevens, of the Insurance Fire Patrol, and taken to a nearby drugstore. After being given emergency treatment he was taken to the City hospital.

Francis Bailey was taking a bath when he heard a neighbor crying the alarm, as the smoke and flame poured out of the kitchen windows of the Bailey apartment. Hurriedly donning some clothing, young Bailey ran to the kitchen and found his father lying on the floor with his clothing a mass of flames. As the young man was dragging his father from the burning room, the firemen entered and carried him to safety.

During the excitement Mrs. Bailey, who had been shopping, returned and she was overcome. She recovered sufficiently to accompany her husband to the hospital. A few minutes after Mr. Bailey had been placed in the ambulance, a young man in the crowd fainted and was carried into a nearby store, where he quickly recovered.

Miss Margaret A. Head and nephew, Leo McDonald, have returned from LaSalette college, Hartford, where they visited with Francis McDonald, who during September took up his studies for the priesthood.

Two more cars other than the one in which Mrs. Dora Morin was killed, Monday morning, figured in accidents on Dark Lantern Hill, east of here, during Monday. In one of these accidents the two front wheels were literally torn off an Overland touring car owned and driven by R. S. Holmes and a rear wheel collapsed. No one was hurt, due chiefly, it is understood, to the fact that the car was heavily loaded in the tonneau. The car skidded when it was wrecked, and those who saw it considered that it was a particularly bad wreck, all circumstances considered. Mr. Holmes is a resident of Lynn, Mass., and is the owner of a farm in Brooklyn. A short time after the Holmes car was wrecked another machine plunged off the road and crashed into a telephone pole on Dark Lantern hill, putting telephones in that section out of order, but no one was hurt in this later incident and the car proceeded. Officer Merrill Keith of the state police barracks here checked up the accidents. All in all, Dark Lantern is becoming a place of dread for automobile drivers, but it will be noted that practically every driver who figures in an accident there is unfamiliar with the territory. Locals are never met with accident on the hill, and from this statement much may be deduced.

MRS. WILFRED MORIN KILLED ON DARK LANTERN HILL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Dora Morin, 28, lost her life shortly after 6 o'clock Monday morning when the big sedan in which she was riding with her husband, en route to Providence, skidded and turned over at the top of Dark Lantern hill, site of accident after accident during the past year. Mrs. Morin sustained a fractured skull and multiple fracture of the upper and lower jaws. She lived only a moment after the big machine rolled over after turning completely around three times and landed on its side—the side on which Mrs. Morin was sitting. Her husband, Wilfred Morin, was only slightly injured. He did his utmost to extricate himself from the car to lift the side on which his wife was lying. He said afterwards that his wife drew her head back in through the window of the door of the car and then expired.

Mr. and Mrs. Morin were members of a vaudeville team booked for a feature act at the Albee theatre in Providence this week and were hurrying there after an all-night ride from New York when the accident happened. On the stage Mr. Morin is known as Valentine Vox, and he appears in The Club Man.

The body of Mrs. Morin was removed to the undertaking rooms of A. F. Wood here and arrangements were completed during the day for burial in Westfield cemetery later in the week. Mr. and Mrs. Morin had no permanent home address, as their theatrical engagements took them into various sections of the country. She was born in Chicago, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Loomis, now resident in Seattle, Wash. Mr. Morin said he would arrange for burial here until such future time as he is permanently established somewhere and then may remove the body. Mrs. Morin was a strikingly beautiful blonde. The car in which she met her death was purchased by her husband only four months ago, that she might be out in the open more, in the interest of her health.

Mr. Morin was entirely unfamiliar with this section of the state, though he had played engagements in the larger cities of Connecticut and had much the same experience when his car skidded as have many other drivers unacquainted with Dark Lantern hill, a name that has come to be associated with appalling automobile accidents. The powerful car he was driving was rolling up the considerable grade from South Killingly at a smart clip when he came to the point where the grade changes and drops abruptly down the steep first section of Dark Lantern hill. Applying his brakes to lessen the speed of the car, the machine started to skid and eventually turned over. The machine came through the accident with remarkably small damage. It only partly left the road before turning over, smashing the right front fender, the right running board and putting a dent on the body, just over the rear right mudguard. This damage excepted, the only other injury sustained by the machine was a broken glass in the right front door, near which Mrs. Morin was sitting and a broken inset glass near the windshield. The car was towed here for repairs.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill, Medical Examiner George M. Burroughs and State Police Officers A. W. Williams and Merrill Keith all visited the point where the car was wrecked. Dr. Burroughs, after getting into the overturned car and ascertaining that Mrs. Morin was actually dead, gave permission for the removal of the body to Danielson.

Mr. Morin told Coroner Bill that when he saw the steep hill before him he applied his brakes gradually, but that the car skidded on the slippery and wet surface of the road and he could not prevent it from going out of control.

PUTNAM

At Holy Trinity church in Pomfret Monday morning at 8 o'clock, Miss Nellie Furlong was united in marriage with Lawrence J. Ryan, of Boston, formerly of Pomfret at a nuptial of which Rev. J. J. Elty, the pastor, was celebrant. Only near relatives of the bride and groom present at the marriage.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Anna Furlong, Thomas J. Ryan, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride wore a traveling suit of dark blue material trimmed with squirrel and had a corsage bouquet of orchids. The bridesmaid's gown was of corn-colored canton crepe, and her hat a large picture model in brown. Her bouquet was of chrysanthemums.

The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Furlong, well known residents of Pomfret for many years.

Monday evening the second week of sessions of the Putnam evening school opened with a materially increased attendance. Another teacher has been added in the commercial department to care for the influx of pupils. Temporarily Miss Irene Bernier, commercial teacher at the high schools, is assisting Miss Elsie A. Gallant, in charge of the commercial department of the evening school. Applications for attendance continued to come in over the week end, and it has been found necessary to secure the services of Miss Bernier to assist in teaching those who are in the commercial course. There is every indication of the success of the evening school during the period that will extend through the fall and winter months.

Another victim of an evening's outing, in which a motor car ride played a part—Miss Helen Boniechki, 16, of Webster, was lying in a dangerous condition at the Day Kimball hospital here Monday, after undergoing a surgical operation for the relief of internal injuries received last Friday evening when a machine in which she was riding plunged through a fence near the Killingly town farm on the road to Danielson. The party of which she was a member was en route to Danielson to attend a week end dance.

Miss Boniechki's injuries were not considered serious at first and she was taken to the office of Dr. Frank P. Todd at Danielson for treatment. Dr. Todd directed after administering first aid attention that she be taken to the hospital here, and her escorts did this.

It is understood that the man who was driving the car was George W. Becker of 38 College street, Worcester, and in the machine with him there are said to have been two other persons in addition to the injured girl, when the machine crashed through a fence, after the fog confused the driver as to the direction he wished to follow.

Booker was pinned beneath the car, it is said, when it went off the road, but he extricated himself practically uninjured and did everything within his power to aid other members of the party.

It is stated that the injured girl left her home two months ago and went to Worcester to make her home. Her sister Anna, who went to Worcester to find the younger girl, was slightly injured in an automobile accident in Southbridge, a short time ago.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson has been investigating the circumstances surrounding the injury of the girl, who was reported in a dangerous condition at the hospital here Monday.

Myra F. Whipple, 96, widow of Horace O. Whipple, died Sunday at the Whipple home in Pomfret, close by where the Pomfret school crew has a boat house and where the Whipple family has lived for many years. Mrs. Whipple was one of the oldest residents of the town of Pomfret and had lived where she died for a great many years. Her husband died about 30 years ago. She had been in failing health for a long time, but continued to make her home on the farm that has been in the family since time out of memory.

Putnam need not worry about its water supply. There is ample for all domestic purposes for a long time to come, notwithstanding that scores of towns and cities in New England are now reduced to water rations due to the long drawn out dry spell, which has not been equalled—or at least remembered by the oldest inhabitants.

All through this territory small lakes and ponds have practically dried up as the results of the shortage of rainfall throughout the summer and early fall period. Keach's pond, one of the best known hereabouts, has practically gone dry. C. Dwight Sharpe, superintendent of the municipal water works, said Monday that Putnam need not worry, however, about having an ample supply of water for all uses in homes, though none is available for power. Rain came, too, Monday to help out the situation and there is promise of more—after the world's series is over until which business cannot go on, it seems, as usual.

Incident to the drought it was recalled Monday that cold weather observers say that no really severe cold weather comes until after all streams and ponds are filled in the fall, and this being true, there is a prospect of much more mild weather before what many call winter sets in.

Bright skies and nearly a midsummer warmth in the air was a factor in the large entries and the success of the two golf matches, one for the women and one for the men, held at the Pomfret Golf club Friday and Saturday. On account of the compilation of a large number of cards turned in and the fact that some of the women members did not bring their authenticated handicaps from the clubs which they represented, the winners were not known until some time after the contest was closed. As now announced, Mrs. E. R. Warren of Danielson, member of the Putnam Country club with a net score of 39 for nine holes, was the winner of the women's tournament, while Leonard Swain of the Pomfret club won the men's match, with a net of 75 for 18 holes. Par for the course is 70.

The match at the Pomfret club has been a yearly event for he past five years. It developed when the president of the club offered a beautiful silver cup as a prie for an open handicap match to which all golf players of Wi[illegible] were eligible. The cup is not to become the property of [illegible] player in any event, the terms being that it becomes the property of the club whose players are successful in wising it three times. As far as the contests have proceeded, Pomfret, adding the victory of Swain, Saturday, has won the cup twice, Putnam twice and Thompson once.

The women's contest was an added feature this year. A cup was offered by a member and all women golf players were eligible to compete. Fifteen entred th contest, Friday, and playd once around th nine hole course. The clubs represented were Pomfret, Thompson, Putnam and Willimantic.

Members of Wappaquasset Tribe of Red Men of this city will observe the sixth anniversary of their organiation when they meet Friday evening for a big pow-wow, with all the features that go to make up a celebration. A supper is to be served and there is to be a special program of entertainment.

Edgar Jarvis of Woonsocket, where he is proprietor of a store, has been the guest of relatives in Putnam. Mr. Jarvis is a cousin of Captain William Jarvis of the Putnam police.

A car in a procession of machines carrying members of the North Providence Poultry club ripped down sections of state road fence on both sides of the highway near Chaplin Sunday and finally plunged off the road after first being forced into the fence by a machine passing in the opposite direction. No one was injured in the incident and, with assistance, the fence smashing car was put back in the road and went its way practically none the worse for its experience. Two guesses are allowed each reader as to what kind of car it was.

At Monday mornings session of the city court, held in the superior court rooms, only one case was up for consideration—that of a Plainfield man charged with a minor violation of the motor vehicle law, for which a small fine was imposed.

A short calendar session of the Windham county superior court will be held in this city this (Tuesday) morning, Judge L. P. Waldo Mahvin presiding. Cases are expected to be assigned for trial at future sessions of the court to be held in Willimantic.

SOUTH GRISWOLD

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pendleton and family of Bristol, R. I., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Culver.

A. G. Greene and A. P. Culver were business callers at Brewster's Neck Tuesday.

The women's society of the Bethel M. E. church is planning to serve a supper.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Burdick and son were recent visitors in Mystic.

WESTERLY

The caucus of the republican party adjourned from Wednesday evening was called to order in the Westerly town hall, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of balloting on the contestde councilman and highway commissioner nominations. The district caucus officials were;

First district—Moderator, I. B. Crandall; clerk, John J. Dunn; supervisors, Alex Mitchell and Joseph S. Grills; gate tender, Alexander Aitken; checkers outside the gate, G. B. Utter and Michael Papalia. The first ballot was given Mrs. Oliver P. Crandall. The voting continued steadily for the first hour. One signer of the nomination papers of Dr. Thomas Robinson a year ago was prevented from participating in the caucus and was not allowed to cast ballot.

Second District—Moderator, E. B. Pendleton; clerk, Everett E. Whipple; supervisors, Farquhar Smith and Edward B. Coy; gate tender, Adam Archie; checkers outside the gate, John D. Nichols and Andrew J. Martin. The first ballot was given Miss Grace Carmichael. Voting for the first hour in this district was not as brisk as in the First district.

Frank Mucio, 16, of 26 Pierce street was arrested Sunday by Patrolman Michael Curtin of the Westerly police force while engaged in shooting craps at the corner of Pierce and Pond streets. Mucio was caught red handed with dice and money.

Recorded in the office of the town clerk for the first half of the month of October were the following real estate transfers:

Misses Lillian and Marion Wheatcroft returned to New York city, on Sunday after spending the week-end at Shelter Harbor.

Miss Helen Woodruff and Miss Katherine Lincoln returned to Boston Sunday evening, after visiting at Shelter Harbor.

In the superior court at Providence before Judge Chester W. Barrows on Saturday afternoon at an exparte hearing Henry L. Burdick and Everett A. Kingsley of Westerly were denied an injunction but granted a restraining order for their clients, to prevent Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton of Westerly from making collections under a sewage assessment act for the first sewer district.

In their petition the orators attacked the validity of the assessment on seven grounds: Not in accordance with the public law fixing the rate at 40c, was made against tangible personal property violating the statute, made against tangible personal property not receiving benefit, made against real estate in drainage area not abutting on sewer, that a rate is fixed instead of an amount reasonable and necessary, failure to provide for time and manner of collection, failure to give due and legal notice of assessment.

It is said that the same objections raised are applicable to the fire tax which has been assessed and paid along similar lines for some years past. And it is further added, it is stated that there are taxpayers who have consistently refused to pay their fire taxes on the same grounds.

It was planned to have the sewerage assessment tax bills go out with the town tax bills when they became due October 15th, and this will have the effect of holding up the sewage tax collection in Westerly.

A hearing is set for October 22nd at 9.30 o'clock when the interested parties will be heard in the premises.

Deputy Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell served the necessary papers under the restraining order on Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton in Westerly Saturday.

Miss Rebecca George who spent the week-end at her home in Danvers, Mass., returned to Westerly Sunday evening.

J. E. Champlin of Shelter Harbor, who is now with John P. Sherman at Matunuck was a visitor in Westerly Sunday.

Miss Rachel E. Barber and Lucinda Barber returned home Sunday afternoon from a week end automobile trip over the Mohawk Trail.

George Vardilos, George Kenyon and James E. Dowd of Westerly were in New York Sunday and witnessed the world series baseball game between the Yankees and the Giants.

DAVIS will make this test!

The only purpose in using baking powder is to leaven food. Proper leavening depends on the strength of the baking powder. You can test the raising strength of Davis this way:

2 Add three teaspoonfuls of cold water, stir quickly and remove spoon.

4 Turn glass upside down—if test is made correctly, contents will not fall out.

This is only a test. When using baking powder, always sift together flour, baking powder and salt, mixing thoroughly, always dry—in the usual way.

This simple test will prove to you the superior raising strength of Davis Baking Powder, and that you may use it with full confidence that your bakings will always come out right.

HOSPITAL SERVICE MUST NOT BE LOWERED.

A public institution calls for public support, and such service as it is able to render depends upon the way the community rises to its duty.

There was a time when the Backus Hospital was endowed with sufficient funds to render the service that it was built to give. As economic conditions have changed the hospital has been put in the same position that other institutions have, that corporations have and that individuals have. Not being able to get along on what revenue was obtainable the situation is faced of increasing the revenue or curtailing the service.

Considering the dependence placed upon the hospital in a community of this size, there can be no thought of lowering the service, of turning away those who cannot afford to pay the necessary rates to keep the institution going, or of denying hospital service to the sick and injured.

Likewise it is realized that no hospital can measure up to its requirements without adequate and efficient nurses, and those in training should have proper housing facilities on the hospital grounds where they will be well cared for and subject to call when wanted. That doesn't exist now.

It is a nurses' home and an increased endowment of the Backus hospital that is sought in the community appeal that will be inaugurated this week. Norwich has benefitted for a long time through the generosity of those who bedowed or made substantial gifts to the institution in the past. It is time now not only endorse that good work but to do something for itself. That something can be done through providing that "$250,000 and more" that is being sought for the nurses' home and the endowment. In a community of $0,000, with the large surrounding territory depending on the hospital no difficulty should be experienced in reaching the goal. None will be if each and every one does his part.

AUTOS AND CHILDREN.

By statistics which have been kept in the neighboring state of Massachusetts it is found that there have been 180 children killed on the highways of that state up to the first of October, or 14 more than were killed during the entire twelve months of 1922. This reveals a tendency in the wrong direction. Where the number should be decreasing it is increasing at a deplorable rate, and it serves to disclose the growing dangers in the highways.

What is going to be done about it? There are two ways of tackling the problem. It certainly calls for the exercise of greater care on the part of all users of the highways, and it means that the children must be impressed with the necessity of giving greater protection to themselves.

Children cannot be too strongly impressed with the need of keeping out of the streets as much as possible and of looking well to their own safety. Jumping out into the streets while playing, dodging from in back of standing vehicles, hopping on and off of moving vehicles, going from one side of the street to another while riding bicycles are some of the ways in which many of the accidents occur. They all emphasize the disposition to underestimate or overlook the danger that exists in the streets today with so many quickly and quietly moving vehicles to look out for.

It means that the drivers of vehicles must have good control of their machines but it is apparent that they cannot do the impossible. They are not mind readers and cannot anticipate the heedless but they can do much by sacrificing a bit of time in the interest of safety.

With the drivers and the children working together for the prevention of accidents and fatalities, fewer should occur. It is where there is a reckless regard for life and limb on the part of both drivers and other users of the highways that the death list piles up. More cars and more children call for greater care in the interest of protection.

A FINE OFFER.

Road building programmes get much more support in some states than in others. That is why there is to be found excellent systems in some states today and deplorable ones in others. Road building costs money and there is a reluctance to devote the huge sums necessary for such a purpose without stopping to give heed to the benefits which are obtained.

The good road movement has been underway for many years now with the result that there is a constant cry for better roads. Improved roads of some years past are being rebuilt of permanent material in the interest of economy. It means more money to the mile but it means a reduced cost of maintenance and longer life to the highway.

There are states, however, where there is need of offering inducements to establish better roads. Such it would seem existed in Missouri where a wealthy cement manufacturer has offered to provide at cost all the cement that the state can use for road building for the next five years up to two-thirds of the capacity of his plant. When it is realized that that means 400,000 barrels of cement a year, or 2,000,000 altogether, on which there would be under ordinary conditions a profit of about $800,000, it can be appreciated that Missouri is being offered something which few are disposed to provide.

Such a proposed gift is not to be regarded solely from the advertising standpoint. Unquestionably this manufacturer has a desire to do something for his state and do it while he is alive. Naturally he is interested in the problem of road building and has confidence in the merit of the product of his factory. Yet there are few who are willing to restrict themselves to the profit on one-third of the output of their factories in their eagerness to do something worth while for their commonwealth. If Missouri doesn't want to accept such an offer there is no doubt many other states which would welcome such a citizen to their midst.

THE WORLD'S SERIES.

Once again the world's championship baseball pennant goes to New York. It wasn't possible within the past few weeks for it to go elsewhere, but it has been switched from the Giants to the Yankees and from one league to another.

Whatever decrease in interest there may have been outside of the big city in the championship contest there is no question but what the metropolis was keenly aroused. It of course had every reason to be. Every city is interested in the home team and New York has not showed any lack of enthusiasm over the prospect that New York teams would wrestle for the coveted honor.

It was a case where the better team won. Some remarkable ball has been played with home runs figuring prominently while spectacular work has been done in the field as well as at the bat. Nevertheless it was through the ability of the Yankees' batsmen to find the Giants' pitchers for large scores in the last three games that turned the tide and gave them the series.

Records in various directions were established in which members of both teams and the public figured. With almost as many persons turned away from the grounds as were admitted it doesn't show that there is any lagging in baseball interest. It only raises the question as to where the attendance limit for such contests will end and how all those who want to witness the best ball teams in the country play can be accommodated. All of which indicates a healthy interest in the great national game.

MUST GUARD OURSELVES.

When it is declared by Congressman Aswell of Louisiana that European governments are striving to hold their desirable citizens at home and unload on the United States the great mass of depraved and degenerate citizens, it is perhaps no different than should be expected or anticipated.

Europe can have no desire to keep such a class of citizens. It feels much as the judge does who orders undesirables out of town. It does not care where they go so long as they get away, and that furnishes the basis for the demands which have arisen in this country for culling out the undesirables and doing so on the other side before they have a chance to congest the facilities in the immigration stations.

Just how much cooperation can be expected from European countries in an effort to shift out the undesirables before they embark for this country is problematical. They may appreciate the fact that such action would prevent those people from experiencing the hardships of a round trip across the ocean and failure to get admission, but what real interest have they in endeavoring to keep the undesirables at home?

The bars were put up after the war to check just such a tide. We have no reason to exclude those who are needed or those who are bound to make good citizens. We do not want Europe's unfit, physically or mentally. The problem isn't going to be solved by lifting the bars and admitting all who knock. We cannot afford to have proper regard for our own future when we open the doors to those coming here for better or worse.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

An October rain is always in the interest of forest fire prevention.

The man on the corner says: Will they raise the world championship banner to the tune of Yankee Doodle Dandy?

If Slacker Bergdoll comes home, is there going to be a killing of the fatted calf?

Those that leave loaded firearms where children can get them can plan on a funeral at home or in the neighborhood.

It is easy to sympathize with the chap who has to dig into his winter coal supply during these delightful October days.

Canada is not superstitious. It has just issued and put into circulation a new two dollar bill in honor of the prince of Wales.

If the president of China paid ten million dollars to get the job, he must be a very rich man or else he looks for very big picking.

The soft coal industry may be perturbed at prices, but we have an idea that the consumers are the ones who are the most disturbed.

A community meets its obligation to itself only in that degree that it responds to just such appeals as that for the Backus Hospital.

The idea to suspending the hunting laws in Massachusetts because of the dry condition of the woods and fields is certainly in the interest of fire prevention.

With poison found in eight of ten samples taken in raids in Chicago the estimate that 2000 persons in the country have been killed by such liquor seems too low.

The idea of using French on the menu of the Leviathan's Fitz-Carlton dining room because it is an extra feature doesn't overcome the desire of those patronizing it wanting to know what they are eating and whether they can get what they like.

COLOR

"I saw the stunningest hat today," dreamingly began the girl whose idea of heaven was to own as many hats as they say belong to Alice Brady. "It ——".

"Don't tell me," begged the smart young man. "I don't think I would stand it. The world is full and running over with stunning hats and dresses and everything and most of them are beyond words. When you come right down to it, a very small proportion of people, Miss Hatrack, have good taste in anything, and those of us who are sensitive to color and form have to suffer in consequence.

"In fact, I saw a woman on the street today who plunged me into an agony of mind which still makes me shudder. And the dreadful part of it was that she was so supremely satisfied with herself.

"The person advanced with a slow and graceful step as though she were leading the procession in a Follies and her countenance was serene and satisfied. Try to believe me, my dear Miss Hatrack, when I tell you that she wore a gown too short in back and too tight in the skirt of a cheap, sleazy, bright purple-blue satin, that dripped with cascades and things all lined with an orange satin. At every move orange burst out at one from the most unexpected locations, twinkling as it were all over the gown.

"On her arm she carried a short cape matching the blue satin and orange. There was a scarlet leather belt around her wrist, she wore scarlet slippers and flesh hosiery and her hat was nearly covered with a bird imitating a Chinese pheasant, the foot-long thin feathers in all the tones of red, orange, blue, yellow, brown and the rest of the dyspot. And a green leather handbag. That was all. There couldn't be any more. You see, there was nothing left because she had it all on. From her placid face you could gather that at last she had achieved some secret longing and ambition.

"I tried to figure it out, and the best I could do was to decide that her childhood was passed among cruel, elderly relatives, who dressed her constantly in black or drab, and this was the first chance she had had to even up. Of course the man who would put a rig like that on sale ought to be shot without a word. Undoubtedly he hated all women and was avenging himself.

"I know what the women do who wear the wrong kind of clothes—they are going along the street when a frock in some window catches their eye. 'Oh, Susie!' cries No. 1, 'do look at that peach of a dress! Isn't it the prettiest thing with that jabot down the side and shirrings and everything. It's something like American Beauty Rose,' decided Susie. 'Roses are my favorite flower, and when we were engaged Henry brought me one dozen American beauties every week, the dear boy!' 'Let's just go price it,' says No. 1, and they do so.

"'My goodness,' says Susie behind her hand, so that the saleagirl can't hear and add another cipher, maybe, 'but that's cheap for a dress made like that! Why don't you nab it quick!' And No. 1 nabs it with the excited consciousness of a bargain and presently her world is smitten by the sight of a dumpy fat lady in a brilliant frock with the belt line six inches too low for her height and all the dewdades on it in precisely the wrong spots.

"I see them buying wall paper, too, in the decorating shops. They sit entranced before perfectly lovely rolls of birds of paradise in tropical jungles or interesting explosions in a color factory done in geometric designs that are pretty indeed to look at and then when they get it on the walls of their abodes they wonder why their relatives go out and commit murder, arson and highway robbery, just as though they didn't bend every energy toward making a happy home! I tell you," he went on, "taste is fierce—what's the matter?"

"Oh, nothing," said the girl who was crasy about hats. "I expect you did it absent-mindedly, because of course anybody as sensitive as you are to perfection would never in the world have deliberately put on a purple striped shirt, a green tie dotted in salmon, tan socks and a hanky with a pink border——"

"Aw, women can't appreciate a daring yet good color scheme when they see it!" defended the smart young man a bit confusedly.

"And the hat I spoke of was all black," she added sweetly.—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Navy Day.

Mr. Editor: October 27th, designated by the navy department as navy day, will no doubt be brought to your attention by a parade of the forces now stationed at the Submarine base, New London, and whatever civilian organization that consent to share and honor the day with them.

The department has sugested a short article in the Home News by officers of the service which would somehow convey the importance of the Naval Service to all.

As you all know, my brother Charles and I have been away from home scenes for many years due to our desire to "make good" in Uncle Sam's navy and along with us have gone many others seeking the same goal.

Oddly enough the greed for making good seems to vanish—once the "call of the sea" reaches one—and instead there blooms a pride in all things that belong to the United States—we call that pride—"the Service!"

During the world war I was often in the port of Liverpool, England, and I can assure you that we were gladsome sights for the English public. Our uniforms gave them confidence in us and they were friendly. In fact we received a most enthusiastic welcome in early 1917.

Returning to our home shores one could readily note the vast difference in the mental state of the two countries for our own people hardly noticed us at all.

I do not mean that a sailor likes to have people "make much" of him. The fact is you'll find him about the opposite if he's a real sailorman.

Again to mind I recall the wonderful ability of a sailor to "stick up for his ship." Invariably he'll tell you "she is a home," "Queen of the Sea," or the like! He may not really care a mite for the ship but it's an appeal to the heart of the service when you "knock" a vessel or man, and he feels as one would feel when the reputation of a parent or brother is assailed!

Call a sailor many personal and disagreeable adjectives and he will not flare back—but lay stress upon some group or ship or the service in general. Some people are careless of the interests of others and too hasty in their judgment of affairs which are vastly beyond their capacity for judgment and they "hurt" the service, we boys, have given years of our lives to make a pride of our lives!

The navy offers the American youth of today greater advantages in all the various lines of study than any of those youngsters could gather in forty years of college and preparatory courses. He travels as he learns, he earns all he learns and he will never become less by his experiences.

A complication of naval training can be noted in the following example and that successes are acquired is not due alone to the teachers but to the spirit which seems to grasp each and every member in some measure.

A two gun turret of the 14-inch gun type has an operating crew of about fifty-five men, detailed in groups so that the greatest speed can be obtained with the slightest amount of friction!

About the breech and concerned with the actual loading "at the gun" are ten or twelve men, each allotted a certain portion of the necessary work of loading. This one handles the shell hoist levers, this one dumps the shell out of the hoist, this one operates the electric rammer which sends the shell into the gun, etc., to the men who pass up the powder bags and the gun pointers who actually fire the gun. Bad feeling can and does exist among members of these gun crews, yet, instilled into the hearts of all is that service pride which causes one to lay aside personalities and strive for the perfect co-ordination of all links of a human chain in the obtaining of a gun record. No pride in service ashore could equal that pride of ours in our ships, our officers, or our men. Ashore you are not required to live beside a fellow whom you dislike unreasonably and you can move on if necessary to rid yourself of his presence but if he is an important cog in a great wheel of service you can work with him and forget personal prejudice entirely.

I've talked with a great many of the home folks about the service. Some of them were well posted, others as much at sea as a sardine in a can and it is not fair to our boys to let them grind away in our service without some real intelligent signs of understanding what they have done and are doing each day.

A sailor has and has not a hard name in the community due to the amount of disturbance credited to someone in uniform. Did you ever stop to realize that perhaps it was only one of a great city, and that in your own home town there was just as much lawlessness, proportionately to population? Uniforms are unfortunately conspicuous and therein lies the cause and the effect. Prejudice!

Recently there has been disturbing news of serious disasters to some of our new type destroyers. It finally has developed, I believe, that the real element on trial was our radio compass bearing stations which had erred in their signals thereby falsely assuring the navigators of those boats of their safety. Also I noted that the testimony of several officers proved that at the last moment a "check" had shown a great error somewhere and that all the boats had changed course and steered (as they thought) to clear land in that vicinity.

The boats lost were among the best and most remarkable performers of all the navies in the world.

Heroic deeds were performed on the occasion of this last loss of vessels just as the world war and other wars have developed heroes amongst the civilian throng awaiting their one moment of glory also, but it is due to the other fellow first simply because he strives to attain his goal by service.

The service develops other traits in men which are not given their true light in the eyes of the public because few have time to realize it and no one draws attention to it.

Self-sacrifice plays an enormous role in the service, sacrifice of personal comfort, home ties, greater earnings, landsman's joys. These are important in as much as they touch the lives of all concerned. After months in Cuba or a foreign land, home seems about like a Christmas tree does to a kiddie on Christmas eve—"a gift of the gods."

I know that feeling. I've been away from home years at a time, and I've lost nothing of my love of home by it.

Because Norwich is closely allied with New London, I need not dwell much upon naval stations, nor equipment, but as a summary of my letter let me add there is room for improvement in all our lives and so also there are improvements daily in our service. The old rough element of sailor has vanished as completely from the navy as though he never existed and a student has replaced him, a man of education and resourcefulness. Welcome him and do your service proud. He is not expecting it, but, he hopes you'll approve of him as your representative.

Boost the navy, remember those of us boys who have vindicated and made your opinions of the service seem different. The service is vast and it is a wonderful one. Join in it and be a booster for Uncle Sam.

Whether you boost or knock we are your "first line trenches" in a war and your own disinterest can remove that service we strive to maintain.

Very sincerely yours,
HAROLD W. BENTLEY,
Ensign U. S. N. R., No. 6.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

When the world congress of Congregationalists which meets today at Springfield, Mass., takes up the question of continuing the missionary work of the church in Turkey under the difficult conditions following the World War, a report will be presented by James L. Barton strongly urging such continuance. Dr. Barton is secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, which is the organ of the foreign work of the Congregational churches. He is a Vermonter, was educated at Middlebury College and at Hartford Theological Seminary, and went to Turkey in 1885 as a missionary stationed at Harpoot. In the course of time he became professor in the missionary college, and later its president. He has written many books on educational and missionary problems, has shared in several important deputations to Japan, China, India and Ceylon, and on various occasions has served as a trusted adviser to the Government on conditions in the Near East.

Stories That Recall Others

Would Swing in Other One.

The neighbor becoming alarmed at a youngster swinging violently in one of two swings on the lot next door and fearing that the boy would hurt himself in a fall unless he moderated his efforts somewhat, asked:

"What would you do if that rope should happen to break while you are swinging so hard?"

"I'd just go and swing in the other swing," the boy replied.

The Wrong Interpretation.

The class had just taken up decimal fractions and some of the children still had difficulty in placing the decimal point correctly in the answers. In marking the papers the teacher wrote d. p. after every problem that had the decimal point in the wrong place.

One morning Mrs. A. came to call. "Would you mind telling me why you persist in writing d. p. on Robert's arithmetic papers?" she asked the teacher.

"Because Robert persists in getting his decimal point placed incorrectly."

"But why d. p.?"

"For decimal point, don't you see?"

"Well," said Mrs. A. with a laugh, "of course I didn't believe Robert, but I thought I'd come see you about it. He told me d. p. stood for darn poor."

Go Ask Now

Present the coupon at your store. Try for ten days a new method of teeth cleaning, which millions now employ.

You see glistening teeth wherever you look today. They add enormously to beauty and to charm. Learn how people get them.

That dingy film

Your teeth are coated by a viscous film. You can feel it now. Under old brushing methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy scum. That is why so many teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

That is why cloudy teeth, unhealthy teeth and gums, became so alarmingly common.

Dental science has now found ways to effectively fight that film. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Many careful tests were made to prove these methods. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to urge its use. Now it has brought a new dental era to the homes of some 50 nations.

It does far more

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits.

These are Nature's great tooth-protecting agents in the mouth. Old-time methods reduced their efficiency. Pepsodent gives them manifold power.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

The New-Day Dentifrice

For men who care

...men by the millions use Pepsodent for beauty's sake. Children employ it by dental advice. But every man who cares for whiter, safer, cleaner teeth should employ it also. Particularly men who smoke should learn this method, for smoke stains cloud the film.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

CHILD TRAINING

HOW TO BE A FATHER

By Lydia Lion Roberts.

One of the best careers in the world is to be a father. It gives solid satisfaction and pays in level-headed, fine-spirited sons and clear-eyed, womanly daughters.

"Dad doesn't seem like a parent," said a boy in his teens, "he seems more like a chum or a friend."

Long years of learning how to be a father led to that remark, which showed that the time and effort spent were already bringing results.

This particular father began when his children were under two years of age. He spent very little money on the children, but he spent a lot of himself. He devoted hours of his Saturdays and Sundays to playing with the children, reading to them, listening to them, and talking with them. He did not do so much "for" them. He did much "with" them. It was not, "Let daddy make a house for you," or "Let daddy fix it for you," instead he thought it wiser to say, "You build a house with daddy," or "You fix it with daddy," and so the children learned the fun and pleasure of doing things with daddy.

He did not talk to them, but with them, as one man to another, as one friend to another, and the little ones gained dignity and understanding unconsciously. He treated the children as intelligent companions, and they became so.

He never was too busy to explain, to answer their questions, to help with their problems, to solve their childish puzzles. If mother could not answer, she advised, "Be sure and ask daddy and he will tell you."

When the children began to take their share of the work and responsibility of the home, it was with daddy they did many of their little tasks. Before they were five years old this father had begun to say "Come." He seldom said "Go." It was not "You go and do this" or "You go there." He said "Come on and help me clean up the cellar" or "Come and help mother do these dishes," and "Come and clean up the yard with me." The children responded at once, for work with dad was half play and it was great to be trusted with responsibility by a man.

"Tell dad," became a watchword. The struggles and triumphs, the losses and gains, were told him at the end of the day or week. He showed his interest every morning at breakfast and every night at dinner by questions and conversation about their activities, until it was natural that no matter what happened, "Let's tell dad," came spontaneously, and equally natural became the desire to have only the best things to tell.

The father was jolly and played like a chum, yet there were certain lines laid down. None of this dad's playmates could be mean, or cheat or tell untruths, or shirk a duty. Each child must obey promptly, work cheerfully, act manfully. Each child must respect, obey and work for mother, who dad said was the Queen of the home.

Mother helped this dad learn how to be a father, cooperated with him, helped him understand the little folks by talking over with him the children's daily experiences, and joined in with his plans. She planned with the children how to surprise or please dad, and showed in every way what a fine thing it was to have a real father.

It takes thought and effort and years of time to learn how to be a father, for like all careers, it is made up of great desire, hard work and ideals, and the marks of success in this career are not counted in money, but in flesh and blood, brain and heart, in the greatest asset the world possesses—the father's children.

A Little Talk on Thrift

Practice, Preach, Teach

Contact with conditions in Europe emphasizes above everything else the stabilizing value of thrift to a nation.

In America, happily, we are not confronted by many of the problems that are demanding solution across the sea.

Ultimate national progress must depend on the sound economic status of the individual. In this fact like the priceless value of thrift to the nation because thrift results in personal economic improvement, thus fostering a contented and happy citizenship.

Our schools, churches, banks and all other institutions which are today seeking the development of more intensive thrift practices in the United States are going straight to the heart of one of humanity's gravest problems.

Each individual who adopts a routine of systematic thrift becomes an added unit of defense against the encroachment of those fanatical systems which have for their object the overthrowing of the present established order of civilized progress.

Practice thrift, preach thrift, teach thrift and you will be directly safeguarding the future stability of our nation.

No fair minded man can be pessimistic over conditions and tendencies in this country, yet the fact remains that, with so many disturbing factors abroad, we should with all the greater diligence see that the foundations of our own country are secure. This means more savings bank depositors, more home-owners, more intelligent investors, more school children in the school savings banks, more building and loan association members, more teachers, preachers, newspapers and magazines developing an intensive and practical appreciation of thrift.

The stability of our present social system is based on individual thrift. We need have no fear of Bolshevism, communism, syndicalism or any other kindred destructive systems if we keep this fact well in mind at all times and apply it persistently.—American Society for Thrift.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfils almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

In response to the enthusiastic applause after a splendering of the last number in the group of French songs she gave The Little Brown Owl for an encore and was again recalled for an encore after the Swedish selections, responding with another melodious Swedish number, Lilies of The Valley Farewell.

Life and Death (Taylor), which was the concluding number of the program, was rendered with dramatic expression and the insistent applause brought response in a final encore, The Birthday (Woodman).

The accompanist of the evening was Mrs. Edith Christman who played with artistic appreciation in support of the singer.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER GIVEN FOR MISS MILLS

On Monday evening at the home of Miss Irene Mills at 69 Washington street a large number of her most intimate friends gave her a miscellaneous shower in honor of her approaching marriage with Prof. P. C. Christopher, which takes place the latter part of this month. Miss Mills was showered with many beautiful gifts including linen, pieces of china and silverware. The home was prettily decorated by the young people and a most enjoyable evening enaued.

Many of the guests were called upon and their efforts were thoroughly appreciated. Miss Eunice Taft rendered several delightful solos with Miss Adelaide Christman as the accompanist. Miss Patricia Reilly, Miss Celia Brock and Miss Hedwidge Sampson pleased with a costume dancing number and Miss Florence Disco, Miss Loretta Lasch and Miss Mary O'Neil gave several humorous selections. Another pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment was a two act play, "Our First Knight," by Miss Beatrice Ableman and Miss Mae Healy. There was a fortune teller who gased into the future for the benefit of the young women. The Melody Land Trio and an orchestra furnished music for dancing. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Those present were Misses Eleanor O'Neil, Patricia Reilly, Eunice Taft, Sarah Norwick, Adelaide Christman, Hedwidge Sampson, Celia Brock, Beatrice Ableman, Mae Healy, Florence Disco, Mary O'Neil, Loretta Lasch, Leano Panek, Prof. P. Upon their return they will reside in Montville.

A teachers' meeting is to be held October 26, at South Coventry.

HUGE CROWD MAKES OPENING OF PALACE THEATER A BIG SUCCESS

The Palace Theatre, the newest and most modern motion picture house in eastern Connecticut and probably in the state, opened its doors to the public for the first time Monday evening. The doors were opened at 6.30 o'clock and within half an hour only standing room was left. The sale of tickets had to be stopped so great was the demand for seats. A crowd of 1,500 people coming not only from Norwich, but from many surrounding towns attended the opening performance. Had accommodations permitted, many more hundreds of tickets could have been sold.

A shower of congratulatory telegrams from all sections of the country poured in on A. A. Spitz, president and general manager of the theatre corporation, during the late afternoon and evening. Among others Mr. Spitz received a wire from Norma Talmadge who starred in the feature picture shown at the theatre Monday night. Pola Negri, Douglas Fairbanks and others also sent telegrams. Below are a few of th wires received.

A. A. Spitz,
Palace Theatre,
Norwich, Conn.
Best of luck from the entire Talmadge family, Joe Schenck, Buster Keaton and myself.
NORMA TALMADGE.

A. A. Spitz,
Palace Theatre,
Norwich, Conn.
Good luck to you and may you be as successful in your new house as you have been in all your houses.
POLA NEGRI.

A. A. Spitz,
Palace Theatre,
Norwich, Con.
Norwich will certainly appreciate your offerings for they surely will be the best. Good luck to you.
DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS.

Huge baskets of flowers were received by Mr. Spitz from Norma Talmadge, Victor Charas and William Canning, Mr. Charas and Mr. Canning being business partners of the the general manager. Messages of good wishes and flowers were received from a number of Mr. Spitz's associates all over New England.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Edwin W. Higgins, secretary of the Palace Theatre Corporation, made a brief address from the stage, extending a hearty welcome to the large audience. He then presented Mr. Spitz who was greeted with a burst of applause. Mr. Spitz in his brief address stated that the theatre management will endeavor to please the people of Norwich with the kind of pictures the people want, if they only in some way make known their desires to the management. He said that the management will give the same shows here in Norwich as are shown in the leading New York and Boston movie theatres. In addition to the pictures there will be concert and vaudeville numbers, high class artists coming direct to Norwich from New York and Boston. For the next two weeks Miss Edna Ayers, who has made a name for herself as a vocalist in New York and Boston and who is without doubt the highest salaried single singer in any motion picture house today, will appear at the Palace with a complete change of programme twice a week.

Mr. Spitz announced that there will be a matinee performance at the theater each week day with two complete shows every evening, starting at 6.30 o'clock. Saturdays there will be a continuous show from 1.30 until 10.30 p. m. Sunday evening shows will be given with an entirely new programme each Sunday.

At the close of Mr. Spitz's talk the opening performance started with a selection on the $20,000 organ which will furnish the music for the moving pictures. Miss Florence Eaton, a skilled musician, who has been in Mr.

A. A. SPITZ

A Pathe News reel featuring exciting finishes at famous race tracks and scenes of the great earthquake in Japan was followed by two vocal numbers by Miss Ayers. She gave as her selections, accompanied by the sweet tones of the organ, Toati's Goodbye and Mother In Ireland, and graciously responding to an insisted encore gave Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses.

A Will Rogers comedy film was followed by a delightful number presented by Fritz Bruch, 'cellist and Pauline Thurston, dancer. Their programme was as follows:

Present at the performance as guests of Mr. Spitz and the management were people from Philadelphia, New York, New Haven, Providence, Boston and Manchester, N. H.

The box office is in charge of Miss Viola Cousins and the door man is Joseph Stanley. Resident Manager William Harding and his official corps of assistants and ushers handled the large crowd with ease. As an indication of the rapidity with which the theatre can be emptied observation at th close of Monday night's performance showed that it took just three minutes to empty the house.

DAVID HALE FANNING, AT 93, TELLS WHY HE SUCCEEDED

A Worcester Sunday paper, interviewing a number of prominent men regarding why they came to Worcester has the following concerning a former Norwich resident:

One of the most picturesque characters in the city is David Hale Fanning, born in Jewett City, Conn., now 93 years old and president of the Royal Worcester Corset Co.

"I came here to start climbing," he said. "I came here to get work. I got plenty of it and have been doing it ever since." Even at his advanced age he goes regularly to his office. If ever there was an architect of his own fortune, it is Mr. Fanning.

His father and mother died when he was very young. At the age of 16, with a pocket Bible given him by his sister, and $2.50 his sole capital, he started out to seek his fortune. His monetary capital was small, but he possessed unlimited capital, in a strong, vigorous body, a clean mind, a stout heart, a spirit nothing could daunt, sound morals and a pledge faithfully adhered to, never to use intoxicants or tobacco.

With that capital he began life, and at the age of 21 had so added to it actual cash and business experience that he was able to start a small manufacturing plant of his own—and from that beginning grew the great business conducted under the corporate name, Royal Worcester Corset Co., David Hale Fanning, president—then and now.

BAD SOFT COAL FIRE OFF LAUREL HILL

A bad soft coal fire at the old Lathrop coal pocket, off Laurel Hill, now used by Max Gordon and Son, gave the fire department a hard afternoon's work Monday. The firemen were called to the coal pile about 3.15 o'clock Monday afternoon and it was close to 5 o'clock when the several pieces of apparatus returned to the central station.

The fire broke out from spontaneous combustion in a large pile of soft coal reaching from the ground almost to the overhead trestle used for unloading and for a time the trestle was threatened. Number 3 pumper was set at work pumping from the river and two streams were directed on the burning coal.

BACKUS HOSPITAL TEAM CAPTAINS SELECTED NAMES

There was a full attendance of team captains in the Backus hospital drive Monday evening at the Shetucket street headquarters where names were selected from the list of prospective subscribers. This (Tuesday) evening at 7:30 at the town hall, all the team members will feet to select names from the lists.

Shot Himself In The Leg.

While hunting in the vicinity of his home in Ledyard Monday morning Gilbert Hazen, 32, accidentally shot himself in the leg when the 22 cal. rifle he was carrying went off as he was attempting to jump over a wall. Hazen was taken to the Backus hospital where the bullet was located and removed from his leg. His condition is not thought serious.

Twenty-First Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrance Hanlon of 26 Providence street, Taftville, celebrated their 21st wedding anniversary at their home Monday evening. The dining room was prettily decorated in Hallowe'en colors. A chicken dinner was served and a wedding cake was cut by Mrs. Hanlon. Victrola and vocal selections were enjoyed during the evening.

QUIET OBSERVANCE OF 57TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. John Irish of 146 Laurel Hill avenue quietly observed their 57th wedding anniversary Monday, recalling the ceremony, Oct. 15, 1866, when they were married by Rev. Edgar F. Clark at the home of the bride's parents, Asa Nash and Emily Corning Nash, whose home was what is now 331 Main street, at present occupied by an automobile supply dealer.

At the time of his marriage Mr. Irish was a carpenter, but he soon thereafter was appointed on the Norwich police force where he served for 41 years until his retirement upon reaching the age limit of 75. He passed his 83rd birthday on the 5th of September this year.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Irish are in good health that promises the fulfilment of the wishes of their friends that they may celebrate many more anniversaries together. In recognition of the event this year they spent Sunday at dinner with the family of Alvah Morgan of Flanders, a cousin of Mr. Irish, enjoying a long automobile ride during the afternoon.

MISS MARY JANE MORGAN DIES IN HER 101ST YEAR

After a brief illness Miss Mary Jane Morgan, died Monday at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. H. Cardwell, in Norwich. She was born in the year 1822, the daughter of Gurdon Morgan and Mabel Bushnell Morgan, and lived to the age of 101 years, 2 months and 23 days. She was a descendant of Governor Bradford of the Plymouth Colony and of several of the founders of the town of Norwich.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. W. H. Cardwell with whom she made her home for many years. The greater part of her life was passed at the home of her parents, below Thamesville, on the road to New London, where she lived a life of usefulness to friends and neighbors. Although living to a great age, she was confined to her bed only a few days and up to that time read and was interested in the news furnished by the daily papers.

FINAL SCENE OF WORLD'S SERIES DRAMA MIXED WITH SADNESS AND REJOICING

New York, Oct. 15—(By the A. P.)—The final incident in the great drama comes; the players leave the green carpeted stage as the crowd shouts: the curtain falls. But this is not the end. Behind the scenes, in the dressing rooms the repressed emotions of the players, victorious and Vanquished, burst forth. This is the human side, the real drama.

In the dressing room of the victorious Yankees is Miller Huggins, that bit of a man, the manager, doing a jig with old man Dugan, proud parent of "Jumping Joseph" patting time with his hands and feet. There is Babe Ruth, who struck out at the most dramatic moment of his career, being poshed and prodded in the ribs, then pushed over a bench, all the time laughing as if his ponderous sides would split.

Aaron Ward yells like a Comanche with seven scalps at his belt; Sad Sam Jones is no longer sad, he's singing hallelujahs at the top of his voice; Bob Meusel, who hit the hit that won the series is being hugged and kissed by no other than Little Eddie Bennett, the mascot, whose cheeks are wet with tears of joy. There is badinage and more singing. Wallie Schang kicks off his spiked shoe and it flies clean through the window pane.

Then the rooms of the Giants. A different scene. No singing, no loud talking, no hurry to get dressed. In a far corner sits little Arthur Nehf, the pitcher, his head in his hands, sobbing. About him gathered his teammates, telling him not to mind that he cracked at that moment in the eighth inning when the game seemed won.

"I could not help it," he sobbed. "It had been a strain all through those innings when they failed to hit me. In the eighth then, after Ward was out and Schang hit, my arm would not go on. I tried—I thought they would curve for me. I thought when the ball left my hand each time that it was too fast, too bewildering for them to hit. I thought they were going squarely over the plate. Yet each time the ball left the hand at a certain time, the arm stopped at a certain place; my arm seemed hypnotized. I'd rather they would have hit than to have walked. I don't recall a time when I couldn't groove them when I had to."

John McGraw, the thinker, who had visualized an evened series, and victory in a seventh game tomorrow just before that eighth inning, had little to say.

"Nehf," he said, "is one of the finest, gamest and most able pitchers the game has known. It was not his fault that he faltered there. He could not help it. The Yankees played great ball this year. They have won a great victory."

Then McGraw goes out. At the foot of the steps he meets Miller Huggins. They shake hands.

"It was great sport, John," says Huggins quietly. "Your men played the game fairly and squarely and I want to say I never enjoyed fighting so much as I have against them and you. We knew, every moment, in every game, that we had to fight for every advantage. May we meet again next year."

"Thanks, Hug; you're a fine sport," and they go back to the dressing room.

NUMBER FOUR

the bases full and the Yankees yet one run behind.

In his place a new hero was lifted up, Bob Meusel, who stepped into the breach that the Babe had left and delivered the blow that resulted in three runs and clinched the Yankee triumph.

Nehf Totters and Falls

For seven innings, Nehf, hero of the Giants, 1 to 0 victory in the third game, waved a magic wand over the Yankee bats and it seemed that his portside slants would again restore Giants hopes and keep them in the fight, backed by the spectacular defensive work of his teammates, particularly the dynamic Frisch. He allowed but one other hit outside of Ruth's circuit clout, while the Giants were hammering Herb Pennock, Huggins' southpaw ace.

But out of the clear sky of apparent Giant triumph came the collapse of Nehf and with him the last break in the shattered chain of McGraw's pitching staff. From the highest peak of effectiveness, from brilliant control Nehf went to pieces and "Rosy" Ryan, who followed him, failed in a valiant effort to stem the tide.

The Thrilling Eight

Ward started the fatal eighth harmlessly enough by flying out to Kelly. But the first signal of Nehfs downfall came when Schang and Scott singled in quick succession. Sensing the break of the game, Miller Huggins, little pilot of the Yankees, duplicated the sort of strategy that earned one victory for his rival McGraw, and threw in the full force of his reserves. Hoffman took up the cudgels for Pennock and walked on four successive balls. Haines taking his place at first as the bases were filled.

Nehf tried gallantly to steady himself to save the situation, but facing a new pinch-hitter, Joe Bush, batting for Whitey Witt, he failed. Bush walked on four successive balls, and Nehf, a slight tragic figure, walked from the box, his head down and tears in his eyes. That pass forced in Schang, and Ryan went into the box with the bases still full and Yankees two runs behind.

Ryan, unsteadied by the tenseness of the fight, also was wild and Scott was forced in with the second run when he walked Dugan on four pitched balls, thus making the 12th successive ball that the Giant moundsmen had issued.

The Mighty Ruth Fans

There was a mighty roar as into this dramatic spotlight stepped Ruth, swinging his all-powerful bludgeon. But, instead of unnerving Ryan, the sight of the master mauler seemed to steady him, for the Babe let the first pitch curve squarely over the plate and fouled the second weakly. The next was a ball but then Ryan, putting all he had into his delivery, shot one squarely across and Ruth, swinging wickedly, missed amid a thunderous outburst from the crowd.

But Ryan safely past what seemed the hardest part of his task, faltered and Meusel caught his second pitch for a whistling single over second base. Haines and Johnson, crossed the plate with what proved to be the tying and winning runs, while Dugan tallied with another for good measure when Cunningham threw wildly to Groh in an effort to catch "Jumping Joe" at third base. Pipp ended the Rally by going out, Frisch to Kelly, but the damage had been done and the Giant cause sent down to defeat.

Jones Holds the Giants

Sam Jones, Nehf's victim in the third game, took Pennock's place and held the Giants in check in the last two innings. The nearest to a rally coming in the eighth when Young singled, only to be forced by Irish Meusel. Beaten and hopeless, they went out if order in the ninth.

Frisch is Great Sensation

Looming alongside the tragic figure of Arthur Nehf in the Giant disaster was that of Frisch, the Fordham Flash," who stood out as the brightest all-round star of the game. It was Frisch whose remarkable fielding in the first seven innings cut off at least two Yankee hits and seemed to put fresh hope into the breast of McGraw and his men It was Frisch whose terrific hitting figured in three of the four Giant runs.

The Giant second-sacker made one of the most brilliant defensive plays of the entire series in the fourth when he caught Dugan's looping by in short right field over his shoulder and while running at top speed. He was close to the foul line when he made the catch. Again in the fifth, he raced toward second to make a marvelous stop of Schang's hot grounder and an equally brilliant throw that Kelly stabbed with one hand.

The advantage Ruth's homer into the upper right field stand had given the Yankees in the first inning was nullified by three successive hits by Groh, Frisch and Young in the Giant half of the inning, the third sacker carrying the run across a brilliant throw from center by Whitey Witt, however, on Young's hit, cut down Frisch by a narrow margin at third base and possibly checked further scoring, though Irish Meusel fanned to end the inning.

Frisch opened the fourth by beating out a pretty bunt down the first base line that caught the Yankee infield flatfooted. He advanced on Young's infield out and scored on Cunningham's single to right.

Snyder's homer high into the upper left field stands gave the Giants their third run in the fifth inning and Frisch paved the way for the fourth tally in the sixth inning with a booming triple to left center. Frisch crossed the plate on Meusel's single but Cunningham and Kelly were easy victims for Jennock.

Pennock Gets Credit for Victory.

Altogether the Giants made ten hits, nine off Pennock and one off Jones, twice as many as Nehf and Ryan allowed. Pennock was far from the brilliance he showed in winning the second game, but he received credit for his second victory because the Giant twirlers could not weather the storm.

In the final analysis, it was the utter failure of the Giant pitchers that cost the world's champions their crown—that, plus the fact that the Yanks, on the other hand, supported steady and at times brilliant twirling with an indomitable, remorseless attack. Outside of Nehf, who alone of the Giant regulars was able to last a full game, McGraw had no sharpshooters upon whom to rely. And when Nehf went the way of the others, at last, it marked a swift and convincing end.

The Yankees, over the stretch of six games, outplayed their rivals in every department of the game, save possibly defense, and here there was little to choose with "Jumping Joe" Dugan of the new champions and Frisch of the Giants as the outstanding heroes. Speed, punch and pitching—the fundamentals—all were preponderantly on the side of the Yankees.

Huggins Also Uses Brains.

The Yankee speed was not alone of foot and hand, but of brain, and therein Huggins brought about the discomfiture of his rival, McGraw, the supposedly master tactician, the "master mind," whose battle with "brute force" seemed at the start to be the most dramatic feature of the series. "Brute force," as typified by Ruth, was triumphant but because it applied with that quality the other winning requisites.

Casey Stengel, whose spectacular home runs gave the Giants the winning margin in their only triumphs, stands out as hero of the fallen world's champions. Perhaps the score of the world's series of 1923 might best be written:

Yankees four victories Stengel, two.

NEW RECORD FOR PITCHING SET IN SIXTH GAME

New York, Oct. 16—(By the A. P.)—The low mark in pitched balls for the 1923 world's series was recorded in the sixth and last game today, when but 292 deliveries were made by the opposing pitchers. Of that number 81 were called balls; 60 called strikes; 28 foul strikes; 6 fouls; 36 resulted in infield outs; 6 in outfield outs, and 16 were hit safely.

As in all other games of the series, Giant pitchers registered a higher total than the Yankee boxmen, 117 pitched balls being the combined total of Nehf and Ryan, and 116 for Pennock and Jones.

The individual records of the four pitchers who worked in today's game follow:

Art Nehf of the Giants, in seven and one-third innings, threw 94 pitched balls; 37 were called balls, 22 called strikes, 11 foul strikes, 3 fouls, 17 infield outs and one safe hit.

Bill Ryan of the Giants, in one and two-thirds innings, tossed 23 pitched balls; 9 were called balls, 7 called strikes, 2 foul strikes, 4 infield outs and one safe hit.

Herb Pennock of the Yankees, in seven innings, hurled 97 pitched balls; 29 were called balls, 28 called strikes, 14 foul strikes, 3 fouls, 9 infield outs, 5 outfield outs and 9 safe hits.

Sam Jones of the Yankees in two innings, delivered 18 pitched balls; 6 called balls, 3 called strikes, one foul, strike, one foul, 6 infield outs and one hit.

FISHERMAN'S RACE TO BE SAILED ON OCT. 27

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 15.—The first race for the international fishermen's trophy will be sailed off Halifax on Saturday, Oct. 27. It was announced today at the meeting of cup trustees. It was said the date would meet the requests the American race committee made over the week-end.

Owing to the lateness of the season, and the comparatively short time allowed for preparations for the international classic, the committee said it was doubtful if there would be a Nova Scotia fleet race this year. Trustees, however, have left the decision with the vessel owners and captains.

A. H. Zwicker, chairman of the Lunenburg committee, will receive entries for the Nova Scotia race up to noon on Thursday. If by that time there are not sufficient entrants, the Bluenose will be nominated defender of the international trophy.

WORLD'S SERIES UMPIRES ASK FOR SALARY RAISE

New York, Oct. 15.—The umpires who worked in the world's series called on Judge Landis today and asked for an increase in pay in view of the big attendance. They now get $2,000 each.

"Don't you think the umpires as important as the players?" one of the umpires asked.

The judge deliberated a minute.

"No, I don't," he replied.

INTERNATIONAL DERBY NOW TAKES CENTER OF WORLD'S SPORT STAGE

New York, Oct. 5—Zev and Papyrus, who have their day next Saturday, today centered out of the sports limelight so that it might shine with full candle-power on the world series.

Both the star of the Rancocas Stables and the English derby winner, who race at Belmont Park for a $100,000 purse, exercised lightly but no real time tests were attempted.

Tomorrow Papyrus gets under saddle in earnest, with a stiff workout scheduled for him by his trainer, Basil Jarvis. The American colt tonight wandered around his commodious stall not knowing what tomorrow night might bring forth, for Sam Hildreth had not whispered his training plans in his ear.

Tomorrow the English thoroughbred will be re-introduced to his jockey, Steve Donoghue, champion of the British turf, who arrives on the Olympic to ride the Derby winner in the international classic. The little English rider thinks very highly of his mount, as he made plain when he sailed with the statement that "Papyrus is a generous, game horse."

Zev already is well acquainted with his rider, Earl Sande, recognized as the premier jockey known to American tracks. Sande has been in the saddle since Zev has been working out at Belmont Park, although exercise boys have been put up when the colt has not been sent romping his fastest.

Although both Donoghue and Sande have the same faultless hands and an almost hypnotic power over horses, they got their starts in different fashion.

The American was born in Groton, S. D., and he had for his first mounts the stocky little cow-ponies of the western ranges. Sande, who now is 35, raced at first at local fairs. It was not until 1917 that he got his chance to become a real jockey.

The Britisher, on the other hand, first began earning his daily bread in an English wire works, devoting his spare time to the study of horses. He now is 39 and during his career in the track, he has piloted five Derby winners to victory and been congratulated by the king.

Sande first joined the forces of Joe Goodman, the western owner, later transferring his allegiance to the Canadian turfman, Commander J. K. L. Ross. There, for the first time. He was introduced to such animals as Cudgel, Sir Barton, Billy Kelly and Constancy.

Sande left Ross after Frank Keough was given the mount on Sir Barton in his clash with Man O'War at Windsor in 1920, and donned the silks of Harry F. Sinclair. He took his post graduate course in riding under the tutelage of Sam Hildreth, Sinclair's trainer.

Donoghue, the idol of England, got his first chance at 13, when he ran away from home and won a mount from John Porter, the famous Chester trainer. Donoghue lost his first race by a neck, but won his second. He still chuckles over the story of how he was spanked by George Dodd when he lost with Iris at Longuelleme. Later he rode for Richard Croker.

Donoghue has ridden for years in England and France. His derby winners were Pommern, Gay Crusader, Humorist, Captain Cuttie and Papyrus.

EACH YANKEE PLAYER TO RECIEVE $6,530

New York, Oct. 15—(By the A. P.)—Three hundred and one thousand, four hundred and thirty persons paid $1,063,815 to see the world's series of 1923, ended with the sixth game today. These figures shatter all previous records. The old record having been established in 1921 when the Giants and Yankees, in an eight game seres attracted 269,977 persons with receipts of $900,233.

FEDERAL MEN GUARD SHIPMENT OF LIQUOR

Willimantic, Oct. 15.—Two large trucks loaded with confiscated liquor were sent to the Smedley warehouse in New Haven Monday under the direction of Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officer William S. Condon, assisted by Officers Stanton L. Brigs, Harry W. Avery and Joseph Fitzpatrick. The loads were shipped from Norwich, New London and Willimantic. One of the trucks utilized was a Reo speed wagon captured in Stonington while transporting liquor. The truck is to remain in New Haven. The shipment included contraband liquor secured within the past two months by the squad of Eastern Connecticut federal prohibition officers and was made up of the following: Thirty-one stills (many of large capacity); one hundred and five gallons of alcohol, sixteen cases of Jamaica ginger, 96 bottles of home brew, six kegs of wine, one barrel of good whiskey, a quantity of gin and several bottles of concoctions, made of unknown ingredients.

The bulk of the load was secured from New London county where the continuous raiding has been more successful within recent months. The shipment representing considerable money was guarded by federal men on the trip to New Haven. About a fifth of the collection came from Willimantic.

The fact that this large haul of liquors was secured within a few months, again shows that the federal prohibition officers in Eastern Connecticut are very active. The collection is considered a very good one when it is taken into consideration that a large number of violators of the liquor law went out of business during that time through the serving of bench warrants by the authorities.

COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION ELECTS OFFICERS

At the annual convention of the Sunday School Association of New London county Friday at the Methodist Episcopal church, New London, the following were elected to office: President, Rev. Roderick MacLeod of Hanover; vice presidents, Rev. Howard Wells, Old Lyme; and Henry D. Johnson, Norwich; secretary, Miss Susan Penhallow, New London; treasurer, Charles L. Smith, Norwich. Dr. James H. Weeks of Stonington and Rev. George R. Aths, of Groton, were appointed members of the state executive committee. Rev. Chester H. Howe, of New London, was elected superintendent of Religious Education, with the following assistants: Superintendent of Missions, Miss Helen Eadie, Hanover; Temperance, Miss Nellie J. Starr, Uncasville; Home Department, Mrs. S. C. Richards, Waterford; Young People's division, superintendent of boys' work, C. S. Bailey, New London Y. M. C. A.; superintendent of girls' work, Mrs. William H. Dawley, Norwich.

The district secretaries numbering six are: District No. 1, Mrs. Robert Brown, North Westchester; No. 2, Mrs. William G. Park, Hanover; No. 3, Miss Louise Trumbull, Stonington; No. 4, Miss Hazel Baker, New London; No. 5, Miss Lucy Gardner, Waterford; No. 6, Miss Mildred Kloss, Taftville. The nominating committee comprised Miss Susan Penhallow, of New London, chairman; Rev. Allan Shaw Bush, Gales Ferry and Mrs. William H. Dawley, Norwich. The retiring president, James H. Weeks, presided over the very entertaining programme. There were two speakers, Prof. Henry Hallam Tweedy of New Haven, who conducted three Bible periods, and Prof. M. A. Honline of Chicago, who spoke on Religious Education.

MERIDEN PASTOR PRESIDENT OF BAPTIST CONVENTION

Hartford, Oct. 15.—The Rev. B. N. Timbie, of Meriden, was elected president of the Baptist Ministers of the Connecticut Baptist convention in its 42nd annual meeting today. Other officers chosen were: Rev. A. D. Carpenter, of Torrington, secretary; Rev. A. D. Kenerick, of Hartford, and Rev. Raymond Mapleoex, of Suffield, trustees; and as essayists for the next annual meeting, the Reverends Chester H. Howe, of New London; G. C. Laudenslager, of Southington; Ellis Gilbert, of Danbury, and G. S. Nightingale, of Moosup.

New Touring Car

Looking at the new touring car from the side, you are at once favorably impressed with the effect of longer, more graceful lines secured by enlarging the cowl and raising the radiator.

Sloping windshield and one-man top lend material aid in giving the entire car a lower, more stylish appearance.

An apron connecting the radiator with the fender skirts is also a decided improvement.

A comfort feature much appreciated by owners, is the additional leg room provided by the enlargement of the cowl.

Allow us to show you the entire line of new Ford cars now on display in our show room.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week there were seven permits for new buildings, additions and alterations to present buildings issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton. This brings the total for the month up to the normal average for the month. Several building projects have been completed during the week just closed the largest being the New Palace theatre which was opened on Monday evening. Other projects have been brought well along toward the completion stage during the past week and every effort is being made to complete the work before the cold weather starts in. The permits issued by the fire marshal are as follows:

To Patrick Hartnett to erect a frame garage on Boswell avenue. The garage will be 19x19 feet with cement foundation and composition roof.

To A. T. Letendre to build addition to present garage in rear of Franklin street for E. Lambert. The addition will be 17x38 feet of brick construction with concrete foundation and floor and asphalt roof.

To Richard Hourigan to erect a one story building on North Main street to be used as a filling and service station. The building will be of frame construction with cement foundation and stucco finish.

To Nunnalo Tempesta to build a frame addition to the present building at No. 38 Fountain street. The addition includes one room 12x12 feet.

To Bernard W. Gillis to erect a frame garage on Cedar street. The garage will be 14x16 feet.

To Joseph Tarcnowski to alter building and erect addition to present house on Joseph street. The addition will be 16x30 feet and of frame construction.

To August Bergman to erect a frame bungalow on Geer avenue. The building will be 24x26 feet with cement cellar. The exterior finish will be in shingles and the interior in hard wood.

To David R. Kinney to erect a frame garage on West Main street for August Hilderbrand. The garage will be 12x16 feet.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 14 sales of real estate as compared to 16 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $12,-850 and $61,800.

There were 16 sales of real estate in New London during the past week as compared to the corresponding week in 1923 when there were 23 sales. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $24,600 and $55,600.

MYSTIC.

The Mystic Methodist church has made an appropriation of $8,000 for improvements to their church.

THE STATE SITUATION.

Permits were issued in the leading cities of the state in the past week to the number of 332, for buildings, costing $1,033,646, against a total of permits in the like week of the previous year numbering 271, for construction costing $561,226, according to the Commercial Record.

ROCKVILLE.

Work has been started on an addition to the rear of the Citizens block on Main street, owned by James R. Quinn. The addition will be 20x24 feet of brick and stone.

DANIELSON.

Architect Jos. A. Jackson, New Haven and 158 West 35th street, New York, is preparing plans for a new parochial school to be erected here for St. James' parish, Rev. Jean Roux in charge. The building will be 56x100 feet, two stories and basement, slag roof, and fireproof construction. It will have a modern heating and ventilating system, slate blackboards, and iron stairways, with 12 classrooms, principal's and teachers' rooms, and playroom in the basement.

NEW LONDON.

The frame dwelling which Minucci Bros., 45 Pacific street, are building for themselves on Goshen street, is ready to be plastered. The new house is 28x40 feet, arranged for six rooms, and has all improvements with the exception of heat.

The permit has been issued to M. L. O'Connell for a cottage which he is to erect at 561 Montauk avenue, for him

OUR GOAL IS $250,000 IN ONE WEEK

The Time and the Place

Friday evening, in the Town Hall, at 6:30, five hundred men and women will meet to celebrate the formal opening of the greatest civic effort in the history of Norwich and the neighborhood towns.

The Backus Hospital Community Appeal has brought together for a common purpose leaders of our community life. Membership in this organization is a badge of honor. Those who have volunteered in this cause are members of an army enlisted for a victory greater than any victory of war.

By good fortune, and as a good augury, this great gathering of public-spirited men and women will be held in the building which, more than any other, symbolizes the town life and the community spirit.

The Organization

With quick response and eager readiness to serve, the Backus Hospital organization for this appeal has been mustered, co-ordinated,, and trained for ten days of intensive effort.

From the day when the movement was started there has been no hesitancy, no halting. The teams and committees have formed themselves swiftly and smoothly; the fifteen outside towns of the neghborhood territory have assumed their full share of responsibility. The complete mechanism for the appeal has been brought together and prepared with almost startling completenesss.

How has this been effected? Not by any sort of pressure or coercion. Not by any expectancy of material gain. The motive has been service—a desire to strengthen and carry on a charitable institution that has no other object than to give all that medical and surgical science, all that nursing skill, can give—for others.

The Motive Power

There is no known force or agency that is capable of bringing and binding together the members of a community except this inspiration to serve. No selfish object can produce such an organization.

The mere machinery of a campaign for funds may be like any other machinery made up of co-ordinated parts and designed to function in a particular way. But a machine made up of human parts can be made to work effectively by means of one motive power alone—a common purpose, a dedication of the will to a common end.

It is this spirit which gives to the organization of our appeal as a whole the only power it has. There is no other power comparable to this.

The Assurance

Five hundred determined men and women, each one of whom has assumed personal responsibility for a community success, and all of whom are animated and sustained by the one high purpose, cannot fail.

It is, therefore, with a deep sense of thanksgiving for all those who have become participants in this effort that the Executive Committee of the Backus Hosptal Appeal looks forward to Friday night and the beginning of the task.

To all people in our territory, there goes this week news of the campaign and an earnest appeal for public support. These are embodied in a folder, which tells the hospital story and bespeaks a courteous reception for the workers who will come to your doors.

From this folder we quite here, and recommend to your attention, eight reasons why it is our belief that the closing of the appeal, on the night of October 29, is certan to be triumphant.

The Appeal

We believe that we shall win in this movement for larger hospital service—

BECAUSE—The appeal is for motherhood, You may need hospital service at any time for yourself, for your family, for your friends.

BECAUSE—The appeal is to humanity, since it is only through community support that hospital service can be given those who are unable to pay for it.

BECAUSE—The apeeal is for motherhood, which stirs in us all the best impulses of respect, reverence and service.

BECAUSE—The appeal is for children, whose call for skilled and tender care moves all hearts to compassion and helpfulness.

BECAUSE—The appeal is to reason and fact, which prove the urgency of the need and make plain the only way to meet it.

BECAUSE—The appeal is for the protection of health and the prevention of disease, which are more important than the protection of property or the prevention of fire.

BECAUSE—The appeal is to civic pride, for it is a challenge to our community to keep our hospital at the highest point of efficiency for the service of our own people.

BECAUSE—The appeal is to those who never have failed in the past to respond generously whenever the need was made clear.

FINE WITH SIX MONTHS IN JAIL FOR NEW LONDON BOOTLEGGER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 15.—Morris Koslofsky was given both barrels of the gun of justice, when presented in the police court this morning. Koslofsky made a try to escape the penalty, but Judge Prince told him he must pay a fine of $300 and spend six months in jail as a penalty for his offense against the laws of the state and the nation. Attorney Hollandersky said Koslofsky was truly penitent and would never be caught offending again. pointed out that less than five months ago the man accused today had been convicted and fined in Westport, this state, but that his experience had been no lesson to him. He was after the big money there was to be had by violating the liquor laws if he was not detected and he was willing to take chances to get that big money.

Judge Prince decided that Koslofsky had received leniency when the Westport justice did not send him to jail. He said he was not deserving of any sympathy from the court and he was not to get any. The penalty imposed was as severe as the court could hand out.

Immediately after the decision in the case Koslofsky was charged with an offense that alleged a violation of the moral laws of the state. That case the state was not ready to go on with, so it went over till Saturday and Koslofsky gave a bond of $ 00 to appear in the police court that day. Abraham Miller of Colchester be surety on bonds in both cases.

William H. Rasmussen and Nora Young did not go to trial in the police court today. They were arrested, the former for keeping a place at the Ideal rooming house on Bank street where intoxicating liquor was and was reputed to be sold, the woman charged with keeping liquor with intant to sell. The prosecutor announced that he sought a witness whom he could not get hold of today. Counsel for the accused sought to have the matter disposed of tomorrow, but the prosecutor said there was no assurance that the witness sought could be produced at that time. Friends of the pair accused declared that the witness wanted was one Harry Houts, who has been connected with the Ideal rooms, but who is out of the city at present. If Mr. Houts is away from town, and it is said he is on a hunting trip, he will not soon return, probably.

George Le Piere, who has been expected to appear in the court any day during the past fortnight to answer a complaint that alleges that the accused committed perjury to obtain a licenses to operate an automobile, was not on hand today when his case was called and the hearing was continued till Wednesday. The postponement of the cases of three sailors from a government ship in the harbor was to have come to the front today to determine whether the trio had been punished aboard ship. That information was not in the possession of the court, so the case was further continued for a week.

The funeral of Ida M., wife of Martin J. Quinn, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the attendants including a delegation of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Ancient Order of Hibernians and a sewing club, of which Mrs. Quinn had been a member. A mass of requiem was sung by Rev. John J. McGrath. The bearers were Michael J. Hallisey, Henry Carey, Elmer Broadwell and William Quinn. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Edith M. Carter, 37, wife of Frank Carter, died Sunday at her home, 25 Gorton street, after an illness of many months. Besides her husband, she is survived by two children, Robert and Mary, by her mother, Mrs. Mary Klipp of Greenport, and by two brothers, Garfield and Philip Klipp, also of Greenport.

Mrs. Nancy Brown Morgan has sold a house and lot on Hempstead street to Louis Eltenbein.

Antonio Gentilella of Westerly, Mrs. Elizabeth Maine, Mystic, Dominic Maiola, Bank street, Robert Kelley, West Colt street, Mrs. James Folice, Westerly; Edward Foley, Mystic; Frank Furano, Westerly; Henry Wight of the United States lighthouse tender Pansy and Anthony Bolcsak of Winthrop street, were patients discharged today at Lawrence hospital.

Thomas Frusher of East Lyme, arrested by State Policeman J. K. Palmer, Sunday, on a warrant issued by the authorities of Boston, charging Frusher with larceny of $1600 from the Norbert Dyeing company of Boston, was released when habeas corpus proceedings were brought, and it was agreed by counsel for Frusher, that he would appear in East Lyme this morning and submit to arrest on a warrant charging the accused with being a fugitive from justice. The accused vanished through the night, for this morning Frusher's son informed Attorney Thomas E. Troland that the accused had disappeared at midnight and it was believed that the elder Frusher had gone to Boston in an endeavor to straighten out the financial entanglement that had brought about his arrest. When interrogated regarding Frusher's disappearance Attorney Troland stated that all he knew of the absence of his client was what Frusher's son had informed him, but that he was practically certain that Frusher would return home tonight. In the event of Frusher putting in an appearance during the night he will be re-arrested and tomorrow will be presented before Justice of the Peace Marion R. Davis and held for the Boston authorities.

The custom house here, which has been a place of storage for liquor and alcohol seized in raids by prohibition enforcement agents for several years, was again cleared of the stock of seized whiskey, alcohol stills and receptacles used in the dispensing of the alcohol beverages this morning. About 150 gallons of alcohol and close to 25 gallons of whiskey, besides stills and containers of various description, were loaded into an automobile truck by Prohibition Enforcement Agents H. W. Avery and Joseph F. Fitzpatrick and conveyed to a permanent place of storage at New Haven. The removal of the stuff was made necessary to provide a place for the storage of the coal that is to supply the building with heat this winter and the arrival of which is expected daily.

The rumor circulated Sunday that a government craft had seized a rum runner in the Sound and had put into port with the runner and its cargo of liquor, resulted from the disablement of the rum-chaser Alberta, the government's craft stationed here, the boat became disabled while scouting for illegal haulers of liquor. The Alberta came to grief and a New York rum-chaser was summoned to tow the Alberta into port. With the arrival of the disabled craft she was taken to the custom house wharf where repairs were made. The disablement of the Alberta also revealed that Louis Ross, a former deputy fish and game warden, has entered the employ of the government as a prohibition enforcement agent, for he is employed as engineer of the Alberta.

As a result of employes of the Postal Telegraph company being engaged yesterday and today perfecting repairs to wires on poles of the company located on North Bank street, the fire alarm was sounded at frequent intervals, the wires of the fire alarm system, also located on the poles, coming in contact with other wires.

Mrs. William M. Darrow, of Ocean avenue, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Home Memorial hospital Saturday night. Mrs. Darrow was removed to the institution following a severe attack at her home. At the institution today it was stated that Mrs. Darrow was resting comfortably.

Burton F. M. Andrews of Helton, Me., and Miss Pearl M. Wheeler, the daughter of Mrs. Annie L. Wheeler of Colt street, were married this afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the parlors of the First Baptist church, by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor. Chester H. Brigham of Waterford, was best man and Miss Ruth Wheeler, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's uncle, Charles J. Manwaring at East Lyme. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews left this evening for Helton, where Mr. Andrews is employed by the Woolworth company.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Graves are on an automobile trip to Cape Cod, planning to be absent from home about two weeks.

Mrs. Anthony Muccarello of Waterford, Randall Brooks, Mystic and John Pendola, Westerly, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Raymond F. Whitten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Phillips, of Binghamton, N. Y., to Miss Marguerite Rowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rowe, of Poquonoc Road, Groton.

Ralph A. Edson and Miss Truth Horton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Horton were married this evening at 7.30 o'clock at the parsonage of the Second Congregational church, by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Matthews and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Lane, have returned to their homes after a two weeks' automobile trip through New England.

Mrs. C. William Kaneen has returned home after spending several days with relatives in Worcester, Mass.

Frank L. Joseph, teller at the Mariners' bank and Ambrose L. Osborne, traffic manager of the Southern New England Telephone company, have returned home, concluding a two weeks' automobile trip through the Green Mountains.

The launch Alanna, seized a number of weeks ago when picked up in the sound with a $50,000 cargo of whiskey and which was started for New York, Friday, with her cargo intended for delivery at a government warehouse, became disabled in the sound Saturday night. The New London Line steamer New Hampshire was signalled and with the stopping of the steamer, a line was made fast to the launch and she was towed to New London, where the rum-runner is again tied up at the custom house wharf.

Three Boston youths with the sole capital of twenty-four cents arrived in New London this evening en route to San Francisco, they declared. The boys were detected ridins on a westbound freight, by Special Agent Martin Kane of the New Haven railroad, who caused the lads to be lodged at the Learned Mission, where they will be taken care of until their parents can be notified and arrangements made for their return home.

Joseph Gertz, proprietor of a store at 95 North Bank street, reported to the police this evening that he had been victimized by a swindler for a crook had passed him a $5 bill that had been raised to $20. Gerz stated that several days ago he changed the "$20' bill to accommodate a stranger and that he did not have occasion to examine the bill again, until this afternoon, when upon close scrutiny, he detected that the bill originally had been a legitimate $5 note, but that the crook had caused the "5" to be altered into a cipher and the numeral "2" had been prefixed. Gerz could give the police no description of the crook.

Antone Di Angelo of New London was arrested this afternoon by State Policeman T. J. Henry, charged with the theft of eighteen bushels of apples from John Jezierzky of East Lyme. Di Angelo, it is alleged, entered the orchard of Jezierzky and gathered apples into sacks and made away with them. This evening Di Angelo was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Marion R. Davis, was fined $7 and costs and was sentenced to thirty days in jail, but the execution of the jail sentence was suspended. Di Angelo paid the fine and costs, a total of about $30.

When a man lacks nerve he is apt to think that he is discreet.

Oldest Son Of The President

John Coolidge, oldest son of Calvin Coolidge, thirtieth President of the United States.

LEFFINGWELL

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Taylor Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Mason F. Coggeshall of Trading Cove and Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Palmer and children, Eleanor, Natalie and Harry, Jr., of Moosup.

Tuesday evening the Ladies' Aid society had a supper in the vestry in charge of Mrs. William White and Mrs. A. H. Beebe. The supper consisted of cold sliced meat, mashed potato, creamed carrots, pickles, rolls, coffee, squash pie, cheese and ice cream. The church was effectively decorated with autumn leaves and yellow crepe paper. Over seventeen dollars was realized.

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Durr while in Gloucester, Mass.

In Something of a Hurry.

The street car was very crowded and the old colored man just managed to get one foot on the lower step and his hands of the hand rail. When the conductor called out briskly: "Fares, please," he retorted in amazement: "Mah Lawd, man, yo' ain't collectin' off'n de sidewalk, is yo?"

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Doing the Giant a Good Turn.

One day as Little Jack Rabbit rode along the road, he came to a hill. Right at the foot sat a little old man dressed in a green suit with a high red peaked hat upon his head.

"Take me on your horse," cried the little man, and before Dapple Gray could even reply, he jumped up behind him and away they went, up the hill. But goodness me! Pretty soon Dapple Gray began to pant and puff, and before long he stopped altogether.

"What's the matter?" asked the bunny boy. And then, all of a sudden, he turned around and instead of a little old man there was a great big giant sitting beside him. Goodness gracious me! Little Jack Rabbit was surprised and perhaps a little frightened.

"Ha, ha!" laughed the giant, stretching out his long till they touched the ground so that Dapple Gray could walk out from under them. After that the little pony felt better, I guess, for a giant's a pretty heavy sort of a load, let me tell you.

"Don't be afraid," said the giant kindly. "You have done me a good turn. You see, when I go down from my mountain I turn into a little dwarf but as soon as I'm up here I grow big again!" Then he began to whistle, and a pretty little yellow bird alighted on his shoulder.

"How's everything at home, birdie?" asked the big man.

"Oh, everything's topsy-turvy, sir;
The parrot won't sing and the cat won't purr,
And the cook has taken your watch to pawn."

"What!" shouted the giant. "My grandfather's watch!" and he got so angry that he picked up a big rock and threw it over the top of the mountain.

"Don't, don't!" said the little yellow bird, very soft and sweet.

"All right, little bird," said the big angry giant, stroking her feathers. "But wait till I get home! I'll either discharge my cook or marry her. She shall be punished!" and he set off through the woods at a rapid pace, telling the little bunny boy to follow.

Pretty soon, after a while, as they passed a pool of water, a frog said:

"Oh, what would think if you read in a book
That a great big giant married his cook.
Who after that refused to bake
Or broil for him a Delmonico's steak."

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

RALLY IN STOCK MARKET

New York, Oct. 15.—The reactionary movement of stock prices, which had been under way for eight successive days, was brought to a sudden halt today by a brisk rally which carried most of the leaders 1 to 3 points above Saturday's closing prices. The recovery was not associated with any outside developments, being generally regarded as a correcting of an oversold condition.

Considerable irregularity was apparent at the opening. Bear traders continued to offer the steel, motor and certain oil shares but they encountered good buying power and it was not long before the market was pointed upward with shorts bidding against each other for stocks. One commission house estimated today that the market value of stocks loaned to short interests, now approximated $260,000,000.

Another flock of new low records for the year were established by ordinarily inactive shares. Columbia Graphaphone common and preferred touched new bottoms at 35 cents and $1 a share respectively, on the announcement of receivership proceedings against that company. Among the other issues to sell at their lowest price of the year were "Sou" Colorado & Southern, Ajax Rubber, Replogle Steel, Armour of Delaware prefrd. Producers & refiners preferred, Magma Copper, Butte Copper and Zinc, Central Leather preferred and Worthington Pump.

Strength of the tobacco shares was associated with reports of heavy buying by the Whelan interests. Philip Morris was run up more than 3 points to 49 3-4, a new high, and gains of 2 1-4 to 4 1-2 points were recorded by Lorillard, Liggett & Myers, American Tobacco and American Tobacco B.

United States Steel touched 97 7-8 and then fell back to 97 1-2, up 1 1-8 on the day. Net earnings of the corporation for the third quarter, soon to be published, are unofficially estimated at between $40,000,000 and $45,000,000. Baldwin, Studebaker, American Can, Mack Truck, Stromberg Carburetor, Stewart-Warner Speedometer and Gulf States Steel each closed at a net gain of 2 points or more.

One of the most constructive developments of the day was the resumption of dividends on Punta Alegre Sugar, which had been suspended since July, 1921. The stock closed 1-2 point lower at 54 3-4 after having sold as high as 55 1-2. Fisher Body jumped 22 points to 180 on two sales. Inland Steel dropped nearly 4 points on heavy selling just before the close.

Gains in the railroad group were smaller than those in the industrials. Reading issues improved moderately on stockholders' approval of the segregation plan but "Nickel Plate" preferred was heavy on unofficial reports of another issue of preferred stock.

Call money opened at 5 per cent. and then eased to 4 1-2. The time loan market is virtually at a standstill with brokers bidding 4 1-4 and bankers asking 5 1-2. Commercial paper is holding steady at 5 1-4 for prime names.

Except for the weakness of Danish and Norwegian kroner, which touched new lows for the year, foreign exchanges were firm. Demand sterling held steady at $4.36 1-4. French francs advanced 6 points to 5.14 cents and Belgian francs advanced 2 points to 5.28 1-8 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 15.—With the United States visible supply of wheat nearly double that of a year ago and Canadian wheat arriving at Minneapolis, the wheat market today kept inside of narrow limits but averaged low in price. Final quotations were unsettled, at 1-8 a 1-4 to 3-8c net decline. December $1.08 to 1.08 a 1.08 1-8 and May 1.13 1-2 to 1.13 1-8 a 5-8. Corn closed unchanged to 1-2 higher, oats unchanged to 1-8c lower, and provisions unchanged to 17c up.

Although setbacks in the value of wheat brought about considerable buying by commission houses, the support for the market showed less energy than has been the rule of late. It was noticeable that offerings increased on the bulges, and that gains failed to last. This was especially the case after announcement near the end of the day that the domestic visible supply had been enlarged 1,864,000 bushels, making the total 65,480,000 bushels as against 33,611,000 bushels last year. Meanwhile export demand was inconsequential, and the Liverpool market 3-8 to 1-2c lower.

Some selling of wheat here was due to the heavy tone of northwestern markets. A condition associated with reports that five cargoads of Canadian wheat received at Minneapolis, duty paid, had been sold there at 7c a bushel less than December delivery of domestic wheat. On the other hand, reports continued to circulate that the tariff commission and the interstate commerce commission still were studying possible measures for farm relief and that the war finance corporation also was being looked to for help.

Scarcity of corn usable for immediate use rallied corn prices from a decline brought about by favorable weather. An increase of the visible supply eased the oats market.

Provisions were responsive to the firmness of corn and of cottonseed oil.

CURB MARKET

New York, Oct. 15.—Constructive forces were at work in today's curb market and the general list, which has exhibited a heavy tone for a week or more started back to higher ground.

Strength and activity of Park & Tilford, which was run up 2 3-4 points to 29 5-8 and then eased to 29, was the day's feature. There was nothing in the day's news to account for this rally but floor traders reported the stock was being accumulated by inside interests. Durant Motors also rallied 3 points above Saturday's close in sympathy with the strength shown by the motors on the "big board."

International concrete industries touched a new top at 10 3-8 on a small turn-over. Goodyear Tire yielded in reflection of additional tire cuts.

Gains in the oil group were held, for the most part, to fractions. Standard Oil of Indiana, the leader, closed 7-8 higher at 55 1-2.

Activity of Fortuna consolidated Mining, which closed slightly higher, was the only feature of the mining group.

BOND MARKET

New York, Oct. 15.—Bond prices moved irregularly in the trading on the New York stock exchange, some of the industrial liens falling off to new low prices for the year, while moderate advances were recorded by numerous railroad mortgages.

Closing prices were not far from the final quotations on Saturday in most cases. The four Liberty issues of the U. S. government held steady in dull trading while the tax exempt 3 1-2's and Treasury 4 1-4's were bought heavily at advancing prices.

Few transactions were recorded in the foreign group although the undertone seemed firm. Speculative interest was displayed in the Refunding 4's earlier, of the New York railways and the bonds moved up more than 2 points.

New low records for the year were established by Public Service of New Jersey 5's, Cerro De Pasco Copper 6's, and U. S. Rubber 7 1-2's. Goodrich 6 1-2's touched its previous low.

Bankers reported a good sale of the Federal Land Bank issue of $47,000,000 and there were reports of an offering this week of St. Paul Terminal bonds. An issue of $15,000,000 Cumulative 3 per cent. preferred stock of the Nickel Plate will be offered tomorrow at 87 1-2 to yield 6.85 per cent.

JEWETT CITY

Alex McNicol has charge of the drive in Jewett City for the Nurses' Home at Backus Hospital. His assistants are: L. M. Carpenter, Chester Dudkowski and James Dolan. The Jewett City members of the team remind the public certainly should have a vital interest in this drive, for hundreds of patients have gone to this hospital in past years, and more than fifty in one year. The better equipped the hospital is, the better the service to the public in general. And no one knows who may find it necessary to receive immediate treatment, which can be available in less than an hour.

The following scores were shot on the Voluntown Rice club range. Geo. Sheldon put up the highest score for the Edmond medal—95 out of a possible 100:

50 shots, offhand, at 50 yards—John Kaufmann 496, George Sheldon 490, Charles Palmer 489, Fred Stebbins 488, Dona Ballou 486, John Hall 482, John Bradford 477, Lawrence Krauss 457, John Davis 448, J. C. Wyatt 442, Rudolph Ericson 441, John Krauss 440, Nels Nygren 422, F. A. Henderson 413, J. A. O'Brien 403.

By request Guy Bros.' Minstrels have consented to give another performance tonight. Street parade at noon. Free concert before performance.—adv.

Mrs. E. M. Gray has returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gray in Attawaugan.

Mrs. Henry Olson, regent of Anne Brewster Fanning Chapter, D. A. R., attended the State D. A. R. meeting in Cheshire, Conn. She was accompanied by Mrs. Peter Olson to New Haven, where they were guests over Sunday of Mrs. Earl Montgomery.

Mrs. Martin Chapman and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson, Miss Carrie Ryde and Mrs. Harris Boardman of Pendleton Hill and Miss Nellie Parkhurst of Danielson, attended the funeral of Mrs. Augusta Pay.

Mrs. Arba Browning is to entertain the Pachaug Ladies' Aid society Wednesday at an all-day meeting.

The Ladies' Society of the Congregational church meets at the home of Mrs. John T. Stewart, Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. E. F. Burleson, Mrs. H. E. Paul and H. E. Paul were in Plainfield Sunday afternoon and heard the address given by Bishop Acheson at St. Paul's Episcopal church. Rev. David Coombs is leaving to go to another pastorate, and the bishop's visit to the church was for this reason. His address was on the two trips abroad which he has taken since the World war. And he asked that this fact should be passed along—that the stories concerning the graves of American soldiers being uncared for and unmarked, are untrue. He made a special point of visiting these cemeteries, and he said the graves are given every care, especially in the removal of the bodies to be sent back to this country. He was very emphatic in his denial of statements to the contrary.

CANTERBURY GREEN

Members of the Ladies' Aid Society have been engaged the past week in renovating and partially furnishing the parsonage in readiness for the new minister, Mr. Knight, who will supply the pulpit the coming year. It is expected that he, with his wife and child, will arrive the last of the week. He plans to continue his studies at Hartford during each week, spending the week-end here.

Deacon and Mrs. Hale Bennett were at Elconk Tuesday to attend the conference.

Miss Frances Palmer who has been spending a part of the summer at the old homestead, has closed the house. She is expecting to spend the winter as usual in Florida.

School was closed Monday to allow the teachers to attend a teachers' meeting at Abington. Miss Dawley, Mrs. Howell and Miss McGovern were among those who attended.

Miss Ruth Davis is assisting Mrs. Lovell at the school on the Green. More than forty pupils are registered there.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Appley and daughter, Dorothy, were Sunday guests at James Appley's.

Other visitors for the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. L. Weaver of Willimantic at Clinton Frink's, and Mr. and Mrs. Burdick and family of New London, at Levi Clark's.

Mrs. Wyeth, accompanied by Miss Elise Rawes, visited her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Lovell and grandson, John Lovell, at Backus hospital Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wright have been spending a few days in Worcester and Clinton, Mass., where Monday, Oct. 8, they attended the wedding of a niece.

Mrs. James Lathrop has returned home from Monument Beach and reports her son, Houston, as recovering satisfactorily from the recent injury to his hand.

GURLEYVILLE

E. A. Walker is visiting relatives in Southbridge, Mass.

Several from here attended the big Stafford fair Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Munyan entertained relatives from Knowlton Hill the first of the week.

TAX EXEMPT IN CONNECTICUT

Interest payable without deduction for normal Federal Income Tax up to 2%

HISTORY AND BUSINESS

The Traut & Hine Manufacturing Company was incorporated in Connecticut in 1888. Its business is the manufacture and sale of sheet metal and wide goods specialties. The company sells direct to other manufacturers upon order and also makes and distributes its own line of articles. The Company's plant is in New Britain, Conn. It also maintains New York offices.

SECURITY FOR THESE BONDS

This issue of 7% Bonds will constitute the sole funded debt of the Company. They will be secured by closed first mortgage upon the entire plant and equipment owned by the Company. The property consists in general of a group of 21 brick factory buildings, modern in construction, adequately equipped with a complete line of machinery, and located on approximately two and one half acres of land in the heart of the manufacturing section of New Britain. This property was assessed for taxation on the 1923 tax list at $527,700. The Company carries fire insurance of $1,300,000 upon its plant and stock.

SINKING FUND

The mortgage will provide for a sinking fund which, beginning in 1925, will retire a minimum of $8,000 of bonds and will rise gradually to a minimum of $15,000 per year.

EARNINGS

The total annual interest requirement on these bonds is $15,750. The Company's average earnings for various periods of years have been as follows:

| | Annual Average | Interest Earned |
|---|---|---|
| Five years 1918—1922 | $70,925 | 4.5 times |
| Ten years 1913—1922 | 97,157 | 6.1 times |
| Fifteen years 1908—1922 | 94,524 | 6.0 times |

In the fifteen year period the Company has sustained a loss in but one year,—1921—the year of readjustment in all lines of business. For the first six months of 1923 net earnings have been at the annual rate of $83,968, equivalent to 5.3 times interest requirements, and, after such requirements, to a rate of 6.82% on the Company's $1,000,000 capital stock.

ASSETS

The Company's balance sheet as of June 30, 1923, with effect given to this financing, shows net tangible assets of $5,914 for each $1,000 bond of this issue. Current assets are more than 10 times current liabilities and after deducting such liabilities are equivalent to $3,057 per $1,000 bond.

We recommend these bonds for investment.

POETRY

TO THE FRINGED GENTIAN

Thou blossom bright with autumn dew,
And colored with the heaven's own blue,
That openest when the quiet light
Succeeds the keen and frosty night.

Thou comest not when violets lean
O'er wandering brooks and springs unseen,
Or columbines, in purple dressed,
Nod o'er the ground-bird's hidden nest.

Thou waitest late and com'st alone,
When woods are bare and birds are flown
And frost and shortening days portend
The aged year is near his end.

Then doth thy sweet and quiet eye
Look through its fringes to the sky,
Blue—blue—as if that sky-let fall
A flower from its cerulean wall.

I would that thus, when I shall see
The hour of death draw near to me,
Hope, [illegible]ming within my heart,
May look to heaven as I depart.
—William Cullen Bryant.

The Ship

Oh, LIFE is like a treasure ship,
That sails a sea of song;
And Hope is as each oaken strip,
Which makes the vessel strong;
And Faith is like the polar star
To the home-gliding keel,
When Love, that weather-beaten tar,
Stands pilot at the wheel!

Oh, Doubt is like a phantom brig,
That disappears with day;
And grief is as a fragile gig,
Which drifts unmanned away;
And Care is but a wind to skip
The argosy along—
When Life is like a treasure ship,
That sails a sea of song!
—Ralph M. Thompson in Nautilus.

The red squirrel is a great favorite in the country districts, where its pranks and habits are well known, says Nature Magazine. In some places it is called the pine squirrel or chickaree. It has one bad habit. It is very fond of eating the eggs of several of our song birds. Otherwise it feeds upon pine seeds and those of some plants, as well as buds and insects. It ranges over a large part of eastern North America.

FINDS TRUSTEE LEE OWES $2,975.67 TO ESTATE OF CHARLOTTE R. COIT

Judge John M. Thayer of this city, state referee, has just filed with the clerk of the superior court his finding of facts in two suits heard before him involving the will of the late Denison Hempstead of New London, and a trust fund created under it for Mrs. Charlotte Renouf Coit, who died in the Middletown asylum, Feb. 6, 1918, of which Dr. Harry M. Lee of New London, was trustee.

Referee Thayer finds that Dr. Lee owed the estate $2,975.67 at the time of Mrs. Coit's death. Judge Thayer makes a number of corrections in the trustee's account where he finds that items were improperly charged against income, and critically reviews the trustee's conduct of the affairs of the estate since 1899.

Judge Thayer's finding is as follows:

This appeal and the companion appeal of Harry Mower Lee, trustee, from the same decree of the court of probate for the district of New London were referred to the undersigned as a state referee for hearing and finding of facts. The two cases were by agreement of the parties heard together and in the above entitled case the following facts were found:

The allegations of paragraph 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 of the appellant's appeal are true.

Said will was duly presented to and approved by the probate court on Jan. 12, 1895, and Benjamin H. Lee named as executor therein duly qualified as executor.

The inventory shows that the estate consisted of personal property appraised at $2,745 and three parcels of land, with a house on each, adjoining each other, the Howard street property, specifically devised in remainder to the appellant Lee by the will, standing on a lot at the corner of Howard and Woodbridge streets, and the other two parcels on Woodbridge streets.

The executor paid to Harry Mower Lee the $1,000 legacy bequeathed to him in the second paragraph of the will.

The probate records do not show that the executor ever filed a final account of his administration of the estate.

On or about Aug. 1, 1899, said Harry Mower Lee appeared in the probate court and qualified as trustee under the third clause of Mr. Hempstead's will, and received from his father, the executor, possession of the three parcels of land above mentioned as the remainder of the estate after payment of debts and the legacy aforesaid.

He filed his annual account as trustee in August, 1900, and the same was allowed by the court

The cestui que trust, Charlotte R. Coit, was not of sound mind, and on Jan. 12, 1901, George Whittlesey of New London, was appointed her conservator.

On Aug. 31, 1904, she was committed to the Hospital for the Insane at Middletown, nad remained there until her death which occurred Feb. 6, 1918.

Prior to her commitment to the hospital the trustee had from time to time made payments to her and her conservator out of the receipts from the trust property; after such commitment no further payment by him to either were made except one of $100 to the conservator Jan. 20, 1905.

The trustee, although often requested, neglected after Sept. 1, 1900, to file any account of his administration of the truste (except as stated in the next paragraph) until after the death of the cestui que trust.

An account of receipts ad expenses beginning Sept. 1, 1900, and ending April 24, 1908, was filed by him with the judge of probate at about the latter date and a day for hearing fixed, but, certain items of the account being objected to by the conservator, the hearing was adjourned and the trustee was permitted to with draw the account for correction and it was never returned until after the death of the cestui que trust.

On April 6, 1918, the trustee filed in the probate court an account showing receipts and expenses in administering his trust from May1, 1, 1908, to April 6, 1918 This account contained items covering reciepts of rents subsequent to the death of this appellant's intestate and items of expense incurred after her death in selling the Woodbridge street lots to raise money to pay the three pecuniary legacies given by the third clause of the Hempstead will, also items of charges for his own services and for 18 years payment for a surety bond and for attorney's fees.

On July 28, 1919, the present appellant filed his motion (appellant Lee's exhibit) in the probate court, alleging misconduct on the part of the trustee, Harry Mower Lee, in connection with his trust and asking that he be cited into court for examination concerning the matters complained of. On the same day an order was issued by the court citing the trustee into court for such examination on the 19th day of August, 1919.

The account filed on April 6, 1918, was thereupon amended by prefixing to it a copy of the trustee's account of 1908 filed and withdrawn as stated in paragraph 14 above, and the account as amended is the one upon which a hearing was had and judgment rendered by the probate court from which the present appeals were taken.

Upon the hearing before the undersigned the appellant Wight claimed only an accounting for the proceeds and income of the trust property to the date of his intestates death, and claimed that the subbsequent charges for lawyers' fees and expenses of orders of probate and in making title to the Woodbridge street property were not properly chargeable against his intestate; and claimed that as against her no charge should be made for the trustee's services, because of the truste's nonfasance and Mis feasance of his duties.

The amount charged in with the account against the trustees prior to Feb. 6, 1917 should be increased by two items of rent received by him—one of $11 paid by Kipp, May 5, 1909, and one of $12 paid by Bebe, Dec. 3, 1909, both evidently omitted from the account by mistake, as they appear properly charged upon his books. It should also be increased by an item charged April 6, 19118, as rebate of insurance premium which was paid from the proceeds of the trust during the lifetime of Wight's intestate.

In 1904 a sewer was built in Woodbridge street, and all of the real estate included in this trust was assessed for benefits and was greatly benefitted by the laying of the sewer with which they were at once connected. The amounts assessed against this property were paid by the trustee and charged against the income. Not only was the reversion benefitted, but the rental value of it was increased. The trustee on that account raised the monthly rental value of the Woodbridge street properties, but has not increased the rental charge against himself of the Howard street property which fronts on both Howard and Woodbridge streets, assessed for, connected with and benefitted by the sewer. The fair rental value of the Howard street property after the construction of the sewer was continued to be until Feb. 6, 19118, $30 per month. It was occupied by the trustee as his home and for the entire period from 1904 to 1918 he has credited the income with only $25 per month as rent of that property. He should be further charged on the account with $5 per month, or $60 per year for 18 years.

The charge of Hull, McGuire and Hull was for services rendered after the death of this appellants intestate, and, so far as they are related to the accounting [illegible], were rendered in contesting the claim that anything was due from the trustee to her estate. These charges will include services rendered the trustee in making title and sale of the Woodbridge street property, etc. None of these charges are proper charges by him against the estate of Mrs. Coit.

There are certain items not appearing in the account as paid prior to Feb. 6, 1918, which should be added to the items credited as paid before that date. One of these is the item of $180 for premiums paid for bonds, credited on April 6, 1918, but manifestly paid annually during the lifetime of Charlotte R. Coit.

Another item relates to the charge dated April 6, 1918, for personal services of the trustee. The probate court in settling the entire account allowed $1,000 to the trustee. The appellant Wight claims that no part of this should be charged to his intestate, because the trustee had not properly performed his duties, had failed to make annual returns as required to do by statute, and had mismanaged the trust property. Until the intestate Coit was committed to the hospital as insane in 1904, the trustee, although he neglected to pay the taxes, had paid to her or her conservator substantially what was due her on account of the trust. After her committal to the hospital he treated the property as his own, and for this period he is entitled to compensation for services. For the five years of what seems like an honest attempt to properly administer the trust he should be allowed compensation and his services were reasonably worth $40 per year; so that $200 of the $1,000 allowed to him by the probate court for services during his entire trusteeship should be charged against the income of the property prior to Feb. 6, 1918.

There are various deductions and corrections to be made on the credit side of the trustee's account. Such an item is that of Feb. 26, 1907, for city taxes, $750. This payment included interest and cost of liens and releases, imposed for non-payment of the taxes when due, amounting to $221.48. This penalty paid for his neglect of duty cannot properly be charged to the cestui que trust. A similar case is the item of July 31, 1907: "Taxes levies of 1904-5, $380." This payment included $62.21 imposed for non-payment of overdue taxes, and to that extent not properly chargeable against the receipts.

The item of June 26, 1916, John Smith, $134.93, is an overcharge of $59.85 and to this extent the credits should be reduced.

The charge of October, 1912, John Higgins, $72.10, was admitted to be a double charge and to be disallowed.

The charge of date Dec. 28, 1912, "W. L. Roe, repairs and flooring, $139.81." The amount of $135 paid for flooring was not an ordinary repair and not a proper charge against income.

Oct. 30, 1913, "Joseph and Cann $520." Five hundred dollars of the amount charged in this item was for a steam boiler, not a necessary repair and not properly chargeable against income.

The bill of the New London Decorating Co. for $127, paid by the trustee for painting and decorating the Howard street house (dated March 29, 1914) was not for a necessary or ordinary repair and cannot properly be charged against income.

Making the corrections above indiated, I find that the charges against the trustee on the 6th of February, 1918, amount to $14,038.65, that credits in his favor amount to $11,062.98. I find that on Feb. 6, 1918, the balance $2,975.67, was due from the trustee to the estate of Charlotte R. Coit.

SUSTAINS REDUCTIONS BY PROBATE COURT

In Dr. Lee's appeal from the probate court over reductions and disallowances made by the court in the trustee's account, Judge Thayer sustains the court. The disallowances cover a number of items, which total $3,825.43, including $2,400 disallowed on the trustee's charge of $3,400 for services.

This case and the appeal from probate of Frederick C. Wight, No. 307, each brings an appeal from the same decree of the court of probate of the district of New London, were referred to the undersigned state referee for a finding of the facts and by agreement of the parties were tried together.

By the will of Denison Hempstead, Appellant Lee's exhibit 3, the remainder of Hempstead's estate left after payment of administration expenses and a legacy of $1,000 to the appellant in this case, was devised and bequeathed to this appellant in trust, to hold the same for the sole and separate use of the testator's niece, Charlotte Renuof Coit, as long as she should live; and after her death said remainder was disposed of as follows: the testator's home, 16 Howard street, was to go to his grandnephew, the trustee, Harry Mower Lee, legacies of $500 each were to be paid to two other nieces and a nephew of the testator, and the residue to another nephew, Benjamin H. Lee, father of the trustee, and the residuary legatee was named as executor.

Mr. Hempstead died in 1895, his executors qualified and about Sept. 1, 1899, turned over to his son, Harry Mower Lee, as the remainder of the estate left after the payment of costs of administration and of the $1,000 legacy, three adjoining parcels of land, one known as 16 Howard street, named in the will, and two lots with buildings thereon on Woodbridge street.

The trustee continued in possession of these premises, living for the most of the time in the Howard street house, and collected rents from the Woodbridge street houses until the death of Charlotte R. Coit, which occurred Feb. 6, 1918.

He filed an account of receipts and expenditures one year after he took possession of the property which was allowed and accepted by the probate court.

He filed no other annual account but filed an account in April, 1918, which was objected to and withdrawn from the probate court.

He filed no account of the administration of his trust at the death of the cestui que trust, Charlotte R. Coit, showing how the account stood as between them.

Shortly after her death he obtained an order of sale of the Woodbridge street property, which he sold for $6,000 on April 6, 1918, and filed an account beginning May 1, 1908, and ending April 6, 1918, which was amended by prefixing to it (after filing) a copy of the 1908 account, and this amended account is the one now before the court.

The appellant trustee objects to all the disallowances and reductions of items of credit in the trustee's account made by the judge of probate and shown in his memorandum of decision.

I find that all of said disallowances and reductions are properly made.

BAPTISTS BEGIN THEIR CENTENNIAL ANNIVERSARY

The opening exercises of the Baptist State Centennial gathering which is to be held at Hartford for three days with the Central Baptist Church, took place at 11 o'clock Monday morning, when the annual conference of Baptist ministers was called to order by the President, Rev. P. E. Woitenden of Bristol. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Manford W. Schuh of Hartford, and Rev. E. E. Gates of Hartford reported that fourteen ministers had been called out of the state the past year, and ten new ministers had moved into the state. Rev. A. B. Coats, D. D., Secretary of the Connecticut Baptist Convention, introduced the new ministers and President Woitenden welcomed them. There were two addresses, one by Rev. William Ross of New Britain on "Our Task" and another by Rev. J. G. Oborne of Mystic on "The Maintenance of a Standard." Rev. E. T. Tomlinson of New York addressed the meeting on the work of the Ministers and Missionaries Benefit Board.

The ministers' wives also held a meeting at 11 o'clock with Mrs. D. P. Gaines of Waterbury in the chair, and Mrs. H. B. Hutchins of this city acting as secretary. Mrs. E. E. Gates of Hartford read the necrology and Mrs. H. M. Thompson of Stonington spoke on "Pastors' Wives Whom I Remember."

At 2 p. m. there was a session on the interests of religious education and young people's work. There were two addresses, one by Rev. Charles N. Arbuckle of Newton Centre, Mass., on "The Outlook for Religious Education," and another by Rev. Cornelius Woelfkin of New York on "The All-Sufficiency of Divine Grace and the Gospel."

In the evening at 7.30 o'clock the 104th annual meeting of the Connecticut Baptist Education Society was held. The speaker was Rev. Edgar Y. Mullins, D. D., LL.D., President of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky., whose subject was "Religious Leadership." Dr. Mullins is a unique figure in Baptist work, for at the Baptist World Alliance in Stockholm, Sweden, the past summer, he was elected President of that body.

Tuesday will be a day of important meetings and it is expected that 1,000 delegates from all parts of the state will be present to take part in the Centennial exercises. Among the important speakers will be Rev. Chester H. Howe, of the New London, Rev. John Y. Aitchison of New York, William Travers Jerome, Jr. of New York, Mrs. Andrew MacLeish of Chicago, Miss Alice W. S. Brimson of Chicago, and Mrs. F. J. Peters of Havana, Cuba.

POST ROAD RESIDENTS SUFFER FROM AUTO NOISES

Night motor truck traffic on the Boston Post road between Bridgeport and New York has become so heavy as to cause some of the residents on that highway to appeal to the state motor vehicle department for relief from motor noises which interfere with their sleep. Not long ago, H. Allen Barton, a Greenwich lawyer, proposed that the local board of health prohibit truck traffic on the Post road from 12 p. m. to 6 a. m., on the ground that the loss of sleep to residents was injurious to public health.

This resulted in a communication from William S. Wright, counsel for the town, to the motor vehicle department, inquiring as to possible procedure. The reply of the department was that the situation was an enforcement proposition and that the offended citizens should have the protection of their local police by the rigid enforcement of the muffler law.

The state law makes unlawful the operation on the public highway at any hour of a motor vehicle with an internal combustion engine not provided with a muffler or other suitable device sufficient to silence the exhaust of the engine so that individual explosions cannot be heard at a distance of 150 feet from the car. The use of muffler cut-outs or other devices to free the exhaust is specifically prohibited.

Acting under this law, the Greenwich authorities have made about thirty arrests within the past two months and, in this way, have succeeded in somewhat abating the nuisance. The Greenwich board of health was recently advised by the town counsel that the town lacked authority under the law to close the Post road to truck traffic at any time of the day or night.

ROAD WORK PROGRESS IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT

Road conditions and detours in eastern Connecticut are reported by the state highway department as follows:

Coventry-Willimantic road under construction, but is open for traffic.

Hampton-Willimantic—Section under construction. Open to traffic. Travel from Danielson can go via Dayville-Goodyear-Abington and Willimantic.

Mansfield Depot-Storrs Road—Grading done—open to traffic.

Pomfret-Putnam road—Bituminous macadam surface under construction being built in two halves, with one way traffic over short sections during the day, and road open at night.

NORWICH TOWN

Those from Norwich Town who attended the annual convention of the Sunday School association of New London county, Friday at the Methodist church, New London, were—from the First Congregational church, Superintendent and Mrs. Dwight W. Avery, Thomas H. Bachelor, Miss Bessie M. Grant and Miss Jennie L. Congdon; from the First Methodist church, the pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich, and Mrs. Albert G. Miner, the latter a delegate.

At the First Congregational church, Sunday morning, the theme of Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey's sermon was Light, with reference to the text, Genesis 1:3. And God said, let there be light; and there was light. During the service Clyde M. Beebe, chairman of the trustees, announced the very gratifying news that the church repairs had been completed and all bills paid, as the result of $800 being raised for the Church Repair fund. What My Denomination Is Planning For the Future, was the topic assigned to the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening. Miss Jessie E. Hyde was leader.

Matthew 10:8. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils; freely ye have received, freely give, was the text from which Rev. James B. Aldrich preached Sunday morning at the First Methodist church, in referring to the Hospital Campaign Fund. Rev. Mr. Aldrich's evening sermon, was from Luke 15:7. Mrs. George Manning was in charge of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service. The topic was What My Denomination Is Planning for the Future.

Thomas Wilcox, manager of "Idle Manse," Mansfield Center, was a dinner guest Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic H. Wyant.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb were guests of friends Sunday afternoon on an automobile trip to Salem by way of Colchester.

CALL FOR SUPREME EFFORT TO ENFORCE 18TH AMENDMENT

Bay State Delegation to the Citizenship Conference Declares the Foundations of the Government Are at Stake—Convinced That the Conscience of America is Aroused More Than It Has Been Since the Struggle to Suppress Slavery.

Boston, Oct. 16—An appeal for support of the eighteenth (prohibition) amendment was issued today by the Massachusetts delegation to the citizenship conference, which has just concluded its meeting in Washington, D. C.

"We return convinced that the conscience of America is aroused as it has not been since the struggle to suppress slavery," the statement read. "A thousand men and women from every section of the country agreed that in the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment the very foundations of government are at stake."

The appeal called upon Massachusetts citizens to conform to the prohibition law, support the courts and federal officers, and vote for the state enforcement act to be submitted to popular vote in 1924.

AMERICANS DIRECTING RUM RUNNING FROM CANADA

Toronto, Oct. 16.— Americans are directing virtually the entire Canadian-American rum running industry, according to a statement by General V. A. S. Williams, commissioner of the Ontario provincial police, appearing today in the Toronto Evening Telegram in refutation of the charge that Canadian bootleggers were keeping the United States moist.

"They're practically all Americans," said General Williams. "If I had control of policing the highways o the province, I would seize six or seven American automobiles every day, engaged in this trade. As it is, we caught four New York state autos just recently engaged in rum-running.

"As for boat trade I have seen with my own eyes the situation at the Windsor border. I have seen Detroit-owned launches come over to our side, land at Petite Cote, load up with liquor and beer and go back to their home city.

"I am told that American officials do not want to stop this trade. If they do want to, why on earth don't they do it?

The business is managed, operated and financed by their own citizens, who use motor boats and automobiles of United States ownership. Surely they should have some responsibility in controlling the situation."

PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT DISCUSSED AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Oct. 16.— Preparatory to the governor's law enforcement conference to be held Saturday at the White House, President Coolidge called into conference today Secretary Mellon and Assistant Secretary Moss of the treasury and Commissioner Blair of the internal revenue bureau, and spent more than half an hour with them in discussion of prohibition enforcement problems.

Beyond the statement that the program for the conference was discussed, none of those who saw the president would comment on the meeting.

William Allen White, Kansas editor, after a call on President Coolidge today, issued a statement in which he declared the federal government was handicapped in its effort to enforce the prohibition amendment "by a system which permits United States senators to control the appointment of federal enforcement officers in the states."

"If the senator is wet," he added, "he appoints wet enforcers or if the sentiment of the state is wet, as it may be in the north Atlantic seaboard states, the senator appoints wet enforcers and the governors of those states are tied hand and foot by those wet federal enforcers. The prohibition law cannot be enforced by the federal government under the system of patronage now prevailing unless the president of the United States does one of the things: Either puts righteousness and the fear of God into wet senators or breaks with them, neither alternative is easy. It will require courage, audacity and great political skill in any case, but unless the president uses those qualities, federal enforcement in the east here will continue to be a farce and if it is the republican party in the west is lost and so the nation."

Mr. White expressed confidence that President Coolidge would be able to handle the situation.

STATEMENT BY HEAD OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 16.—The Anti-saloon League of New York intends to "compel the federal administration at Washington to decide whether it will stand with the overwhelming dry majority of the membership of the republican party in New York state" William M. Anderson, superintendent of the league, declared before the New York state synod of Prabyterians here today.

Asserting that "Governor Pinchot has cracked this situation wide open," Mr. Anderson characterized the Pennsylvania executive's criticism of federal enforcement of prohibition "a ringing challenge to arouse the churches to a realization of the menace in the present situation and their responsibility for curing it."

CALL FOR CONVENTION OF WORLD JEWISH CONFERENCE

New York, Oct. 16.—A resolution calling for the convention of a world Jewish congress, "primarily in the interest of Palestine" was adopted by the American Jewish Congress at today's session. The World Congress, the resolution decreed, is to be democratically elected and is to represent the Jewish people of the world as a unit.

The executive committee was instructed to communicate with Jewish national and international organizations to urge the speedy convention of the world congress.

A resolution also was adopted thanking David Lloyd George, war time premier of Great Britain, for "far-reaching vision in his handling of the Jewish problem."

WOMAN AND BARTENDERS ARE HELD IN $2,500 BONDS

Bristol, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Genevieve Hotkowski; who was arrested yesterday on the charge of selling intoxicating liquors, was in court again today with three supposed bar tender employes. Each was held in $2,500 bonds until tomorrow.

Mrs. Hotkowski is under a 30 days sentence for selling liquor. Yesterday, Peter Burns was arrested for drunkenness and given 30 days in jail, with the sentence suspended if he would tell where he got the liquor. He said he got it at Mrs. Hotkowski's place. Anna Shea was a witness in the case. Now it is claimed that the woman and her three employes took Burns and the Shea woman to Millerton, N. Y., and paid them money to keep away.

PRESIDENT OF CUBA TO BRING LIBEL SUIT

Havana, Oct. 16.—Announcement was made at the offices of President Zayas today that charges that the president received $500,000 for reigning the Tarafa port and railroad bill would be made the basis for criminal libel proceedings against 91 alleged signers of the accusation and the newspapers which published it.

CENTENNIAL OF CONN. BAPTIST CONVENTION

Hartford, Oct. 16.—The centennial of the Connecticut Baptist convention, one of the oldest organizations of the denomination in the United States, was observed in the First Baptist church, a daughter of the original church organized in Groton, Conn., today with special services.

HURRICANE ATTENDED BY POURING RAIN

New Orleans, Oct. 16.—The Gulf storm, first heralded yesterday by the weather bureau as a hurricane proportions, was spending itself somewhere north of here tonight, pouring rain over a wide area with little damage.

SHERIFF AND CONSTABLE SHOOT EACH OTHER DEAD

GOVERNORS GATHER IN ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 16.—(By the A. P.)—Chief executives of 36 states and territories were gathering in Indianapolis tonight for the sixteenth annual governor's conference, beginning Wednesday at West Baden, to discuss national problems and means of uniform relief legislation. Following the three day meeting in this state, the governors will move to Washington for a luncheon conference with President Coolidge at the capitol Saturday.

Taxation, agriculture, marketing, water power development and transportation are among the subjects assigned for general discussion.

BECOMES CITIZEN AFTER BATTLE OF BEVERAL YEARS

Meriden, Oct. 16.—Ottilio Fordiani today was granted citizenship in the Meriden city court after a battle of several years, during which time his attempts to be franchised were combatted by the government on the ground that he had made seditious utterances during the World War.

His previous application, after four hearings and continuances, was denied, but subsequently the state supreme court upheld an appeal and ordered a new trial. Allan F. Church, of Boston, United States naturalization examiner who conducted the government's case, said after the hearing the government will take an appeal to the United States supreme court.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET FOR BRIDGEPORT ELECTION

Bridgeport, Oct. 16.—Fred Atwater was unanimously nominated for mayor at the democratic city convention tonight. The nominating speech was made by Senator Archibald McNeil, Jr. No other name was mentioned. The convention was one of the shortest in the history of the party as all differences had been smoothed out at conferences yesterday afternoon and today. The old ticket was also renominated as follows:

INTERRUPTED PLANS BEING MADE FOR HIS FUNERAL

Gloversville, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Garrett Van Denburgh, 76, reported dead for two days, returned home tonight just in time to interrupt plans for his funeral, which was to have been held tomorrow. The body beside which his wife and children were mourning, proved to be that of Richard Gordon of Carlyle. The men resembled each other so closely that when the body was found it was supposed to be that of the missing Van Denburgh. The latter said he had been digging potatoes on a farm eight miles from here.

TO CONFER ON MONTHLY RUSH OF IMMIGRANTS

Washington, Oct. 16.—Efforts to prevent the recurring monthly rush of immigrant transports to American ports will be made by Chairman Parley, of the shipping board at the forthcoming trans Atlantic passenger conference in London, it was announced today. Mr. Parley will sail from New York Saturday on the Leviathan.

Turkey and Greece Exchanging Subjects

H. C. Jacquith of Darien Supervising the Work—To Exchange 3,000 Daily.

New York, Oct. 16.—Turkey and Greece today began the exchange of 600,000 of their peoples, it was announced in a cable message to the headquarters of the Near East relief here. The exchange is being made under American supervision, although a neutral European commission, appointed under the Lausanne treaty, acts as the general control body.

H. C. Jaquith, of Darien, Conn., managing director of the Near East relief in Athens, is supervising the work, assisted by Major R. M. Davidson, of Ashland, Ky., and James Crutcher, of Tuscaloosa, Ala. Women's welfare will be supervised by Mrs. Edna Bassett, of Hollywood, Calif.

The work will continue at the rate of 3,000 exchanges daily.

POLICE QUELL RIOTS IN THE CENTER OF BERLIN

Berlin, Oct. 16.—(By the A. P.)—The food riots which have been going on in greater Berlin for the past ten days culminated this morning and this afternoon in serious outbreaks in the heart of the city. Mobs estimated to aggregate 12,000 unemployed, accompanied by women and youths, besieged the town hall in the heart of the eastern section of the capital, and the looting which followed continued intermittently for four hours and was quelled only after police reinforcements used their bayonets and fired volleys to awe the crowds.

The immediate provocation for today's outbreak was the abolition of the official bread card. This resulted in a sudden rise in the price of the flour and a half pound loaf to 430,000,000 marks, or about 12 cents, as compared with Monday's price of 36,000,000 marks, which was effective while the bread cards still were valid.

The police report that five demonstrators were seriously and a score slightly wounded during the disorders. One of the wounded in the rioting near the town hall died this afternoon. Some reports estimate that twenty persons were wounded when the police fired into the crowds.

A bonus of ten billion marks for each unemployed, free fuel and free were among the demands made by the demonstrators.

OFFICERS GRAND LODGE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Other officers chosen are: Grand vice chancellor, Fred M. Parsons, Seymour; grand prelate, William L. Morgan, Rockfall; grand keeper of records and seal, George E. Wright, Hartford; grand master of the exchequer, William M. Potter, Willimantic, (re-elected for the 28th consecutive term); grand master at arms, Arthur F. Mitchell, Hartford; grand inner guard, Charles Andrews, Bridgeport; grand outer guard, Walter R. King, Willimantic; grand trustee, John F. Osborne, Ansonia; supreme representatives, Manlius F. Norton, New Britain, and Fred C. Marggraff, Waterbury.

PYTHIAN SYSTERS ELECT STATE OFFICERS

BANDITS GET TRUCK WITH RAW SILK VALUED AT $60,000

New York, Oct. 16.—Several armed men today held up Carmine Darengela, a truck driver, in the heart of the busy warehouse section, forced him and two companions from the truck, and drove off with the load of 55 bales of raw silk valued at $60,000. The highwaymen forced Darengela and his companions, Carmie Babbings, owner of the truck, and his 18 year old son Anthony to enter the touring car in which they were driving. The bandits then drove their captives to Morningside Park, about seven miles away, and forced them to roll down an embankment. When they reached the bottom, the robbers had disappeared.

COOLIDGE ASKS REDUCTION IN GRAIN FREIGHT RATES

Washington, Oct. 16.— President Coolidge today asked Samuel Rea, head of the Pennsylvania railroad system, to institute a movement among railroad executives looking to a reduction in freight rates on grain destined for export. At the same time the Interstate Commerce Commission announced it would proceed with an investigation to determine whether represent railroad rates on grain products are reasonable.

Mr. Rea, if was indicated, may call other railroad presidents into conference on the subject. The commission's program calls for hearings at times and places which will be fixed shortly.

6-YEAR-OLD BOY HELD FOR DRIVING AUTOMOBILE

New Haven, Oct. 16.—The law's hand lay heavily on six year old Arthur Mulligan today as he was charged with operating a motor vehicle under the legal age of 16. A North Haven constable intercepted a car yesterday when William A. Mulligan was permitting his child to hold the steering wheel. The father was freed by the court because he had a New York license and had been in Connecticut less than the 15 days required to take out another license. The constable arrested the child and a $25 bond was provided.

To Definitely Settle Regulation of Clocks

Test Case in Hartford to be Submitted to the Supreme Court of Errors.

Hartford, Oct. 16.—A test case to determine if a statute adopted by the last general assembly imposing a penalty on any person who publicly exhibits time on a clock other than eastern standard time will go to the supreme court of errors on a reservation, it was decided today. A local jeweler who has a clock outside his store showed daylight saving time in the early summer with a placard on the clock explaining that it was daylight saving time. He was fined $5 in court for violation of the statute. His case was to have been tried in superior court today on an appeal. Counsel and the state attorney agreed to have the highest court wrestle with the issue.

The defendant claims in a demurrer that the legislative act is unconstitutional. Some of the reason set forth are:

(A) It is an unwarranted interference with personal and property rights.

(B) It is not the valid exercise of police power of the state of Connecticut.

(C) It is an invasion of property rights inasmuch as it is an unwarranted and unjust interference with the defendant's right to use his own property in a manner which does not injure or prejudice the public.

(D) Said statute is indefinite, uncertain, vague and ambiguous.

(E) Said statute is not a clear and unequivocal legislative encroachment upon private rights without warrant or right, and is not a law but an exhibition of legislative caprice taking the form of an enactment.

FOUND IT EASY TO SELL GEMS THAT CAME FROM ABROAD

New York, Oct. 16.—Diamonds once worn by the Romanoffs may have been in the collection smuggled into this country by Bertha Bruns, the young German woman who is being held by customs authorities pending investigation of the manner in which she disposed of the jewels, United States Attorney Greene said today.

Miss Bruns was questioned today by Mr. Greene regarding the manner in which she came into possession of the stones which she admitted carrying into the United States in a suitcase.

"I was a nurse with the German army during the war," she said. "Twice, while on the western front, I was wounded. After a while they sent me to the Russian front. There I remained until the revolution came. There were wealthy Russian refugees, titled persons, coming through the lines. They were starving. A loaf of bread would buy their jewels. I bought one nine-carat diamond for two loaves of bread. Soon I had a great collection.

Asked how she met the wealthy persons to whom the diamonds were sold she said that she had no trouble doing that, just looked them up in the social register, called with her diamonds here in New York, told my clients they were from Germany and sold them at a handsome profit."

In addition to the diamonds brought from Germany Mrs. Bruns said, she had purchased and sold about $400,000 worth in this country, representing them to have been brought from abroad.

190 MASONS ELECTED TO RECEIVE 33RD DEGREES

Washington, Oct. 16.—One hundred and ninety Masons were elected today to receive the thirty-third degree by the supreme council, thirty-third degree, of the ancient and accepted Scottish rite, southern jurisdiction, in addition the honor of knight commander of the court of honor was conferred upon three hundred Scottish Masons.

Dr. Elmer I. Goshon, of Salt Lake City, grand chaplain, in an address before visiting Masons urged compulsory use of English in all schools in the interests of Americanization. The unscrupulous agitator, he declared, would be shorn of his power if an adequate program of Americanization were provided and carried into effect.

We talked much about Americanization and yet have failed and are failing to instill the fundamental principles of patriotism and a knowledge of and therefore respect for the sacred institutions of American history in the minds of foreign-born citizenship," Dr. Goshon said. "Many of the foreign born who have a real desire of becoming true American citizens and yet who have no opportunity of attending night school after the day's work, remain untaught in the great essential things of Americanism and they become victims of some unscrupulous leaders of their own nationality and we as a people pay the tremendous cost of all this."

HERR VON HOESCH TO HAVE CONFERENCE WITH POINCARE

Paris, Oct. 16.—(By the A. P.)—The German charge d'affaires, Herr Von Hoesch, will have a conference at his own request tomorrow with Premier Poincare. The prospective visit is creating great interest in French official circles, but opinions are divided on the importance of the results which may be expected from it.

There is a feeling in some quarters that owing to the German chancellor's greater freedom of action, he may decide to present proposals of a more sweeping character, more definite and more tangible than heretofore, which may meet M. Poincare's demands. The German charge's first visit to the French premier, on October 10 thus far has had no effect in bringing the countries into closer relations, although on that occasion Herr Von Hoesch informed M. Poincare that he was instructed to open direct negotiations between the Berlin and Paris governments and to offer Germany's co-operation toward the resumption of the normal economic life of the Ruhr. This offer, however, was taken under consideration by the French government.

DIVORCE GRANTED MRS. JULIUS S. WALSH

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 16.—After a hearing lasting ten minutes, Mrs. Julius S. Walsh this afternoon obtained a divorce in the court of domestic relations. Mrs. Walsh, a nationally known horsewoman, testified Mr. Walsh had been "disrespectful, unkind and blasphemous."

FLOOD IN OKLAHOMA CITY HAS PASSED THE CREST

More Than 2,000 Homeless Persons Are Quartered in Halls and Churches—Although the River Has Fallen Two Feet, the Waters Are Still Swirling Through the Streets—Two Fatalities Reported, But Rescue Crews Believe Loss of Life Will be Greater—Damage Will Run Into Hundreds of Thousands.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 16.—(By the A. P.)—Virtually isolated by the greatest flood in its history, Oklahoma City tonight sheltered her little army of refugees and waited for the muddy, turbulent expanse of the North Canadian River to recede and reveal the damage it had wrought.

Although the river has fallen approximately two feet from the 35 foot crest that swept down on the city early this morning, the swift waters were still swirling through streets heretofore considered immune.

More than 2,000 of the 15,000 persons who fled before the flood still were homeless tonight. They are quartered in halls and churches. The remainder of the host had returned to their homes.

The known dead list stood at two, but city officials and members of rescue crews declared it probably would be greater.

The dead are Mrs. R. H. Loose and her daughter, Clara, 5 years old, who were drowned when a boat in which they attempted to gain land, after tarrying in an effort to save their personal effects, was caught in the millrace at Wheeler Park, a municipal resort, and capsized. Loose and another daughter, Bessie, 10, were rescued from the top of a large tree, to which they had clung for twelve hours when rescued. Loose was taken to a hospital where his condition was pronounced serious.

Rescue squads still were working at top speed tonight. A negro family brought to land over more than a mile of racing waters, told their rescuers that at least 75 other negroes were marooned on the brow of a hill, the only unsubmerged spot, on which stood a negro settlement. They were reported without food or water, and efforts were being continued to bring them to safety.

At the city reservoir where a break in a retaining wall precipitated the unprecedented flood upon the city, the water still was falling tonight with the 2,000 acre reservoir nearly two thirds drained. The city water supply was maintained by putting the pumps in the river.

No estimate of the damage could be made, but city officials said that "it will run into hundreds of thousands."

Many stories of heroism were recounted as the work of rescuing the marooned continued.

Late today all national guards with the exception of medical units were relieved from duty here and all patrolling of the areas bordering the flooded districts was turned over to the city police.

With the crest of the flood past Oklahoma City, residents of the lowlands in Shawnee and other cities south of here were preparing tonight to leave their homes, if necessary.

PAGEANT AT CONVENTION OF AMERICAN LEGION

San Francisco, Calif., Oct. 16.—Heavy mists tried in vain to take some of the color and snap from the great pageant that was the chief event today in the national convention of the American legion. The mists made the streets wet and slippery.

The crowds were smaller than they would have been otherwise, although they increased somewhat as the parade progressed.

Throughout the morning, the various executives and committees were in caucus. The committees on resolutions, Americanism and aeronautics were preparing resolutions, which legion officials said would be presented to the open convention for the consideration of the delegates in concrete form.

American legion delegates from the Paris, France, post announced that they would ask the convention to officially counteract "propaganda isolating France from the family of friendly nations and depriving her of her rights under the treaty of peace."

The Paris delegates, members of the legion said, are here with evidence supporting its assertion that France is being discriminated against by leaders in America. The American delegates from France, it was stated, will ask that the United States reciprocate with her former allies in rehabilitating her disabled soldiers abroad and in performing a similar task for foreign veterans in this country.

A resolution asking that further legislation be enacted by congress looking toward the improvement of economic and other conditions in Porto Rico was introduced by the Porto Rican delegation.

ABUSES OF RENT LAWS BY LANDLORDS IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 16.—A dark picture of the suffering of many thousands through abuses of the rent laws by New York City landlords was painted by witnesses before the state commission on regional planning and housing today.

Forced to drastic economies by the demands of ever mounting rents, witnesses said, children had to go without proper food or clothing. Others told the commission that top-heavy rents had compelled them to take their children from school that their earnings might be added to the family income.

Mingled with these tales, mostly from poorly dressed mothers, were recommendations from lawyers and housing officials that the emergency rent laws be extended at least two years. Some urged that they be made more stringent. Two city building superintendents, Charles Brady, of Manhattan, and Patrick J. Reville, of the Bronx, told the commissioners that lapse of the rent laws would result in wholesale evictions by landlords demanding yet higher rents.

Mr. Reville said while there were ample homes for persons who could afford to pay high rentals, nothing was being done to create houses for the average wage earner.

PRODUCTION OF BITUMINOUS COAL IN THE UNITED STATES

Washington, Oct 16.—Bituminous coal production in the United States during the nine months ending Sept. 30, amounted to 413,436,000 tons, and was greater than during any similar preceding period except that of the war year, 1918. This estimate was made by F. R. Wadleigh, chief of the commerce department coal division.

Market conditions were reported by Mr. Wadleigh to be quiet in nearly all the principal mining and consuming districts.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER OF CHRISTINE HERVISH

Hagensack, N. J., Oct. 16—Sylvester McGrath, of Niagara Falls, charged with the murder of Christine Hervish of Wallington on Thanksgiving night 1922, was acquitted of the charge shortly after six o'clock tonight. The jury returned the verdict after being out a short time.

LLOYD GEORGE WARNS OF WAVE OF AUTOCRACY

Chicago, Oct. 16.—(By the A. P.)—Five years after the world war democracy which in 1918 won a great victory over autocracy, is in peril, David Lloyd George, the wartime premier of Great Britain, declared, in a luncheon address here today. A wave of autocracy seems to be sweeping over the world, he declared, but Rhainst it the United States, Great Britain and France will stand together.

"Russia threw over democracy a few months after starting the experiment," the former premier asserted. "Italy, Spain, Bulgaria and now Germany is talking about a dictatorship. Democracy is in peril, in peril five years after the greatest triumph democracy has ever had.

"Why is democracy more sure, safer? It is slower to begin, it does not bring its forces into action in the way perhaps an autocracy does, but in a struggle it is the heart that tells, and democracy sustains the heart, and what happens is that democratic institutions alone can produce and train men that are able to appeal to nations to rise to these heights of sacrifice which are the last citadels of freedom in all lands.

"Now, when democracy is in danger, when I can see the throne of democracy tumbling in one land after another, here you have a land of democracy. Britain is the land of democracy, and France, I believe, will stand by democracy, and whatever happens these three great lands together will stand against this wave of autocracy which seems to be sweeping over the world."

SECOND LAP OF THE 300 MILE ENDURANCE CLASSIC

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 16.—One disqualification and four penalties for late finishes featured the second lap of 300 mile endurance classic at Avon, N. Y., today.

Mintu, owned and ridden by L. M. M. Corpenning, winner of second place in the Colorado endurance ride in August, was ruled out because of lameness at the 42nd mile post.

Those who took more than the nine hour minimum time limit were Jane Gray, Gray Morgan, entered by the U. S. Morgan horse farm and ridden by Edward Goulett Dude, another Morgan horse farm entry, ridden by W. J. Nimbot; Red Cloud, entered by the Morgan Horse Club, and ridden by "Babe" Courvaisier; Snip, Red Cloud's stablemate, ridden by M. M. Craig.

The first arrivals at the stables at the end of the ride, the greater part of which was accomplished after the noon halt, were Gladstone, an army Morgan; Goosegirl, and army thoroughbred; Major G. L. Scott on another army thoroughbred, Pathfinder, Black Diamond, a Morgan Horse Club entry.

150 ARRESTS FOR BLOWING UP FORTS AT WARSAW

Warsaw, Poland, Oct. 16.—One hundred and fifty persons have been taken into custody, and other arrests are expected in connection with the blowing up last week of one of the forts of the citadel.

The police are convinced that the was due to a conspiracy hatched in a foreign country.

The number of persons killed in the explosion exceeds fifty, most of them children who lived near the fort. Nearly a thousand persons were injured.

The fourth fort of the Warsaw citadel, in which explosives were stored, exploded Saturday morning, causing great damage in Warsaw and many casualities. A despatch from Warsaw said the civil and military authorities had begun an inquiry into the disaster and that a preliminary investigation indicated that the explosion was due to a plot.

MEN ARRESTED FOR STARTING FOREST FIRES

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 16.—Michael Fenski and John Behlnski, were arrested in Baraga county today for starting forest fires. They admitted, would, but declared they had nothing to do with the origin of a fire in which five men lost their lives yesterday.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office

Paul Margolis and Jacob Silver, injured Monday noon, when the Willys-Knight sedan in which they were riding, was struck by the Boston express at 12.17 o'clock on the New Haven railroad crossing at Columbia avenue, are improved and the hospital authorities state that they will recover. Mrs. Ida F. Margolis, wife of Paul Margolis, was instantly killed. Samuel Margolis, son of the dead woman, was but slightly injured and was discharged from St. Joseph's hospital Monday evening. Samuel Margolis was driving the car at the time and he was completely broken up over the calamity. Friends and relatives have been unable to comfort him. It was learned Tuesday that the Margolis family, with Jacob Silver and Max Silverman were to attend the bottlers' convention at Providence and that Mrs. Margolis did not favor making the trip by automobile, having a premonition that an accident would occur. While en route from Waterbury to this city they had virtually planned to take the express at the local station for the remainder of the trip.

Textile industries in Willimantic have entered upon a new era of prosperous conditions. Orders are coming in in a greater volume than at any time during the past year and a half and there is every indication that conditions will not only remain as such but steadily improve. Most of the plants are now on full time with the exception of some of the departments of the cotton plants. The winter schedule of working hours was recently put into force but it has been found that the general demand of the operatives is that the plants revert to the summer schedule, starting at 7 a. m. and the following mill companies have complied with this request: American Thread company, Windham Silk company and the Holland Silk Manufacturing company. The hours of work are now from 7 a. m. to 12 and 1 to 4.45 p. m. The working time of the manufacturing department of the American Thread company has been increased to five days a week or 44 hours a week. The finishing department is on full time, although a few of the departments are slightly slack.

Conditions at the silk manufacturing plants are very much improved, especially at the Holland plant. The Quidnick-Windham Cotton Manufacturing company is on a fifty-five hour a week schedule with some of the departments a little dull but on the whole business shows an improvement.

The Rossie Velvet company is also enjoying better times. The plant starts at 7.15 a. m., and closes at 5 p. m., with an hour at noon for lunch. The H. K. & W. A. Washburn company, silk throwsters, and the J. D. Chaffee Silk Braid Manufacturing company show increased business but are not yet operating on full time.

Other manufacturing lines in the city are optimistic in the expectation of better business conditions. Improvements are evident in the business of the Vanderman Manufacturing company, which operates a foundry and machine shop. The S. C. E. Box company plants in Wilson street and Mounton court are both working on full time and the help are often requested to work overtime.

Coach F. A. Callahan's undefeated Windham High pigskin warriors traveled to Middletown Saturday afternoon where they will encounter the speedy Middletown High eleven. The local mentors will use practically the same lineup as in previous games. Wilkinson will be eligible for this game and it is probable that he will play one of the line positions. Lavine is showing up well of late and it is thought that he will break into the lineup in the coming fray. On the following Wednesday the local team opens its annual series with its greatest rivals, the Norwich Free Academy, on the Academy campus.

The weekly luncheon and meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club was in charge of President "Jim" Mustard. Dr. Karl T. Phillips, of Putnam, was a guest, he attending this meeting to make up a 100 per cent attendance at a meeting of the Putnam club last week. "Jim" Brown, a Retarian from Santa Cruz, California, was also a guest at the meeting. He gave a short talk on the charity work carried out by his home club and on the strict attendance regulations there. He said that his club had organized and maintained a fine boys' band.

Secretary Charles W. Hill read the roll call and the minutes of the previous meeting. He also read a letter from Jim Bath, who is having a vacation in parts unknown, but thought to be the Maryland shore, Val Murphy's favorite stamping grounds. A communication was read from District Governor George Cooper, stating that he would motor here from Waterbury next Tuesday evening to attend a meeting of the local Retarians. A special committee has been making the necessary arrangements for the meeting and each member is privileged to invite one guest. Several of the members stated their intention of being accompanied, indicating that the affair would be a large gathering.

Stanley Kelley, who formerly conducted a boys' camp at Crystal Lake, Eastford, wrote the club in regard to a local young man of high intellect, whom the club has been assisting in securing a college education. Mr. Kelley's letter stated that the boy had kept an average of over 90 per cent in his studies last year and he asked for the help of the club again this year. It was voted to donate $200 for this purpose.

An appeal from the Visiting Nurses' Association was read, asking for financial and moral assistance and that the club send a delegate to the association fuerd meeting. It was voted to give $50 to the association.

It was announced that the attendance contest started at Tuesday noon's meeting with Val Murphy as captain of one team and Jim Mustard as head of the other. Val was the leader of the aggregation recently and furnished a dinner as a forfeit for losing in an attendance contest. The outlook for none too bright again Tuesday for Captain Val, as four men on his lineup were absent.

An excellent report of the budget committee was given by Hubert W. Haber. The club includes 36 members, according to the report. It was the suggestion of the committee that a definite and constant fund be established, besides the regular sources of income, to carry on the boys' work. A budget system was also recommended. It was the sense of the committee that the best means of the constant fund would be through entertainments, which at the same time would be socially beneficial to the club. For this purpose, Gus Greene moved that a committee of five be appointed to arrange an entertainment program for the winter season. It was also pointed out that the efforts of the boys' work committee would be much more beneficial if assistance were given to a group of boys instead of to an individual. This idea met with the approval of several of the members.

Tuesday's meeting had been designated as Business Methods meeting, but due to pressing business on hand it was necessary to postpone that session two weeks.

The body of Mrs. Ida F. Margolis was forwarded to her home in Waterbury Tuesday. Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Burial was in the Jewish Benefit cemetery. Local arrangements were in charge of Kilbourey Brothers.

The funeral services for Mrs. Caroline P. Young were held Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at her home in Chaplin. Rev. John H. Knott officiated. Burial was in the Mount Hope cemetery, Mansfield. Avery & VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Miss Kate J. Clark, 68, died Tuesday morning at St. Joseph's hospital. Miss Clark was born February 24, 1855, a daughter of Grosvenor and Eliza Clark. She is survived by a brother, D. K. Clark and a sister, Mrs. Hattie Herrick of Willimantic; a nephew Russell Clark of Brooklyn, N. Y., and a niece, Mrs. E. Royce Loomis of New Britain.

Jocelyn Vertefeuille, 27 days' old daughter of Alfred and Alice Lafeunesse Vertefeuille, died Monday at the home of her parents, 33 Maple avenue. There are six sisters and three brothers in the family.

Martin Shea was in the police court Tuesday morning to answer to the charge of breach to the peace. He was represented by an attorney. An attempt was made to settle the difficulty between the accused and the complainant, his wife, before the opening of the court session but to no avail. The case was continued to Saturday morning, Nov. 3.

A number of local horsemen motored to Windsor Tuesday afternoon to attend the horse races at Sage park.

George P. King, a local boy, and a member of the U. S. navy, is visiting his parents here, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. King of Pleasant street, on a ten-day furlough. King enlisted at the local navy recruiting station in August and has just completed a six weeks' training course. He is well pleased with the treatment accorded him while at Newport and said that he would take advantage of the opportunity to learn a good trade while in the navy. Upon his return to Newport he will enter the electrical school for a six months' course.

The junior class of Willimantic State Normal school will entertain the seniors and faculty members at a Hallowe'en masquerade party Wednesday evening, Oct. 31, in the school gymnasium. Miss Eleanor Foley of New London is chairman of the committee of arrangements. Chairmen of the sub-committees are: refreshments, Miss Isabelle Paine, Danielson; decorations, Miss Marion C. Bentley, Westerly and entertainment, Miss Alberta E. Messenger of Simsbury.

Through the courtesy of the Jordan Hardware company a window is being devoted to a Children's Week display. Maps of Bible lands, pictures, models, of Old Testament objects, mission studies, handwork and books for teachers and parents are shown. The display has interested grown-ups as well as children.

The new oil heating system recently installed in the buildings of the St. Mary's Roman Catholic parish, including the church, parochial school and rectory, has proved very successful thus far. The 5,000-gallon tank in the yard between the rectory and the convent on Maple avenue was filled this week and if necessary, heat will be turned on in the church next Sunday.

Principal George H. Shafer addressed the student body of the Willimantic State Normal school in the general assembly this week on the coming programs which will be offered by the Community Entretainment association this season.

The automobile school opened on Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. The enrollment was in charge of Acting General Secretary A. F. Brown and was most gratifying.

Mrs. Arthur L. Clark entertained members of the ways and means committee of the Woman's club at her home on Chestnut street in the afternoon. A social hour was enjoyed after a business session. Mrs. Clark served a dainty luncheon. She was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Harold S. Maine. Those present were: Mrs. John G. Boss, Mrs. Harvey Bronson, Mrs. Henry Burgee, Mrs. Ralph U. Welmer, Mrs. L. Dexter Crawford, Mrs. Nelson A. Daniels, Mrs. C. DeWitt Hill, Mrs. John S. Lewis, Mrs. George Livesley, Mrs. Harry W. Standish and Mrs. Ralph W. E. Carpenter.

COULD NOT SLEEP OR EAT FOR DAYS

WINCARNIS Was the Only Thing That Seemed to Do Mrs. Hueston Good

"Before taking Wincarnis, I was completely run down. My nerves were in an awful state. I also had indigestion so badly that gas would form around my heart, causing it to palpitate. I could neither eat nor sleep for days at a time. I took a small bottle of Wincarnis and it seemed to do me good, so I bought a large one and within a week I began to feel much better. I started to sleep and eat much better, and my nerves quieted down. After taking three bottles, I felt better than I had for years. Wincarnis is certainly a wonderful tonic."

JEWETT CITY

Guy Bros.' Minstrels presented so pleasing a program Monday night at Finn Opera House that they were asked to remain another night. Both performances brought out large audiences.

Mrs. Harry Davis is in Backus hospital, where she underwent a surgical operation Tuesday.

A meeting of the new board of commerce was held in Rioux hall on Monday evening, the purpose being to organize. L. M. Crandall, the provisional president, presided and James Dolan was appointed provisional secretary. After remarks by Mr. Carpenter he introduced John J. O'Rourke, secretary of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, who told of its benefits to the town, and gave information as to the organization, answering a number of questions. He said the number of directors should be seven. A nominating committee was appointed to present a list of directors and officers. This committee was A. M. Brown, J. W. Payne, M. E. Shea, Abraham Zegeer, A. C. Burdick, Eudor LeClaire and F. E. Robinson. The names they presented for directors were Alex McNicol, L. M. Carpenter, E. A. Faust, Abraham Zegeer, J. H. Shea, G. H. Prior and Edmond Jodoin. Officers were: President, R. W. Dearnley; vice president, Eudor LeClaire; secretary, James Dolan, and treasurer, E. H. Hiscox. It was voted to adopt the list as presented. It was voted that the directors and John T. Barry formulate a set of bylaws. Slips of paper were passed on which any person present might write suggestions benefiting Jewett City. After the business was concluded there was a musical programme. William Driscoll gave violin selections, James Olson played piano numbers and William Dearthy sang. A Rotary Club quartette sang in perfect harmony as it were. Over one hundred names have been secured as members.

B. C. Bliss enjoyed a part of his vacation in New Bedford, the guest of his son, Donald C. Bliss. While there he visited the old whaling docks, once so busy, and made the acquaintance of an old time whaling captain or two. Among other things of more than ordinary interest to him, Mr. Bliss tells of going aboard the Canton of New Bedford, a whaler of years ago. The vessel was the scene of all the seafaring views in the famous screen picture, Down to the Sea in Ships. He enjoyed the explaining of the mechanical devices, and heard first-hand stories of how the picture was made. A whaler, one of the few remaining of the present day, came in not long ago, with a fare of sperm oil. Mr. Bliss was shown the harpoon they brought; it was taken only a month or so ago, from the carcass of a whale captured in the South Pacific. The ancient iron bore the astonishing stamp in the handle, "New Bedford, Mass., 1820."

Dorcas Circle of The King's Daughters is planning a Bee Hive sale and entertainment. Everything on sale will commence with the letter B, and everybody will be as busy as bees in preparation.

Arthur Maynard is in St. Joseph's hospital, Providence, where an operation has been performed on his throat.

Mrs. Irving Dawley, who has been suffering from a severe grip cold, is able to be up.

Clarence Windsor and a college friend, Arthur Storm, are taking a short trip into New Jersey and plan to be away for a few days.

Rev. David Combs preached his farewell sermon at St. Paul's Episcopal church Sunday morning to a large congregation and at the afternoon service at 3 o'clock Bishop E. C. Acheson of Middletown conducted the service. Mr. and Mrs. Combs and family left Tuesday for their new home in Louisiana, Mo., where a larger and very promising field of work awaits them. They leave many friends regretting their going away and lay down the work here with the best relationships and in a most excellent condition for the new rector. Mr. Combs and his family will always be remembered most kindly in Plainfield where a host of friends will wish them the best of success in their new home.

There are cheaper shoes than McElwain Shoes

—But none that are less expensive

The very high priced shoe and the very low priced shoe are both expensive shoes. The real test is this: How much style and attractiveness, how many months of wear does each shoe dollar buy? And by this test there are no less expensive shoes than those McElwain makes. Twenty-five thousand leading shoe merchants know this and are proud to sell you.

McELWAIN SHOES

In every single manufacturing operation McElwain makes a saving of pennies; and the pennies amount to dollars by the time the shoe reaches you.

Millions of men discovered McElwain worth before they knew the McElwain name. Today the discovery is easy, for the name — "McElwain" — is plainly stamped on the sole. Let us show you a pair of McElwain Shoes today.

Many suffering from mental irritability, acid-dyspepsia, insomnia and nervousness secure complete relief after giving up tea and coffee.

The fact that coffee, in doses sufficient to produce any stimulating effect, raises blood pressure and stimulates the action of the kidneys is also good reason for using it with caution in these days of arterial strain and tendency to kidney affection. In these days drugs that act on the kidneys are used by physicians with great caution. Instead of spurring the kidney with drugs its work is regulated by proper diet, water intake, etc.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Explanatory of the fact that the bond of the tax collector of the town of Killingly has been increased from $15,000 to $20,000, it was stated at the office of selectmen Tuesday that the increase merely restores the amount of the bond to a figure at which it formerly stood for years, and that it was deemed advisable to do this on account of the fact that the tax collector at times handles sums at one time as large as the amount the bond has been raised to, and there have been instances where the taxes in the collector's hands at one time have been even higher than $20,000 and have reached a maximum of $30,000. It was further stated that citizens had called attention to this situation and suggested that it be remedied. There is nothing personal or political in the increasing of the bond, it was said, and the increase in any event rests no hardship on the tax collector as his bond is paid for by the town out of funds set aside for that purpose. The restoration of the bond to its old figure is merely in the line of common business prudence, such as officials of towns are expected to exercise and the selectmen are concerned that no misapprehension as to their motives shall gain ground. Regardless of the outcome of the recent contest for the tax collectorship, the bond would have been raised, it is understood.

Again the public hereabouts is voicing its opinion that warning signs should be erected at Dark Lantern hill as a protection for motorists unfamiliar with the steep and long grade where so many accidents are occurring. There is nothing really dangerous about the hill for a motorist driving carefully, but there is a grave menace there for those who are unacquainted with the locality, as has been shown by the long series of accidents in which cars from other states have figured. Conspicuous signs warning of the danger would give some protection to strange drivers and red reflectors such as to be found at many points on state highways in Connecticut would give protection at night. As between the cost of such signs and signals and the value of human life there can be no comparison. Such accidents as that of Monday shock a community. A warning sign might have prevented it, and in any event would have left the entire responsibility on the driver, had he elected to disregard a boldly printed notice that there was danger ahead for anyone not proceeding with every care.

As accident after accident has occurred on the new road during the past year, there has been a public demand for suitable warning signals, for day and night. The matter seems to be up to the state highway department, and not to the officials of the town of Killingly. One sign has been placed on the road, but this warns of the hill descending westward from South Killingly, where a fatal accident occurred on the Fourth, when a Rhode Island car plunged off the highway and through a fence.

Mrs Susie G. Williams, secretary of Quinebaug Pomona grange, No. 2, has prepared announcements relative to the second special meeting of the year to be held by the organization, with Brooklyn grang, No. 42, at Unitarian hall, Saturday of next week, the 27th.

The morning session is to open at 10.30 o'clock in the fifth degree and at this time the Pomona degree will be conferred in full form. Members of Brooklyn grange will serve dinner in Grange hall at noon.

The afternoon session, opening at 1.30, will include an illustrated lecture by W. D. Filley of the state forestry department, an address by Paul Mehl of the United State extension service, on Marketing Farm Produce, and entertainment features by members of Canterbury grange. Mrs. Williams expressed her hope that a large class will appear for the degree work.

Extensive remodeling, now under way, of the building purchased with the one he is occupying for his business, will give Harry Evergates a splendid store in the heart of the business section. The building now in course of construction formerly was one of the Johnson blocks and was occupied by Wilfred Fuize and A. N. Smith for their business enterprises. It is understood that when the remodeling is completed the store will be taken by a chain system dealing in groceries and provisions.

In the superior court at Putnam, Tuesday morning, Attorney E. L. Darbie, as town counsel appeared in the matter of the town of Killingly vs Hattie E. Anderson, et als, for the consideration of a motion suggesting the death of Ellen S. Anderson, that the latter's name might be erased from the list of defendants in the action.

Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S., will conduct the mission for the English-speaking pepole of St. James' parish, this mission opening next Sunday evening, following the present mission period, and extending throughout the coming week. Rev. Father Kirby is a distinguished member of the Missionary Order of LaSalette and recently has been the superior of LaSalette college at Hartford. He is an eloquent and forceful preacher and the assurance is that the mission he is to give here will be of surpassing spiritual benefit and exceptional interest.

Observers of the motor truck traffic now passing through Danielson every week day have been very much impressed by the tremendous amount of tonnage these ponderous vehicles have taken from the railroads and other old established systems for the handling of freight. Wholesale meat houses, grocery houses and dealers in many kinds of products are using the trunk lines through Danielson in amazingly large operations, and there are days when many carloads of freight go through here by motor trucks, some making hauls from points as distant as New York and Philadelphia as well as from Boston, Providence, Worcester, Norwich and other nearby cities.

Suggestions that Hallowe'en is near at hand are to be found in store displays of black cats, souvenir cards and scores of other things that lend themselves to a more interesting observance of a fall event that has been attracting widespread notice during the past few years. This year in Danielson there is the promise that Hallowe'en will be made much of, and one may expect a duplication and even an enlargement of the parade of masked and shrouded figures that made the evening so interesting last autumn.

Advanced pupils of Miss May Rose of Putnam gave a benefit concert in the interest of the Nurses' Home fund of the Day Kimball hospital, at the Majestic theatre here, Tuesday evening, under the auspices of Dorcas Rebekah lodge of Danielson. The pupils were assisted by Mrs. Mary Leach, 'cellist, and Mrs. Maud Potvin, reader. Violin and piano numbers and readings featured the program and in connection with the entertainment, which was very successful, home-made candy was for sale.

One sees only the glamor of the stage and imagines that stage people are always carefree as they seem when working, would do well to consider the case of Wilfred Morin, who has been obliged to go on with his engagement at a Providence theatre this week after the terrible experience of going through an automobile accident in which his wife lost her life on Dark Lantern hill Monday. Heartbroken and nearly prostrated by the terrible experience, but bravely battling against emotions and the sorrow so suddenly thrust upon him, he entertained his audiences at Providence Tuesday with the thought ever in his mind of his dead wife here in Danielson, awaiting burial today, and no hint of his suffering to the hundreds who applauded his act In such instances the public comes to see another than the glittering side of stage life and to learn that the profession imposes some hard obligations seldom encountered in other walks of life.

PUTNAM

Once upon a time some wiseacre observed that it is wise to run away and plan to make adjustments some other day, or something to that general effect, but it is doubtful that one could convince George Bricault of this city that there is even a grain of philosophy in such procedure, since he ran away during September and came into the superior court here to pay the penalty, Tuesday morning.

Bricault was one of the group of Putnam brought into the superior court in Willimantic, on beach warrants, last month to answer to violations of the liquor law. After their presentation they were given opportunity to arrange for counsel and to get bail for their appearance in court later. That they might get bail they were allowed to return here in charge of Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer of Killingly and, trusting them as men who could be depended upon to respect an agreement, the sheriff allowed all of them to go, out of custody for the time being to arrange for bonds. Every man of them returned excepting Bricault, he improving the opportunity to run away and absent himself from the state.

He paid for the stunt Tuesday morning, getting a six months' sentence in jail on one count and two months on another count, whereas those with whom he first appeared in the superior court at Willimantic have paid the fines of $200 each imposed upon them and served minimum sentences of 15 days in jail that each was given, and having served, were, in some instances, on hand Tuesday morning, to hear the court send Bricault away for a period of eight months.

Possibly Bricault might have been more severely dealt with in any event than were the other Putnam men with whom he was presented in court last month, because he previously has been convicted here of a violation of the liquor law and at the time of his arrest was out on bail from the Putnam city court, where he was charged with keeping a gaming house.

In court here Tuesday he pleaded guilty to a second offense in violating the liquor law and was sentenced to 6 months in jail on this count and then given an additional two months in jail for violating of the laws against gaming, the same sentence imposed upon him for that charge when he appeared in the city court and from which he appealed and was placed under bonds.

Bricault has been a consistent offender against the liquor and gaming laws and has been under the observation of the police for more than a year. In presenting his case to the court Tuesday morning State Attorney Charles E. Searls said that he did not think Bricault was entitled to any consideration in view of the fact that he was a persistent violator of the law and that he had run away when he found himself about to confront the court that would seek an accounting from him. Mr. Searls said he wanted to be merciful with Bricault, nevertheless, so would not recommend a fine in addition to the jail sentence. Judge Marvin, presiding, followed the suggestion of the state attorney in imposing sentence.

Another case disposed of at Tuesday morning's session of the superior court, criminal side, was that of Armand Lavallee of the town of Thompson. He pleaded guilty to a charge of recklessly operating a motor vehicle and was fined $50 and costs.

Establishing to the satisfaction of the court, civil side, that he had been treated with intolerable cruelty by his wife, Dorilda Thibault, a divorce was granted to Joseph Thibault in the superior court here Tuesday morning by Judge Marvin.

Thibault, it appeared from the evidence, was subjected at periodic intervals with bombardments of frying pans, pork chops, dishes, plates, sticks of wood or such other available ammunition as an ordinary household equipment provides. As his wife was something of a sharpshooter with any weapon she elected to use, his home life was not entirely placid and there were times when some of her long range shots at him registered with telling effect.

But to make sure that he would eventually quit and sing his swan song she threatened to poison him and also to shoot him. Under such barrages of missles as she hurled at him with such experiences as she put him through he did eventually leave about six years ago, having enough of a bad bargain.

He had become somewhat accustomed to having a skillet filled with fried eggs hurled at him and was more or less complacent while merely dodging billets of wood, but when he awakened at about 2 a. m. once and found his wife standing over him with a butcher knife in one of her hands and a stick of wood in the other the campaign began to take on real serious aspects for him. Then again there was a day when he looked askance at a bowl of soup his wife set down before him at meal time, as bubbles were rolling out of the soup in a rather unusual way and, remembering the poison threats, he hesitated about eating it. When he pushed the bowl of soup towards his daughter's place at the table, just to be rid of it, the wife seized and spilled it hurriedly into the sink.

Much of the testimony Mr. Thibault gave was corroborated by his two sons, who appeared as witnesses for him. Mr. Thibault, formerly a resident of Danielson and Goodyear, is now employed at Hartford. He married Mrs. Thibault in Greeneville, N. H., 27 years ago, and the family lived in a number of mill towns before coming into this territory.

Another divorce granted at Tuesday's session of the superior court here was to Mrs. Mary Helene Bernier of this city from Frank Bernier, now of parts unknown. The couple married February 8, 1915, when Mrs. Bernier was in her 16th year, and her husband deserted her the following year. She came from work on May 15, 1916, she said, and found a note from her husband telling her he had gone away. They have not since lived together. In the meantime she has worked and supported herself and even refused to take a wife's war-time allowance from the government while her husband was overseas with the United States forces. She has talked with her husband but twice since he went away, she said. The first time, a few months after he left her she met him on the street and he said, "Hello." The next time, some months thereafter he again talked with her. She agreed to go back with him if he would support her, but after asking her to give him money and being denied, he said he could not take her back as he could not support her. Bernier was jealous and drank and gambled, his wife said in enumerating faults in his character and his treatment of her.

Witnesses for Mrs. Bernier were her father, Peter St. Onge, of this city, Mrs. Virginia Kent and Mrs. Howard James, with whom Mrs. Bernier made her home for several years. The plaintiff with her decree of divorce was granted a change of name to Helen St. Onge.

When the case of Mrs. Laura B. Corcoran of this city vs. Thomas J. Corcoran, Jr., formerly a resident here and a well known woolen manufacturer, was called in the superior court Tuesday morning for a hearing on the matter of attorney's allowance and alimony pendente lite for Mrs. Corcoran, it was stated by counsel for Mr. Corcoran that he is a patient with a broken ankle in the Roosevelt hospital, New York, and that owing to his injury his attorneys had not been able to be in touch with him as closely as they would like and asked for a stay in the proceedings until Friday of next week when there will be another short calendar session. Attorney William A. King of Willimantic, who is associated with Torrey and Geissler of this city as counsel for Mrs. Corcoran pressed to know if the matter really would be taken up as suggested in court and urged that there be no further delays. Assurance was given that every possible effort would be made for consideration of the matter as suggested.

It is understood that Mr. Corcoran sustained the injury to his ankle while he was getting off a trolley car, a few days ago.

It was stated to Judge Marvin in the superior court here Tuesday morning that counsel in the contested divorce case of Alice C. Davis vs. Frank A. Davis, Danielson parties, had agreed to offer a motion that the case be referred for trial to Hon. M. A. Shumway of Danielson, former justice of the supreme court of the state, as state referee. Judge Marvin approved and issued the necessary order.

In the case of Antonio Mazzellafuliberato vs. Antonio Mazzellafulginazio, a foreclosure action having to do with property on what is known as the Windham road in the town of Brooklyn, the court directed that judgment be allowed for $201.40, and the second Monday in November fixed as the date for redemption.

Assignments of cases Tuesday were as follows:

To court—At Willimantic, Bessie L. Dow vs. Burt K. Dow, first case Tuesday, October 23; Joseph A. Baillargeon vs. Eleanor Marotte, second case for Tuesday, October 23; Bertha Erbacker vs. Albert Rondeau, third case for Tuesday, October 23; Marion Gandreau vs. Ovil Lantagne, first case for Wednesday, October 24.

To jury, at Willimantic—Vigia J. Kerouack vs. William Gaffney, first case for October 30; Cornelius D. Shea vs. Nellie Shea, executrix, second case for Tuesday, October 30; Louise Van Durr vs. Christian Sorensen, D. A., third case for Tuesday, October 30; Victor Budsinsky vs. The Jones Auto Co., first case for Wednesday, October 31.

Joseph Welch, a public service car operator of this city, was injured, possibly internally, and is now a patient at the Day Kimball hospital, when the car he was driving skidded on the wet surface of the state highway, on a curve near the county home for children, about 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, shot off the road and overturned at the Kennedy place, pinning Mr. Welch beneath the machine. In overturning the wiring to the horn on the car was so short circuited as to cause the horn to blow steadily, attracting attention of residents of the neighborhood and they extricated Mr. Welch from beneath the overturned machine. He was hurried to the hospital. It was found that he had a cut on the leg and appeared to be internally injured. Mr. Welch was riding alone at the time the accident occurred.

S. Diamond of this city has workmen engaged in remodeling a building he purchased some time since in the business center of Danielson.

Remarkably fine weather is aiding in the rapid advance of the work of building the new cement roadway through Killingly avenue. Concrete laying will continue until November 15, when it must cease under the regulations of the state highway department until after the cold weather season.

Among the things that happened here Tuesday was the paying off of bets made on the outcome of the world's series games in New York.

An unusually large number of spectators gathered in the superior court Tuesday morning that they might hear the case against Bricault disposed of.

Monday's rain was instrumental in bringing down large quantities of leaves and lawns about the city were covered with them Tuesday, giving the man with a rake a chance to exercise.

PINCHOT IN A GLASS HOUSE.

When Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania declared that the duty of enforcing the dry law rests on the president, he laid himself open to the reply that was made to him, in the same citizens' conference, by Ex-Governor Allen of Kansas.

Governor Pinchot in his flourish did much the same thing that he did in connection with the coal strike settlement. He endorsed higher prices for coal in the agreement which he sanctioned and then he called upon other agencies to see that the coal price was not increased but did nothing whatever to bring about the removal of the coal tax which is imposed in the state of Pennsylvania on anthracite and which serves to make the price of coal that much higher.

In connection with prohibition the situation on in Pennsylvania is not such that the governor of that state can put his thumbs in his armholes and boast of the aridity of that commonwealth and tell others what they ought to do.

Governor Pinchot is a champion of the prohibition cause and an advocate of law enforcement. When it comes to respect for law, however, he makes no headway in trying to infer that the president is responsible for the wet conditions that are to be found here, there and elsewhere, and he doesn't make any headway when he undertakes to shift the responsibility in connection with enforcement. The president takes his hat off to no one when it comes to respecting law.

With wide open saloons and a defiance of the orders to close them displayed by the saloon keepers of Philadelphia the governor of that state cannot make very much of an impression when he talks to someone else about law enforcement. He in fact invited that retort of the former governor of Kansas when the latter said "If I were governor of Pennsylvania and 1300 bootleggers of Philadelphia had sent me word that they did not intend to obey the law of Pennsylvania the next morning Philadelphia would be awakened by the reveille of a soldier's bugle and every saloon would wear a padlock."

With the matter of liquor law enforcement under discussion the governor of Pennsylvania seems to have stood in a glass house when he made his criticisms.

FRIGHTFUL TOLLS.

"Six Killed as Fire Guts Frame House," "Brush Fire Wipes Out Homes With Loss of $2,000,000," "Five Burned to Death in Michigan" are some of the headlines that have appeared in the past two days just as Fire Prevention week ended.

In one instance defective wiring is thought to have been the cause, but in the others the cause is not indicated. Considering the great number of preventable fires and the frightful toll that is exacted because of heedlessness and criminal careless it is well that such matters should get consideration even though Fire Prevention Week is over. The kind of fire prevention that lasts only while it is being talked about amounts to little. What is needed is respect for the danger that will cause people to think of fire hazards, to insist upon eliminating them, to prompt them to refrain from participating in acts that will aid in the kindling and to become so impressed with the slight efforts necessary to avoid fires.

Defective wiring reflects more than carelessness. It indicates that those responsible for it were bent upon beating the law, the contract and safety. Without a doubt the fire could have been prevented if there had been honest workmanship. Short cuts for the dollar lead to frightful tragedies.

Forest fires are due to various causes, and about half of them are due to carelessness. Deliberately throwing away matches, tossing a cigarette or cigar stub into leaves or underbrush, leaving fires, or starting fires that get beyond control are well known causes, anyone of which would require but little resistance at the start to prevent. Such a thought after the woodlands have been burned over and human life taken counts for little. The all important requirement is to think before the firebrand is thrown of what danger is involved in that contemplated act and do the obvious thing that is necessary to prevent it.

What is necessary is far more people to give thought to the careless things that they do every day and see that they replace them by acts in behalf of safety.

WORKING FOR THE DISABLED.

Interest in or efforts in behalf of the disabled soldiers do not slacken. They have have always been regarded as entitled to every attention that their condition requires. The task of handling so many was no slight one. It came quickly and it was necessary to hasten the work of establishing the various branches so much so that conditions were not always what they should have been or what were desired by those in charge.

That there has been a marked improvement is shown by the fact that the veterans bureau as at present constituted is operating nine colleges where over 72,000 men are receiving training and where nearly 47,000 have been rehabilitated and completed their courses.

These rehabilitated veterans haven't been cast loose but in 33,000 cases employment has been found for them by the bureau and two-thirds of that number are getting wages in excess of what they received before the war.

This tremendous task of dealing with so many different cases, establishing the schools and hospitals, obtaining the equipment and selecting the staffs has involved a great effort and large expense. It is in marked contrast to what other countries have done for their disabled, but it makes it evident that the national interest in these men was not restricted to their stay on the battlefields.

And the work is by no means completed. There are those for whom it will be necessary for Uncle Sam to do for a long time to come. Others will be rehabilitated and put into employment where they can prove themselves more valuable workmen than when they entered the army or navy. Even those who are permanently disabled are being taught occupations that will prevent them from being objects of charity.

The veterans' bureau has had some trying experiences but excellent results have been obtained following a hard, uphill task.

MORE AND CHEAPER POWER.

At the gathering of the chairmen of the public service commissions of eleven states, called for the purpose of considering a superpower system for the Atlantic seaboard above the Mason-Dixon line, it was brought out that through such a system it would be possible to distribute power through those states and make use of the surpluses that exist in some of them to meet the demands for cheaper power in others.

It is not a plan that is going to be put into operation without a considerable outlay, and it is not going to be possible without legislative cooperation on the part of the several states. Rights to engage in such power distribution over such a large territory must be obtained and that may not prove such an easy task, when it is realized what a strong opposition has been displayed in the state of Maine to the utilization elsewhere of the power generated in that state.

But there are the benefits to be derived from such a system which cannot fail to be taken into consideration. While it would cost a billion and a quarter to establish such a system for using steam and water power plants for the generation of electricity it is late to be realized that hydro-electric plants are capable of overcoming a waste of half a billion in electric power and such utilization would mean the saving of 50,000,000 tons of coal yearly.

The fuel situation and the demands for more and cheaper power all enter into the proposition. It is a big job but conditions which are constantly arising call for great undertakings. The gathering of the utility commissioners is only one of the preliminary steps to determine what can be done.

CHANCE FOR RUSSIA.

Resumption of trade between France and Russia will be watched with much interest by other nations. It will be begun on a small scale. Whether it increases steadily will depend upon the results obtained. It is a test that France is making. If all goes well it will increase. If it doesn't it will end.

It was some time ago that Great Britain entered into trade relations with soviet Russia. Conditions in the latter country were even less favorable than they are at present. Russia has since made some admissions and changes which indicated its recognition of errors. The British experiment didn't work out as it had been anticipated it might. It was quickly followed by the assertion of British officials that goods ought not to be sent into Russia unless those sending them were prepared to give them away. This government as the result of its investigations asserted that soviet Russia was an economic bubble.

In view of the changes that have taken place in that country, France apparently believes that a try at the establishment of trade is justified. It is an opportunity that should appeal to Russia. Having been very anxious to get recognition by other governments and to increase its trade it is now given a chance to show to the world what can be expected from it, how much trust can be placed in it, how much respect it has for the rights of others and whether it is ready to assume that relationship with others that will inspire confidence.

France is proceeding cautiously but it is giving Russia a chance to make good on trade resumption if it so desires.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A month since the strawhat was discarded and October has been trying to beckon it back.

Some people seem to be striving for that day when everyone will be on a pension list and no one will be obliged to work.

Don't get nervous or elated over the report that the price of coal is to be cut $5 per cent. It concerns the situation in Germany.

The man on the corner says: It isn't recalled that any of the prognosticators told us anything about this delightful weather for a vacation.

Inasmuch as there are a quarter million square miles of unexplored territory in the far north there's a magnet for those who like to search in cold regions.

When the president stands for the enforcement of the dry law, quite the same as any law, it is just what was to be expected. He hasn't lined up with the lawless yet.

The railroads are asked to do more work, provide extra equipment, add to their service and accept less pay for it all. It is not in keeping with the tendency in other directions.

Take time to understand the needs of a community hospital and it will be easily seen that the Backus hospital is entitled to all that is being sought for it. A better hospital means better community protection.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

Yesterday morning Marianna Oliver and I went downtown to look for cool dresses to wear to the Wayfarers' club dance in the evening, for it happened that we each felt the need of something new and fresh and we thought we might find some late season bargains. There proved to be nothing attractive in the marked-down frocks, and we decided to buy material and make ourselves just what we wanted.

"It's no trouble at all to run up these simple long straight gowns," said Marianna. "I can make mine in an afternoon easily."

"So can I," was my enthusiastic rejoinder. I knew that Marianna would be sure to have on her new printed georgette at the dance, and everybody would be saying how clever she was to make it in one afternoon. I thought that for once I would win a share of the admiration that her work so often excites.

"But, Lucile," objected Cousin Fannie when I asked her to cut out my dress and help me with it, "I've promised Mrs. Hughson to stay with little Joan while she goes to her sketching class this afternoon."

"Mercy, Cousin Fannie, how you do let people impose on you!"

"Her mother is away, Lucile, and I offered to stay with the baby. Joan is a fascinating youngster. I enjoy her immensely."

"Yes, I know she is a darling child. I tell you what, Cousin Fannie, I'll go over there and take care of Joan, and you can work on my frock. That will be better for you than going out in the sun this hot afternoon, dear."

"I don't mind the sun, Lucile," said Cousin Fannie rather decidedly, "and I think I should be the one to go, as I am the one expected."

"Nonsense," I said. "Mrs. Hughson won't care which one of us goes, as long as the baby isn't left alone," and then I explained how absolutely necessary it was for me to have something to wear to the Wayfarers' in the evening. "Surely, you wouldn't wish me to appear in any of my shabby old duds, and all my best things are at the cleaner's."

I must say she gave her consent to my taking her place rather reluctantly. I sometimes feel that Cousin Fannie is growing rather difficile.

"Mrs. Hughson did seem surprised to see me, but when I told her that it was impossible for Cousin Fannie to leave some important work she was doing, and how pleased I was to take her place as companion to her lovely little Joan, she thanked me and went gayly off to sketch. I cut some paper dolls for Joan, and then I took the book I had brought with me, and lay down for a little rest.

"Good gracious, what is the matter?" I asked a moment later when I heard her cry lustily.

"I'se tut," she held up a tiny bleeding finger. "I tut nuzzer dollbaby."

"Oh, dearie, you shouldn't have touched the scissors," I said, examining the cut, which to my relief was slight.

I put the shears on the mantel where she could not again reach them, then I found some iodine and poured a drop or two on the little wound before bandaging it. I was glad I knew so much about first aid to the injured. Then I resumed my book, but it was not more than ten minutes before I heard her crying again.

"Now what have you done, dearie?" I asked when I saw her little dress stained a dark brown all down the front.

"I dot more I'dine. I weached it off the was'stand. I don't wike it."

Really, I don't understand how mothers have patience to bring up children, but they appear to have an inexhaustible supply. When Mrs. Hughson son came home and saw the stained dress and petticoat, instead of being annoyed at the mischievous child, she hugged her and said, "My poor baby! My precious lamb," and she looked at me reproachfully as she gathered up the lace and embroidery guests towels that had also caught some of the iodine. She did not even thank me for giving up my afternoon to her enfant terrible. She merely asked if I had found my book interesting.

Cousin Fannie made a great success of my frock. It was much more chic than Marianna's. I fear hers has been "run up" a trifle too quickly.

"I didn't know you were such an accomplished modiste," she said, when we met at the dance. I merely smiled. —Chicago News.

Stories That Recall Others

An Eye to Business.

The manager of a well known hall in relating some of his experiences regarding those leasing the hall for a dance said that he went down stairs during the early evening some time before the opening hour to find one of the committee busy with a wrench about the faucet at the sink.

"What are you doing at the faucet with that wrench?" he inquired, pointing out that the removal of the faucet would drench the place in no time with the strong water pressure.

"Well," said the committeeman," you see it's this way. I want to shut the city water off so that those at the dance will buy soda and ice cream."

Can't Change Nature.

For the purpose of determining the mental efficiency of children various questions to test their alertness were being asked of the boys and girls. Some of them were rather peculiar.

John who was about seven walked into the room slowly when his name was called.

"John," the teacher said, "there was a slight accident down the street a while ago. Only 65 people were killed."

John looked her straight in the eye for a moment and then:

"Say, you needn't think you're gonna kid me," and with that walked out of the room.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Right Hon. William Ferguson Massey, who is a prominent participant in the Imperial Conference now in session in London, is the Prime Minister of New Zealand and one of the ablest statesmen of that dominion. What the people of New Zealand think on the important political, economic, commercial and other problems that are on the agenda of the conference, Mr. Massey has had the opportunity of gauging during his service of more than ten years at the head of the government, during which time he has performed the duties of Minister of Lands and Labor, as well as of Prime Minister. He was always interested in farming questions, and his experience will be available in the expected increase in land settlement, not only in New Zealand, but in other dominions and in the home country. Mr. Massey's public career dates back to 1894, when he first entered the New Zealand parliament.

STOKES A WITNESS IN HIS SUIT FOR DIVORCE

New York, Oct. 16—W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy hotel proprietor of this city, today was called as a witness in the trial of his suit for divorce from his wife, Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes.

He was called upon by Samuel Untermyer, chief defense counsel to submit all of the statements or affidavits made by his witnesses. He contradicted testimony of Miss Anna McIntosh, negress substitute maid in the apartment of Edgar T. Wallace, chief correspondent, in which she repudiated a statement she was alleged to have made under oath and to have submitted to his attorneys. Mr. Stokes said Miss McIntosh had made the statement she disclaimed and declared that to the best of his knowledge it was the only one she had made.

AUTOMOBILE KNOCKS BRICKS FROM KUEBLER BUILDING

Rather than hit an elderly man who was on the cross walk, Henry F. Gee ran his automobile into the corner of the Kuebler Monumental Works on Franklin street, just before 4 o'clock Tuesday evening, tearing away a section to the corner of the brick building. Mr. Gee was about to turn into the driveway at the Kuebler building and blew his horn for the man was on the crosswalk. The man did not get out of the path of the machine in time and Mr. Gee swerved the machine into the building.

A number of bricks were knocked from the corner of the building and some damage was done to the machine. Mr. Gee reported the accident at police headquarters.

SALEM MAN HAS RIGHT LEG AMPUTATED

New London, Oct. 16.—Benjamin Jenkins, of Salem is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, New London having submitted to an operation Tuesday whereby his right leg was amputated at a point about half way between the knee and hip. The leg had displayed symptoms of gangrene and in order to save the man's life the removal of the major portion of the limb was necessary. At the hospital this afternoon it was stated that Mr. Jenkins' condition was favorable.

Jewelers say that a new idea has been recently worked out in the shape of a thirty-inch necklace, the beads of which are of transparent galalith. Heretofore the galalith beads have been apoque, but by means of a new process they are made crystal clear.

FINDS DEFENDANTS HAVE RIGHT OF WAY OVER PLAINTIFF'S LAND

In a decision handed down Tuesday by Judge C. B. Waller of the court of common pleas a temporary injunction is dissolved and judgment is entered for the defendants in the case of Henry L. Drabik of East Lyme against Walter Gadbois and others of East Lyme. The case is an action over a right of way. Drabik secured a temporary injunction restraining the defendants crossing his land in East Lyme. The defendants claimed that they had a right of way over the land and made a motion to dissolve the injunction. The motion made by the defendants was heard in the court of Common pleas by Judge Waller in New London several weeks ago.

Judge Waller says in his memorandum of decision: "I am satisfied that the defendants and their predecessors in title had used this way across the plaintiff's land to the "cold spring lot," openly continuously, under a claim of right and with the knowledge and acquiescence of the plaintiff's predecessors in title for more than 15 years prior to 1914. After Reed acquired title to the property in 1914 he obstructed the right of way by building a fence across it.

While this obstruction resulted in an interruption in the use of the way for two or three years, there is not sufficient evidence to satisfy me that there was an abandonment of this easement by the defendants. On the other hand, the defendants, before the expiration of three years, removed the fences and continued to use the way until the temporary injunction was issued in this action.

I find, therefore, that the defendants have a right of way over the plaintiff's land leading to the defendant's lot, known as the cold spring lot and that said right of way was acquired by adverse use and enjoyment thereof for a period of more than 15 years prior to the time the property was conveyed to Reed and that the entries complained of in the complaint were lawful acts of the defendants in the use of such ways and the removal of obstructions therefrom.

LOCAL PEOPLE STUCK ON SILVERWARE "BARGAIN"

Between 300 and 500 housewives from Norwich to Mystic, including the villages of Montville, Groton, Noank and Poquonnoc, are in on a "bargain."

They pay 50 cents a week to a Springfield house until the total of $24.50 is paid. Then they go to Springfield to get their premium. They have the choice of electric lamps, crockery or silverware, etc.

They get their "prize." The silverware for which they pay $34.50 is worth less than $10, according to the judgment of local jewelers, says the New London Day, and when the buyers protest to the Massachusetts business house they are told the purchase is "within the law."

The weekly payment plan was inaugurated during the early part of the summer. An agent invaded this section, got into home circles and told of a wonderful bargain in silverware. From Norwich to Mystic he showed housewives a beautiful mahogany case in which were the finest grade of Rogers Bros. silverware, 26 handsome pieces.

All this can be bought for $34.50 by payment of 50 cents per week which would be collected by the agent, he told them, and their premium, an excellent value, would be awaiting them when they fulfilled the terms of the agreement and had paid in the total sum.

To the housewife it looked like a good bargain. The chest of silver he was displaying could be subject to no criticism and the payment of a half dollar a week was not burdensome. So all there was to do was to sign up and the agent would give the prospect a card, each week as the collections were made he would punch the card.

Last week Wednesday, four women from Groton, who got in on the "bargain" before the others had their cards riddled with holes and took it as their receipt to Springfield to collect their "prize."

Not mahogany chests but pastboard boxes with the 26 pieces of silver were handed the four. And when the boxes were opened not that beautiful collection of silver pieces, but what looked like the worst set Rogers could ever put out was discovered, so they assert. The four woman made strong protests. Plainly the ware was almost worthless and "wasn't it" they asked the distributor. Sarcastically the man answered, "Well, it is within the law."

So the party came back to Groton, stuck. They took the silver to the best authorities on silverware they knew, two of them. One of them said the stuff couldn't possibly be worth more than $10. The other declared its value was below $7.

But that isn't the worst. Four have paid dear and 50 times as many are still paying. If they keep on paying they get stuck. If they quit they get nothing.

FIVE CASES ARGUED BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Five cases were argued Tuesday at a session of the supreme court held in this city. Chief Justice George W. Wheeler and the associate justices were present. The court was opened by Sheriff Brown and prayer was offered by Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown of this city. The first case on the list, that of Mildred Avery Arnold vs Leslie P. Arnold was withdrawn.

As they were not printed and bound the following cases could not be heard at this term: Moses Klingon vs Colchester Farm Produce Co., et al; Charles R. Butts, shareholders' agent, et al., vs John T. King and others; U. S. Trust Co., of NewYork, et al., executors, vs The Shore Line Electric Railway Co., and Old Colony Trust Co. vs Shore Line Electric Railway Co., et al.

The following cases were argued: Hawthorne Sash and Door Co. vs Thomas C. West Co., scire facias against the City of New London, garnishee; Martin Rozycki vs Yantic Grain and Produce Co.; Arthur W. Bates vs George W. Carroll; Ralph C. Wheeler vs Frederick A. Barnes; Austin Nichols Co., Inc., vs Nathan Gilman.

NORWICH MAN IMPROVES AT HARTFORD HOSPITAL

The condition of Byron H. Evans who underwent a serious surgical operation at Hartford hospital, Aug. 28, with a second operation a week later, is reported as most encouraging and he is rapidly gaining strength, following three weeks' recuperation at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Major and Mrs. Lafayette E. Evans, of Bridgeport. Mr. Evans and his wife, who remained with him during his illness of seven weeks, returned to their home in Norwich Sunday. Mr. Evans has so far recovered that he was able to go down town Tuesday afternoon and to pay a visit at the office of the Henry Allen & Son Co., the firm with which he is associated.

PRESTON PARENT-TEACHERS HEAR DR. IRELAND

The Preston Parent-Teachers' association held its regular monthly meeting at the Poquetanuck schoolhouse last week.

After the routine business had been transacted, those present were privileged in hearing Dr. Ireland, of Hartford, director of physical education of Connecticut.

Dr. Ireland spoke of the necessity of parents realizing what good health meant to the child in its development and progress and how much a school nurse could help them in this matter.

After the address, refreshments were served with Mrs. Samuel Fish and Mrs. Albert Rodgers in charge.

NEW PRESIDENT FOR BARD UNION COMPANY

At a meeting of the directors of the Bard Union Company, Inc., held Monday, Calvin H. Frisbie was elected president to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Arthur H. Brewer. Charles Tyler Bard was elected treasurer and secretary.

GREAT HARTFORD AUDIENCE ACCLAIMS LORETTA HIGGINS

An audience of 1,600, the greatest that Foot Guard hall at Hartford has seen since Paderewski appeared in the hall two years ago, gave enthusiastic approval to the song recital there Tuesday night by Loretta Higgins, soprano of the Opera Comique, Paris, her second concert in America since her return from abroad to her home in this city.

Miss Higgins gave much the same programme as in her concert here a week ago and was called back time after time to bow to the insistent applause, giving four encores, the last coming when the audience still remained in its seats to applaud after the final number of the programme. After her brilliant rendering of the Aria from "Manon" her Hartford friends sent up a wealth of roses and chrysanthemums that completely covered the top of the piano.

A group of three numbers for piano by her accompanist, Theron Wolcott Hart, was a delightful addition to the evening of music and the warm recognition of his talented playing brought Mr. Hart back to respond to an encore.

A surprise of the evening for Miss Higgins and her father and mother, who attended the concert, was the arrival of her brother, Lieut. Ray Raymond T. J. Higgins, from San Antonio, Tex., who reached Hartford just an hour before the concert and was in attendance although unknown to the singer or his parents until after the programme was over. Lieutenant Higgins is spending some time at his home here and is to sail early in December from San Francisco for a post in the Philippines to which he has been transferred.

Editorially Tuesday the Hartford Times said of Miss Higgins under the title, "A New England Girl:"

Older residents of Hartford will remember that on an evening back in the 90's they stood on their feet in Foot Guard hall and cheered to the echo Mary Howe, a New Englana soprano, who, after study abroad, returned to create like enthusiasm in Springfield, Worcester and other cities. Nearly a generation before that Clara Louise Kellogg, also a New England girl, had achieved a similar success which developed into a country-wide admiration for her and resulted in long tours, establishing for her a national reputation. Tonight another New England girl, Loretta Higgins, who like Mary Howe and Clara Louise Kellogg, has returned from study and successful appearances abroad will sing at Foot Guard hall and those who go will have the opportunity to judge for themselves whether the nice things said of her singing are justified.

Miss Higgins deserves the success she has already attained as she has won through diligence and hard work. She was graduated from the Connecticut College for Women and began work on the Courant as a reporter. She showed aptitude as a newspaper woman and later in Paris served as correspondent at different times for the New York Herald and New York Times. As a foreign correspondent she won recognition not only from her papers but from other correspondents as a keen observer and clever writer.

Determined to justify her appointment by Governor Lake to a scholarship in music in France and ambitious to succeed not only on her own account but for the sake of her father and mother she devoted herself with tremendous enthusiasm to her musical studies and so successfully that leading parts at the Opera Comique in Paris were given to her to fill.

It is well for her own New England folks to support her as she returns here in order to show their appreciation of what a New England girl has tried to accomplish and they can give that support by attending her concert at Foot Guard hall tonight. Those Hartford people who have already heard her are warm in their praise of both her dramatic and vocal ability and predict for her a splendid future.

OLD HOME DAY SERVICES AT MONTVILLE CENTER CHURCH

October 14th, the date for the Old Home Day celebration of Montville Center Congregational church proved a perfect day. The hills and valleys of this historic town had on their beautiful autumnal garments of red, green and gold. The church was attractively decorated. Outside stately evergreen trees stood like sentinels to guard and keep green the memory of those who loved the church in the years that are gone; while on the pulpit and platform were quantities of choice flowers given by friends of the church. The beautiful flowers on the organ were in memory of Francis Parker, beloved organist of this church for fifty years. After the service loving hands placed them on his grave in Raymond Hill cemetery.

The morning service opened with an inspiring voluntary by Miss Helen Lynch, followed by the usual exercises and singing of old hymns by the congregation. The pastor, Rev. Edward P. Ayer, gave an excellent sermon from Christ's words: "My Church" telling of its wonderful program through the centuries in spite of all obstacles in the way.

All were invited to the chapel for a delicious lunch.

At two o'clock service began with word of greeting from Rev. Henry T. Arnold of Norwich. Rev. Charles Smith and Mrs. Stearns, Deacon Alden Baker, of Colchester, a former resident had not in all these years forgotten and spoke of his interest in this church. This was followed by an address by Rev. William S. Beard, one of the secretaries of the National Commission of Missions, telling briefly what had been done, what could be done and what should be done, closing with an appeal to its friends to help in keeping the church in an ideal condition. This appeal was most generously responded to by the audience. There was a large gathering, people coming from Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey. Old friendships and renewed and new ones strengthened.

TEAM WORKERS SELECT NAMES FOR DRIVE

The team captains and workers of the 61 teams in the Backus hospital financial drive met Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock at the town hall to select the names of prospective contributors. A table was provided for each team and each table had a large sign bearing the name of the team captain. Lists of prospective contributors were circulated among the team workers and selections were made from the list.

Cards bearing the names of the persons selected will be delivered to the teams at the formal opening of the campaign Friday evening at 6.30 o'clock in the town hall. Campaign Leader James L. Case mailed Tuesday to thousands of Norwich men and women a circular letter calling attention to the hospital community appeal which has for its goal the raising of a fund of $350,000 for the hospital. Inclosed in each letter was an attractive folder calling attention to the work done by the Backus hospital and explaining the need of raising $250,000 which is not only to build the greatly needed nurses' home but to enable the hospital to continue its work. Mr. Case's letter says:

The leaflet that goes to you with this letter tells in outline the story of the William W. Backus hospital.

For thirty years this community has had the benefit of hospital service, for the institution was built and endowed by friends and given to us for our use. Now, for the first time, we are called upon to do our part.

The income from the endowment given by Mr. Slater remains the same today as it was thirty years ago. Meantime, the cost of operating the hospital has risen until at the present time it is twice what it was then.

Soon after you have read the folder you will be called upon by a volunteer, who is giving time and effort to secure your help. Please receive the worker graciously. Your generous response will insure the complete success of the campaign.

We can never hope to pay for the work which the hospital has done for us. We can at least, by our pledges, make it possible to continue that work. Our hospital serves all, without discrimination, whether rich or poor.

Let us build the nurses' home. Let us double the endowment. It is the greatest community effort we have ever made.

WAR VESSELS COMING FOR NAVY DAY

Four naval war vessels, the U. S. S. Savannah, Gilmer, Bridgeport, and Bainbridge are scheduled to arrive at Connecticut ports to participate in the Navy Day celebration on October 27. The Savannah will dock at New London, the Gilmer at New Haven, and the Bridgeport and Bainbridge at Bridgeport. All the vessels will proceed in time to arrive at their designated ports not later than noon October 25.

While in ports visited the vessels will be open to the public from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. with special hours arranged for school children. Officers and bluejackets will be on hand at all times to explain and show the visitors about the vessels, with special care for their information, comfort and convenience. The general public of the entire state, as well as visitors from other states, are invited to inspect the ships of Uncle Sam's first line defense.

Saturday, October 27 has been designated by the navy league of the United States as Navy Day, partly in commemoration of the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt because he fought to keep the navy up as a first line of defense. During his life Theodore Roosevelt was a strong backer of the Navy League.

SUPERIOR COURT TRYING SUIT AGAINST MYSTIC MAN

Trial of the case of the Boston Lumber Co., against Pendleton Bros., Inc., of Mystic, was started Tuesday in the superior court in New London before Judge Isaac Wolfe. The suit is for a balance of $3,956.08 on shipments of fir timber in the early part of 1920. The case was assigned for trial by a jury but when court came in Tuesday morning Judge Wolfe expressed the opinion that the case would be more suitably tried by the court. After a brief conference between counsel and their clients, it was agreed to try the case before the court.

Edward A. Eames, president of the Boston Lumber company, was on the stand all the morning testifying to exchange of letters and telegrams between himself and the defendants regarding the shipments of lumber. He gave testimony from the books of the company showing payments and other details.

Attended Hartford Convention.

Mrs. John C. Atterbury of Greeneville, leader of Home Chapter of the King's Daughters, attended the Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning sessions of the twenty-seventh annual convention of King's Daughters and Sons, held last week in Hartford. Tuesday evening Mrs. Atterbury was in Bridgeport where she attended the inspection of Angeline H. Bartlett tent, Daughters of Veterans. Mrs. Atterbury, who is first council on the staff of the department president of the D. of V., of Connecticut, was entertained over Tuesday night in the home of the department inspector, Mrs. Mary Yale, of Bridgeport.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Safest and best family medicine

THE WOMAN POWER OF AMERICA is well illustrated by the thousands of women who are entering every profession, almost every line of business and politics as well. They are bound to make good, and there is no question but what health is their greatest asset. Many women, however, develop weak, nervous conditions and cannot stand the strain of a professional or business life. Such women should remember when beset with headaches, backache, nervousness, irritability or any ailment peculiar to their sex that the greatest of all remedies for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For nearly fifty years this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring the women of America to health and strength. It holds the remarkable record of helping 98 out of every 100 women who try it.

WHITE SOX WIN CHICAGO SERIES FROM CUBS AND REGAIN LOST TITLE

Chicago, Oct. 16—The White Sox again are Chicago City champions. By beating the National League Cubs, 4 to 3 in ten innings today, the Americans won the series, four games to two, and regained the title, won last year by the Cubs.

Two fumbles and a wild throw by George Grantham, gave the Sox the final game. The first fumble came in the ninth inning in which the Sox scored twice and tied the score, while the second fumble and wild peg came in the tenth and let in the winning run.

It was the eighth City championship the Sox have won. The Cubs have won the title three times, the victory last year being the first in thirteen years.

Tony Kaufmann pitched for the Cubs and kept his hits scattered. Urban Faber, Ted Lyons and Gorham V. Leverette worked for the Sox, Faber and then Lyons being withdrawn for pinch-hitters.

With one out in the ninth, Mostil went to bat for Lyons and was safe when Grantham fumbled. Crouse flied out. Barrett singled through Adams and Mostil went to third and Barrett to second when Stats threw wild and Friberg fumbled. Hooper hit to right for a base, scoring Mostil and Barrett. Hooper was out trying to make second.

Collins walked to open the tenth inning and Sheely sacrificed Falk flied out. Kamm drew a base on balls. McClellan sent a fast grounder to Grantham who fumbled it and then threw low to first and Collins dashed home with the winning run.

The score:

BASEBALL MORE POPULAR THAN EVER SAYS HEYDLER

New York, Oct. 16—(By the A. P.)—Baseball has emerged from the 1923 world's series, which the New York American league team won yesterday, stronger in its hold on popular interest than ever before and unweakened by unfortunate incidents of the last few years, John A. Heydler, president of the National League, asserted in a statement tonight.

Frank Frisch, the New York Nation's second baseman, by his consistent hitting, daring base running and sensationally flawless fielding "came out of the series one of the greatest, if not the greatest present-day all-around player of the game," Mr. Heydler said, and John J. McGraw, he added, though manager of the defeated team, "came out of the series a bigger man than ever before in his career" and "his sportsmanship was splendid."

"In the world's series just closed," read the statement, "baseball reached a peak no one had dared to prophesy for the game. Friends of the game had dreamed of a million dollar series, but nobody ever expected to awake and find that the dream had come true. Here was a third series in succession played in New York, and yet over 300,000 persons paid over a million to see six games.

"The series shows that after nearly half a century baseball's hold upon American life is stronger than ever," it continued "in all my close years of close connection with the game I have never seen so much interest in the fall classic as this year, and I never saw a finer contest.

"There were those who doubted and who threw cold water and who said that the game had slipped back and had been hurt by the things that are bound to happen to all human enterprises as time goes by. But the wave of interest that swept the land in full flood this fall has carried the game to its zenith.

"The interest was not confined to New York. Fans from every state in the union thronged the city for the series. I believe if the percentage of out of town patrons could really be known and published it would be amazing. Every hotel in town reported tremendous business and some of the big hotels declared that all guests records had been broken, just for the series.

"The representation from Southern state was the largest ever known. Pennsylvania sent thousands. The feature of the series was the overwhelming interest of men and women from every walk of life in the struggle for the baseball championship.

"The reasons were fundamental. The fans were expecting a closely contested series. When the Yankees, beaten twice in succession, turned on the champion Giants and deadlocked the series Saturday the interest leaped to fever heat at a bound as many people were turned away Sunday as were seated in the biggest baseball park in the world.

"Both teams fought to the last and gave their supporters their all in all and the best team won. I believe that John McGraw came out of the series a bigger man than ever before in his career, even though he was beaten. His sportsmanship was splendid. His comment and his attitude day by day showed a game loser at his best.

"And, although on the losing team, I think that Frisch the Giants second baseman, came out of the series one of the greatest, if not the greatest present day all-round player of the game.

"Today, the day after the close of the series, finds baseball at its highest point in the esteem and affection of the nation. It rules supreme as the game of games, without a rival."

MOOSUP DEFEATS THREAD CITY BOWLERS BY 73 PINS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Oct. 16.—Fred Chartier's Moosup pin splitters showed their wares at the Wood alleys here Tuesday night in a special match with the local team. The match came to an end after the visitors had trounced the local outfit in two straight strings by 73 pins. Chartier featured with a total of 350 pins and copped high single with 146 pins. Piche and Rivers featured for the locals. Fifty dollars had been placed on the series. The scores follow:

PLAYERS START FOR HOME AND VACATION

New York, Oct. 16.—(By The A. P.)—The call of the wild has reached the ears of Babe Ruth, many of his Yankee teammates and an equal number of his earstwhile Giant rivals now that the greatest world's series has become a chapter in baseball history.

Miramichi, New Brunswick, where the big game differs considerably from the big game of a world's series, is to become Babe's stamping ground within the next week, according to his present plans. There, armed with a rifle instead of his trusty bat, and accompanied by Hughie Jennings, the Giants' field manager, who, for the time being will change his famous "Tee-Yah" into a moose call.

The Bambino will endeavor to collect trophies for the already well filled den of his New England country home.

Texas is the goal of Ross Young and Frank Snyder, Giant outfielder and catcher. They leave tomorrow morning for the southwest and a big game hunting trip that will continue for a month or more. The Maine woods, the Canadian Northwest and other famous hunting grounds of the North American continent, each will draw its share of ball players.

Virgil Barnes, Giant pitcher, was so anxious to forget baseball that he left for the middle west early today without collecting the $4,112.83 check made out in his name as a regular member of the losing team, and Hank Gowdy, was on the point of deserting New York for Ohio, but decided to wait until tomorrow, when the checks will be issued.

BULKELEY PLAYS TIE GAME WITH CROSBY

Recovering from the slump, into which the team fell during the first two games on their schedule, the Bulkeley football warriors outplayed the fast Crosby eleven of Waterbury recently in all departments of the gentle pastime, but had to be content with a tie score. The aerial game of the Whalers was superior in every way to the Crosby attack in this method and it was through the overhead game that New London made its most substantial gains.

The first half was scoreless for both teams although the Bulkeley team had several good opportunities to score but each time at the crucial moment the Crosby defense stiffened and the fatal moment was put off. Bulkeley outplayed her rival in this half in spite of the fact that she failed to tally and material evidence of the fact. In this half play was so tight spectators were sure that one team was certain to break in the near future.

This is just what happened for on the Bulkeley kick-off Sheflott lifted the ball to Purcell who rounded the right end of the Bulkeley defense for a touchdown. Crosby, however, failed in its attempt to secure the extra point. Bulkeley again took kick off but took the ball from Crosby on the Bulkeley 13 yard line. Bulkeley, failing to make her yardage, punted and took the ball from Crosby in midfield. Here some fast playing and a forward Sheflott to Daniels took the ball over. Bulkeley almost had another in the last period but the end of the game put an end to whatever chance they had.

STONINGTON BOWS BEFORE CHAPMAN TECH ELEVEN

In a fast football game that was played on the Stonington field recently the Stonington eleven was humbled again, this time by Chapman Tech of New London. After kicking off in the first quarter of the game, Tech received a punt from the toe of Duke after Stonington had failed to make her yardage. Tech, after making two first downs lost the ball on the Stonington 15 yard line by virtue of a fumble. Stonington again punted but this time the ball only traveled ten yards. Here Brown of the Whalers stepped in and gained 20 yards in two plunges through the Stonington line. Capt. Pearson then took it over but failed to kick the goal. In the second period Brown slipped, slid and crashed through the Stonington line for another touchdown, also making the try for point on a drp kick.

Techs other score came in the last period when a 30 yard pass, Pearson to Brown put the ball on the Stonington eight yard line.

Captain Pearson then made four yards on a line plunge but the ball was lost on downs but Stonington lost the ball on the five yard line on a fumble and Brown then took the ball over on a line play, this time failing to kick the goal. Brown and Turrello starred for Chapman Tech while Duke was the shining light for Stonington.

CHRISTIAN TRYING TO BUY CLEVELAND INDIANS

Cleveland, O., Oct. 16.—George B. Christian, Jr., former secretary to the late President Warren G. Harding, is negotiating for the purchase of the Cleveland Indians baseball club, according to news dispatches received here today from New York. The dispatches state that Christian was in conference with B. B. Johnson, president of the American League in New York today.

When asked regarding the reports, E. S. Banard, president of the Indians, said he knew nothing about it but said he did not believe that it was true.

Mrs. James C. Dunn, owner of the majority of the stock in the club, when called over the long distance telephone at her home in Chicago stated that she had heard nothing of the deal.

KID GLEASON RESIGNS AS WHITE SOX MANAGER

Chicago, Oct. 16—William "Kid" Gleason, manager of the White Sox who today presented Charles Comiskey, owner of the local American league club, with the city championship, tomorrow will present the owner of the Sox with his resignation, according to the Chicago Tribune.

Gleason, the newspaper said, made known his plans as soon as his team had won the city series from the National leaguers. He said he had decided to quit several days ago, according to the Tribune, which attributed the action to disappointment over the showing of the Sox during the season just ended.

Gleason who for three years has worked to build up a team to replace the great machine that was smashed by the world's series scandal of 1919, has no plans for the future, according to the Tribune.

Wesleyan Has 19 Swimming Dates.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 16.—Wesleyan's swimming schedule for the coming winter was made up today and the dates follow.

PAPYRUS GIVES IMPRESSIVE TIME TRIAL IN WORKOUT AT BELMONT

New York, Oct. 16—Interest in the coming $100,000 race for international turf honors between Zev, American three-year-old champion, and Papyrus, English derby winner, was quickened today by a series of developements. They included another impressive time trials by Papyrus, the arrival of Steve Donoghue, famous English jockey, who will pilot the derby winner, and an offer by the Maryland State Fair association of $50,000 for a special race on Thursday of next week between the winner of the international contest and My Own, rival of Zev for American honors this season.

Sam Hildreth, trainer of Zev, immediately accepted the offer on behalf of his horse, but Basil Jarvis, trainer of Papyrus, declared plans had been made to ship the derby winner back to England early next week and would not be changed unless otherwise directed by Ben Irish, owner of the horse. Shortly before Zev was selected by the Jockey Club to carry American colors, Harry Sinclair, Millionaire owner of Zev, declared his willingness to race his horse against My Own after the international match. The Maryland association's offer was for a race over a distance of one mile and a half at Laurel track.

Papyrus galloped an impressive eleven furlongs in 2:34 flat today at Belmont Park, the scene of the international race. The time was not especially notable, according to observers, but the derby winner was under stout restraint all the way and finished strongly, in contrast to the rather tired appearance of Zev after its stiff test several days ago.

Donoghue, who arrived late today on the Olympic, probably will have the leg up on Papyrus in another exercise tomorrow but no attempt at a time trial is planned by Jarvis.

Donoghue, who celebrated his 39th birthday aboard ship yesterday, declared his confidence in Papyrus and in his ability to pilot the derby winner home in front of Zev. The little jockey, a national idol to British turf followers, has won five of the classics at Epsom Downs in his career, winning his third straight on Papyrus this season.

He was accompanied by Isaac Witsed, personal representative of Mr. Irish, owner of Papyrus, and several other British sportsmen who arrived for the race. Witsed was somewhat pessimistic over the prospects of the English horse, pointing out that it would go to the Post under the disadvantages arising from its long ocean voyage and the necessity of training for the first time on dirt tracks.

The keynote of Zev's preparation for the race is scheduled to take place tomorrow at Belmont park when the brown colt will be asked to go the full distance of a mile and a half. Observers expect this trial to give a conclusive line on the condition of the American horse, which has been a subject of considerable debate since it lost part of a frog in winning the Lawrence Realisation several weeks ago.

The good workouts of the English horse, on the other hand, have tended to shorten the odds which at first were heavily in favor of the American representative. Wagers which have been made on a 3 to 1 basis for several days dropped today to a level of 2 to 1, it was reported.

A distinguished gathering will witness the race on Saturday, making the spectacle one of the most notable in international turf history. Governors of several states, members of the United States Senate and House of Representatives have reserved boxes while the army will be represented by its chief of staff, General John J. Pershing. General Pershing has been invited to present the gold challenge cup to the victor.

CAN AN INDOOR BASEBALL LEAGUE BE STARTED

Now that the local outdoor baseball season has come to a close and the sporting public is turning to indoor sports and football, the suggestion has been made that an indoor baseball league be started. Indoor baseball is almost as exciting as the outdoor game and the very uncertainty of it adds abundant interest.

Last year there were some very close and exciting games at the State Armory between the two service teams, Battery E and the Combat Train and outside teams. The games were well attended and many an evening of good clean sport was enjoyed. At that time it was suggested that a league be formed but as it was so late in the season the matter was put over until this season when a good start could be made. It was suggested that a league of four or six teams be established with the two service teams as the fathers of the league for it is these two organizations that have boosted the indoor game for the past few years. So it is up to the service teams to make the first move if a league would be agreeable to them.

GIANTS PLAYERS GET THEIR SERIES CHECKS

New York, Oct. 16—Checks for $4,112.83, the losers' end were distributed today to members of the New York Giants as their share of the world series receipts. The total distributed among Giant players and attendants was $110,634.91.

Manager McGraw and his assistant, Hughie Jennings, and twentyfour players were the ones to get the bigger checks. Pitchers who joined the club late, ground keepers, trainers and assistant secretaries received checks for sums ranging from $250 to $1500.

Baseball Commissioner Landis, who announced the award, said the world champ Yankees had not yet submitted their list of those to receive checks.

LUMAN INJURED IN IN YALE PRACTICE

New Haven, Oct. 16.—Luman, Yale's regular right end of the varsity eleven, was injured slightly in a scrimmage with the scrubs today. He was replaced by Deaver, who was regular end last year.

Neidlinger, regular quarterback last year, who has been out of the game for three weeks because of an injury to his back, was in uniform today and ran one of the varsity teams through signal practice.

Firpo is at Havana.

Havana, Cuba., Oct. 16.—(By The A. P.)—Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine pugilist, arrived here late today, coming by way of Key West. He is on his way to Lima, Peru, where on November 4 he expects to give a boxing exhibition before proceeding to his home city Buenos Aires. He will leave here tomorrow on the steamer Essequibo for Lima. Firpo had booked passage on the Essequibo from New York, but the vessel sailed last Saturday without him.

Firpo said this evening that he would return to the United States in May.

N. F. A. Needs More Material for the Football Eleven

In a school having an enrollment of between eight and nine hundred surely more than 24 canddates for the football eleven can be found. Of course from this number about six hundred girls must be subtracted but even taking out this large number there still remain in the neighborhood of three hundred able-bodied fellows who have a chance to make the team, and by doing this they will not only earn their "N" but will also be showing some real school spirit. At the utmost only 75 fellows of the 300 have to work and this leaves about 225 men who should be out every afternoon while the actual count hardly ever exceeds 25 and often falls below this. This means that only one out of every nine fellows who are free every afternoon have any school spirit.

Coach Brigham, the new football mentor at the Academy, is doing his best with the available material but earnestly desires at least another fifty candidates, all of whom will be given a fair chance of making the team. The football authorities are also handicapped by the fact that some of the best prospects are on the ineligible list on account to school marks. Practice is over now every day about 4:00 so that those who need extra time for study are now able to get it in the afternoon.

To sum the matter up in a nutshell, unless the Academy obtains a number of new recruits in the near future the chances are not very good for a winning eleven when one remembers the hard schedule just ahead.

RUTH'S TAKES $50,000 POLICY WITH HARRY HEILMANN

New York, Oct. 16—Babe Ruth today took out a $50,000 life insurance policy with his greatest American League rival for batting honors, Harry Heilmann, of the Detroit Tigers, who is an insurance agent during the off season.

Heilmann witnessed the triumph of the Yankees in the last game of the world's series with the Giants yesterday and talked business with the babe today soon after the big slugger received his part of the winner's share in the series. The policy is made out in favor of Mrs. Ruth and Baby Dorothy.

Heilmann and Ruth are the keenest of rivals on the diamond, the former winning out by a margin this year in the race for hitting supremacy, but also warm friends.

Baltic Undecided About Team

At the present time it is undecided whether Baltic will be represented by a basketball team or not. There has been certain feeling among the members of the team and the members of the Baltic Social and Athletic club that does not make for harmony. This was evident at the ball games this past summer when the attendance was the poorest in a number of years. There will be a meeting of the club tonight to decide on the matter of having a team and should the club vote to support a basketball team much of the young material will be given a try-out.

Attention Melrose

The Hardigs have reorganized their football squad and are ready to play Manager King's Melrose team Shorty Segal will captan the team this year therefore good results are expected. D. Shea s manager and this game can be arranged by seeing him, or answering through this paper. The team averages 130 pounds.

Westerly Five Challenges

The Battery E five of Westerly, last year known as the 149th company, would like a home game for Saturday evening, Oct. 20th, with any fast basketball team in Eastern Connecticut preferrably Battery E of Norwich or the Baltic Wanderers. A reasonable guarantee will be given. Write immediately to S. R. Shortman, 36 Palmer street, Westerly.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Willow trees used for making the best cricket bats are raised on special plantations in the south of England.

A lively contest for the presidency of the National A. A. U. is expected to develop at the annual meeting of that body, which is to be held in Detroit in late November.

Nearly 50,000 cricket fans sought admittance to a recent match at Bradford, England, between the Yorkshire and Lancashire teams. Of this number 20,000 were turned away because the ground would not hold them.

The supporters of the New York-Pennsylvania baseball league express themselves as well satisfied with the success of the organization's first season, which has closed with Williamsport the winner of the pennant and York as runner-up.

By scoring 370 runs against Middlesex in a recent game at Canterbury, Woolley, a famous professional player, made the highest score of the present cricket season in England. Woolley stands six feet four, and bats and bowls left-handed.

An act of parliament was passed in the reign of James I, imposing a penalty of fine or imprisonment upon anyone who was present at a football match. The act has never been repealed, but this fact does not deter millions of people from attending the matches during the season in the British Isles.

The new stadium to be built at Amsterdam for the 1928 Olympic games will be one of the finest in the world.

The signing of Art Fletcher to pilot the Phillies again next year has met with the hearty approval of Quaker City fans.

Orlando in the Florida State league is another of this year's champions to win both halves of the split season.

Great Britain is being searched at present for a potential world's boxing champion. The quest is backed by a syndicate of British sportsmen, with Tex O'Rourke, the American manager and trainer, as official adviser.

According to one fight expert the best boxers are those who start in the game young, and the younger the better. In proof of his assertion he cites the case of the clever Carpentier, who started to fight when he was fourteen and a year later was a champion.

Stories to the effect that ownership of the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league was likely to change hands before the opening of another season are denied by persons close to Del Howard and Cal Ewing, who control the club. One rumor had it that Jack Kearns, manager of Champion Jack Dempsey, was dickering to buy the Oaks.

Her Birthday.

It was the first day of school in the first grade. Names, ages, and birthdays were being secured from the children. "And when is your birthday?" was asked of a tiny girl. "Every August," was the prompt reply.

Emerson Set Example.

Emerson was the first man in this country, or in any other, so far as I know, who made a religion of walking—the first to announce a Gospel of the Wild.—John Burroughs.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bradley Theatre, Putnam.

When the Selwyns present their production of Channing Pollock's new play, "The Fool," at the Bradley theatre, Putnam, Thursday, Oct. theatregoers will realize that it something different, something entirely new, and something disappointing in the light that it is a faddist departure of a theme that few dramatists would have cared to undertake, required a man of force and determination, like Mr. Pollock, who never falters once he has made up his mind. He fought for what he believed was right and success has been his reward. The sensation that "The Fool" has created everywhere is due to the way in which the author has taken hold of his powerful theme—modern social problems of capital, labor and religion—putting a punch of the solar plexus variety into his play at every opening; grappling with capital and then with labor until religion triumphs over both in the sense that success is never truly earned without the brotherhood of man entering fully into the bargaining. A very strong cast is necessary to give full expression to this extraordinary play.

Breed Theatre.

Tom Mix scores one of the biggest hits of his screen career in his new William Fox offering, "Soft Boiled," which comes to the Breed theatre today and Thursday.

"This is the best picture Tom Mix has ever made," enthuses a New York critic.

"It has everything — fast action, thrills, romance, pretty girls, fun, and attractive settings. As for the star, he shows that he is a real comedian in addition to being a stunt actor par excellent."

"Soft Boiled" is really Tom's official bow as a comedian. Dressed in a checker suit that isn't too modest to shriek for itself, with tortoise glasses, and a hat balancing perilously atop his head, Tom proves he's 'soft boiled' by getting a job as a shoe clerk. Then the fun and the action race along in full force and he doesn't slacken for a moment until the final happy closeup.

Strand Theatre.

The Keith vaudeville programme the last half of this week scheduled for the Strand theatre is as follows:

Harry Smith and Jack Strong in "Golden Voices From the Golden West."

Joseph Rankin, "A Juvenile Xylophone Actor."

It was a far cry from the lineman's ball to the Bellany-Benson's grand reception, but Marcel Murphy attended both functions and carried off the high honors at each party. At the lineman's ball she and her partner won the prize dance and at the reception she won the heart of the son of the house. Gladys Walton, pretty Universal film star, has one of the most versatile roles of her screen career as Marcel Murphy, a telephone girl who broke into the "Blue Book," in "Crossed Wires," the Universal photodrama, which will be shown at the Strand Thursday. The play was written and directed by King Baggot.

Musical Show at the Broadway Friday and Saturday.

Friday night and Saturday, matinee and night will see one of the oldest minstrel shows on tour at the Broadway theatre, it being the fiftieth annual tour of the Guy Brothers, Singer Minstrel.

Beautiful scenery, electrical effects and everything that goes to make a minstrel show a success will be seen. It is a two and a half hour show. Two big street parades will be given Friday and Saturday noon with a band concert in front of the theatre Friday and Saturday at 7 p. m.

Huntley Gordon in "Bluebeard's 8th Wife."

After making screen tests of nearly two score leading men and interviewing three times that number, all of which took more than two months, Sam Wood chose Huntley Gordon for the role of Bluebeard in "Bluebeard's 8th Wife."-Gloria Swanson's new Paramount starring vehicle which has caught on big at the Broadway theater this week.

Unusual interest centered on this role, since it is one that few screen men can capably fill, in that it demands a leading man with a popular following, yet one who can look old enough to have been remarried eight times. Gordon is Canadian by birth but has been a citizen of the United States for many years, coming to this country after completing his education in Canada and England. His name has been long familiar to screen fans the world over. He first entered motion pictures with Vitagraph and made his initial bid for fame as leading man in two Paramount pictures, "The Dark Mirror" and "The Frisky Mrs. Johnson."

A comedy and News are the short subjects.

Large Property Sale at Pachaug.

Burdick & McNicol, real estate brokers, have sold for William F. Bitgood his property located on the state road at Pachaug, in the town of Griswold. The property consists of a large dwelling, several barns, a large blacksmith shop and wagon repair shop, with four acres of land. Mr. Bitgood's entire equipment of machinery and stock is included. The sale was made to Alexander Belhnke, of New York, who has taken possession. This is one of the largest sales consummated in Pachaug in some time.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

The Inquisitive Dwarf

Now, as the great big giant marched through the wood with his little yellow bird on his shoulder, the frog in the little pool who began to croak just as I finished the last story, jumped out of the water and said to Little Jack Rabbit, only he said it so low that the big giant didn't hear him:

"You'd better not go to the big giant's house.

For I've a friend there, a little gray mouse,

Who tells me he's often as cross as two sticks,

If you go, you may get in a terrible fix."

Without a question the bunny turned Dapple Gray down a little path and the big giant, who was a long distance ahead never noticed anything, not till he was opening the gate to his back yard when it was too late.

Well, the little bunny kept on going down the path through the wood and by and by, after a while, he came to a tiny little house made of pink and yellow stones. On the roof was a little chimney of red brick, out of which a thin line of smoke curled itself into letters which spelt "Tiny Tom."

Just then, all of a sudden, the door opened and a tiny dwarf called out in a high cracked voice:

"Who comes a-riding down the road,
Clickerty-clack by my little abode?"

"A friend," answered Little Jack Rabbit.

"What are you doing here?" asked the dwarf.

"Dear me!" said the bunny boy. "You are very inquisitive. But since you ask, I have just parted company with a giant, and am anxious for fear he will come after me."

"Oh, ho!" exclaimed the little man. And just then there came a great crash and a big rock splintered to pieces a tall oak tree near by.

"Old Giant Mountaintip is throwing stones," exclaimed the dwarf. "Whenever he gets angry he does that," and he turned to go into his house.

"Goodness me!" cried the little bunny, "suppose a stone should hit your house."

"That's why I'm going in. You had better come too. One of Old Mountaintip's stones may hurt you."

"I don't want to leave Dapple Gray."

answered the kind bunny boy.

"I'll put him in the stable," said the dwarf, and he led the little pony around behind the house.

The next minute he was back again and none too soon, for just then another big tremendous rock fell close by and made a big hole in the ground.

"Quick, jump inside," shouted the dwarf, holding open the door to his little house and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

SHAMEFUL IMMORALITY OF YOUTHS REVEALED IN NEW LONDON COURT

New London, Oct. 16.—Apparently disheartened and morose because of the long term of confinement that confronts him at the New London county jail as a result of receiving a fine of $1,000 and a jail sentence of one year, following his pleading guilty in the superior court to violation of the liquor law last month, Nostrano Faccini, 32, of Walbach street, attempted to end his life in his cell at the jail, Sunday morning, it became known today. Faccini is out of danger, but is being attended by Dr. Stuart J. Lawson.

Faccini, as has been the custom since he began serving his sentence, was in the habit of shaving every Sunday. He requested and obtained his safety razor from Turnkey Gilbert shortly before noon and after the shave, as Gilbert supposed, the razor complete was delivered back to him by the prisoner. Instead Faccini secreted the blade in his cell and after the turnkey had left, Faccini slashed his body in numerous places with the razor blade, the weapon inflicting wounds about the neck, some of them six inches in length. Faccini was discovered bleeding, some time after the departure of the turkey, and Dr. Lawson was summoned. The physician dressed the wounds, which were not of great depth and had not reached an artery.

Faccini was taken into custody last August by Prohibition Enforcement Agent H. W. Avery and Sergeant Samuel Hick, when the officers, after lying in wait many hours, discovered Faccini as he entered Levorone's Grove with about 250 gallons of alcohol.

Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel has caused the operator's license of Attorney G. Curtis Morgan to be suspended.

D. G. Haskell, 63 West Selden street, Mattepan, Mass., this afternoon communicated with the New London police, requesting them to inquire of J. H. Bruesch of the Mansion House, Crystal avenue, in an effort to ascertain the whereabouts of Mr. Haskell's daughter. The father of the girl desired the daughter arrested if found, and held until such time as he could come to New London and take charge of her.

John McCarthy, 64 Belden street, together with the police, is making a vigorous effort to locate his two sons, Cornelius, 10, and John 7, who disappeared from home yesterday afternoon. When they failed to put in an appearance at their home last night, the father appealed to the police.

Mrs. Florence Pomeroy of Providence came to New London this noon in search of her son, Wilford P., 16, who disappeared from home a few days ago. This afternoon the youth was located in a bowling alley on Golden street, by Plain Clothes Officer Edward Daniels, and was arrested. The youth was taken to the police station and delivered into the keeping of his mother. Later mother and son left for home.

Philip J. Hendel and Louis Elbaum have sold a house and lot on Wightman street to Lafayette G. Judd.

The New London police were requested this afternoon by George W. Cone, 75 Pequot avenue, to maintain a watch for Otto Clinton Cone, 15, of Brooklyn, grandson of Mr. Cone, who had run away from home and who, it is believed, might come to New London.

The automobile owned and operated by Albert J. Perkins of Waterford, collided with one of the city's garbage trucks on Bank street this afternoon. The automobile, a sedan, was badly damaged. The truck was at a standstill alongside the curb, just south of Pearl street, when the machine driven by Perkins crashed against the rear of the heavier machine.

John Rice of New London and Miss Johanna Barry, daughter of Mrs. Johanna H. Barry of Pleasant street, were married this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the nuptial mass being celebrated by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, rector. Robert Barry, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Mary Toohey was bridesmaid. Following the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, after which Mr. and Mrs. Rice left for Washington, D. C., and Richmond, Va. Upon their return they will reside at 40 Lee avenue. Mr. Rice is local manager in the employ of Wilson & Co.

General William Haskin, U. S. A., retired, has closed his summer home at Oswegatchie and has returned to his permanent home, 121 Broad street.

The funeral of Mrs. Edith M., wife of Frank Carter, was held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at her home, 25 Gorton street. The services were conducted by Rev. Horatio J. Chase, pastor of Montauk Avenue Baptist church. The bearers were Alfred Forbes, Frank Kent, Walter Griswold, Charles Lewis, Joseph C. Cornwell and Garfield Klipp, the last named of Greenport, N. Y. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Abraham Fisher of State street, Mrs. Raymond Green and infant son, of Howe street, and Mrs. Adelbert Douglass and infant son of Clark lane, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Malcolm M. Scott, paying teller at the Union Bank and Trust company, is having a vacation of two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward McNally have returned home, having spent several days with relatives in Boston.

Theodore Jordan of the timekeeping force of the New Haven railroad, left today for Cleveland, Ohio, where he will spend his vacation of a fortnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil D. Spicer have returned home after a visit with relatives in Swampscott, Mass.

Anthony Jerome, 88, for many years the janitor of the customs house building in this city, died at his home, 99 Bayonet street today. Death was caused by a general breaking up, due to advanced age. He was a whaleman in youth and made many voyages to the northern whaling grounds. Later he served on the revenue cutter James Campbell, a schooner that was in the service for years and which was commanded by Capt. John Carson, during much of her career in the government service. There was work for the revenue cutters in the time of Tony Jerome for the vessels patroled the coast and they had many and varied duties. Mr. Jerome had sailed the seas that took him to almost every section of the world that could be reached by water. When he left the custom service he became janitor of the customs house, the government building of Uncle Sam in New London then and he never resigned, being on the roll of the service to his death. For many years he was the caretaker of the offices of lawyers and others in this city and he was the janitor of the Masonic building for many years.

"Skipper" Jerome had no affiliation with other fraternal organizations than those Masonic. He was a firm and steadfast believer in Masonry.

Two young men of this city must face trial in the superior court, January term, for their acts of indiscretion and offenses against the moral laws of the state and nation. The Bulletin has told of the unfortunate predicament in which a girl of 15 years has been placed. Today the sequel was revealed and the arrest of the youths was accomplished. The young men were presented in the police court charged with statutory rape and were held for trial in bonds of $2,000 each. One of them was less favored by having a relative who could furnish ample surety and the youth he protected was released. The other accused youth was sent to jail where he will have opportunity to ponder over his error. One is a clerk in the store while the other is an employe in a mill in this city. Two girls, neither of them yet 16 were concerned with the boys. They told their stories of shame in chambers today. The recitals disclosed their assailants to be of the most experienced sort of libertines.

His Majesty's ship Valerian will arrive in this port at noon Wednesday on a tour of friendly visitation to the United States waters. A wireless from the ship Tuesday afternoon to the commander of the sub base announced the fact that the British ship would be here at noon Wednesday. Her arrival off Fort Wright at the eastern end of Fisher's Island will be announced by a salute of fifteen guns from Fort Wright. This will bring a reply in kind from the Valerian so that the city of New London will have no uncertainty as to whether the British craft has arrived. A government steamer will consort the Valerian into this port where the officers of the fort, the submarine base and the coast guard academy will board the ship to pay their respects to its commander and his officers. The collector of customs, Joseph C. Comstock, will be the first civilian official to greet the British craft and he must board the vessel to see that the customs laws and regulations are recognized. In the evening the city council, the mayor, city manager and members of the council, will tender the officers a banquet at the Hotel Mohican. There will be numerous social functions duringfi the stay of the ship in the harbor until the 24th inst.

The launch Alanna, disabled in the sound Saturday night while headed for New York with 600 cases of liquor, which was on her deck and in her cabin when she was picked up off Montauk Point several months ago by the revenue cutter Grisham, and brought to this port by the New London line steamer New Hampshire, was reloaded with the $50,000 cargo tonight by custom officials and shortly after midnight the launch was taken in tow by a revenue cutter and the trip to New York was resumed.

The Handy Lunch, conducted many years by Frank E. G. Douglass, was sold today to Charles Baldwin.

New London will have its largest parade in many years, November 11th, when Armistice day will be celebrated. Already assurances have been given of financial support and the committee in charge of the affair predicts that there will be at least seven divisions in line.

Tonight at a meeting of the Manufacturers association much interest was displayed and every assistance promised tending to the success of the celebration. The association will have several floats in the parade and will give financial aid if necessary. Gen. Morris B. Payne, heading the committee of arrangements tonight stated that the army officials at Fort Wright, the naval officials at the submarine base and the United States Coast Guard officials have already promised to lend every possible aid towards making the parade a memorable one. There will be several bands in line.

Dr. Carleton Simon, special deputy police commissioner of New York, and assigned to the narcotic division there, was in New London for a brief time this evening, en route to New Bedford, Mass., where he will deliver an address tomorrow evening to the members of the New Bedford police department on the use of narcotics by addicts and their results.

Frank Lorenz, an employe in the kitchen at Lawrence hospital, was arrested this afternoon, charged with exposing himself in the vicinity of the institution. As Lorenz is undoubtedly mentally unsound, he was ordered out of town, being escorted to a train and commanded to go to New York in which city Lorenz resided prior to coming to New London. City Physician Cheney examined Lorenz and it was upon Dr. Cheney's advice that the man was shipped out of the city. Lorenz was arrested by Patrolman William Corcoran and Henry Hick following complaint being made by John J. Gagnon of 567 Ocean avenue, who had watched the conduct of Lorenz some time prior to the lodging the the complaint.

Under the will of Daniel J. Carroll, late of New York, filed yesterday in the surrogate court, New York, Mrs. Jane Carroll Curtin, wife of Paul A. Curtin, 34 Garfield avenue, is bequeather $500. Mrs. Carroll was a cousin of the testator.

Raymond Hurley, proprietor of a lunch wagon reported to Motorcycle Officer John Cavanaugh late last night that during the day the wagon was entered by a thief and that two cartons of cigarette, two boxes of cigars and two pies were stolen. Entrance to the wagon, which was closed at 3 o'clock Monday morning was gained by smashing one of the side windows.

The police have been requested to maintain a watch for a girl named Sansoucie, who escaped from the State Farm for Women late Monday night. An officer of the institution informed the police at 2 o'clock that the girl had managed to escape the guard and that she might come to New London. The girl, whose home is in Hartford, is described as being 23, five feet in height, of light complexion, light blue eyes, light hair and good looking.

Joseph Enos, 223 Main street, was taken into custody late this afternoon on a charge of breach of the peace. He was locked up. Enos, it is alleged went to his home about five o'clock and engaged in a quarel with his wife, Ruth, the husband finally administering a beating to the woman.

The city has of late installed electric lights in spots where they were greatly neded, but the full measure of light from these new electrics is not being obtained because of the growth of trees along the highways which shade the lights. The city authorities are now to take steps to have trees trimmed so that they will not interfere with the light from the lamps. A great improvement has been made by the additions of arc lights along Montauk avenue especially on the west side of the street where there was not a single light between Bank and Ferry streets, a distance of more than a mile. Manager Mok is aware of the necessity for the lights and he means that they shall be supplied in places where there is urgent need for them.

Joseph and Genaro Gentilella are in New York on their vacation and will be absent till the end of the week.

HOW TO TREAT SOME POULTRY TROUBLES

A great many reports of poultry paralysis or lameness are being received at the college. Nearly all cases that have been investigated show worm infection. It is advisable to examine infected birds by splitting the digestive tract the entire length with a sharp knife or a pair of scissors.

Pin worms may be found in the caeca—or blind ducts on either side of the digestive tract. These worms are usualy present in all poultry and seem to do no particular harm.

Round worms may be found in the digestive tract anywhere between the caneca and the gizzard. If present in large numbers, these worms do considerable harm.

Tape worms may be found in the upper half of the digestive tract nearest to the gizzard. Tape worms are fastened securely to the wall of the digestive tract and if small, are usually rather difficult to see.

Worm infection—particularly tape worm infection—may be treated by using concentrated lye, as follows:

One teaspoon of lye to one gallon of mixed wheat and oats; cover with an equal quantity of water and boil for one hour. Sick birds to be treated should be separated from the remainder of the flock. Omit their night feeding and at noon of the next day give the above mixture as a wet mash. Feed as much as the birds will clean up in about ten minutes. The next morning give Epson salts at the rate of one pound per 100 birds. If necessary, repeat in four days.

It is important to thoroughly clean up all houses and yards to prevent reinfection. Treatment is frequently more effective if birds are confined where sanitary conditions can be absolutely maintained.

An unknown disease has appeared in several flocks. The birds stop laying, combs turn black, digestion absolutely stops, crops remain full and hard; droppings are yellow or green. The mortality is usually over in three or four days and does not exceed five per cent. Treat by giving Epson salts at the rate of one pound to each 100 birds, starting as soon as the difficulty appears, and before the majority of the flock have stopped eating. Take away all grain and feed lightly on mash, using as much milk as possible.—Roy E. Jones, Poultry Specialist, Connecticut Agricultural College.

RATION SERVICE FOR OCTOBER.

In making up a ration for October we are dealing with a very unsettled grain market. It loks as if the price of grain will keep rising. All feeds are high, too high for feeding profitably; nevertheless, grain must be fed in October if the milk flow is to be kept up.

Last year many dairymen made the mistake of holding back on grain feeding during October. This resulted in the cows losing flesh very rapidly. Later in the fall grain was heavily fed by many dairymen in the endeavor to put these same cows up in good flesh. This is an expensive method. Feeding some grain when the cows are in good flesh will hold them in good condition and will also keep the milk flow more even.

For feeding with some fall feed, and assuming that mixed hay and silage will be used the following ration is sugested: 300 ground oats, 100 mixed feed, 100 corn meal, 200 gluten feed, 200 oil meal, 100 cottonseed meal (42 per cent.)

—A. R. Merrill, dairy specialist, Connecticut Agricultural College.

BEWARE OF ZINC POISONING.

Warning against the use of galvanized iron vessels for holding food or drink is issued by the United States Department of Agriculture:

"Food or drink should not be allowed to stand for even a short time in a galvanized-iron vessel. Such a utensil is not desirable for use in making preserves or jellies or holding cider or other fruit juices. This is according to a statement by the Bureau of Chemistry. It appears that the zinc which is used in galvanizing will be dissolved and will give the food an unpleasant taste and may cause sudden and intense illness. Experiments made by the Bureau of Chemistry with limeade, orangeade, milk, carbonated water, tap water, and distilled water, held overnight in galvanized iron buckets proved that zinc contamination occurred in each case."

LOOK OVER FRUIT TREES FOR BORERS

It is a good time now to examine fruit trees, especially apple and peach, for borers and to dig out or destroy any found. These borers are white, grub-like insects which bore and tunnel under the bark and sometimes into the wood near the surface of the ground. In the case of the peach tree borer the adult is a pretty moth with metallic-like, iridescent wings, which lays its eggs in July and August. The larvae or grubs are about half an inch long when winter comes on and attain their full size of about an inch in length the next season. In the case of the apple there are two species, the flat-headed and round-headed borers, the adults of which are hard-shelled beetles.

The best method of borer control is with a knife and wire. Go over the trees in the spring and fall and examine each tree carefully for borers. They will be found by the sawdust-like castings which they force out of their tunnels. This material can usually be noticed near the base of the trees and when a borer is present it will have a fresh appearance. Perpendicular cuts made with a good stout pocket knife will usually reveal the damaging insect in the case of the peach tree. With the apple tree the borings are frequently deeper and extend into the wood. When this is the case, a pliable wire pushed into the tunnel will kill the insect in its home and stop further damage. The horticultural agent finds considerable damage from borers to both peach and apple trees in this section.

The European apple red mite is showing up in many orchards of Hampden county this fall. This is a minute spider-like pest which feeds on the leaves mostly on the under side. Its feeding and damage result in the leaves taking on a bronzed tint and ceasing to function as they should. The mites can be found now on the underside of the leaves. They have begun to lay their minute bright red eggs in clusters mostly near and about the forks of the smaller branches. The entomologists of the Connecticut experiment station who have experimented in the control of this pest state that the most satisfactory remedy is a miscible oil spray applied while the trees are dormant to kill the eggs.

NEED OF MORE MINERAL MATTER FOR COWS IN WINTER

It is very essential to have what is known as a balanced ration, which means that there is enough protein and enough carbohydrates and fats and a proper proportion of the one to the other. But at this time of year and during the winter, one may be feeding a ration that answers all these requirements but still be a very deficient ration for the cows to eat.

In other words, it is essential to see that mineral matter is supplied to the cows in sufficient quantities to answer the body wants. In the summer the dairy cow is eating green foods such as green grass, millet, etc., but in the winter time there is no green feed to give. This green feed contains much mineral matter, so it is not as necessary to supply it during the summer months.

In the winter, however, unless minerals are supplied extra, the animals do not get as much mineral as they should. In early cut hay or alfalfa there is much more mineral than in late cut hay or hay that has been wet. To supply this mineral matter, one way is to sprinkle a very light coating of lime, wood ashes or bone meal over dampened hay or silage.

Frank Mucio, of 28 Pierce street, arrested by Patrolman Michael Curtin, while engaged with some dozen or fifteen others in a crap game Sunday, at the corner of Pierce and Ford streets, was brought before Judge Michael J. Turano Tuesday night in a special session of the Third district court. Complaint was made to Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown that a game was in progress, and Officer Curtin was sent to th place. While Mucio lingered to secure the ivories and the two nickels left in the precipitate retreat of the other players, he was caught by Patrolman Curtin. Pleading guilty to a charge of violation of the Sunday laws, Mucio was fined $5 and costs amounting to $8.50 which was paid. It is thought that his arrest and fine will "slow down" future crap games.

The cases of home-brewed beer seized in the raid on Cross street Saturday night remain in the custody of the police to await the arrival of a federal test officer, before their disposition is determined.

Reported to the Pawcatuck police at the first of the week was an automobile accident which resulted in the demolition of a considerable section of the fence in front of the house occupied by E. W. Scriber, on the North Stonington road. An investigation by the police revealed that not only the fence but the automobile had gone.

George O. Murphy was a business caller in Boston Monday.

Simon E. Kinney was in Boston on business Monday afternoon.

Tanlac Worth $500 To Him, Says Billings

"If the Tanlac I took had cost me five hundred dollars I wouldn't begrudge a penny of it," declared John B. Billings, well known proprietor of Windsor Hall, popular summer hotel located at Oak Bluffs, Mass.

"I certainly had my money's worth from Tanlac. I would give up anything I possess rather than have another spell of rheumatism. Why, for five years I couldn't sleep a wink, and the rheumatic pains in my heels, ankles and calf of my legs just made me groan at times. We went south for the winters, but this did me no good.

"However I am perfectly well now, thanks to Tanlac, and even wintering in Massachusetts has had no tendency to bring back my trouble. A bottle of Tanlac stays in my house all the time and always will."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Weeks, the Misses Jennie and Louise Trumbull, Misses Mabel E. Ingraham, May Rix, Florence Buck, Marion Harrison, Elnora Bailey, Gertrude Olwiller, also Stanley Brainard, Beverly Usaher and J. H. Weeks.

WESTMINSTER

A call has been issued by over 300 persons, many very prominent in their varied walks of life for a great patriotic convention for the enforcement of all existing laws under the constitution to promote reverence for the constitution, the basis of all laws of the land and to devise ways and means for working more effectually with the government in enforcement of its laws and especially of those concerning the 18th amendment. This convention meets in Washington, D. C., soon and every one interested to help is privileged to attend, each to pay his own expenses.

Topic for Oct. 177th, Wednesday evening, home prayer hour is From Everlasting to Everlasting, Thou Art God. The Psalms for reading and study are 90, 91, 95, 96, 98, 103 and 104.

SHIPPING BOARD TO CONSOLIDATE TRADE ROUTES

Washington, Oct. 17.—Decision to consolidate the five active North Atlantic United Kingdom trade routes and to eliminate entirely the managing agent system now in use upon them was announced today by the shipping board.

The place of the agents will be taken by one or more "loading agents" and supervision of the ships will be taken over directly by the board.

A probable solution of the operation problem of the government merchant fleet was seen by board officials in the new plan which was said to be designed as an experiment. Upon its success and the returns shown by managing agents of other routes will depend the extension of the new scheme, it was said officially.

Considerable reduction is contemplated in the number of ships now being operated upon the five routes but Chairman Farley emphasized that this would not be carried far enough to hamper service. A trade name will be taken for the consolidated routes, the North Atlantic-United Kingdom line having already received favorable consideration.

SHARP REACTION IN MARKET

New York, Oct. 16.—Heavy selling of the western railroad shares on publication of Washington dispatches stating that President Coolidge favored a reduction in freight rates on grain and coal brought about another sharp reaction in today's stock market. The losses in active shares running from 1 to nearly 4 points. The average of 20 leading industrial stocks dropped 1.07 points to 86.56, or within 4 points of the 1923 low.

New low prices for the year were established by Northern Pacific at 50 3-4, Omaha at 61, "Soo" at 50, Chicago & Northwestern at 60 1-4 and the preferred at 105 and Colorado & Southern at 30. In addition, Great Northern preferred duplicated its previous low at 51 1-2. A few issues made partial recovery before the close, the net losses in this group ranging from 1 to 2 5-8 in the case of Northern Pacific and 4 for Chicago and Northwestern preferred.

Resumption of yesterday's short covering operations gave the market a firm tone at the opening, with special attention being paid by buyers to the steel, motor and tobacco shares. Wall Street began to hear unfavorable reports about the western carriers before noon, however, and the pressing for sale of these issues brought about a reduction or cancellation of the early gains, which ran from 1 to 3 points in many issues, and eventually turned the entire market downward.

Nearly a score of industrials also fell to new lows for the year including National Enamelling, which lost ground on unconfirmed rumors that the common dividend was in danger. Ajax, Goodrich and Kelly-Springfield Rubbers, which weakened in reflection of lower tire and crude rubber prices; Butte Copper & Zinc, which was adversely affected by the lower prices for the red metal and Central Leather preferred which has been under pressure as a result of unfavorable trade conditions. Among the others to hit new bottoms were Cocoa Cola, Armour of Delaware preferred, Pressed Steel Car, Mathieuson Alkalo and United Cigar Stores.

Most of the selling originated with professional speculators for the decline who were quick to seize advantage of this apparently unfavorable development. There was a thin market for a number of stocks, however, with the result that the losses in some cases were large enough to touch off stop-loss orders and cause some selling by frightened investors. Buying support made its appearance in the late trading but it failed to bring about a rally of any proportions.

Sugar shares developed fresh weakness on the failure of Putna Olegre to make an extra disbursement in addition to the resumption of the regular $56 annual rate. Scattered gasoline price cuts and the reported increase in production in the Powell field in Texas accelerated the liquidation of oil stocks.

Money rates were somewhat easier. Fundays on call opened at 43-4 and eased to 4 1-2 while more time money was available at 5 1-4 for the shorter maturities.

Foreign exchange rates were slightly heavy, French francs dropping 9 points to 6.05 cents. Signs of weakness again developed in the Scandinavian remittances, Norwegian and Swedish kroner again establishing new lows for the year.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Wheat scored a material advance in price today on receipt of news that President Coolidge had suggested a reduction on railroad freight charges on export shipments of wheat. The upturn of the market however, brought about heavy selling, and the gains were nearly wiped out. Closing quotations were unsettled, a shade to 3-8c net higher with December 1.08 1-8 at 1-4 to 1.09 1-4 and May 1.12 3-4 to 1.13 7-8. Corn finished 3-8 a 1-2 to 1 1-4c up, oats varying from 1-8c decline to a like advance, and provisions 2c to 15c down.

Until President Coolidge's action was announced, the wheat market was confined to narrow limits both as to price changes and volume of business Only a little selling was induced by an official estimate that the new Argentine crop would total more than 250,000,000 bushels as against 195,000,000 bushels last year. Although the forecast, if realized, would mean a record-breaking yield. The market here failed to make much response, and traders for the most part seemed to be determined to await domestic developments, especially those connected with the government's plans for agricultural relief.

About a cent a bushel was added to wheat values during the demand which followed talk of a possible cut in railroad rates on export wheat. The selling that took place subsequently was largely of a profit-taking character, but was too much of a load to be sustained at the time, even with the help of notable strength which had become evident in the corn market.

Wet weather and floods delaying field work and threatening to curtail yields led to general buying of corn and lifted December delivery to a new high price record for the season. Oats were upheld by corn.

Provisions declined with hogs.

BOND MARKET

New York, Oct. 16.—Outstanding features of today's bond market were the strength and activity of New York railways bonds, due to the announcement of the plan of reorganization, and the greatly increased volume of transactions.

Investment houses reported increasing inquiries from western points for high grade investment issues with a few orders for second grade railroad mortgages.

Moderate gains were recorded by active United States government bonds, giving rise anew to reports that Great Britain is in the market to meet her next interest payment on the British debt. Price changes in the foreign group generally were limited to fractions, although some of the Scandinavian issues receded on dissolution of the syndicate which offered the Norway 6's Yesterday's drop in Norwegian and Danish exchange also probably had some influence in the decline.

Practically all speculative issues moved downward, both in railroad and industrial groups, but net changes were small.

There were reports in the financial district that an offering will be made soon of $15,000,000 Illinois soldiers' bonus bonds, carrying a 4 3-4 per cent. coupon.

CURB MARKET

New York, Oct. 16.—Further cuts in gasoline prices combined with reports that another reduction in Mid-Continent crude was imminent as a result of increased production in the Powell field in Texas, resulted in heavy offerings of the oil shares, which gave today's curb market a reactionary appearance.

Standard Oil of Indiana closed a point lower at 54 1-2 while most of the other active issues yielded fractionally. A few notably Gulf of Pennsylvania and Humble, recorded slight fractional gains.

Park & Tilford was again the leader of the industrial group, more than 15,000 shares changing hands. The stock closed 1 1-4 higher at 30 1-4 after having sold at high as 31. The buying was reported to be for the Schulte interests. Durant Motors dropped 2 points on a turn-over of less than 1,000 shares.

Enlargement of the capital structure of Liggett & Myers resulted in the admission of trading of 559,856 shares of new $25 par value and 1,744,552 shares of new "B" par value on a "when issued" basis.

Interest in the mining group was confined largely to the penny shares.

METAL MARKET

New York, Oct. 16.—Copper quiet, electrolytic spot and futures 12 7-8 a 13. Tin steady, spot and nearby 41.62; futures 41.37. Iron steady, prices unchanged. Lead steady, spot, 6.85 a 7.00. Zinc quiet, East St. Louis spot and nearby 6.30. Antimony, spot, 7.45 a 7.55.

MONEY

New York, Oct. 16.—Call money easier; high 4 3-4; low 4 1-2; ruling rate 4 3-4; closing bid 4 1-2; offered at 4 3-4; last loan 4 1-2; call loans against acceptances 4 1-4.

COTTON

Organized Fair Play

JUST as thousands of slender threads are woven into a single fabric of enduring strength and beauty, so are the employees of this organization united for a single purpose —to produce woolen and worsted fabrics of enduring value for the world's millions.

The American Woolen Company is a recognized leader in the woolen industry of the world because it has, through efficient organization, been useful to the people and to the industry it represents.

And that efficiency was rendered possible through co-operation and fair play. Fairness to employees and to the people who buy and use its goods is the driving force behind the "seven league looms" of the American Woolen Company.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

John Luppi was fined $25 and costs of $11.21 in the borough court Monday morning on a charge of reckless driving. George Guay paid a fine of $15 and costs of $11.21 for violating the rules of the road. The arrests were made by State Policeman Russell I. Harmon, after investigating an account in which automobiles operated by G. Luppi and Guay figured on the Hollow road on the afternoon of Sept. 7th. Luppi attempted to pass Guay but the latter would not allow him to do so crowding him into the ditch. Guay was thrown out of the car and received a broken collar bone.

Frank H. Plumb has completed the annual school enumeration and made his report to the town school committee. The report shows that on the first Monday in Sept., 1923, there were residing in Stafford 1,457 children between the ages of four and six years. This is a gain of 22 over last year.

Not since the Stafford Springs Agricultural society was organized has the society had such fine weather and so large an attendance as the fair this year. The bills have not all been presented yet, but there is sure to be a good balance on the right side after all accounts are paid.

NORWICH TOWN

The following letter from the International Grenfell association, of St. Anthony, Newfoundland, has been received by Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington, president of the Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church:

My dear Mrs. Yerrington:—When Miss Goodnow came to St. Anthony, two weeks ago, she brought a box of clothing which she turned over to the clothing department, with the word that it was a gift from you. I should like to express our most sincere thanks, for nothing is quite so useful in Newfoundland and Labrador as clothing. This year we seem to have more of a shortage than usual to meet the demands upon our supply, so your gift is most timely.

With renewed thanks, believe me,
Very sincerely yours,
DOROTHY STIRLING,
Director Clothing Department.

At the church night service of the First Congregational church, Thursday evening, Senior Deacon Dwight W. Avery is to conduct the meeting. The topic is Shephard of Israel.

TAFTVILLE

The Thimble club met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Edmund Hindle at her home on North Third avenue.

Troop 4, Boy Scouts, met Monday evening in their rooms in Sacred Heart school building.

STAFF CAPTAIN SEAVER TO VISIT NORWICH CORPS

Staff Captain Thomas Seaver of Hartford, the new divisional officer of the Southern New England and Vermont division of the Salvation Army, is to make his first visit to the Norwich corps next Friday evening. He will be accompanied by his staff and will be here for the open air meeting in Franklin square at 7.15, followed by the indoor meeting at 8 at the Salvation Army building on Cliff street. There will be special music at the services.

NORWICH TAKING SUIT AGAINST SHORE LINE TO SUPREME COURT

Test of whether the receiver of the Shore Line Electric Railway company will be obliged to pay a bill of between $1,600 and $1,700 for repairs made by the town of Norwich on Preston bridge is involved in an appeal to the April session of the supreme court which the town has taken from a decision of Judge W. E. Hinman last June.

The case concerns the town's bill against the electric railway for the expense of repairs to the space between the trolley tracks on the bridge and for a space two feet outside the rails. Judge Hinman rendered decision that the electric railway was chargeable only for the space between the rails and eight inches outside. This disallowed all of the town's bill except $549.26.

Under a contract made by the town with the Shore Line company several years before 1921, the company was to keep in repair the two foot space outside the rails, but the company contested the bill in question on the claim that the legislature of 1921 had changed this to eight inches outside the rails. Judge Hinman's decision was in favor of the company.

Town Counsel H. H. Pettis, who has associated with him Attorney Charles L. Stewart in this appeal, has five reasons.

That the court erred in ruling that this certain clause in the contract is modified by chapter 314 of the Public Acts of 1921.

That the court erred in ruling that the receiver is obligated by only such duties as are imposed upon him by statutes now in force.

That the court erred in ruling that the liability of the receiver is fixed by Chapter 314 rather than by the clause in the contract.

That the court erred in ruling that the contract could be changed or modified or the rights of the town impaired or diminished by any subsequent acts of the legislature for the reason that such a construction of any subsequent act would render the same in conflict with Article 1, Section 10, of the Constitution of the United States, which refers to the inviolability of contracts.

STATE EMPLOYMENT BUREAUS HAD 3,296 APPLICATIONS

With 3,296 aplications for work, free employment bureaus of the state bureau of labor furnished 3,278 positions during the month of September, according to a report issued in Hartford.

New Haven led the list of 1,084 applying, 1,108 positions offered and 993 positions suplied. In Waterbury 332 women as against 546 men sought employment and 618 furnished.

Bridgeport applicants numbered 858, employers made 736 requests and 721 positions were filled. In Hartford 903 sought work, offers totalled 949 and positions 791. But 34 women applied for work in Norwich against 178 men, 207 requests for work were made and 149 positions supplied.

Placements for men showed better average, 80.1 per cent. of those applying, 1,108 positions offered and as against 74.3 last month. Of the number of women applying in September 85.6 per cent. were fitted into vacancies against 85.5 in August. Employers' applications were filled to the extent of 85.2 per cent., a fractional decrease from the figure of August. Of all applicants for help 83.4 per cent. were placed as against 78.3 per cent. last month.

Sweeney $35, M. J. Curran $20, H. T. Robinson $35, W. H. Callahan $25, J. F. Williams $20, Earl Mathewson $25, M. R. Waters $25, J. Fitzgerald $10, T. Lajennesse $5. Total $549. He paid the district treasurer $550.

William S. Murray, republican treasurer in Greeneville, received $100 from the town treasurer and expended the following: two autos $40, six assistants $31, lunch $13.20, cigars $9, room rent $3, phone $3. The expense was exceeded by $3.20.

William S. Murray, who was chosen first selectman, contributed the town committee of his party $50.

Walter F. Lester did not incur expenses in running for the school board.

William H. Callahan, democratic treasurer in the First district, was paid $165 by Earl Mathewson and spent $169.85. Ten autos cost $145; lunch $16.95 and phone $8.

Joseph F. Williams got $100 for the Second district from the democratic treasurer and spent it all as follows: Four autos cost $60; room $5; four assistants cost $20; cigars $10, lunch $5.

In the Fifth district Arthur Roy was given $75 and he expended it all as follows: Three autos $60; two assistants $10; cigars $5.

HAS BEEN SELLING JEWELRY FOR 45 YEARS

Henry R. Woodward, who has been selling jewelry for 45 years and has conducted a jewelry store on Main street for the last 35 years, having occupied two locations in that time, is about to close out his store but his intention is to maintain a selling route through the villages the same as he has done while he has been running the store. The two activities together have meant about 12 hours of time every day for him and he has reached a point in life where he feels like taking shorter hours.

Mr. Woodward began in the jewelry selling line when he was 20 years old. At that time he was working in the Allen pistol shop and had saved up $100 with which he bought his first bill of goods in September 1877. It came to $150 on which he paid $100 cash and was given credit for the balance. He sold evenings and in the shop until the 6th of April, 1878, when he started a route through the villages from Norwich to North Greenvendale at which he continued for ten years. In April, 1888, the year of the blizzard, he opened a store at 163 Main street where he had a successful experience for twelve years and then moved to his present store at 134 Main street. At the same time he has kept up a route in Taftville, Baltic and Yantic.

JAIL CENSUS HIGHER WITH DRY LAWS ENFORCED

Jail populations in the state have been steadily mounting since 1919 official figures show and any prospect of combining, or abandoning jails is, apparently fading further and further into the distance.

Figures secured last week from state reports and from the jails indicate that jail populations took a sharp drop when prohibition went into effect, but, since 1919, when they reached their nadir, they have been steadily gaining. Recently a Windham county jailer at Brooklyn resigned as his institution was becoming too popular and congested.

In some jails such as the Tolland county institution, which has twice as many prisoners as the average for last year, this is laid directly to the greater stress being laid on prohibition enforcement. The jail populations of New London, Windham and Litchfield counties are lower than the average for the last year, that in the Middlesex county jail is the same and in the jails of Hartford, New Haven, Fairfield and Tolland counties, increases are reported.

At the New Haven jail it was said that motor vehicle law violations and narcotic cases, as well as prohibition law violations had resulted in a substantial increase. It was admitted that about 700 had been admitted to the jail during the year, but, as in the case of other jails, reports for the year have not yet been compiled.

The Fairfield county jail at Bridgeport had 91 prisoners and the jail at Danbury, 14. The number of prisoners at the Bridgeport jail ranges from 75 to 100 and at the Danbury jail the usual number is from eight to ten. Danbury has not yet started to send first offenders against the liquor laws to jail.

New London county has 18 prisoners in jail, an increase over the usual number. Windham has only 21 prisoners in its jail, where the number ranges from 10 to 90, although usually less than 30. Both Windham and New London counties are sending some of the first offenders against the liquor laws to jail.

Litchfield has 17 prisoners in its jail, two less than the average number of prisoners for last year and there has been no increase noted there because of prohibition enforcement. Middlesex county had 16 prisoners in jail and this increase over the usual number of from seven to nine is laid to prohibition enforcement. The same reason is given for the increase in the number of prisoners at the Tolland county jail, the 14 there being within one of a record for the institution.

| Jail. | Population. |
| Hartford | 185 |
| New Haven | 258 |
| Fairfield | 106 |
| New London | 18 |
| Windham | 21 |
| Litchfield | 17 |
| Middlesex | 16 |
| Tolland | 14 |
| | 635 |

Compilation of the average jail populations in each of the eight counties for the last seven years show that except in the cases of Windham and New London counties, the low points were reached in 1919. In the two counties mentioned the jail populations now are lower than the average for the year 1919, but in the six other counties, neither the population of the jails now, nor the average for any year noted, either before or since 1919, were the jail populations as low as in 1919.

ODD FELLOWS' MEMBERSHIP SHOWS SUBSTANTIAL GAIN

Membership gain in the Grand Encampment Independent Order of Odd Fellows which held its eightieth annual session at Norwalk, Tuesday, was a substantial one, the reports of officers to the subordinate lodge representatives showed when read at the opening session. Grand Scribe William S. Hutchinson, of New Haven showed a net increase in membership of 74 for the year ending June 30. Assets increased during the year $3,080.

There were initiated during the year 483 but suspensions were 364, a condition to which the grand scribe called special attention.

Grand Patriarch Nelson W. Benedict presided at the sessions until his successor was elected. His report showed a year of official activity with many visitations. He mentioned the death of Past Grand Patriarch Walter Pond of New Haven as a loss which was keenly felt.

The encampments on last year's roll of honor were: Sowheag, Enfield, E. L. Dunbar, Comstock, Devotion, Wahackma, James B. Bidwell and Ansantawas, the gain in membership being from 20 per cent. down to 6.9 per cent. respectively.

The total membership in the Patriarchial branch of the order in this state on July 1 last was 7,812 and total assets were $195,692.

POETRY

MY MOTHER'S HOUSE

"It's strange," my mother said "to think
Of the old house where we were born.
I can remember every chink
And every board our feet had worn.

"It's gone now. Many years ago
They tore it down. It was too old,
And none too grand as houses go,
Not like a new house, bought or sold.

"And so they tore it down. But we Could talk about it still and say
Just so the kitchen used to be,
And the stairs turned in such a way.

But we're gone too, now. Every one
Who knew the house is dead and buried
And I'm not last so long alone
With all my children grown and married.

"There's not a living soul can tell,
Except myself, just how the grass
Grew round the pathway to the well,
Or where the china closet was.

"Yet while I live you can not say
That the old house is quite, quite dead.
It still exists in some dim way
While I remember it," she said.
—Eunice Tietjens, in Harper's Magazine.

THE DARKNESS

The darkness has been very kind to me;
She has shut out the white flame of the world.
Hidden the sun of sorrow when it buried
It's beam on me, and I was lost in night!
She brought the velvet healing of the night
When I was frantic with the staring day,
Till round about me her great spirit lay,
A wayless ocean, drowning my dismay.

The darkness has been very kind to me;
Like a still prayer thought by a lonely nun
Her quiet is; the day's griefs, one by one,
Drift to the shore of long-forgotten things,
And hushed are the loud earth's old echoings.
Deep in her bosom, deep, oh, very deep,
I hide my head when her first shadows creep.
And sink at last within the pool of Sleep.
—Charles Hanson Towne.

VON HOESCH'S INTERVIEW WITH POINCARE FRUITLESS

Sir John Bradbury, British Member of the Reparations Commission, Regards the Commission's Hands as Tied Until Some of the Problems Are Settled by the Interested Governments—French Officials Believe Germany Abandoned Passive Resistance Because It Could Not Finance the Campaign.

Paris, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Consideration by the reparation commission today of the documents submitted by the Belgians brought out the fact that the British member, Sir John Bradbury, regards the commission's hands as tied for the present, or until the wider aspects of the problem are settled by the interested governments.

He believes that Chancellor Stresemann's recent declarations give promise of the necessary German cooperation, provided the important questions of the total to be paid and the time to be given for payment can first be settled by the allies.

It is understood on good authority that Louis Barthou, the French representative and president of the commission, agrees with Sir John that the commission can accomplish little until the governments have arrived at a basis of settlement. The documents were referred to the financial experts for examination and report.

The documents contain nothing additional to the proposals already published in the Belgian gray-book. They involve the organization of monopolies for the sale of certain products of Germany in the proceeds of which the allies would participate through the reparation commission, which would supervise the exploitation and control the German finances until they were reorganized.

While the commission was engaged in its deliberations the German charge d'affaires, Herr Von Hoesch, called on Premier Poincare, but the visit, which had been announced in advance and which had aroused great curiosity, failed to produce the promised results.

It is learned on good authority that the communication he made to M. Poincare was of a purely negative character and that no progress whatever was made toward a settlement between the allies and Germany of the difficulties of reviving industrial activity in the Ruhr.

Herr Von Hoesch told the premier that in the present economic situation of Germany it would be impossible to collect the coal tax in the Ruhr and that, in view of the financial crisis, there was no possibility of financing reparation deliveries in kind.

These declarations are taken in French official circles as merely confirming the impression already formed, which was that the Germans, in deciding officially to declare an end to the passive resistance, were simply submitting to imperative circumstances and that they cancelled the ordinances hostile to the occupation, not because they wanted to end the resistance campaign but because they could no longer support the campaign financially.

"The Germans, having ostensibly and ostentatiously abandoned their passive resistance, are holding off the reparation pay and as long as they can in other ways," said one high official of the foreign office tonight. "The steps taken by their diplomatic representatives in Paris and Brussels have advanced the problem not one whit."

SAXON DIET REJECTS MOTION FOR LACK OF CONFIDENCE

Dresden, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—The Saxon Diet late tonight rejected a motion of lack of confidence in the government by 48 socialist votes against 45 votes of the non-socialist parties.

POLICE AND STRIKERS BATTLE AT MANNHEIM

London, Oct. 17.—A despatch to the Central News from Berlin says a general strike proclaimed at Mannheim was followed by disturbances which culminated in a street battle between police and strikers. Three persons were killed and fifteen injured.

FRENCH GOVT STUDYING GERMANY'S CONTENTIONS

Paris, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—The second visit of Herr Von Hoesch, the German charge d'affaires, to Premier Poincare, today could hardly be fruitful, but is served to place in the hands of the French government Germany's latest contentions with respect to the payment of reparations. No official statement regarding the visit was issued, but some details have filtered through the veil of secrecy which the French officials are observing.

The memorandum received from Berlin, which the German charge read to M. Poincare described the existing difficulties of Germany's economic situation, but when Herr Von Hoesch wished to speak of deliveries in kind and means for paying the manufacturers who made them, Premier Poincare pointed out that he was unable to discuss this subject.

Chancellor Stresemann had publicly stated that the German government was unable to pay the manufacturers for goods delivered it was the French government's opinion that the discussion with Berlin would be impossible of resumption until the occupied regions returned to the conditions existing before January 11 by resuming work as well as payments in kind. As soon as these terms were fulfilled, negotiations might be opened between Germany and the allies, nothing, said the premier, prevented Germany from addressing a communication to the reparation commission. Such communication would be examined.

Herr Von Hoesch left in the hands of M. Poincare documents dealing with Germany's alleged inability to pay the coal tax and including the instructions given to the Ruhr functionaries. These will be studied by the French foreign office.

CONVENTION OF NATIONAL COUNCIL OF CATHOLIC MEN

Cincinnati, Oct. 17.—With the adoption of important resolutions, in which the activities of the Ku Klux Klan were referred to indirectly, the election of new directors and the reelection of the entire list of officers, the third annual convention of the national council of Catholic men ended its business sessions here today.

The council defined its attitude on the repeated outbreaks against law and order and reaffirmed its allegiance to the principles of government, reiterated its faith in the Catholic school system, deplored abrogation of powers granted each of the three divisions of government, and the growing tendency toward divorce.

The election of directors resulted in the re-election for three years of Francis R. Lowther, St. Louis; T. J. Cahill, Cheyenne, Wyo., and Martin Conboy, New York, whose terms had expired and the addition of Harry A. N. Dalley, Philadelphia.

The directors met immediately and re-elected the entire list of officers. These include president, Admiral W. S. Benson, Washington; vice-president, Thomas P. Flynn, Chicago; secretary, Judge A. N. Hailey, Detroit; and treasurer Charles Benechaud, New Orleans.

MOTION TO STRIKE OUT TESTIMONY IN STOKES TRIAL

New York, Oct. 17.—Decision on a motion to strike out the entire testimony of John M. Mattes, a witness for W. E. D. Stokes in the retrial of the wealthy hotel owners divorce suit against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, was reserved today by supreme court Justice Mahoney as court adjourned until tomorrow.

Mattes, a messenger boy for the Interborough Rapid Transit company in 1913 and 1914 when Edgar F. Wallace, chief co-respondent, was an engineer for the concern, testified to carrying letters and packages from Wallace's apartment to the hotel Ansonia where Mr. and Mrs. Stokes lived.

He said the letters were given him by W. I. Pepperman, an Interborough official who lived with Wallace. They were addressed, he asserted, to Mrs. D. Hays, but when Mrs. Hays opened the door of the Ansonia suite on three occasions, he saw Mrs. Stokes in the room and once Mrs. Hays said: "This is all right, Helen."

Samuel Untermyer, chief defense counsel contended the testimony was irrelevant. Decision on his motion is expected tomorrow.

AMERICAN FLAGS USED TO CONCEAL ALCOHOL

Pawtucket, R. I. Oct. 17.—Several American flags were found to be hiding 100 gallons of alcohol and nearly 200 bottles of whiskey when federal dry agents raided a saloon left here today. Charles Sullivan, alleged owner, will appear before the United States commissioner to explain.

FOR INCREASED USE OF ELECTRICITY ON FARMS

Washington, Oct. 17.—Cooperation of the interior and commerce departments in the promotion of experiments looking toward increased use of electricity on farms, was promised the American farm bureau federation today by Secretaries Work and Hoover.

Speaking at a luncheon of the federation's committee on the relation of electricity to agriculture, Mr. Hoover declared proposed superpower systems would bring about greatly increased use of electricity on American farms. He gave assurance he would use the machinery of the commerce department to take a survey of the use of electricity by farmers in foreign countries, and also to ascertain what experimental work had been done in electrical farm machinery.

Secretary Work said the interior department believed increasing use of electrical machinery on farms and on government reclamation projects would check considerably the migration of farm dwellers to cities.

TWO COMPANIES TO REPLACE COLUMBIA GRAPHOPHONE

New York, Oct. 17.—Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of the re-adjustment committee of the Columbia Graphophone Manufacturing company, which was placed in the hands of a receiver Monday, today announced a reorganization plan providing for two new companies.

One company would continue the operations of the present company and the other would take over and liquidate such assets of the present company as are not required for economical operation. The names of two companies will be announced later.

Stock in the new companies, Mr. Buckner said, would be delivered to creditors participating in the plan on the basis of 3.75 shares of the operating company and 3.75 shares of the liquidating company in exchange for each $1,000 of indebtedness, principal and interest.

WOMAN AND BARTENDERS GIVEN JAIL SENTENCES

Bristol, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Genevieve Hotkowski, an alleged saloon keeper, and her three employes said to be bar tenders, Edward Souney, William Fink and Robert F. Robertson, were before Judge Malone today charged with bribery and removing witnesses from the jurisdiction of the court. The woman was given 60 days in jail and the men 30 days each.

Mrs. Hotkowski also pleaded guilty to sales of liquor on Saturday and Sunday last to Peter Burns and Mary Shea and was given 30 days on each count, or 60 days in all.

Burns and Shea were in court and were given 30 days each for taking a bribe. They had been taken to Millerton, N. Y. and given $250 to remain away.

Sinn Fein Session Orderly.

Dublin, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—The proceedings of this, the second day of the convention of the Ard Fheis, or Sinn Fein organization, covered the whole of the republican program in detail, and throughout the session the votes were unanimous, no divisions having been called for.

YOUTH CHARGED WITH MURDER OF EMMA DICKSON

Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—Eone-to Faccenda, a youth of nineteen years, was today charged with murder in connection with the death of Emma Dickson, fifteen year old Millville, N. J., high school girl, whose body was found in a clump of trees near her home at Bricksburg, N. J., September 22.

The charge of murder was placed against Faccenda by Frank J. Lore, a Cumberland, N. J., county detective, who has been investigating the case since its inception. Faccenda was being detained merely as a material witness as a result of his alleged statement to a shipyard friend that he saw the girl slain on September 18, the day she disappeared.

Members of the local murder squad who have questioned Faccenda constantly since his arrest expressed surprise at the gravity of the charge, as they said they believed the young man was the victim of a distorted imagination.

Lore declared the warrant against Faccenda was obtained on the strength of a statement made to him by Frank Kalnewitz, the foreman of a shipyard where Faccenda was employed. Faccenda, according to Kalnewitz, told his of seeing the killing of the girl. Since his arrest ten days ago, the accused man has repeatedly denied he ever made such a state ment and that he had any knowledge of the crime.

One slender clew the police said, has, in some measure, substantiated Kalnewitz's account of what Faccenda is alleged to have told him. It was the finding of a gold bracelet near the scene of the slaying between Port Elizabeth and Millville.

Faccenda said his aunt living in Ellisburg, N. J., had dropped the bracelet there. The aunt, however, was questioned and denied having lost the bracelet. She asserted she had never heard of the events which Kalnewitz said Faccenda told him had occurred.

"As Faccenda will not tell us who committed the murder but as he appears to have seen it, and konwa a great deal about it, the only thing to do is to lodge a charge against him," said Lore.

19,000 MAJORITY AGAINST 48-HOUR WEEK IN MAINE

Portland, Me., Oct. 17.—The voters of Maine rejected the proposed 48-hour law for women and children in industry in Monday's special state election by a majority of more than 19,000 votes, according to virtually complete returns tabulated tonight. With only a score of isolated towns and plantations remaining to be heard from, the proposed statutory amendment introduced under the initiative and referendum law, had been defeated by 53,077 votes to 34,046. The total vote cast in the special election was only 50 per cent of that polled in last year's election for governor.

Two counties—Androscoggin and York—both important textile centers, voted in favor of the 48-hour law. Nine counties rejected it by votes of more than two to one.

SHUBERT GETS TEMPORARY RESTRAINING INJUNCTION

Stamford, Oct. 17.—Jacob J. Shubert, theatrical magnate, today secured a temporary restraining injunction from Deputy Judge James E. Brinckerhoff, preventing his millionaire neighbor, Alfred H. Renshaw, at Collender's Point, from burning rubbish within 175 feet of the Shubert estate. Petition for a modification of the injunction will be heard in the Bridgeport superior court Friday afternoon at the short calendar session.

Renshaw denied that the burning of the rubbish constituted a nuisance and told the court that he had a perfect right to burn whatever he pleased upon his own property without restraint from the theatrical man.

INDICTMENTS FOR CRIMES ALONG THE "BOOTLEG TRAIL"

Ballston Spa, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Crimes by day and night along the "bootleg trail" from Saratoga Springs to Plattsburgh, had a sequel today in action of a Saratoga county grand jury, which was discharged after reporting indictments in several cases involving hold-ups and robberies.

After the indictment yesterday on the first degree murder charge of Matthew Salvinski of Albany, in connection with the killing of State Trooper Roy A. Donivan, the grand jury reported a similar indictment today against George Haupt, of Albany, now in a Troy hospital recovering from injuries sustained in a clash with troopers after the murder. Indictments for robbery in the first degree were returned against Leonard Breen and Bruce (Jack) Monroe, both of Troy, charged with holding up Harold Lincoln of this village and taking $30, a diamond ring and watch.

An indictment charging first degree murder was returned against Sheridan Morris, for the shooting to death of Edith Barber in Saratoga Springs last August 233.

MAKING AN INVESTIGATION OF THE CAUSE OF COLDS

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Dr. John F. Norton and Dr. Edward I. Jordan, of the department of hygiene and bacteriology at the University of Chicago, have agun an investigation of the cause of colds, it become known today, and have sent out about 2,000 questionnaires to students concerning their chronic conditions, weight of underwear and other points bearing upon colds. No single germ ever has been found to be the cause of colds, Dr. Norton said, adding that while numerous germs have been found to be contributory causes no single one has been found to be dominant.

In the cold season, he said, there is as much chance to catch cold in California as in Chicago, and that colds have no relation to ventilation of the bedroom.

FEDERAL RECEIVER FOR TRIANGLE FILM CORP.

New York, Oct. 17.—A federal receiver was appointed this afternoon for the Triangle Film corporation, at one time one of the leading producers and distributors of motion pictures.

Percival L. Waters received the appointment after a complaint had been filed by Adam and Charles Mensel, with a claim of $93,000. The corporation's headquarters is in this city.

To Correct Conditions In the Oil Industry

Committee Appointed by the Attorney-Generals of Twenty-Four States.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—A standing executive committee to confer with the United States attorney general concerning "chaotic" conditions in the oil industry was appointed today by the conference of attorneys general from twenty-four states called by the National Association of Attorneys General. Attorney General J. R. Benton of Massachusetts is a member of the committee.

Besides calling for "continued and thorough investigation" of the petroleum industry by state authorities and by the department of justice, the conference adopted resolutions recommending that the states place facts "which may disclose violations of law and the evidence thereof" before the department of justice in the enforcement of decrees involving compliance with the laws.

The resolutions also recommended that pipe lines be made common carriers divorced from the ownership of petroleum and the business of producing, refining or marketing petroleum." The advised further that "such changes be made in freight rates upon petroleum products as will permit producers and refiners in the fields depending upon railroad transportation once more to find a market in competition with other sources of supply."

Special attention to the prevention of unnecessary and wasteful increase and duplication of service stations also was proposed in the resolution.

POSTAL SERVICE UNDER-PAID AND UNDE MANNED

Boston, Oct. 17.—The United States postal service is radically undermanned and the men under paid, First Assistant Postmaster General John H. Bartlett, declared in the course of an address before the district conference of Massachusetts and Rhode Island postal service workers held in Faneuil Hall here today. He expressed the expectation however, that improvements were on the way.

Mr. Bartlett spoke of the possibility of establishing a differential between rates of pay for workers in large cities and smaller communities. In certain of the smaller communities of New Hampshire $1800 was consid red a good salary, he said, while a similar sum might prove insuf ient in larger cities and for this reason a differential had been suggested, and would be considered.

Representative Peter F. Tague in a short talk charged the magazines with not paying their share of postal delivery costs.

17 STUDENTS FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES TO BE DEPORTED

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 17.—Seventeen students from several foreign countries students at the American international college here, have been ordered deported by the federal immigration authorities. It was announced today by Chancellor C. S. McGowan. The action has been taken because the students entered the country after the quota of immigrants from their countries had been filled. It was expected that they would be allowed to remain under the status of students and Dr. McGowan is making strong efforts to stave off deportation. The students must appear in New York within a week under present orders. The college trains foreign born students for work among their fellow countrymen here or in their native lands.

WATER SUPPLY FAILS NEW JERSEY INDUSTRIAL PLANTS

Jersey City, Oct. 17.—At least 25,000 persons in northern New Jersey threatened with temporary unemployment because of the shutdown of the wate supply in industrial plants which will begin tomorrow unless relief in the form of heavy rains or of assistance from other municipalities comes.

Among the more important industries which will be forced to suspend operations are the Embroidery plants in North Hudson, the laundry, dyeing and cleaning establishments and the silk mills. Already several of the larger firms have cut their forces and have indicated that further cuts will e made if they are unable to obtain water.

Efforts are being made to obtain temporary relief from neighboring cities which are not dependent upon the Hackensack water company which has announced the shutdown.

Member Peace Prize Jury

Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, who served as chief of staff of the American Expeditionary Force and as chief of the American Military Mission to Armenia in 1919, has been appointed a member of the Edward W. Bok $100,000 peace prize jury.

Lloyd George's Views Of Position of Europe

Endorses the Hughes Plan for Ascertaining Germany's Capacity to Pay.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—The blindness of force and violence is the alternative to a policy of determining through careful examination the capacity of Germany to pay reparations, David Lloyd George, the war-time premier of Great Britain, declared in an address here tonight. If Germany "is refusing to pay, he added, the allies can by such means determine that point and then force payment by marching together in any enterprise that is necessary.

Reiterating his endorsement of the proposal of Secretary Hughes for an international commission to ascertain Germany's capacity to pay, the former premier declared that this way was the only way to settle the troublesome question.

Discussing the situation in Europe with its exhaustion after the war and the reparations question as the most acute phase of the situation, Mr. Lloyd George showed little evidence of illness. The address was delivered to an audience of 10,000.

The audience was notable for the number present of men and women prominent in business, financial and social life. The presiding officer was Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, former director of the federal budget.

Great Britain desired reparations, Lloyd George explained, but was following her traditional policy of moderateness in victory as the surest way of attaining that end.

"You cannot examine ledgers with bayonets," he remarked.

"Can Germany pay now? If she can she ought to. It is to her interest to get done with it.

"Mr. Secretary Hughes delivered a very important speech at the beginning of this year at New Haven, I think, in which he proposed that the whole question of Germanys capacity to pay should be examined by a commission of business experts and he made it clear if a commission of that kind were appointed every facility would be given for an American expert to be on that body, a thoroughly practical, business-like proposal.

"The United States of America is very well disposed towards France and therefore, with a friendly country, absolutely impartial, with a great fund of business knowledge at its disposal, represented in a body of that kind, it seems to me we would find a way to ascertain how much Germany can pay and once we have done that, then we could march together to compel here to pay.

"That seems to me to be the only way to settle this troublesome question without creating further disturbance.

"I regret that after such a great and glorious victory there should be questions of this kind to resolve the fruition of peace. Storm clouds are gathering over Europe.

"It will need all the wisdom, all the calm, all the judgment of the mariners who are guiding the ship of civilization or else it will be wrecked, with its invaluable cargo of achievement and hope of mankind."

RUM RUNNER ESCAPES FROM LITCHFIELD COUNTY JAIL

Bridgeport, Oct. 17.—Thomas J. (Jigger) Walsh, of this city, who was arrested in Winsted about two months ago with Charles Ross, also of this city, for transporting an automobile load of Canadian ale through that town, escaped from the Litchfield county jail last Sunday where he was serving a $13-days' sentence in lieu of payment of a fine of $200 and costs imposed in his case.

Allowed the freedom of the corridor outside the tier of cells, Walsh is believed by jail officials to have either "picked" the lock of his corridor door or used a skeleton key furnished to him by a friend who visited him at the jail. No trace of him had been found up to a late hour tonight.

When arraigned in the Winsted police court, Walsh, who was unable to pay the fine of $200 and costs imposed in his case, was committed to the Litchfield county jail. Ross paid his fine and was re-arrested by the federal prohibition authorities Walsh was to be re-arrested by the federal authorities upon completion of his jail sentence.

EDISON BELIEVES FORD BEST AS PRIVATE CITIZEN

New York, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Thomas A. Edison, electrical wizard, in one of the first interviews he has ever granted newspapermen, spoke today of the presidential possibilities of his friend Henry Ford and declared that it would "spoil a good man" if the nation sent him to the White House.

Mr. Edison expressed the opinion that the automobile manufacturer was more valuable to the nation as a private citizen and then turned to the prediction made recently by Charles P. Steinmetz, inventor connected with the General Electric company, that electrically eventually would reduce the working day to four hours. With this opinion Mr. Edison agreed.

Mr. Edison, however, was not sure that the four hour day would be a good thing for the nation. He expressed fear that too large a leisure class would be created and that this would have a bad effect, particularly on the young.

DEADLOCK IN LEGION OVER BONUS AND KU KLUX KLAN

Slogan of Anti-Bonus Faction: "For the Disabled, Everything; for the Able-Bodied, Nothing"—Michigan Delegation to Fight for Resolution Renouncing the Klan as "Un-American" and "Contrary to the Very Principles for Which the American Legion Stands".

San Francisco, Oct. 17.—With Michigan delegates to the fifth annual American Legion convention holding out for the repudiation of the Ku Klux Klan and organization here of a unit of the anti-bonus league to fight any resolution favoring compensation for the ex-service men, the convention finished its third day of a virtual deadlock here tonight.

Late today a spirit of compromise entered the Ku Klux Klan question when the California delegates in caucus voted an "honest neutrality" in matters pertaining to politics, religion and industry. This was the first reak in a situation which legion officials admitted was threatening the legion.

Michigan delegates stated that they would fight to force through the resolution drawn up by James E. Hunt, of Mount Pleasant, Mich., in which the legion will be called upon tomorrow or Friday to renounce the Klan as "un-American in fact and "contrary to the very principles for which the American Legion stands."

The formation of an anti-onus league here dispelled the hope that the compensation committee would finally work out a resolution in committee that would e acceptable to the entire convention, legion officials stated tonight.

"For the disabled, everything; for the able-bodied, nothing," will be the demand of the anti-bonus faction, W. C. Van Antwerp chairman of the committee stated. He said:

"That is the slogan for the ex-service men's anti-bonus league, which is now organized and actively functioning in twenty six states, we are opposed to the granting of any form of bonus to able-bodied ex-service men on the ground that to serve a country in time of war is a privilege as well as a duty, and to seek a material reward therefor is an act repugnant to the spirit of true patriotism and a violation of the fundamental principles of American citizenship."

Failure of any of the committees to get together forced an early adjournment of the session today. With all night sessions facing several committees, it was the hope of officers that the decks would be cleared for action by the full convention tomorrow.

STRANGE CIRCUMSTANCES ABOUT SLAYING OF MURDOCK

New York, Oct. 17.—Delivery of information to the district attorney's office today was followed by indications that officials there are not satisfied with the explanations of detectives that Charles Murdock, the young man whose body was found in the street early Sunday, was killed by them in an attack on Bob McAllister, "the flying cop."

"There may be a possibility," Assistant District Attorney Pecora said tonight, "of Murdock having been killed elsewhere than at the scene of the alleged hold-up."

Charles A. Murdock, father of the young man, a chemical manufacturer, visited Mr. Pecora's office today. Later the assistant district attorney declared the completion of the incident had greatly changed and announced he had subpoenaed a dozen persons for examination.

All that is definitely known is that the body, bullet-pierced and lifeless, was found shortly after Saturday midnight on Thirtieth street, two miles from where, according to the detectives, they fatally shot him. With two others, they said, he threatened McAllister, who, under suspension for alleged perjury, has been employed as a municipal bus driver.

McAllister's story is that he had an argument with Murdock and two other men when they made a trip in his bus and that they threatened him. He reported to a police station and two detectives were assigned to protect him. Murdock and his companions, according to his story, later re-entered the bus and, ignorant that the other two passengers were policemen, ordered him to hold up his hands.

The continuation of the police account is that one of the detectives shot immediately, hitting Murdock and the wounded man leaped outside with his partners. Murdick staggered into a nearby taxi cab the detectives said, and they explained that he must have died soon after and the body thrown into the street by the frightened driver.

The affair had been considered closed until today when a porter of the Ritz-Carlton hotel identified a rogues gallery portrait, it purporting to be that of Murdock as one of those who robbed the jewelry shop in the hotel a week ago. When that report was published Mr. Murdock, the father called upon the assistant district attorney.

Mr. Pecora declared many angles of the case had not been reported either to him or to the homicide bureau. He was anxious to know, he said, how a wounded man could get away from the detectives and then flee in a taxi-cab whose license number they had been too negligent to take down.

Mr. Pecora pointed out that the empty holster found on Murdock's body was police equipment and that no pistol was in it. He had been informed, he said, that a second taxi-cab containing other police was involved, having trailed the bus.

Mr. Pecora said he also was interested in Mr. Murdock's report that McAllister and a brother officer, Detective Clark, had ransacked the dead young man's apartments for bullets on Monday and said they found none.

GOVERNORS IN ANNUAL CONFEHENCE AT WEST BADEN

West Baden, Ind., Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Formal welcome to the fifteenth annual conference of governors was extended by Governor Warren T. McCray of Indiana when executives of thirty-seven states and territories arrived here late this afternoon after a motor trip from Indianapolis.

Governor McCray delivered the welcoming address.

The arrical of the party here was delayed by an accident to the car in which Governors Charles R. Mabey of Utah and J. M. Dixon of Montana were riding with their wives. The machine turned over near Dolttic, Ind. Aside from slight scratches, no one in the party was injured.

FIREMAN OVERCOME BY SMOKE IN NORWALK

Norwalk, Oct. 17.—One fireman was overcome by smoke and Mrs. Anna Youngs jumped from a second story window and was rescued by another fireman, in a blaze which caused damage estimated at $10,000 to a four family dwelling owned by Sylvester B. Wilson here this afternoon. The fire was caused by an exploding oil above in the Youngs apartment, Chief George Bogardus said. The other families fled from the building. The flames were confined to the walls and flooring in the second story.

SOVIET RUSSIA CALLS UP THREE MILITARY CLASSES

Moscow, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Soviet Russia today called up the three military classes of 1898, 1899 and 1900 for territorial army training. Simultaneously there appeared in the official newspaper, Isvestia a striking cartoon depicting a stern visaged red soldier watching the Polish border, with the caption: "They are risking it to pass the frontier of my patience!"

The calling up of the territorials is in line with the long-contemplated militia training plan and probably has no particular significance, but it is obvious from declarations made on all sides that the Moscow government, while seeking to avoid participation in the German struggle, nevertheless is taking no chances that it will be unprepared for eventualities.

The so-called "White Terror" in Poland, where communists are apparently suspected of causing the disastrous explosion in one of the Warsaw forts, occupies a prominent space in the newspapers, and the efforts of "the German reactionaries to crush the budding workers' government in Saxony and Thuringia" are occupying the close attention of the communists here.

46TH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF W. C. T. U. IN DANBURY

Danbury, Oct. 17.—The forty-eighth annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Connecticut was opened here this afternoon in the Baptist church and tonight's meeting was featured by addresses. There are more than 150 delegates, representing every city and many towns of the state. The convention will be in session three days.

E. L. G. Hohenthal of South Manchester, chairman of the state prohibition committee, speaking tonight, told of his tour of Europe, from which he returned recently. His remarks concerned chiefly the prohibition question as he found it on the other side.

Mrs. Lewis Rose, of Hartford gave an address on International Cooperation from the Women's Point of View.

DECLARES COFFEE GIVES COMFORT AND INSPIRATION

Boston, Oct. 17.—Coffee may be regarded "as the servant rather than the destroyer of civilization," Professor Samuel C. Prescott, head of the department of biology and public health at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology told the annual convention of the National Coffee Roasters' association today.

Professor Prescott, reporting on the results of a three year study of coffee which he had made for the association said: "The history of human experience as well as the results of scientific experimentation point to the fact that coffee is a beverage which properly prepared and rightly used, gives comfort and inspiration, augments mental and physical activities and may be regarded as the servant rather than the destroyer of civilization."

DENOUNCED SYSTEM OF FLAT RATE CHARGE FOR GAS

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 17.—"America will take a big stride forward in eliminating the smoke nuisance when the gas companies stop serving the bridge club and cabareting classes at the expense of the working and baby raising classes," said a report presented today at the convention of the American Gas Association.

The report, denounced the flat rate system of charging for gas, asserting that the well to do classes were numerically first among its beneficiaries and the chief victims were the hard working, homekeeping family raisers.

FOR FUTHER PROTECTION OF RHODE ISLAND HIGHWAYS

Providence, Oct. 17.—Further restrictions limiting the maximum loads of motor trucks on highways of the state during the periods when the roads are in poor condition because of thaws or construction work to 20,000 pounds on some highways and 10,000 on others, were adopted today by the state board of public roads. The load limit in Connecticut is 25,000 and that in Massachusetts 20, while that in Rhode Island and 23,000, the result when a complex situation for authorities and owners and drivers.

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office

Mrs. Eva Doubleday, 18, is dead, and her husband, Raymond Doubleday, is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, and their 11-months-old son, Russell, sustained a cut over one eye, as the result of the explosion of a kerosene can which Mrs. Doubleday was using to start a fire in the stove of the kitchen of their home, a basement tenement, No. 20 Windham road, just over the city line, Wednesday morning about 8:30 o'clock. The only member of the Doubleday family to escape injury was Richard, their five-months'-old son.

Medical Examiner Dr. Louis J. Mason was notified and he gave his findings as "Death due to burns that covered the whole body." The woman died about ten minutes after the accident and Medical Examiner Mason stated that it was probable that she had inhaled much of the vapor and flames which hastened death.

The house is owned and the upper basement is occupied by Paul Chartier and his family and they, with neighbors, did all they could to relieve the woman and assisted in putting out the fire which had gained some headway. A telephone call was sent to the Bank street engine house and the night crew in charge of Lieutenant Henry J. Kelley responded. The blaze had been extinguished before the firemen arrived.

Paul Chartier, who was practically a witness of the accident, stated that there are two doors leading into the basement tenement occupied by the Doubledays. One is from the outside and the other is adjoining the cellar stairway by the Chartier family. Mr. Chartier had handed a quantity of milk through this cellar door to Mrs. Doubleday and stepping into his cellar he secured an armful of wood and returned up the stairs to his own home.

He had thrown the wood into the box when he heard a loud explosion and rushed down again and into the Doubleday tenement. Mrs. Doubleday was standing in the kitchen and her whole body was a mass of flames. Mr. Chartier heard her cry out "Oh, Henry" and then she dropped to one knee and fell to the floor, unconscious. Chartier grabbed up a heavy quilt and threw it over the woman but the flames drove him back. He got upstairs and secured water and with the aid of neighbors succeeded in putting out the blaze.

In the meantime Mr. Doubleday, who was in a bedroom adjoining the kitchen with his two little children, broke through the window with his hands and lowered his children out to the ground, about three feet below. They being in safety he rushed into the kitchen to rescue his wife who had fallen so that the entrance through the front door was blocked. As a result of his frantic efforts, Mr. Doubleday was badly burned about the arms and hands, also sustaining several cuts. Dr. C. A. Jenkins, a neighbor, was called, but the woman was dead.

Assistance was given to Mr. Doubleday and he was later taken to the hospital. The cut over little Russell's eye was bandaged and he and the baby Richard are in the care of relatives. The body of Mrs. Doubleday was given in charge of a local undertaking firm at the request of relatives.

Considerable damage was done in the kitchen of the tenement, the walls near the stove being burned. A hole, three inches in diameter, was made in the plastering on the ceiling by the bottom of the kerosene can, which was blown out by the explosion.

Mrs. Doubleday was born in Hebron, Oct. 5, 1905, the daughter of William and Minnie Russell Swan. She married Raymond Doubleday at Windham September 24, 1921.

Miss Mildred Pearson of New York, a native of Norwich, delighted a large audience at a recital here in the Swedish Lutheran church on Oak street Tuesday night. Miss Christman acted as accompanist. An excellent program was rendered and the applause of the audience won a number of encores.

Members of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce which met Wednesday evening in charge of President Valentine L. Murphy were: W. C. Norris, James B. Fullerton, Frank F. Rafferty, Frank H. Foss, Charles W. Hill, A. E. Greene, Archie Buchanan, Jr., James P. Mustard, John F. Ahern, Frank M. Lincoln, P. D. Donohue, Harry W. Blanchette, Charles B. Pomeroy, Secretary Channing Morrill and President Murphy. It was voted to donate $50 each to the Welfare Bureau and the Visiting Nurse Association. President Murphy was authorized to appoint the standing committee for the year. It was voted to recommend to the entertainment committee, which will be appointed soon, that a supper be provided and a speaker secured for the November session of the chamber.

One of the five-ton trucks owned by the Dexter Bread company of Springfield, Mass., and driven by Arthur Versey, of 570 Plainfield street, Springfield, backed into the standard holding Box 24, one of the fire alarm telegraph boxes of the Willimantic fire department, at the foot of High street on Main, about 1 o'clock Wednesday morning, and the box was wrecked. The shock caused the mechanism of the box to begin working and the bell in the tower of the Bank street engine house rang several times, causing some confusion to residents who heard it. The matter was reported to Captain Thomas Grady at police headquarters and arrangements were made to settle for the damage, which will amount to about $100. About a year ago the box was wrecked by a woman from Windham, who was taking an examination to secure a motor vehicle driver's license. The box on Lincoln Square was smashed a few days later by a Bristol motorist.

The Willimantic Women's club held an afternoon meeting in the town hall with the president, Mrs. Carl Alford, in charge. Mrs. Frank P. Fenton introduced the speaker of the day, Miss Christine A. Ferry of the editorial staff of The Modern Priscilla, who spoke on The Vogue of the Handmade in Home Decorations. Members of other women's organizations in the city were guests of the club. Miss Ferry displayed many beautiful handmade articles which she explained in detail. At the close of the program the ways and means committee had a sale of ferns and bulbs.

St. Jean Baptiste Society plans a carnival for the golden jubilee fund, the golden jubilee to be celebrated in a few years.

A street parade will open the celebration and Mayor Charles A. Gates will ocially get the festivities under way. The general committee of arrangements includes: Alexis Caisse, chairman; Joseph F. Gaudreau, treasurer; Alphonse Chagnon, secretary; Edmund Sylvestre; F. Xavier Caisse, Eugene Lapointe; Napoleon Gingras, L. C. Vegiard, F. J. Bergeron; Wilfrid Pageau, William Piche, Cyrille Jubin, Joseph Lariviere, Hormisdas Dion, Alexis Beaulieu.

Within three days three accidents have occurred in which nineteen people figured, of whom two were killed and four seriously injured. The first was that of the automobile-motorcycle crash at Andover Sunday, in which five persons sustained injuries, two seriously, Jesse B. Vincent of Norwich and Thomas Joyce of New York city. The second came Monday afternoon in the accident at Columbia avenue crossing when the Boston express crashed into an automobile killing Mrs. Ida Margolis of Waterbury, seriously injuring her husband, Paul Margolis and otherwise injuring three others. The third accident was Wednesday morning when Mrs. Eva Doubleday was burned to death while kindling a fire in the kitchen stove at her home on Windham road.

Hospital authorities stated Wednesday afternoon that Vincent is still in a serious condition. One limb and his abdomen were badly torn and he has a fractured leg. Margolis is also on the serious list with a fractured thigh, broken ribs and internal injuries. Joyce, the football player, who was injured in Andover, and Jacob Silver, who was injured in the railroad accident, are making steady recovery.

With the purpose of giving the employes of the manufacturing department of the American Thread company a more intimate knowledge of their part in the process to manufacturing thread, a school will be conducted during the fall and winter months in the fire brigade rooms. Sessions are held every Monday and Wednesday evening and Superintendent David Mason is the instructor. Thirty employes have registered so far. The course is essentially practical and includes instruction in cotton spinning from the pickers to the finished yarn.

Attorney Harry S. Gaucher, acting chairman, presided at a session of the Lions' club which is the process of organization in this city, Wednesday noon. A short musical program was enjoyed. Talks were given by several of the prospective members, including Rev. O. S. Beaumister. Acting Chairman Gaucher addressed the members on the necessity of additional members and of basing the organization on sound principles. Acting Secretary David M. Feldman read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Mrs. Helen M. Ashmead, 82, widow of Isaac Ashmead, died Tuesday evening at 10:30 o'clock at the Card Home on Pleasant street. Mrs. Ashmead was born in Keene, N. H., May 14, 1841, a daughter of Francis and Clarissa M. (Burnham) Mead. She leaves two nieces, Mrs. Clarence Chase of Winsted and Miss M. A. Bushman of Scarsdale, N. Y., and a nephew, Henry M. Mead of Providence, R. I.

The funeral of Mrs. Clara Anne Brooke was held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at St. Paul's Episcopal church. Rev. F. C. Williams read the service. A delegation from the American Benedt Society attended the funeral, as Mrs. Brooke had been a member of that society for a quarter of a century. Burial was in Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were Walter P., Frank F., Robert G., and Horace J. Brooke. Avery and VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah J. Loomis were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at 52 North street. Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead officiated. Burial was in Willimantic cemetery. Avery & VanZandt were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The funeral of Jocelyn Vertefeuille who died Tuesday morning, was held from the home of her parents, at 32 Maple avenue Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. The Hartford-Rome Corp. were in charge of the arrangements.

The democratic board of selectmen cut ruthlessly from the list of old-timers in their appointments, at a special meeting Wednesday forenoon and put in a new man for every job under an agreement that the board had made, to have a new field of workers for every year while the democrats were in power. They removed all the old personal tax enumerators and the personal tax collector, James M. Smith, was ousted as a member of the Willimantic cemetery committee and Harold C. Lincoln was appointed in his place. Following were the appointments: Town counsel, Thomas J. Kelley; selectmen's clerk, Mrs. Alice D. Stoughton; superintendent of almshouse, Henry W. Chamberlain; engineer of town building, Joseph T. Ellis; town physician, Dr. Michael D. Riordan; sealer of weights and measures, Chauncey E. Macfarlane; tree warden, Wilfred Blanchette; personal tax collector, George J. Timmins; personal tax enumerators, First district, Mrs. Lucy J. Lynch, 818 Valley street; Second district, John P. McQuillan, 40 Prospect street; Third district, J. Bernard Davis, 25 Elm street; Fourth district, Margaret Ryan, 150 Windham road; Windham, Everett E. Beckwith; Willimantic cemetery committee; Russell A. Andrews, John Bowman, Harold C. Lincoln; Windham Center cemetery, George S. Challenger, George A. Cook, H. Clinton Lathrop, Everett D. Hopkins; North Windham cemetery, Leslie F. Hartson, B. O. Moore, Raymond Harris; ranger, Everett D. Hopkins, George C. Waters; haywards, Edward W. Avery, Charles Tucker, Charles M. Holbrook; weighers, Adam Larrabee, M. E. Lincoln, George H. Backus, James W. Hillhouse, Edward W. Avery, Patrick J. Twomey, Walter B. Knight, George L. Wheeler, Albert C. Winters, Fred A. Sanderson, Raymond A. Parker, Charles H. Wilson, George H. Arnold, Abraham Sussman; wood inspectors, George F. Taylor, Abraham Sussman, B. O. Moore, M. E. Lincoln, E. W. Avery, Isaac H. Johnson, Raymond A. Parker; pound keepers, T. Frank Smith, Adam Larrabee, Louis Belanger, Charles M. Holbrook and Charles H. Palmer.

Abraham Tenben of Columbus is of the opinion that it is quite a drop from the seat of his buggy to the street level. Tenben came to this conclusion the other evening while driving down Union street and one of Malleck's auto trucks skidded and struck the rear wheels of the buggy, depositing Tenben on the ground. The Columbia man escaped injury. A mutual settlement was reached.

About noon Tuesday, a carrier pigeon landed somewhat exhausted in the yard of Allen Jewett's home in Clark's Corner. Mr. Jewett found two bands on the left leg, one marked A. I. 23 3L 2570 and I. F. 23 C 4282. Mr. Jewett is caring for the carrier and if it is not called for in a few days he will release it.

The beginners and primary classes of the Baptist Sunday school held a meeting and party at the Congregational church house, Wednesday afternoon in connection with Children's Week. Misses Clarrie Stiles and Inga Paton and Mrs. Russell Andrews assisted in the work.

A mass meeting for parents and church and public school teachers will be held at the Methodist church this (Thursday) evening. Rev. John M. Rosebaugh, Episcopal director of religious education for Connecticut, will speak.

At the annual meeting of St. Joseph's Hospital Alumnae Association held at the Nurses' Home the following ocers were elected: President, Miss Maud Delaney; first vice president, Mrs. M. N. Sullivan; second, Miss Esther Cote; secretary, Miss Mae Keating; treasurer, Miss Mary Navins; board of directors, Misses Elizabeth Nagle, Frances Klingbeczer, Alice Healey, Mary Kehrans and Anna Chandler. Plans were made for the annual nurses' dance in November.

GALES FERRY

At morning worship, Sunday, in the M. E. church, there was a large attendance of Fairview lodge, I. O. O. F. No. 161, and Home Rebekah lodge No. 50, of Groton. The pastor, W. D. Woodward, spoke from the topic, Gen. 4:9, Am I my brother's keeper? and Matthew 22:9, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There was special music by a quartette, Miss Grace A. Chapman, Mrs. Amos Main, C. E. Colver and D. E. Povey. A duet, Bring Your Gifts, Mrs. Monell A. Dawson and Miss Gertrude Allen, and the closing solo was Consider the Lilies, Mrs. Eugene LaFontaine was organist. The altar decorations were beautiful and branches of autumn leaves, with basket of fall flowers on the table.

The Gales Ferry school was visited Friday by Charles E. White, treasurer of the New London Savings bank, who spoke to the pupils on thrift. Mr. White also presented the school a beautiful picture of the White House, in gems, as this school is 100 per cent. Every member of the school was a depositor for last year and continues this year. Mrs. Winfred Crepeau of Norwich is the teacher, as last year.

The October meeting of the local auxiliary of the Woman's Home Missionary society was held Tuesday afternoon at the M. E. vestry. Miss Alice Satterlee was chairman of the program. The president opened the meeting and the hymn, Jesus Calls Us O'er the Tumult, was sung, Miss Satterlee being at the piano. Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt conducted the devotions. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. C. E. Colver, was read and approved. The secretary, Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop, read the minutes of the last meeting. The topic for the afternoon's study was Our Children; Orphanages and Children's Homes. Selections were read by members of the society. The new mission study book, The Child and America, was taken up and the first chapter reviewed by Mrs. Sarah T. Latimer. The society voted $7.50 for rebuilding buildings in Japan, through Miss Esther Thurston's work. Miss Satterlee as hostess served tea and was assisted by Mrs. Nelson Parker, Mrs. R. Irving Hulburt, Mrs. Carrol Hurlburt. There was a large attendance.

Mrs. Arthur H. Blackledge entertained at the Mathewson cottage, Columbus Day, a neighborhood party of eight from her home in Norwich. Those from Gales Ferry attending the Sunday school convention Friday at the M. E. church in New London were Rev. W. D. Woodward, superintendent, C. E. Colver, Miss Alice Satterlee, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, Misses Helen L. and Margaret S. Colver.

Mrs. Edwin Clark of Stonington is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. A. J. Brown of Mystic were the guests last week, at the home of Mrs. Eliza D. Maynard and Mrs. Eugene Le Fontaine.

Mrs. Emma Meade and daughter, Miss Edith Meade of Moravia, N. Y., arrived Friday to visit the former's father, Amos Hurlbutt and family.

Members of Anna Warner Bailey Chapter, D. A. R., of Groton and Stonington who attended the October meeting in the Monument House, Orient, Thursday, were Mrs. Billings P. Grandell, Mrs. Delphine Fish, Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop, Miss Alice Satterlee and Mrs. James A. Stoddard and Mrs. Fred E. Richards.

The Webb cottage has been sold to Mrs. Cole of Brooklyn, N. Y., and improvements are being made to the property.

PENDLETON HILL

Great sympathy is felt for John W. Kramer of Colchester, who was so seriously injured in the woods at Lawrence Glen last week Tuesday morning. In company with other men he was felling a tree when another tree was uprooted and he was caught under it. He was taken to Lawrence hospital in New London where an X-ray showed serious injury to his back and his hip broken in two places. Mr. Kramer had been boarding at Clifford Thompson's for the past few months and by his affable ways made friends of all who know him.

Miss Lucy Lester attended the teachers' meeting held by Supervisor Hussey Reed in North Stonington on Friday afternoon.

Miss Alice Chapman is spending some time with her aunt, Mrs. Manuel Hiscox in Jewett City. Her sister, Mrs. Arthur Frink, is staying with Mrs. Wolcott in Westerly for a few weeks.

A pleasant gathering was the surprise birthday party given Miss Amelia Palmer on Saturday evening. There were about fifty in attendance. Sandwiches, cake, coffee and ice cream were served.

Russell Lund, state agricultural supervisor, spent a night last week as the guest of Miss Sarah T. Palmer. Both were in attendance at the Sterling Hill school fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thompson attended the funeral of Mrs. Thompson's uncle, Willard Frink, held at Yantic.

Mrs. Jennie Thompson returned to her home here last week. Mrs. Thompson had been with her son, Irving, in Westerly, since his accident. He was able to spend the week-end at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cook are to move to the Palmer Brown house, which has been thoroughly renovated for them.

The Ladies' Aid society met at the parsonage Wednesday. A New England supper was served by them.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

At the undertaking rooms of A. F. Wood Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, with the bereaved husband and a group of theatrical folks in attendance, funeral services were conducted for Mrs. Wilfred Morin, who lost her life in an automobile accident on Dark Lantern Hill early Monday morning. Rev. W. F. Davis conducted the services and burial was in Westfield cemetery. There were beautiful flowers, tributes from actors and actresses who are playing in Providence this week as well as from relatives. The bearers were local men—Frank H. Greener, Henry E. Andersen, John F. Lewis and Daniel Sullivan.

Mrs. Morin's death has left a deep impression on the local public more so in fact, than most deaths occurring in such accidents do. All of the circumstances are particularly sad—such an abrupt ending of life, among strangers and her parents thousands of miles away.

Among the interesting little tales born of the hunting season is one relative to the experience of Harold B. Atwood and Richard D. Banigan in getting a partridge in a very unusual way. The dog they were using pointed the bird and when ordered to go forward managed to steal upon the unsuspecting partridge and pin the bird down with his paws, holding steadily until the hunters came along and picked up the live bird. Hunters say this is a very unusual happening and seldom if ever before reported in this territory.

As administrator of the estate of Mrs. Abby Tripp Hopkins, Charles E. Ayer is making an effort to locate her son, Charles Albert Tripp, whose last known place of residence was in Providence. A considerable sum of money is due Mr. Tripp from his mother's estate, but up to Wednesday all effort to locate him had failed. Search for him or someone who knows his whereabouts is to be continued in Providence.

The following lists the participants and their numbers in the very successful concert given by Dorcas Rebekah lodge for the benefit of the Nurses' Home fund of the Day Kimball hospital, the musicians being advanced pupils of Miss May Ross, assisted by Mrs. Mary Keach, Mrs. Maud Potvin and Misses May Ross and Mildred L. Leach.

Piano four hands, Overture (Gloeckken des Erinlten) Mailiant, Misses Irving and Leach; violin solo, Rondo, Mozart-Kreisler, Doris Hargraves; quartet, two violins, cello and piano, Sochting, Danses Bohemiennes, Op. 63, No. 3, Misses Cronin, Smith, Leach and Ross; piano solo (a) Goblin's Frolic, Op. 45, No. 2, Heller; (b) Valse Papillonne, Op. 85, No. 2, Friml, Lillian M. Gauthier; violin solo Indian Lament, Kreisler, Bessie M. Obletz; piano solo (a) Polanaise C sharp minor, Chopin; (b) Gigue Britainne, Bachmann Mildred Leach; violin solo, At Dawning, Cadman-Risland, Florence I. Smith; piano solo, Valse de Concert, Op. 55, Op 56, Dennee; (b) Shadow Dance, McDowell, Eleanor E. Irving; violin solo Sonata—(a) Allegro Quasi Andantino, Greis; (b) Allegro Molto Vivace, Greiz, Florence L. Leach; piano solo, six hands, Napolitana, Morley, Misses Irving Leach and Bethel; violin solo Fair Rosmarin Kreisler, Madelyn V. Cronin.

Part II

Eight violins and piano—Largo, Handel, Ross, Leach, Smith, Irving, Obletz, Cronin, Hargraves, Hill, Mildred Leach at piano; piano solo (a) Crescendo, Concorine; (b) Love's Meditation, Op. 12, No. 4, Seidt, Walter P. Robinson; violin solo—(a) Hungarian Danse, No. 7, Brahms; (b) Cradle Song, Blank, Bessie M. Obletz; reading, Maud Potvin; quartet, Danses Bohemiennes, Op. 63, No. 2, Sochting, Misses Leach and Obletz; piano solo, (a) Tarantelle, MacDowell; (b) Hungarian, MacDowell, Lillian Bethel; violin solo, Introduction et Gavotte, C. N. Allen, Madelyn V. Cronin; piano solo (a) Polanaise in A (Military), Chopin; (b) Song of the Norns, Torjessier, Eleanor E. Irving; piano solo (a) Impromptu, Op. 28, No. 3, Reinhold; (b) March Wind, MacDowell, Mildred L. Leach; violin solo, Air Varie, No. 5, De Beriot; (a) Adagio, (b) Allegretto (theme), (c) Moderator, (d) Sostenuto, (c) Pin Animato, (f) Con Fuoco, Florence L. Leach; quartet, Danses Bohemiennes, Op. 63, No. 1, Sochting, Misses Leach, Obletz and Ross.

The proposal of the Chamber of Commerce for better street lighting, arrangements in the business section and as far north on Main street as Davis park is proving of very general interest. Were it not for the expense attached, it appears certain that it would win almost universal approval. And the expense notwithstanding, there is a strong sentiment in favor of it.

Live communities, brilliantly lighted at night, hold a very strong appeal for the public and, it is argued, the additional cost for such an street lighting arrangement as is proposed for Danielson would be more than offset by the desirable impression left in the public mind and by the business advantages to be gained.

In this motoring age hundreds of people are tempted to bode awhile wherever the attraction is made sufficiently forceful. Humans, no less than moths, are attracted by light—the more light, the greater the attraction. There is the difference, however, that people have money to spend and are apt to stop and spend it where the lights are brightest.

A well lighted community instantly gives the impression of being a progressive community. Adversely, lack of light—dinginess—is depressing and repels. There can be no refuting the fact that Danielson's business center lighted as the Chamber of Commerce proposes that it should be lighted would add warmth and cheerfulness to night scenes here. It would help business as well as be pleasing to the eye.

The Chamber of Commerce proposes its lighting plan as a community proposition and in so doing is functioning along one of the lines for which it was created. If the business men benefit, that benefit is largely reflected in the well being of the community as a whole, for the business men do many things for many people and for many enterprises for which they receive all too little thanks.

In any event, the subject will be discussed between borough officials and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce this week and there is a possibility that a special borough meeting will come later to let all qualified as voters here to have their say about the matter.

Physicians of the county are interested in the fact that the 130th annual meeting of the Windham County Medical society is to be held at the Chelsea inn at Hampton on Friday of this week. Two Danielson physicians—Dr. F. E. Todd and Dr. Warren A. Tanner—are scheduled to address the gathering, among other speakers.

In the more or less general activity going on to improve the appearance of various business places in Danielson's shopping center, William S. Brown, owner and proprietor of the Attawaugan hotel, stated Wednesday morning that he has plans for altering a section of the hotel front. In carrying out this project the verandas will be cut away on the dining room and restaurant front and will be built out to the sidewalk line. Plate glass windows will be installed and marble used for trimming the window base and for the entrance steps. Mr. Brown is having plans made for the changes here outlined and he expects the work will be underway in the very near future.

A. H. Armington and Vine R. Franklin will be in Hartford today (Thursday) attending a banquet given at the Hotel Bond by the Army and Navy club of Connecticut.

Clinton Wright, Elmville, will leave in about a fortnight for Florida, to remain there for the winter. His brother, Fayette L. Wright and family of Pomfret, are now en route to Florida by motor car, having left Tuesday. Their trip south is expected to occupy about ten days.

The Treble Clef club met Wednesday evening with Miss Irene Burns at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin T. Burns.

Coon hunting parties are making the most of the moonlight nights this week to pursue a favorite fall pastime.

Several prospective rectors are being considered for St. Alban's church, but it was stated Wednesday no decision has been reached as yet as the successor of Rev. Albert Jepson.

PUTNAM

During the warm weather season many college youths make trips to distant points without a cent of expense for transportation. Before the advent of the automobile such trips, to less distant points were called "hiking trips" and they were just what the name implies. Since the advent of machine travel over the highways, these hikers have found that kind-hearted motorists willingly give them rides. This has extended the trips to greater distances and the honest hiker is prone to call the trip a "bumming" trip.

One of these trips was undertaken over the week-end by a number of Putnam and Webster students at the Connecticut College for Women, New London, with classmates, who spent Sunday in this section. The party comprised Miss Hazel Converse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Converse, Miss Sarah Barber, daughter of Mrs. William Barber, Miss Elizabeth Linsley, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Walcott Linsley, of Webster. Classmates included Miss Lucille Moore and Miss Jeanette McCrodden. The party left the college left the college Saturday afternoon and had no trouble in reaching their destination early in the evening, covering the 55 to 65 miles with little exertion. Miss Barber stopped off in Putnam, Miss Converse and Miss Moore in North Grosvenordale and Miss Linsley and Miss McCrodden crossed the Massachusetts line to Webster. All returned to the college Sunday afternoon.

Three drunks were in the city court Wednesday morning. One might make the deduction it is easy to get liquor in Putnam. Had he been in the court room, however, this assumption would have been dispelled.

Peter King of New Haven did not tell whence he procured spirits fermenti, except to say that it was not bought in Putnam, no Mr. Judge your honor. Peter paid a fine and costs of $21.14.

Joseph Lambert, wood chopper, engaged in denuding Windham county of its forests, paused long enough to go to Woonsocket and procure a bottle, probably more than one bottle, for he had one left over which was marked exhibit A in his case. He had already drank enough to become dazed when the police got him. Peter was sent to jail last June and got out in July. His appearance so soon after his unlearned lesson did not meet the approval of the court and he was sent back for another 30 day period.

William Donnette had an alibi. He said he got his from Peter. William was before the court in August 1921 for driving while drunk. He still owed the city $30 balance for that offense. He was fined $20 and costs for Tuesday night's space and put in charge of the probation officer until he pays the twenty, plus the thirty and costs.

Adolphus Montigne, parcel post deliverer at the Putnam postoce, narrowly escaped death, Tuesday, when a shotgun he had beside him in an automobile was accidently discharged The heat of the charge passed through the top of the automobile but a number of the lead pellets lodged in the side of Montigne's head. After finishing his route, Tuesday afternoon, Montigne went to Putnam Heights alone, to hunt. He became tired and returned to his automobile which he left standing by the roadside. He placed his shotgun beside him in the car with one barrel loaded and began to read a book he had with him. Somehow the gun was dislodged and fell. As it fell it exploded and the charge passed upward. Montigne returned to Putnam and a doctor removed a number of shot from the side of his head and bandaged the wound. He was able to cover his route, Wednesday.

A Reo touring car was badly smashed and the driver, Leon Walker, received a cut on the head and minor bruises, when the car, driven by Mr. Walker, was in collision with a coal truck owned by Whipple & Gilpatric and driven by one of their drivers. The accident happened on Pomfret street, Wednesday morning, at the intersection of South Meadow street. Mr. Walker was traveling toward the business center in an easterly direction. The coal truck was passing down the hill in the opposite direction.

Reaching the junction of the streets it looked as if the two machines were going to meet, head-on. To avoid such a collision Mr. Walker turned into South Meadow street. At the same time the truck driver turned into the same street. The machines sideswiped. The automobile in which Mr. Walker was riding was a new one. It was towed to a garage. The truck was not damaged.

All the occupants of a one-story building on Battey street, owned by Bill Durand, escaped with their lives, but were rendered homeless yesterday in a fire that almost totally destroyed their abode. Not satisfied with ringing a general alarm for the fire, someone rang a double alarm and every piece of apparatus in the city responded.

The alarm was rung in at a quarter after two. The large new motor-driven hook and ladder truck, with its shiny red paint and glittering brass trimmings, led the procession, closely followed by motor truck No. 1. A fleet of automobiles breaking all speed limits, followed in their wake. From the north end of the city came motor truck No. 2.

The building was found ablaze. The occupants, Rhode Island reds and leghorns, had gone to the adjoining premises and were scratching up the remains of a neighbor's garden while their home burned, well knowing that housing conditions would be provided them.

The loss included not only the building but also a quarter of a dozen china eggs and a sixth of a dozen honest-to-goodness hen fruit worth eighty cents the dozen. Added to this Officer Bill lost several hours' sleep, as he is at present doing night duty on the staff of Putnam's finest.

During the time that the hen coop is being rebuilt the cop gives notice that if his homeless chickens drop eggs on any of the premises surrounding his property, be they single or double yolkers, them eggs are his'n.

City election comes Monday, Dec. 3. Already the political pot is coming to a boil and occasionally a bubble comes to the top and bursts and a little of what is going on in the bottom of the vessel becomes known. The latest, really the first real bubble that has burst, has spread the information to interested voters that Mayor Victor Chapdelaine will be a candidate to succeed himself as chief executive of the city.

Mayor Chapdelaine has not thrown his chapeau in the ring. If it is thrown in for him, and he is nominated, he will accept. That is his attitude as expressed by himself.

Mayor Chapdelaine has never come before the voters of the city as a mayoralty candidate. He was elected as chief executive by the members of the common council last November to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Mayor Archibald Macdonald. Mayor Macdonald resigned to become postmaster of Putnam. At that time Mr. Chapdelaine was serving as alderman-at-large and was the unanimous choice of council members to fill the mayor's chair.

Mayor Chapdelaine has lived in Putnam many years. He is a retired business man and well known to all classes of citizens. His first appearance in politics was when he was elected alderman-at-large, in December, 1921. Since he became mayor he has served to the satisfaction of the people. Having no confining business interests he has the time to devote to the responsibilities of the office which have grown more burdensome during late years, when many perplexing problems have confronted the city's executive body.

The office of mayor carries with it no salary. The man who assumes the burden does so out of civic responsibility to his fellow citizens and his home city. At times it has been difficult to secure candidates for the office and they have only been secured through appeal of party leaders.

Political lines in city elections are not closely drawn. Putnam is normally a republican city. It would be no new situation if Mayor Chapdelaine was the nominee of both political parties. This has occurred in some past elections, the democrats failing to nominate a candidate at the head of their ticket.

There was a rumor that George L. Padgett, former alderman from Ward 1, was a possibility. This rumor has been set at rest by Mr. Padgett himself who has stated publicly that he is not a candidate and would not accept the nomination if tendered him.

Some years ago Mr. Padgett was sought by leaders of the democratic party and urged to become the party candidate. Mr. Padgett refused the honor at the time on the ground that he had not the time to devote to the office that he felt it required. He states that he is of the same mind at present. That he can be said to endorse the candidacy of Mayor Chapdelaine is evidenced by his statement as follows: "I believe that party politics have no place in a city of this size, that Mayor Victor Chapdelaine has made an excellent official and I hope he will be a candidate again and that he be paid a salary commensurate with the dignity and duties of his office."

WESTERLY

P. N. Pawson and T. A. Pawson, father and brother, respectively, of John A. Pawson of Westerly are booked as passengers for Liverpool on the Cunard line S. S. Caronia, sailing from New York Oct. 20th. Mr. and Mrs. Mark Pearson are automobile visitors in New York with the Messrs. Pawson.

Wednesday evennig at 7.30 o'clock in the court room, Pawcatuck, took place the hearing of interested citizens on the widening of the west end of Pawcatuck bridge. As this was the final hearing on the matter. A number interested made their appearance.

Some 25 interested persons were gathered in the courtroom in an informal meeting. A plan of the present curb and fence line, with the proposed changes, by Engineer E. G. Buckley of Mystic, was presented. The purpose of the changes was to widen West Broad street and sidewalks by taking some of the land beyond the fence line, so that a gradual curve with easy grades would make the west approach to the bridge much safe for automobiles and pedestrian traffic. After a general discussion it was brought out that the title to the land desired, now owned by Max Nobogrowski, was not very clear, although to an adjacent section once occupied by the Seventh-day mill, a better title was held.

Present at the hearing were the three Stonington selectmen, Lawrence C. Purtill, James A. Vargas and John Frivvanpa who expressed themselves as thoroughly in accord with the widening of the bridge approach at this place. It was expected that Connecticut Hightway Commissioner Macdonald would be present but word was received of his inability to attend. It was said that the state commissioner as well as the state engineer was familiar with conditions at this point and in favor of a wider approach, for which the state would take out the present cement curb in the bridge and widen the bridge. Attorney John F. Gallagher urged that some definite steps be taken, after many present had urged a wider approach. Selectman Purtill then moved that inasmuch as Max Nobogrowski, titleholder to the land desired, had not made any definite reply to previous requests and was not present, nor has he produced and representative, that Mr. Nobogrowski be directed to reply in writing to the selectmen not later than one week from this Wednesday. Selectman Vargas presented the motion and it was unanimously carried. Failing to hear from Mr. Nobogrowski in reply to the above road matter, Mr. Vargas said that the town would proceed at the end of the week to gain possession of the land and in that case might take over even more land than was originally asked for. The meeting adjourned after a three-quarter hour session.

Reports from Dr. Frank L. Payne, under treatment in a Providence hospital, are to the effect that steady improvement is noted in his condition.

The work of excavating the lot owned by Samuel Nardone, corner of High and Canal streets, has progressed so far that all the loam has been removed and teams and trucks are now removing the gravel, so that the surface of the whole lot has been lowered to the sidewalk level.

Deputy Tax Collector Eugene B. Pendleton and assistant, Miss Mary E. Quinlan, continue to be busily engaged in the town treasurer's office, Westerly town hall. Up to Wednesday noon 527 taxpayers, or about one-sixth of the total number of 3000 assessed, had called to settle their accounts.

For the Hikers Memorial, Robert Brucker camp, Spanish-American War Veterans, plans to conduct a bazaar in the Westerly town hall. When an amount is raised sufficient to complete the memorial it will be located in Wilcox park.

W. H. Ingham of Providence was a business caller in Westerly Wednesday.

George E. Chapman of Westerly was in Mystic Wednesday.

Crossed wires caused the hall of the Westerly fire alarm to sound at frequent intervals, Wednesday morning.

His mind having become unbalanced, Almer A. Kenerson of Clarkville formerly an engineer at the William Clark mills, was taken to the Norwich state hospital at Brewster, Neck where his commitment had been directed Wednesday night by Officers Connors and McMahon, of Pawcatuck police force.

It is said that Connecticut state policemen having made two arrests for violation of automobile traffic laws, one for speeding on Mechanic street, a special session of the Stonington town court will be held in the borough hall this (Thursday) morning to try the cases.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Wednesday night, the Pawcatuck fire alarm whistle was blown from box 51, corner of West Broad street and Lincoln avenue, for a fire in Denison's Brick Service station of West Broad street. As 30 members of P. S. Barber Hose Co. were in the hose house, little time was lost in reaching the blaze. The fire started in the rear of the garage in the combined boiler and work room. The oil and grease made fuel for the fire which had spread far when the firemen arrived. Two streams of water were poured on the blaze and it was not long before the fire was out. Some of the cars stored in the garage were run out and others moved forward in the garage when the fire was under control. The damage was mostly from smoke and water. The smoke found its way to the garage and into the tenement above by Henry L. Morin, who has several children these being gotten out. As the service station is close by the Elm Tree Inn, preparations were made to turn water on the inn building, but this was not necessary.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

In view of the many instances where inmates of public institutions have been seriously menaced if not burned to death when fire visited such places, the last session of the legislature in the state of New York provided for a bond issue of $50,000,000 for the purpose of constructing fireproof buildings for housing, caring for and training the wards of that state. It is an appropriation that must be approved by the voters of the state, and is a sum of considerable proportion for any state, when it is realized that it involves the abandonment of existing buildings because of the fire hazard.

There are in the Empire state but eleven of the 227 buildings used as institutions which are fireproof. There can be no thought of building new structures that are not fireproof. It is the cheapest in the end and it eliminates that menace to which inmates are subjected.

Even though there are buildings used for the care of state wards which have never been afire, there is no telling when the record will be broken. The greatest care needs to be exerted wherever many children, many aged, many sick, many feebleminded and many insane are housed. Extra precautions must be taken and the same degree of care that might be expected from normal persons is not assured. The only thing to do is to guard against it in the logical manner of making the buildings fireproof. Such a policy always follows a fire in a state or private institution. New York is taking time by the forelock and endeavoring to profit from the lessons taught by others. It seeks to house its wards in safety before some of them have sacrificed themselves in teaching the need of such action.

It means protection for those unfortunates who are thrown upon the care of the state and it is a matter to which every state must sooner or later give consideration. In the erection of new buildings for state institutions where many are housed there should be no thought of constructing other than fire proof structures.

BELGIUM'S PROPOSAL.

Another try at the solution of the reparation problem between the allies and Germany seems likely to be made through the plan that has been suggested by Belgium. The wisdom of submitting this plan to the reparation commission has been passed upon by France and Great Britain. They haven't necessarily endorsed the plan but they have approved the idea of having it referred to the commission, reserving their judgment for such developments as may come from the efforts of its reference.

At the time of the London conference it was decided that Germany should pay 132,000,000,000 gold marks. Question as to Germany's ability to pay such has since arisen and according to the Belgium plan it is proposed that Germany shall pay 50,000,000,000 gold marks in cash or its equivalent and that the allies shall take German bonds for the remainder.

This might be regarded as fixing the 50,000,000,000 as the limit that Germany can be expected to pay and with the bonds retain a hold upon that country for such other payments as the future shows that it can meet. Instead of judging Germany's capacity by the present situation the way is left open to get the benefit of any great prosperity that might develop as relief from reparations and other war handicaps are experienced. If Germany cannot do any more than meet the cash requirements it will be demonstrated and it will be possible to forget the bonds, though the allies will probably not admit any such intention.

The plan will open the way it would seem to bring about some adjustment and making it possible for the study of Germany's ability to pay to be distributed over a much longer period, during which Germany should be interested in doing its utmost to get onto its feet instead of persistently sinking deeper into the mire in the hopes of discouraging the allied effort for reparations.

The plan hasn't been adopted, in fact it hasn't been submitted. The possibilities in it are worth such study as is required and coming from Belgium it may mean an understanding will be reached.

OPPOSING THE BONUS.

Within the past few weeks there has been much said in regard to the bonus, and there are those who have figured it out by just how large a majority it is going to pass congress and that there will be sufficient votes to override any veto that might be applied by the president. All this indicates preparation for the continuance of the bonus fight in the coming session of congress.

While there are those who are enthusiastic for the granting of a bonus to the able bodied men who were in the service of the country during the war, there are those who are equally opposed. And this includes [illegible] who were in the service. At the [illegible] convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, held in Washington last week, Past Vice Commander Kendrick said that he recognized that it meant the end of his possibilities for future office in the organization but he made the most of the opportunity to deplore the use the officers of the Legion had made of it to obtain the bonus payment and pointed out the large decrease in membership as one outcome of it.

Past Vice Commander Kendrick is not the only member of the Legion or ex-service man to oppose the idea of a bonus for the able bodied. Many have consistently opposed it from the start and continue to do so. Whether the drop of the Legion membership to 13 1-2 per cent of the total service men of the country can be entirely attributed to the bonus activity of the officers may be open to question, but it is evident that it is representing only a small proportion of the great number that such a bonus would involve, provided all embraced under such an effort were favorably inclined.

Thus it becomes clear that while there are those who are making elaborate claims in behalf of the bonus and the support which is assured from congress it doesn't appear that the service men are standing back of the organization's officers who are working for it. Possibly they are willing to take it if it comes their way but they are not enlisted in an organized effort to drag from the national treasury what would involve a burden on the country.

FOR UNCLE SAM TO SHUN.

There are those who have gone to Russia the past summer with fixed opinions concerning the soviet government. They have looked the country over and returned and are now telling what their experience was, what their opinions are today. There are those who are convinced that they were right before they left those shores and such include those who favored as well as those who condemned soviet Russia. It is not recorded that there are those who went to Russia and as the result of their visit have been convinced that their opposition to the recognition of soviet Russia was unjustified. There are those, however, who have been convinced that they were wrong in believing that we should hasten to extend recognition to that country.

Congressman Britten was among those who favored early establishment of trade relations with and the extension of recognition to Russia. He is one who has gone, seen and been convinced that he was wrong. He comes back disillusioned and isn't afraid to say so. He saw Russia in a different manner than some of the others may have but he saw it in a way that showed him that he was wrong and he has told President Coolidge as much.

Regarding his investigation, personally conducted, he says: "I have completely changed my opinion and am quite convinced that any recognition of bolshevik Russia is only lending strength to a cause which sooner or later must fail and I am now positively opposed to recognition of a visionary government whose very foundation is based on murder, anarchy, bolshevism and theft."

Such a statement carries much more weight than the urgings of those in this country who are backing soviet Russia and disregarding the conditions that exist there.

TOADSTOOL EATING.

Within a few days the news reports have told of the death of several from eating toadstools under the belief that they were eating mushrooms. It is one of those frequent causes for untimely deaths that is probably older than "didn't know it was loaded," "changing seats in a canoe," "mistaken for harmless remedy in the dark" and similar other excuses which have been connected with a large death toll.

There are those who know mushrooms. There are those who think they do and possibly are able to distinguish some of them from the poisonous fungi, but there are those who from time to time find out by experience that while they were confident of their ability the results show that it was seriously misplaced. Where the penalty may be death this is a grave matter. The willingness to take a chance may mean a display of bravado, but the gross folly of it is quickly illustrated when violent sickness and death follow.

Judging mushrooms should be left to the experts. It requires no skill to pick out the toadstools, but it takes a stronger constitution than most human beings are endowed with to eat them and to live to tell of the experience. Those who are willing to take chances with such fungi put themselves in the suicide class. It is easily avoided by firt making sure you are right.

MERE SELF DEFENSE

"I know why it is," said the girl who likes to talk. "Animals grow claws and scales and things in self-defense—and husbands grow deaf and blind for exactly the same reason! I never yet was acquainted with a wife who did not state in the course of the conversation that it was perfectly dreadful the way John never heard anything she said to him or that it was simply sickening how Harry never noticed what she had on or when she had moved the furniture about.

"The poor dears are driven to it! If a man listened to every single thing a woman said his brain would be no place to hatch mighty business affairs. If a woman is alone in the house all day words simply bubble forth when John comes home. At first the pretty sound entertains him and then like the thumps of a hammer grow monotonous and his head rings. Shall she stirr the new georgette or make it like this pattern—look, John, this one! Won't it make her look fat? Well, that is sweet of him, but nevertheless, she knows she is fat and that's all there is to it! Or maybe made with a tunic like this—does he like tunics?

"Somewhat groggy by now John declares he is crazy about them. Still, Martha Toolittle has a tunic on her new dress and doesn't he think she looks dreadful in it, with her size and everything? Horrible, John agrees, scanning the evening paper. But, John, she counters aggrievedly, you just said you liked tunics and I'm every bit as big as Martha Toolittle.

"Uh huh," agrees John, who is reading how some temperamental female got rid of her husband merely by pressing her finger against the trigger. And then maybe he notices that his wife has hysterics and again maybe he doesn't. He is hardened to saying the wrong thing always. It is because he doesn't listen.

"What do you suppose I heard today?" she demands just as he tackles the steak. 'About the Beamishes! You can't imagine! He's always seemed such a nice man and no one ever in the world would think she would look crosswise at any one else, though these days you can't tell! I was never so surprised as when Agatha dropped in and told me! Agatha had on the darlingest dress, one of these new paisley effects, you know, made just strait up and down, though why with her coloring she choose green I'm sure I can't imagine! She said she wouldn't believe it at first—about the Beamishes, I mean—but Clara vowed she had heard it directly from Mr. Beamishes' half sister!"

"By this time John has thoroughly and completely lost interest in whatever deviltry the Beamishes may have been engaged in and has detached his mind from the conversation, just as you detach the plug from the breakfast toaster and the current is off. He is existing in a vast and complete silence in spite of the continuous chatter of his wife's voice. And a week later when somebody mentions the Beamishes' trouble he says 'Well, well. Have the Beamishes been up to something? Tell me about it.' And his wife in anger tears a handkerchief in two.

"About not seeing their wives' new dresses and chairs and table runners and the like—I've a theory. I think that a man studies a girl so intensely when he is falling in love with her and getting engaged to her that he sort of gets an eyeful and ever after thinks of her as she was then. He doesn't have to look at her. She is there as she was and ever shall be. Clothes—most men are keen on general effects and dumb on particulars. If a woman keeps her hair curled and netted immaculately and wears good slippers she can get away with the same gown 365 days in the year, I verily believe.

"What's different?" he will inquire bewilderedly, after she has spent the whole day wrenching the furniture around throughout the apartment and triumphantly asks how he likes it. 'Oh yes!" he hastily cries, noting the gathering storm clouds, 'I see! You've moved that lamp over there!' The lamp happens to be the one thing remaining in its original location and so, what ho for the jolly hysterics again!

"Usually, however, what a woman expects her husband to look at is right back of him anyhow. She never seems to pick out a nice comfortable object to the front but says, 'Look! Right behind you!' I don't blame men for refusing to pay attention—"

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Frederick B. Patterson, the newly elected president of the National Aeronautic Association, is president of a well-known manufacturing concern in Dayton, O., which is the largest of its kind in the world. In this position he succeeded his father, who was the founder of the business, and who died a year ago. The son attended the public schools of Dayton and supplemented this with several years spent in study at private schools in the East and in England. After completing his schooling in 1910, he entered his father's employ, beginning in the capacity of foundryman's helper and going through all of the manufacturing departments, the advertising and sales departments. He familiarized himself with the workings of the company from the ground up, enabling him to fill successfully his present position as executive head of the parent company, and as director of its Canadian, German and English branches. During the war Mr. Patterson was assigned to the photographic air service, and was in France six months, participating in the St. Mihiel battle.

Stories That Recall Others

Appropriate

A man had given Willie, six years old, a treat. He failed to respond with formal 'thank' and mother was trying to remind him.

"Now, Willie, what are you going to say?"

"Give me some more," Willie demanded.

Chickens is Chickens.

Three year old Mary Ellen knows there are "roosters" and there are "hens" in her father's chicken list. She knows also that her elder brothers often speak of their friends as "some chickens."

The other day she was sprinkling powder and rough on her face in liberal quantities when her mother entered the room. Her mother stared at her. "Why, Mary Ellen," she began.

"A happy smile came to the little face. "Mover," she exclaimed, "ain't I some wooster?"

WHAT OTHER CITIES DO.

Main street, Clarksburg, W. Va., through a movement inaugurated by the chamber of commerce, has been transformed by the removal of wooden poles, awnings and other sidewalk obstructions, and the installation of a modern lighting system.

Boston, Mass., through the Boston conservation bureau and the citizens' committee on conservation, is conducting open-air meetings and picture shows in the parks to educate the people in the conservation of human life and public resources.

Stockton, Cal., has established a high standard in municipal administration by employing Charles E. Ashburner, now city manager of Norfolk, Va., for the city managership of Stockton at a salary of $30,000 per annum.

Plans for water-front development have recently been adopted in Portland, Ore., which, besides beautifying the water-front, will help traffic, eliminate fire hazards and improve sanitary conditions.

Milwaukee, Wis., has organized a recreation council, with delegates from leading civic organizations and clubs, to assist the recreation authorities in the study and promotion of public recreation.

Pasadena, Cal. is to have an adequate civic center, $3,500,000 in bonds for that purpose having been voted at a recent election.

Spring Lake, N. J. recently dedicated its Memorial Community house, erected at a cost of about $150,000 on a site valued at $40,000.

Ottawa, Ill. recently passed an ordinance providing means of establishing five playgrounds and a playground commission.

Also on Arms and Limbs. Spread Rapidly. Cuticura Heals.

"Eczema broke out in small pimples which grew larger and formed blisters. The blisters broke and discharged water which caused the eczema to spread rapidly. It covered my entire arms and face, and my limbs were affected. The breaking out was very painful and for days and nights I walked the floor as the irritation was at times almost unbearable. My face and arms were badly disfigured.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and found relief, and after using about three cakes of Soap and three boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Mary E. Billington, care of W. V. Lamb, R. F. D. 2, Searsmont, Maine.

OBITUARY.

Alfred Hough.

After a long illness Alfred Hough, for years a resident of Norwich, died Tuesday evening in the Municipal hospital, Hartford, where he had been a patient for treatment. Twelve days ago Mr. Hough fell and broke one of his hips and this combined with his illness resulted in his death.

Mr. Hough was a native of England but the greater part of his life had been spent in this country. For ten years he had charge of the silk department at the Porteous and Mitchell store and for 25 years he was in business for himself in this city, conducting a notion store. For a time he was employed in New London and then located in Hartford.

In Norwich March 28, 1880, Mr. Hough was united in marriage with Jennie L. Leavens of this city. Her death occurred March 8, 1910. Surviving are one daughter, Miss Marion Hough, of Winchester street, and a brother and other relatives in England.

FUNERALS.

Miss Margaret Bourke.

With relatives and friends present the funeral of Miss Margaret Bourke was held from the parlors of Undertakers Cummings and Ring Wednesday morning at 8.30 o'clock. At 9 o'clock there was a mass of requiem in St. Patrick's church with Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero as celebrant. Prof. Frank L. Farrell had charge of the music and at the close of the mass Mrs. Farrell rendered Jesus, Lover of My Soul.

The bearers were John P. Flynn, Patrick McNally, William J. McKnight, Peter J. Flynn, George H. Nolan and Rene Rouleau and burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery. Rev. M. H. May, rector of St. Patrick's church, conducted a funeral service at the grave. There were a number of floral tokens of esteem.

Miss Mary Jane Morgan

At 2.30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the funeral of Miss Mary Jane Morgan was held from the home of Mrs. William H Cardwell, No. 313 Main street, with relatives and friends present. There were a number of beautiful floral remembrances.

Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, conducted the service at the house and also read a committal service at the grave. The bearers were John E. Post, John Palmer Post, Harry W. Cardwell and Harry F. Powers. Burial took place in Yantic cemetery. Undertakers Church and Allen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. James Dingwell

Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery, Hebron.

STORRS HENS PUTTING ALL RECORDS IN SHADE

There are still three weeks to go in the Storrs laying contest and yet the hens have already laid a great total that exceeds the production of all previous years except for 19117 and 11922 and the records for these two years are sure to be demolished by the close of another week. Egg production in the contest is nearing off of course but this is likewise true in perhaps every flock of yearlings. What gratifies both the contestants and the management is the fact that this drop in egg yield has developed much more slowly than in other years. For example, last week the hens laid over 6.0 eggs more than the average in the corresponding period in other contests and the week before they exceeded the general average by about the same number of eggs. One pen of Wyandottes, one pen of Rhode Island Reds and three pens of Leghorns consisting of ten hens each, have laid more than 2000 eggs each. At least two other pens are expected to finish the year with records above this mark.

A Connecticut pen of White Leghorns owned by S. G. McLean of South Glastonbury was the best performer for the week with a production of 49 eggs. Barred Rocks entered by Julius F. Francois of Westhampton Beach, L. I., and Rhode Island Reds owned by Pinecrest Orchards from Groton, Mass., tied for second place with 46 eggs each. White Leghorns entered by Ernest Crase from Ramsey, N. J., and Andrew L. Ohr from Wallingford, Conn., were third and fourth with scores of 45 and 44 eggs respectively. It is perhaps needless to add that the higher market price of eggs at this season of the year makes the high laying hen unusually profitable. The total lay for all pens was 3769 eggs or a yield of 40 per cent.

Plymouth Rocks

Edgar Soughton (Barred) ..... 1923

WINS NORWICH ROTARY GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP WITH SILVER CUP

Lucius Briggs won the first annual golf tournament of the Norwich Rotary club and the William G Park silver trophy emblematic of the title on Wednesday afternoon at the Norwich Golf club with a net score of 73. Lewis M. Young gave Briggs a close run for the cup but difficulty in negotiating the seventh hole gave him a net score of 76. Young won the driving contest that preceded the tournament play.

LUCIUS BRIGGS

Briggs and Young furnished the golfing sensation of the 18 holes medal play in their match. Each was away with almost perfect drives off the first tee and Briggs took the lead with a birdie one. Both played exceptionally good golf, Briggs finishing the first nine holes in 45, but missing several short putts made the second nine in 46 for a gross score of 91 which with his handicap of 20 strokes gave him a net score of 73. Young had low gross score with an 88. The scores for the day follow:

| | Gross | H'd'cp | Net |
|---|---|---|---|
| Lucius Briggs .... | 93 | 20 | 73 |
| L. M. Young ..... | 88 | 12 | 76 |
| E. A. Harris ..... | 103 | 22 | 81 |
| F. P. Welch ..... | 99 | 14 | 85 |
| W. G. Park ..... | 99 | 12 | 87 |
| Eben Learned .... | 110 | 22 | 88 |
| Henry Vignot .... | 116 | 27 | 89 |
| Louis Porteous .... | 98 | 8 | 90 |
| J. C. Worth ..... | 143 | 36 | 106 |

Preceding the tournament the regular luncheon was held on the porch of the club house and was attended by about fifty Rotarians and guests. In the absence of President Charles A. Saxton, the meeting was conducted by Vice President Grosvenor Ely and Louis Porteaus acted as song leader. Routine business was transacted at the meeting and a telegram from Charles A. Saxton who is at camp on the Rangeley Lakes was read by Vice President Ely.

The luncheon was served by the club steward and his staff and proved very delightful.

JAMES O'NEILL'S WIDOW LEFT $108,482 ESTATE

It became known Tuesday that Mrs. Ella O'Neill, widow of the famous actor, James O'Neill, and mother of the playwright, Eugene O'Neill, when she died at Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 28 last, left a net estate of $108,482.50.

According to the appraisal the gross value of her property, wherever situated, amounted to $208,327.50, of which $188,800 was in real and $18,-527.50 in personal property. All that she left in New York was realty at No. 52 Columbus avenue, appraised at $50,000 upon which there is a mortgage of $22,000. The will was executed at Los Angeles and directed that her estate be divided between her two sons, giving to James O'Neill, Jr., all her real estate in Los Angeles; the value of which is not disclosed in the appraisal made in New York city, and one-half the residue. The remaining half of the residue is bequeathed to Eugene Gladstone O'Neill, the playwright, of Ridgefield.

James O'Neill, Jr., is seriously ill in a sanatorium in New Jersey.

Mrs. O'Neill named Marion Reed of Los Angeles as executrix, but she could not qualify and City Clerk Julian D. Moran of New London has been named by the probate court there as administrator de bonus non.

RED MEN GREAT CHIEFS TRAILED TO NORWICH

Great chiefs from the Connecticut and Rhode Island reservations trailed to Norwich Wednesday evening and gave long talks at the meeting of Mohegan tribe, No. 64, I. O. R. M. held in Steiner hall. Sachem George P. Farrell of Mohegan tribe gave the welcome to the visitors who included Great Sachem William Fairbanks of Naugatuck, Great Junior Sagamore Edward Wilson of New Haven, Great Sanap William Newport of Torrington, Great Guardian of Wigwam William H. Twitty of Torrington, Great Sachem John Morrison of Westerly and Great Mishinewa George R. Healey of Westerly. Others to speak were Deputy Great Sachem B. H. Roue of New London and Deputy Great Sachem Joseph A. George of this city.

Delegations of a dozen from Nonowantuck tribe in New London and of twenty from the tribe in Westerly were present at the meeting, which had an attendance of about 60.

Two applications were received at the meeting and Sachem Farrell reported that Mohegan tribe had made a good membership gain in the past six months.

In the entertainment of the evening there was an original Indian song by Lemuel Fielding, of lineal descendant of the Mohegan Indians, and a piano solos by Sachem Farrell. Coffee and doughnuts were served.

FALL MEETING HELD BY CITY UNION, K. D.

The fall meeting of City Union, King's Daughters, was held Wednesday evening at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church with an attendance of about 50. Mrs. Luther K. Packer, the president, presided at the meeting at which routine business, including the hearing of reports, was transacted. Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of the church, opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. William Crowe, of Greeneville, accompanied by Miss Olive Linton, pianist, rendered a solo. Mrs. Hezekiah Perkins and Mrs. John C. Atterbury were appointed a resolutions committee.

Following the meeting refreshments of cake and coffee were served by a committee comprising Mrs. J. H. Allen, Mrs. Alvin D. Lewis and Mrs. Louis H. Geer.

JUDGE AND JURY ARE HEARING $5,000 SUIT

Before Judge Isaac Wolfe and a jury Wednesday afternoon in the superior court at New London, trial was begun in the suit of Henry Wills of North Stonington vs Alfred and Mabel Wills, husband and wife, of Pawcatuck, for breach of contract.

It is claimed that Martha Wills, wife of Henry, the plaintiff and mother of Alfred, left her son a farm in North Stonington with provisions that he was to supply a home for her husband his father during thier lifetime. This contract was not carried out and he asks for damages of $5,000. The defense claims that he left voluntarily.

BISHOP ACHESON CONFIRMED CLASS AT POQUETANUCK

Rt. Rev. Edward Campion Atherson, D. D., suffragan bishop of Connecticut confirmed a class of six at Saint James' church, Poquetanuck on Sunday morning, and celebrated holy communion delivering an interesting and helpful address at the service. The musical portion of the service was nicely rendered by the choir.

Bishop Atherson was entertained at the rectory during his visitation in Poquetanuck.

Main Street Trolley Stop.

The trolley stop on Main street in the block between Shetucket and Market street has this week been shifted [illegible] feet to the east. It was formerly close to the Market street corner but has now been changed to a point opposite the steps leading to the Arcanum club.

MAY PUT LOAD LIMIT ON CONNECTICUT TRUCKS

Restriction of the weight of trucks carrying loads over a number of Connecticut highways is likely to follow a survey now being made of freight and traffic conditions, the state highway department announced Monday. Although no definite program has yet been decided upon, the limitation is being considered in view of the heavy truck traffic that now traverses the state.

In answer to an inquiry from the Rhode Island board of public roads, Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald has replied that at present, at least, there will probably be no restrictions of loads under the state's 25,000 pound limit on roads leading into Rhode Island. This maximum weight limit is fixed by statute. The highway department, however, has authority to make further restrictions if the safety of the public highways is endangered by over-loading of trucks.

As a result of a statute recently enacted in Rhode Island, the maximum weight of trucks carrying loads over roads in that state, will be 20,000 pounds. In a good many cases, however, it has been found necessary to restrict loads to as low as 16,000 pounds on roads deemed unable to withstand a continued heavy traffic.

Restrictions contemplated in that state are now being prepared for the spring of 1924 when the seasonal thaws work havoc with the highway surfaces and foundations alike.

Of particular interest to Connecticut truck owners is the schedule of restrictions proposed by Rhode Island state officials with regard to roads crossing the Connecticut-Rhode Island state line.

In some instances, it has been found necessary to place a 15,000 pound limit on roads leading from Rhode Island into Connecticut. Following is a group of restrictions already tentatively decided upon:

Providence to Conn. state line via Washington, Coventry and Greene—20,000 pounds.

Other restrictions in Rhode Island will have a wide effect on traffic passing through Connecticut to that state.

SETBACKS COST $8,000,000 TO NEW HAVEN ROAD

But for certain adverse factors early in the year, the New Haven railroad might have earned $8,000,000 more net for 1923 than it will actually show, the Wall Street Journal asserts. That measures the setback resulting from after-effects of the coal strike, the shop strike, winter weather of unprecedented severity and excessive per diem charges paid to foreign lines for car hire.

Many people do not understand how effects of th coal strike hung over into 1923. In the first place, there was pressing demands for coal in New England in the winter, following the long mining suspension, and the New Haven was forced to concentrate on fuel transporation at a time when its machinery was impaired and to detriment of movment of high class, more profitable freight. Also, the New Haven had for its own use some high-cost coal bought during the scarcity and also some foreign coal which roved of very poor steaming quality. Fuel expense was increased and efficiency of locomotives was cut.

As a result of the shop strike motive power was in bad condition throughout the winter and unusually large percentages of locomotives were out of service awaiting repair. The road was consequently spending heavily to get motive power back into condition.

On top of other difficulties there was not only extremely coald weather, but excessive snowfall. This involved heavy expenses for snow removal, further crippled tractive power and cut earnings by hampering train movement. Conditions were such that the tractive power of 50 additional locomotives would have been required to handle the same amount of traffic.

Charges for freight car hire were run up to excessive figures because more than 6,700 of New Haven's own freight cars were out of commission, having been set aside for rebuilding in 1920-21. The maintenance on these cars were seriously deferred during federal control and because of the low condition of its treasury, the New Haven was unable to make much headway in rebuilding them.

In spite of the $8,000,000 loss because of handicaps mentioned it is estimated the New Haven will come through 1923 with a deficit after charges of not much over $8,000,000 if things go well from now on. There was a surplus after charges for August of about $150,000 and the deficit after charges for eight months ended Aug. 31 was about $4,144,000. Remaining months of the year are expected to show surpluses so that the deficit should be further reduced. But if conditions had been normal earlier in 1923 the road might have shown a surplus of between $4 000000 and $5,000,000 instead of a deficit.

For next year the outlook is promising. If traffic holds in good volume and rates are maintained, New Haven should be able to complete its car rebuilding programme, involving extra expense, and show a surplus over charges estimated at $5,000 000. It may be noted that is one-third the sum that Mr. Storrow's committee proposed to raise by assessment on the stock.

MEASURES TO REDUCE WASTING WATER NOW

In connection with the present shortage of water that is being experienced in many parts of the state, too much emphasis cannot be given to measures for prevention of leakage and waste, says the state board of health's weekly bulletin.

Some of them are:

Clothes washing under running water: The washing of clothes under showers or running streams of water results in unnecessary waste. When feasible, set or movable tubs should be provided for this purpose. In some cases it will prove advantageous to provide a water connection and sink outside.

Overflow of troughs: Water troughs and tanks should not be permitted to overflow, not only because of unnecessary waste of water, but also because mud about the trough is objectionable.

Devices to reduce pressure locally: The use of such devices as perforated lead washers, slugs, and washbies in the faucets and shower sprinkle heads for the purpose of locally reducing excessive pressure and resultant waste, is recommended. Round-headed, self-closing faucets can be advantageously installed where there is a scarcity of water.

Regulations to prevent waste: Regulations should be issued to prevent unnecessary use of water, the leaving of faucets and shower heads open after using, etc., and should be rigidly enforced by inspection and policing if necessary.

Systematic surveys should be made from time to time to locate leaks in water mains and service pipes. Tests for leakage on main lines can be made by pitometer readings, by the use of aquaphones, and by pressure gauges in isolated districts supplied by small pipe lines. Aquaphone tests should be made when the pressure is high, as the sound from leaks will be greater at such times. Localizing of waste with master meters can best be made during the hours of minimum consumption from midnight to 4 a. m. The flow in sewers may also serve as an indication of water waste or leakeage in different localities.

Faucets, showers, toilets, etc., should be inspected every night, and when found out of order should be repaired or replaced promptly.

CAVE PARTY FOR SON'S 21ST BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin D. Lewis of No. 84 Asylum street entertained a party of 22 young people Friday evening at their home in honor of the twenty-first birthday of their son, Forest T. Lewis. Music and games were enjoyed and refreshments of ice cream, cake and grape juice were served by Mrs. Lewis.

WEDDINGS

Rathbun—Purvis

A pretty wedding took place Wednesday evening at 8.30 o'clock at the home of David A. Purvis of Montville when his daughter, Edith E. Purvis, became the bride of H. Lloyd Rathbun, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Rathbun of 44 Dunham street, Norwich. The wedding took place in the presence of relatives and intimate friends of the couple, the double ring service being used by Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist, Episcopal church of this city.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white crepe de chine and her bridal bouquet was of white chrysanthemums. She was attended by her sister, Miss Grace Purvis, as maid of honor, whose gown was of coral crepe de chine, the bouquet being of pink chrysanthemums. The best man was George Hollingsworth of this city.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was tendered to about 40 guests and a buffet luncheon was served.

The bride received many beautiful gifts of silver, cut glass, china, linen and furniture. She was born in Norwich and attended the Norwich Free Academy and for the past few years has resided in Montville.

The groom is also a native of Norwich and served several years in the United States navy. He is a member of the First Baptist church, and is prominent in the Young People's society. He is now in the employ of Disco Brothers.

After a wedding trip by automobile, Mr. and Mrs. Rathbun will return to their new home at 82 Hedge avenue, where they will be at home to their friends after November 1st.

Harris—Kofsky

Miss Marion Kofsky, daughter of Mrs. Bernard Kofsky of Oak street Hartford, and Frank Harris of New London, were married at Hartford Tuesday noon by the Rev. Dr. Abraham Anspacher, rabbi of the Temple Beth Israel. Mrs. Harris was graduated from Connecticut College for Women with the class of 1919. Mr. Harris is a graduate of Clark University, 1917, and received his masters degree at Columbia University. Mr. and Mrs. Harris will live in New London.

Girl Scouts on Hike

On Saturday last thirteen members of Girl Scout Troop No. 1 enjoyed a hike and dog roast on the grounds of Frank Peckham of Corning road. The girls explored Joe 'Bill's cave and climber Mt. Pigsah. Signalling was practiced and several scout songs were sung.

About five o'clock a bonfire was built and all enjoyed a dog and marshmallow roast.

This was the first of several such hikes that the Scouts hope to take.

Soot in Chimney On Fire

Soot on fire at the base of a chimney made a still alarm call for the fire department Wednesday evening at 7.50 to 451 Main street. Six gallons of chemical were used. The house belongs to Frank Fitch and is occupied by Mrs. Nellie Chapman.

Located Owner of Automobile.

Shortly before 6 o'clock Wednesday night a Taftville man reported to The Bulletin that a Buick coupe, registration [illegible] conn. 98302 had been standing in front of his property practically all day.

He was informed that the number was that of the car registered in the name of Joseph M. Lahn of 69 Summit street and he evidently got in touch with the owner as no car has been reported missing.

Girlish Complexion Now Easily Acquired

"A skin of blended snow, cream and rose," is the way one enthusiast describes her newly acquired complexion. She is one who has adopted mercolized wax in place of cosmetics, massage, steaming and other methods. Many who have tried this marvelous wax report that its effect are quite different from those of any other treatment. It produces a complexion of exquisite girlish naturalness, rather than one bearing evidence of having been artificially "made over." One that is indeed "Nature's own" the result of gradually absorbing dead particles of surface skin, permitting the younger healthier skin beneath to show itself and giving its pores a chance to breathe. Mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store in original one ounce package, is put on at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

ZEV MAKES A SATISFACTORY SHOWING IN WORKOUT ON THE BELMONT TRACK

New York, Oct. 17—(By the A. P.)—While Zev, America's entry in the $100,000 international race next Saturday, went through his final hard workout today in form that aroused a marked contrast of opinion, Papyrus England's thoroughbred hope, cantered through his first workout with Steve Donoghue, premier British rider, who will handle the reins of the derby winner in the classic at Belmont Park.

Zev's workout, a mile and a quarter in 2:09, fell short of the expectations of some observers, to whom the horse's slow finish was disappointing, but general belief prevailed that the Rancocas star purposely was eased up after showing a brilliant burst of speed in the first few furlongs.

Zev covered the first half in the markable good time of 47 seconds flat and was clocked in 1:12 2-5 for the six furlongs. Thereafter, Jockey L. Fator, who had the leg up, restrained the colt, turning the mile in 1:39 4-5, nine furlongs in 1:54 and finishing the mile and a quarter in 2:09.

"The work was all right," declared Sam Hildreth, Rancocas trainer, after the trial. "I told Fator to give Zev a mile in about 1:40 and let him go on a quarter further without 'hunching' him. That's what he did and I'm satisfied with the colt's showing."

It was pointed out by critics that while Zev has not shown marked stamina in his workouts, he has proved that he retains all the speed that carried him to sensational victories during the season. At the end of today's workout the colt seemed strong, tugging at the bit and not "all out," as he appeared after a trial last Sunday.

Papyrus, with Donoghue up, had an easy gallop of six furlongs but is slated for a final stiff preparatory test tomorrow morning, probably at a mile and a half, the distance of the International race.

Donoghue, sitting erect and holding a long rein, in contrast to the customary American style of riding, got his first survey of Belmont track, on which he will match his riding wits with Earl Sande, leading American jockey, in the big race. The little English jockey seemed pleased with the condition of Papyrus, which he piloted to his fifth derby triumph at Epsom Downs.

Basil Jarvis, trainer of Papyrus, removed tonight the last hope that the derby winner, if victorious over Zev, might accept the $50,000 offer of the Maryland State Fair association for a race at a mile and a half with My Own, Zev's rival for American three-year-old honors, at Laurel track on Thursday of next week.

"All being well Papyrus will return on October 28 on board the Aquitania," said Jarvis. "This is definite and final."

Comparison of the three-year-old records of Zev and Papyrus show that the American star has made a much more impressive showing than his rival. Zev has won eight out of nine starts this season, conquering all of his leading rivals at varying weights and distances with the exception of My Own, while Papyrus has won in three out of five starts. The classics of American and Britain, however, fell to each, Zev capturing the Kentucky Derby while Papyrus was victor at Epsom Downs.

Zev's only defeat this season was in the rich Preakness, in which the Rancocas entry finished twelfth after a bad start. Besides the Kentucky derby, which carried with it a money prize of $53,625, Zev's most important victories were in the Withers and Belmont stakes, against strong fields, and in the Lawrence realization, which was the first of two official trials for American candidates for the international race. My own won the second trial, the National sweepstakes, but Zev was chosen by the Jockey club when efforts to match the two horses in a final test failed.

Papyrus, besides taking the English derby, won the Chester Vase and the Duke of York stakes, being awarded first place in the latter when Craig Elegyr, which finished first, was disqualified. Papyrus was beaten in the 2,000 guineas and finished second in the St. Leger, his last race.

As a two-year-old, Zev won five out of 13 races, while Papyrus won six out of eight. The American horse has earned a total of $174,936.34, of which more than $150,000 has been gained this season. Papyrus's total earnings amounts to 17,862 pounds.

Three veteran horsemen were named stewards of the international race today.

They are H. K. Knapp, a steward of the Jockey club, who races the Oneck Stable; F. Gray Griswold, the master of the hounds of the Queens County and Meadow Brook hunts, an amateur rider of note; and Johnson N. Camden, chairman of the Kentucky Racing association owner of the Hartland Stud at Versailles, Ky.

SIX HORSES OUT OF 300-MILE ENDURANCE RACE

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 17—Six horses were barred or withdrawn before or during the third lap of the 1923 national 300 mile endurance contest at Avon, N. Y., today. With Nintu disqualified yesterday, sixteen remaining entries will take the road tomorrow.

The stiffest course in the history of the endurance rides was responsible for the first big gap in the ranks of the entries officials said.

Kildaire, a big gray gelding, one of the Irish Hunters entered by Herbert J. Brown of Portland, Maine, made a gallant fight to say in the running but was ruled out after breasting '36 miles of Rocky Hills.

Vagrant, an army thoroughbred ridden by Major J. M. Wainwright, dropped out at the four mile mark early this morning.

Two Morgans, Dude and Chub, were out before the ride started this morning. The former did not start at all and the latter was withdrawn two miles out. Red Cloud, a stablemate, is said to be hopelessly late and Fair Lady, also a Morgan, was withdrawn at the start because of lameness. The necessity for withdrawing Fair Lady came as a mild sensation because the mare finished strongly yesterday.

All other entries finished what was said to be a heart breaking course by within nine hours, the minimum time limit. The absence of time penalties considering the number of withdrawals marked another feature in the history of the rides.

The breeds that showed exceptional weariness today are the Anglo-Arabs and the Irish Hunters, both being seen to pant heavily on the hills.

LYNCH AND BURMAN ARE BOTH DOWN TO WEIGHT

New York, Oct. 17—Joe Lynch, of New York, world's bantamweight titleholder, and his challenger, Joe Burman of Chicago, both are down to weight for their 15-round championship fight at Madison Square Garden next Friday night.

Going through his last hard workout today, Burman tipped the beam at 117 pounds, one pound under the bantam limit. Lynch also was under the required weight. Both were in good condition.

Lynch rules a slight favorite among ring followers to win Friday's contest, which will be the sixth these rivals have fought, but the first to an official decision. Honors were about evenly divided in their previous five matches.

YANKEE AND GIANT TEAMS TO UNDERGO REBUILDING PROCESS BEFORE NEXT YEAR

New York, Oct. 17—(By the A. P.)—Not only will the New York Giants, fallen world's champions, go through a rebuilding process before they are ready to scale title heights again, but the Yankees, their successors to baseball's crown, also may bolster a few weak links in their victorious machine before the 1924 season gets under way.

It developed today that Everett Scott, veteran shortstop of the Yankees who holds the all-time record for consecutive games played, is considering voluntary retirement, although Miller Huggins, manager of the new champions, has no desire himself to part with the game's greatest "iron man."

Scott, however, has an attractive business enterprise in view, which, if accepted, would mean his passing, after having piled up the remarkable record of participating in 1,128 consecutive games, a record he started in 1916 with the Boston Red Sox and which nearly doubles the best previous major league mark.

"This may be my last world's series," Scott admitted just before one of the games with the Giants. "I want it to be my best, so that if I don't come back in the spring, I can remember with pride my last season. I've been around a long time and I'm not getting any faster."

Scott has his wish so far as the series was concerned for the "deacon" after a rather disappointing season, came back to play the greatest championship ball of his career, batting over .300 and missing but one chance in the field.

Scott may find the call of the game too strong to resist when spring comes around but in the event he drops out, his shoes may be filled by Joe Boley, $100,000 beauty of the Baltimore Orioles, who has been eagerly sought by a number of major league clubs for several seasons. The purchase of Boley has never been officially announced by the Yankees or Jack Dunn, manager of the Baltimore International league champions, but it is understood the world's champions have first claim on him.

If Boley is not available, however, Ernie Johnson and Mike McNally, Yankee utility men, may battle for the shortstop berth.

Huggins also is understood to be anxious to obtain a right handed hitting outfielder, either to alternate with or replace Whitey Witt in centerfield. This need was shown in the last game of the series when Joe Bush, hard hitting pitcher was substituted for Witt in the eighth inning rally. Huggins has Elmer Smith available but he is a left hander at the plate. Smith might be used in a trade to his own and the club's advantage, for Elmer is considered too valuable to remain on the bench regularly.

Carl Mays, veteran pitcher, who has passed the crest of his effectiveness also may be involved in a deal.

Series retrospect today brought to light another record, made by Bob Meusel, whose $50,000 hit broke up the deciding game. Meusel drove in eight runs during the series, shattering the mark of seven established by Tommy Leach with Pittsburgh in the series of 1903 and equalled by Danny Murphy and Frank Baker, of the old Athletics, Eddie Roush of Cincinnati, and Irish Meusel, brother of Bob, in the 1921 Giant-Yankee series.

GLEASON DISCOURAGED WITH HIS EFFORTS WITH CHICAGO

Chicago, Oct. 17—William Kid Gleason, the fiery manager of the Chicago White Sox since 1919, resigned today, making the fourth managerial position to be filled in the American league before the opening of the 1924 season.

The 58 year old pilot, with a record of 27 years in baseball, resigned, he said, because he was discouraged with his attempts to reconstruct the club, wrecke dwith the exposure of the world's series scandal with Cincinnati in 1919. He set about to rebuild the club when the players who participated in the alleged frame-up were dropped, but in the three seasons that have passed, Gleason's fighting spirit alone carried him through as he had little success in the development of a new team.

"I've given the best that's in me, and the boys did the best they knew how," Gleason said tonight, "but we didn't seem to be able to get anywhere. A change often works wonders so I decided to step out and give somebody else a chance."

There has been no hint from President Comiskey of the White Sox as to the successor of the veteran.

Gleason has been with the Sox for eleven years in the capacity of coach and manager.

Gleason, a student of the old school, learned baseball while a member of the famous Baltimore Orioles and still carries out the teachings of the old master—fight and never give up.

The resignation of Gleason leaves Chicago, Boston, Washington and possibly St. Louis without managers for next season. In baseball circles it is believed Gleason will be back in the American league next year as leader of one of these clubs. There seems to be no assurance that George Sisler will be physically able to assume the management of the Browns next season, nad there have been persistent reports that Ty Cobb desires to relinquish the reins as leader of the Detroit club but remain as a player.

SWEETSER AND PARTNER WIN FROM GUMMINGS AND COLLETT

New Haven, Oct. 17—Jess Sweetser, former national amateur golf champion, who was teamed with Miss Anita Lihme, the latter taking the place of Miss Alexa Stirling, defeated Dexter Cummings, intercollegiate star, and Miss Glenna Collett, former woman's national champion, in the mixed foursome in an 18-hole exhibition golf match at Racebrook Country club this afternoon. The scoring was by best ball and aggregate and the winners won by five points.

Summary:

| | |
|---|---|
| Sweetser | 34-36—70 |
| Miss Lihme | 42-44—86 |
| Cummings | 39-39—78 |
| Miss Collett | 44-38—82 |

JOCKEY PARKE SETS NEW WINRACE RECORD

Cincinnati, Oct. 17—Jockey Ivan Parke established what is thought to be an American, if not a world's record, when he won his fifth race at Latonia today. The victory marked his tenth in 12 starts, and horsemen at Latonia said they never heard of another jockey in the world equaling the same feat.

Parke finished third within his other two mounts yesterday.

JOCKEY STILL UNCONSCIOUS AFTER SEVERE FALL

Cincinnati, Oct. 17—Jockey Albert Wilson who was injured while riding Hughes Graham in the fourth race at Latonia last Thursday has been unconscious since the accident. Four horses went down but the other jockeys were not seriously hurt.

BABE RUTH AND FILM FIRM SETTLE $100,000 LIBEL SUIT

New York, Oct. 17—Babe Ruth, the Yankee slugger, and a motion picture distributing firm who were recently sued for $100,000 for alleged libel, have settled for $750, it was announced today. The producer of a movie "Over the Fence" alleged he was damaged through the publication of a letter signed by Ruth, stating the picture was unauthorized.

Formal Challenge Issued

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 17—The American Race committee tonight sent a formal challenge to the trustees of the international fishermen's trophy at Halifax, N. S., to compete this month for the cup, which was won last year by the schooner Bluenose of the Nova Scotia fishing fleet. The date for the first of this year's races series, which is to be sailed off Halifax, has been set for October 27.

Worthmore Wins

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 17—Worthmore a two-year-old colt, by Thundred-Lady Monet, from the C. T. Worthington stable, was sold for $32,000 to J. S. Ward at the Latonia race track today. The bidding for Worthmore started at $10,000.

Twenty other thoroughbreds from the Worthington stable were sold in the auction but the prices were not sensational.

Indoor Baseball Challenge

The Has-Beens, a bunch of old time ball-players, wish to secure an indoor baseball game with one of the service companies for the near future. The Has-Beens have given up the outdoor game but think they are still there when it comes to batting a big ball about a polished floor. If challenge is accepted notify the sprots editor of this paper.

Luman and O'Hearn Back

New Haven, Oct, 17—Luman, right end, and O'Hearn, left halfback, whose injuries had caused them to refrain from practice with Yale's varsity eleven, were sufficiently recovered today to permit them to play against the scrubs. The varsity was tried out on the defense the greater part of the practice.

"Long Tom" Cheehan Married

St. Louis, Minn., Oct. 17—Thomas C. "Long Tom" Sheehan, of St. Paul, pitching ace of the American association, and Miss Olga Trygstad of St. Paul, will be married here tomorrow. The marriage license was obtained today.

Sheehan has been sold to Cincinnati.

Scalpers Challenge

The Scalpers a local football team averaging 110 pounds is anxious to get games for Saturdays and Sundays during the season. Any team of the weight is asked to answer this challenge through this paper.

Ballplayer Dies of Old Injuries

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 17—Injured when he collided with another outfielder while playing on an amateur team here two years ago, Charles Mann, '21, died last night as the result of his old injuries.

FINDS COLLEGE ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS A HINDRANCE

Hartford, Oct. 17.—Abandonment of college entrance examinations for high school pupils who attain a certificating grade will be proposed by Dr. Jesse Buttrick Davis, supervisor of secondary education in the Connecticut state board of education, at the annual meeting of the New England association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at Boston Saturday.

As chairman of a committee on college entrance requirements which was appointed at the last annual meeting, Dr. Davis will urge the adoption of a resolution by the association referring the report to a committee of the New England colleges. The proposal is expected to precipitate considerable debate.

Principals feel that the present college entrance requirements are a hindrance to modern progressive movements in secondary education, according to Dr. Davis and the report of his committee will represent 95 per cent of the high school principals of Connecticut to have expressed a preference for admission by certificate for those who have attained a proper grade. By certificate grade is understood a standing above the passing grade of at least one fourth the difference between the passing grade and one hundred per cent.

SOMETHING WRONG WITH MORAL FIBRE OF COUNTRY

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 17.—Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, of the First Presbyterian church, of New York City, storm center of the Presbyterian assembly in Indianapolis last May, told the national council of Congregational churches tonight "that there is something strenously wrong with the moral fibre of this country. The commercial prosperity of the country is assured, he said, but there is need to be anxious for the soul of the country, with the liquor traffic, perverted notions of modern liberties of sex and with 4,000,000 in poverty. Sherwood Eddy, Y. M. C. A. worker, fresh from a tour of India and the Orient, said that Jesus Christ is the only solution of the problems of the Far East. He found the countries of the Orient turning with deeper hunger and eagerness to the gospel.

BIGGEST LIQUOR CLEAN-UP EVER MADE IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Oct. 17.—Police of three towns, federal prohibition enforcement officers and agents from the state's attorney's office under the direction of County Detective Edward J. Hickey cooperated tonight in one of the biggest liquor clean-ups seen in this vicinity since the passage of the Volstead act.

As a result of the smash of six men are under arrest, two automobile trucks are being held, a vast quantity of liquor has been confiscated, and a ring which the police say has been operating throughout Hartford county has been broken up. The men arrested are: Charles O. Webb, 54 Church street, Hartford, held under bonds of $5,000 on charges of transporting liquor. Clyde R. Perry, Welles road, Wethersfield, held under bonds of $5,000 on charges of transporting liquor.

Andrew Sowa, 21 Sexton street, New Britain, held under bonds of $10,000 on charges of transporting liquor.

All four were taken to the East Hartford police station, and at a late hour tomorrow had not secured bonds. They will be arraigned today. Additional charges will be preferred against Perry, in whose house in Wethersfield were found three hundred quarts of gin.

New beauty—new safety—new delights, by combating film on teeth

Here is a free test everyone should make. This week your druggist will present it to you.

It will show you a new way of teeth cleaning, which millions now employ. You will be amazed and delighted. Go today and get it.

Combat that film

Film is your teeth's great enemy—that viscous film you feel. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it, so much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That's why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Nearly everybody has suffered from these film-caused troubles.

Dental science has in late years found two great film combatants.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Dentists everywhere advise it. Careful people of some 50 nations are employing it today. You should learn what it means to you.

Two other enemies

Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize the acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits.

So every use of Pepsodent gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents. In these ways it is bringing a new dental era.

A film stainer

Particularly men who smoke find that film becomes discolored. Pepsodent brings to those men quick, conspicuous effects. But it brings to all, and quickly, results which are convincing.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Then you will have a new idea of what clean teeth mean. And you will wish your family to use this method always. Cut out coupon now.

Papyrus and Zev in World's $100,000 Turf Classic

Zev Won Eight Times In Nine Starts This Year

Zev's three-year-old racing record follows:

| Race | Distance | Time |
|---|---|---|
| Pimlico | 6 furlongs | 1:12 |
| Preakness | 1⅛ miles | 1:53 3-5 |
| Rainbow | 6 furlongs | 1:13 |
| Kentucky Derby | 1¼ miles | 2:05 1-5 |
| Withers | 1 mile | 1:37 1-5 |
| Belmont | 1½ miles | 2:10 |
| Queens County | 1 mile | 1:37 |
| Overnight | 6 furlongs | 1:11 1-5 |
| Realization | 1½ miles | 2:44 2-5 |

ZEV WITH JOCKEY SANDE UP. TRAINER HILDRETH IN CIRCLE

NO international event involving sport has ever created such a furor as the coming race between the Epsom Derby winner, Papyrus, and the American three-year-old, Zev, which is scheduled to take place at Belmont Park, Queens, L. I., on the fringe of New York City, on October 20, for a purse of $100,000 and the right to become the initial holder of the International Challenge Cup, a superb gold trophy weighing 100 ounces.

The race was the outcome of a suggestion made by Robert L. Gerry, who believed that the turf here and abroad would be stimulated by a contest that would bring into competition the best thoroughbreds of the world. The idea was sponsored by the Jockey Club, and the Westchester Racing Association agreed to offer a purse of $100,000 for a test of speed and stamina between the best English and American three-year-olds.

Papyrus, winner of the Derby, was selected as a thoroughly representative type of the foreign race horse, and after some negotiations owner Benjamin Irish acceded to the request of President August Belmont of the Westchester Racing Association to send his colt to this country for a test against an American champion, which has been furnished in the person of Zev, owned by the Rancocas stable of Harry F. Sinclair, the millionaire oil producer.

Zev is a winner of $175,000 as against $70,000 to the credit of Papyrus. The American champion is trained by S. C. Hildreth, one of the cleverest horsemen this country has ever known, and he will be ridden by Jockey Earl Sande, whose skill in the saddle is considered equal to that of Stephen Donoghue, who is now crossing the Atlantic on the Olympic to pilot Papyrus. It will therefore not only be a test of thoroughbred quality, but a trial of skill between the representative riders of the American and British turf. By common consent Donoghue and Sande are regarded as the premier riders of the world. Donoghue is thirty-eight and is a general in or out of the saddle. Sande is twelve years younger and has been a student of horsemanship all his life.

Zev was bred by John E. Madden of Lexington, Ky., and cost $7,500 as a yearling. He is by The Finn out of Miss Kearney by imported Planudes. Papyrus cost $17,500 as a yearling. He was bred in England by Sir John Robinson at the Worksop Manor Stud and was sired by Tracery. Tracery was bred by Major August Belmont in Kentucky and was sent abroad as a yearling, racing with great distinction and being sold eventually for $264,000, a record price for a stallion, to the Argentine. The dam of Papyrus, Miss Matty, is by Marcovil.

The International Race will be the fourth event on a special program. Governors of many states, statesmen, financiers and prominent personages in every walk of life will be at Belmont Park to cheer the victor, whether he is British or American owned.

ORGANIZATION COMPLETE TO RAISE FUNDS FOR BACKUS HOSPITAL NEEDS

The full organization for the Backus hospital community appeal, not only in Norwich but also throughout the whole hospital territory in neighborhood groups, has been completed on schedule, it was announced at campaign headquarters Wednesday evening. The committees and the teams are ready for the task that lies before them, which is by far the largest community effort ever undertaken by our people.

As the preparatory work of the appeal has gone forward, the public has been more and more fully informed as to the hospital's financial needs, the method of the appeal, the form of subscriptions by the deferred payment plan, and the purposes to which the fund will be devoted. That any possible misunderstanding or misconception may be removed, the following summary was given out:

First and foremost, it is imperatively necessary to make a large addition to the endowment fund of the hospital so that the income from invested funds may be sufficient to meet the cost of operation.

The statement repeatedly has been made, and has been confirmed by no less an authority than Professor Irving Fisher, head of the economics department at Yale, that the real income of the hospital from investments is today only one-half as much as it was when the hospital was established. In other words, all costs of operation have doubled, while the income from endowment has remained practically stationary.

The situation with respect to the hospital income is precisely the same as the situation with respect to any other fixed income. Prices have doubled, and the fixed income has, therefore, been cut in twain. Not less than twice the original endowment is now necessary simply to put the hospital back where it was in the beginning, with respect to endowment income.

Second because the hospital income has been thus reduced in purchasing power, it has been impossible for the hospital to expand so as to meet the ever increasing demands made upon it for service in time of sickness and accident. Even since 1915 the quantity of service has doubled.

By far the larger proportion of all hospital patients pay less in rates than it costs the hospital to care for them. That is to say, the hospital loses on nearly every sale of service.

Rates cannot be raised beyond a certain point without excluding patients who require hospital service. The result is that the difference between the income patients and the cost of the care which patients receive must be made up through the revenue from invested funds. This revenue has been insufficient to meet this difference and the hospital has had no surplus funds whatever with which to add to construction.

In this respect the hospital is exactly like other hospital in other communities. No hospital attempts to provide from its own resources the new money needed for new construction. Every hospital is compelled, when expansion is needed, to raise the new funds through public subscription.

The greatest single need of the hospital is for a new nurses' home. There is no suitable residence for the nurses, and many of the student nurses are compelled to live off the campus.

Nursing is the core of hospital service. There is no place where the nurses can be trained except in the hospital. There is no place from which nurses can be obtained except from the hospital. Therefore the lack of a suitable nurses' home impairs the efficiency of the hospital as a whole and makes it more difficult to supply the community with the nurses it demands.

When the new nurses' home is completed a fund must be provided to care for the increased cost incident to operating the home, and for this purpose additional endowment is necessary.

The method of the appeal is the method of personal solicitation by a volunteer force of trained workers who will visit our people throughout the entire hospital territory, tell the story of the need, explain the purpose of the campaign, and obtain the largest individual subscription possible from each and every subscriber.

The method of payment is the installment method. Gifts are not sought in cash, but every subscriber is given the opportunity to pay the pledge in six equal semi-annual installments, beginning November 15 next, and ending May 15, 1926.

It is by this method of deferred payments that all campaigns for hospital construction and endowment now are conducted. The reason for using the method is that the installment plan enables the giver to pay the gift out of income without feeling the burden. It is the method that has been used with complete success throughout New England in recent years—in Keene, N. H., Providence, Woonsocket and Pawtucket, R. I., Worcester, Mass., as well as in the campaigns throughout this state. It is the method that gets results.

RETIRED FARMER DIES OF AUTOMOBILE INJURIES

Meriden, October 17.—Andrew J. Sprague, 79, a retired farmer, was fatally injured here early this evening when knocked down by an automobile as he was crossing the street. He died at the hospital an hour after the accident.

Frank J. Pituck, 22, of Wallingford, driver of the automobile, said the man had walked into his car and was hit by the side of the machine. Pending investigation by the coroner's office, Pituck is held in $1,000 bonds on a charge of manslaughter.

The fall that comes after pride gives it an awful bump.

TWO NEW LONDON CHINAMEN CAUGHT VIOLATING NARCOTIC LAW

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London Oct. 17.—Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel has caused the operators' licenses of Edward Foley, 39 Terrace avenue, and Augustus Cormier, stationed at the submarine base to be suspended for alleged infractions of the automobile laws.

A sharpie, the property of Frederick Glynn, 74 Fraser street, moored near the Thames river bridge, was stolen yesterday afternoon. The theft was discovered by the young man's father and was reported to the police.

An automobile driven by Max S. Underhill, 89 Rosemary street, and a machine, owned and operated by John B. Tourjee, of Pearl street, Noank, were in collision on State street this afternoon. Both automobiles were damaged.

It became known this forenoon that the daughter of D. H. Haskill of Manteran, Mass., who ran away from home several days ago and for whose apprehension the New London police were requested to search as the girl was stated to be temporarily residing at the Mansion house in Crystal avenue, had unauthorizedly left for other Hampton Beach or Breakfast Hills, Maine. J. H. Bruesch, a sailor aboard the U. S. Savannah, now in port and who, it was believed, was in company of the girl, today informed the police that T. Pond, a radio operator on the U. S. S. 40, had informed the former that Pond had an appointment with the girl to meet him at either one of the two Maine towns last Monday, and that the girl had left New London Saturday.

Mrs. David Mellis and infant son, of Huntington street; Mrs. Edith Crandall, Westerly, Mrs. Gus Kimball and infant son, of Riverside avenue, Mrs. Raymond Beare and infant of West Colt street and Frank Peters of Main street patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Daniel S. Marsh is ill at his home on Ocean avenue. Mr. Marsh was for many years head of the firm of D. S. Marsh and Sons.

Frank Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Harris, of New London, and Miss Marion Kolsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kolsky, of Oak street, were married yesterday noon at the Hotel Bond, Hartford. The ceremony was attended only by relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Harris are now on a wedding trip to Bermuda and upon their return will reside at Neptune park.

Mrs. E. D. Sullivan is entertaining Mrs. Mary Sturgis of Cheesebrough, N. Y.

A Jaxon touring, owned and operated by Nazzeo Cream of Waterford and an unidentified car were in collision this afternoon at the corner of Golden and Green streets. Cream's car was damaged.

Mayor and Mrs. Malcolm M. Scott celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary at their home on Broad street today, in an informal manner. Mayor Scott attended to official duties in connection with the arrival in port this afternoon of the British cruiser Valerian and this afternoon paid an official visit to Capt. Evan Bruce Gardyne and his officers and later received Capt. Gardyne and his staff on a return visit at the municipal building. The remainder of the day was spent by Mayor Scott with his family.

Miss Marion Nostrand of Huntington street, is a patient at Lawrence hospital, having submitted to an emergency operation for appendicitis Monday night. Miss Nostrand was seized with severe pains at her work, being administered emergency treatment and then was hurried to the hospital where the operation was performed without delay. This afternoon it was stated at the institution that Miss Nostrand was getting along as well as could be expected.

Silas Maxson, Jr., has sold a house and lot on Bennet avenue to Annie E. Charles and Alice M. Chase.

Charles and Oscar Novitch have sold to I. Freed a house and lot on the Cohanzie road, formerly known as the Bloomingdale District.

Mrs. Helen Kenney Floyd, secretary to City Manager William A. Holt and secretary to former Mayors Bryar F. Mahan, Ernest E. Rogers and E. Frank Morgan today relinquished her duties at the municipal building, having tendered her resignation two weeks ago. This forenoon, in the presence of the clerical force of the various offices, Mrs. Floyd was presented with a silver electric toaster, silver gravy boat and two silver platters, the gift of her former associates. The presentation was made by City Manager Holt in his office.

Miss Flora M. Smith, a former resident of Niantic, died this morning at her home in Hartford. Miss Smith was born in Niantic.

Mrs. Charles Tinker of Old Mystic, a patient at Home Memorial hospital was able to return to her home today.

Francis Ferrigno, of Norwich, has acquired the property at the northwest corner of Bank street and Jefferson avenue from the estate of William Kaneen. The property consists of a two-family house fronting on Bank street and a parcel of land on Jefferson avenue. The purchaser will cause the house to be moved and will then have a modern store erected upon the site.

The Groton fire department was called out shortly after four o'clock this morning to Seaside to an oil burning furnace in Box 15, to combat flames that threatened damage to the yard of the Spicer Coal company on Thames street.

The fire was discovered by Patrolman Edward B. Morgan when the officer was approaching the coal yard. The flames were observed on the pier and were burning rapidly. In order to combat the flames the firemen rowed with a line of hose about 100 feet from the shore and played a stream of water under the wharf. The damage, it is estimated, will not exceed $500. It is believed that the fire originated from hot sparks dropping from the ash pan of the boiler as the apparatus was used throughout the entire day yesterday.

A couch in the kitchen of the home of John Jaakson, 540 Main street, and which was located close to a stove became ignited this morning through the overheating of the stove. A call alarm caused the Thomas Rose and Natchaug Engine companies to respond, the firemen smothering the blaze with blankets and without damage being occasioned.

Clark Brown told Judge Prince in the police court this morning that he was intoxicated Tuesday night when he went to the home of Dorothy Lewis and beat her so that she resembled someone who had been in a railroad wreck and was rescued badly mangled. Brown would have the court accept as true the statement that he could not remember anything he did from Tuesday afternoon when he prepared to go to the movies and then did not go and the moment of his arrest by Sergeant Hick on Atlantic street, where his condition was far from that of an intoxicated man. Brown admitted that he started out without having drank any liquor, but there his memory failed him and he pretended that he could not recollect more. But Miss Lewis had the clearest sort of recollection of what Brown did. She said he escorted her home to 607 Main street Tuesday evening early from John street and that he was accompanied by one Goldie. The latter did not carry at the Lewis home but Brown went in. He was not drunk then, Miss Lewis said. He made promises to her which she doubted and that led to the assault. Brown beat her and kicked her so that her limbs and body were bruised. Her eyes were practically closed. Her teeth were bleeding and she was a [illegible] wreck. Officers Bay and Manice corroborated the story told by the woman so far as her appearance was concerned. Judge Prince sentenced Brown to pay a fine of $200 and to be imprisoned in the county jail for a term of six months. That took all the snap out of Mr. Brown and he boasted of having friends who would furnish a bond for an appeal to the superior court. But before judgment soon possessed him and he vacated the appeal and went up to Franklin street to begin the service of his sentence. He will be in jail nearly a year and a half if he does not get the $200 to settle his fine.

Joseph Enos was charged with a breach of the peace in an attack on his wife, Ruth, but the case did not get to trial as an amicable settlement of their marital troubles seemed probable. Enos declared that he was earning about $30 a week in the employ of the New Haven railroad and that he gave his wife most of the money he received. He had $100 deposited in a bank, the right to draw the money reposing in both him and his wife. This money, every dollar of it, Enos declares the wife has withdrawn. The case is to come up again on the 16th of December and between now and then settlement of the existing trouble is anticipated.

Federal agents from Boston and New Haven, attached to the narcotic division, came to New London this afternoon possessed of information that narcotics were being received at the home of Willie Mar, a Chinaman, residing with his family at 107 Green street. Acting Detective Edward Daniels and Sergeant Nelson Smith accompanied the government agents to the Green street residence where a quantity of opium, morphine pipes, lamps and other utensils used in the consumption of the drugs were seized. Mar was locked up to await a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning.

Same Kee, alias Silly Sam is also a prisoner, being held following his apprehension when he endeavored to escape on the arrival of the officers.

Mar and Kee were in the house and before the officers had started their search for drugs, Kee ran to a room over an ell and dropping to the roof, leaped to the ground, running through the yard and to Pearl street where he entered an automobile owned and operated by J. L. Jenkins of 13 Blackhall street and requested Jenkins to drive him to Hartford, stating that he would give Jenkins $20 for making the trip. Jenkins instead of heading his machine for the Hartford turnpike operated it to State street, where he delivered the Chinaman to Traffic Officer George Perkins. Kee was bareheaded and shoeless as well as coatless and declared he wanted to get away because he had engaged in a fight with a Chinaman.

Sam is held for violating the state narcotic law and Mar faces a charge of violating the Harrison act. The officers said they acted upon a tip from Providence, R. I.

Tonight, as in the past three nights, there are at least 17 bug lights that have failed to illumine the streets of the city. Reports have been made by the police to the Connecticut Power company that supplies illumination of the street lights and a report by an employe tonight as the reason for the failure of the lights to burn is that the company is not supplied with bulbs and that before the lights will be in working condition again new bulbs will have to be set. The city has a contract with the lighting company providing that all these lights shall burn every night.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton T. Miner have returned to their home on Crystal avenue having been absent from the city four months. They toured by automobile to the Pacific coast.

John F. Savage, train dispatcher in the employ of the New Haven railroad, with his family, has moved from Jay street to Bellevue place.

The British cruiser Valerian arrived in New London this morning shortly after 11 o'clock and throughout the day and this evening the captain of the craft, Evan Bruce Gardyne and his officers have been visited by city officials and entertained. Tonight at the Hotel Mohican, Captain Gardyne and his officers, Lieutenants Murray and Pixley and Dr. Atkinson, ship surgeon, were banqueted. Others in attendance were City Manager William A. Holt, Mayor Malcolm M. Scott, Councilors William C. Fox, Lucius E. Whiton, Thomas Dragan, Waldo E. Clarke, John F. Murray and Clarence W. Thompson; Commander Taylor of the submarine base, Capt. Kimball of the U. S. S. Savannah, Commanders King and Borth of the submarine base, Commander Pims of the United States Coast Guard academy, Major Eddy, representing Col. Abernethy of the New London artillery district; General Morris B. Payne and Major Thomas R. Troland, representing the Coast Artillery, C. N. G., former Commander Nibbe of the British navy, now employed at the plant of the Ship & Engine company, President Belden of the chamber of commerce; James G. Hammond of the Rotary club and President Wolf of the Lions' club. Speeches were made by the officers of the foreign craft and by the city officials.

The Valerian appeared off the mouth of the harbor about 10.45 o'clock where a representation of the army and navy in launches and a tug lined to pilot the craft up the harbor, were in waiting. As soon as the Valerian docked at the state pier, Deputy Collector of Customs Joseph C. Comstock boarded the warship and extended Commander Gardyne a hearty welcome in behalf of the United States government, after which City Manager Holt extended a welcome and the freedom of the city to the distinguished visitor. In the afternoon City Manager Holt and Mayor Scott visited the Valerian and later in the day Commander Gardyne and his officers returned the courtesy by a brief social call at the municipal building.

THIS LITTLE BABY GIRL

Was Benefited by the Good Her Mother Got from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my little girl was born, and the effect it had upon me was wonderful. [illegible] No one thought the child [illegible] we nursed it as I had to bring up two boys up on the bottle. I was very nervous and worried, tired all the time, and after I read about the Vegetable Compound I tried it and kept on with it. I still continue to use and recommend it to my friends. You may publish these facts as a testimonial for your medicine."—Mrs. Wm. Klinger, 168 Plymouth St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many mothers are left in a weakened and run-down condition after the birth of the child, and the sick mother's the case of the baby is well-nigh impossible. Not only is it hard for the mother, but the child itself will indirectly suffer.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs.

MARKET WAS STRONG

New York, Oct. 17.—Stock prices reached below the previous low levels of the year in the early part of today's trading and then bounded upward, cancelling nearly all of the early losses and recovering most of the ground lost yesterday. Except for the closing but of some weakened marginal accounts and occasional purchases by so-called "bargain hunters," the day's trading was largely in the hands of professional interests.

Northwestern rails, which were depressed yesterday as a result of President Coolidge's suggestion of lower freight rates on wheat for export, were again in supply this morning, new low records for the year being established by Northern Pacific, Chicago & Northwestern and "Nickel Plate" preferred. With few exceptions, however, the closing prices showed net gains on the day.

Further cuts in gasoline prices combined with the revival of rumors, previously denied, of new financing by the Pan-American company had an unsettling influence on the oil shares, which also have been adversely affected by reports of increased production in some of the Texas fields.

More than a score stocks dropped to new low levels for the year during the morning reaction while a dozen others duplicated their previous bottom prices. Among those which broke below their previous resistance points were U. S. Rubber, Kelly-Springfield, Coca-Cola, Pressed Steel Car common and preferred, Foundation Company, Central Leather preferred, Endicott Johnson and Hupp Motors.

Floor traders, finding a scarcity of the usual leaders at the low prices, started a rally just before noon, which was given impetus by lower time money rates and reports of increased buying of steel, copper and railroad equipment. The character of the support eventually brought about extensive covering operations by nervous shorts who apparently had been expecting a wide open break soon after the market opened.

Gains of 1 to 2 points an nth day were recorded by United States and Gulf States Steels, Baldwin, American Can, Studebaker, Mack Trucks and many others. Woolworth jumped nearly 6 points to 280 1-2, a new 1923 top, on reports of record-breaking sales while Philip Morris established a new high at 31 1-4 in anticipation of early consummation of its merger with some of the leading domestic tobacco companies.

Early weakness of Famous Players was associated with reports that the company had written off a loss of $1,000,000 in its German investments. Unfavorable trade conditions were held responsible for the renewed heaviness of leather and rubber issues.

Money rates were easier. Call money opened at 4 3-4, eased to 4 1-2, 4 1-4 and finally to 4. Brokers started bidding only 5 per cent for the shorter maturities in the time money market with a number of loans arranged at 5 1-4 for 30 and 60 days.

The feature of the foreign exchange market was the establishment of another new low record for German marks at 1 3-8 cents a hundred million. Heavy offerings of grain and cotton bills caused a slight recession in the sterling rate to below $4.63. French francs eased 2 points to 6.74 1-8 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Decided setbacks in the price of wheat resulted today from enlarged selling based more or less on opinions that prevailing wet weather was giving the new wheat crop a good start. Closing quotations were unsettled, 1 3-8c to 1 3-4c net lower, December 1.06 1-2 to 1.06 5-8 and May 1.11 1-4 to 1.111 3-8. Corn finished 1-4c to 5-8c down, oats 3-8c to 1-2c off, and provisions at unchanged figures to 12 cents.

At first, the wheat market was more or less dominated by apparent strength of corn values, but later the case was reversed, and the weakness of wheat had a bearish effect on corn. Lowest prices of the day in the wheat pit were reached shortly before the close, with offerings free on the part of holders and with the market poorly supported. Talk was current that an advance in vessel rates on the Great Lakes might soon divert larger shipments of wheat into the United States from Canada and that any reductions in rail rates would be insufficient to put domestic wheat on an export basis. Temporarily, such factors were offset by attention to rains in the corn belt to assertions that much Nebraska corn was rotting in the fields.

After mid-day, however, sentiment changed among wheat traders, and with a buck of any aggressive new buying the market took a pronounced swing toward a lower level. Part of changes was due to the fact that offerings of corn to arrive here were more liberal than in quite a while.

New corn from Iowa began arriving at Chicago today, and some new corn also came in from other sources. Cash prices remained firm, though, and future deliveries showed better rallying power than was the case with wheat. Oats followed corn.

Provisions were easier in line with the hog market.

BOND MARKET

New York, Oct. 17.—The volume of trading in the bond market continued relatively larger again today but price movements held within a narrow area.

Bankers reported ready sale of the sale of the $21,000,000 State of Illinois soldiers bonus and highway bonds, and there was talk of an offering of $6,000,000 Alabama Power 6 per cent bonds at an early date. The government of Finland bonds, reduced from $13,500,000 to $10,000,000 will be offered tomorrow. No explanation of the reduction in amount or the reason for withdrawing the offering last night could be obtained.

Investment houses with wire connections reported a considerable increase in buying orders but stated such orders limited the purchase price and had caused little advance in the general list.

High grade investment railroad mortgages were in demand while the secondary issues fell off slightly. Public utility liens were active but generally shaded yesterdays prices. Speculative selling of Virginia Carolina Chemical 7 1-2s with warrants, pushed these bonds down 3 3-4 points.

Foreign government issues were dull with Norwegian and Danish bonds showing further recessions. Active United States government bonds were relatively steady in dull trading.

CURB MARKET

New York, Oct. 17.—Further cuts in gasoline prices unsettled today's curb market but it made irregular recovery later in response to extensive short covering operations.

The active oils such as Standard of Indiana, Vacuum, International Petroleum, Humble, Mutual and Standard of New York showed only nominal fractional changes on the day. Losses of a point or more were recorded by such ordinarily inactive issues as Imperial of Canada, Indiana Pipe, and South Pennsylvania Oil.

Further accumulation of Park & Tilford, which duplicated its record high of 31, was again the feature of the industrial list. Motors were practically neglected. Radio Corporation was more active, closing fractionally higher at 3 1-4. Gillette Safety Razor broke 3 1-2 points to 267. Ford Motors of Canada registered a similar decline, the turn-over in each case being small. Candy Products corporation common and preferred was admitted to trading but there was little activity.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At The New Palace Theatre.

Breathing the same spirit which prompted Bret Harte to write his famous stories of the west, the Paramount production, "Salomy Jane," which will delight patrons of the New Palace theatre, throbs with the wild romance of the picturesque days of '49. It is a superb picture and an epic of early civilization in California.

In this story history is brought to life. The lawless pioneers of the west who poured through Boulder Creek canyon in Northern California in the late forties live again on the screen. It is a story of the primitive love of the westerner, mingled with the craving for vengeance and his crude sense of justice. The picture was made on the spot where Bret Harte gained inspiration for his story by the same name. It was adapted by Waldemar Young.

A stranger in the village that day is charged with having been Red Pete's partner in crime, and the two are about to be led away to be hanged. Salomy Jane, in a whimsical mood, kisses the stranger goodby. Red Pete is hanged and the stranger escapes. Meanwhile Madison Clay is carrying on a bloody feud with Larabee, a rough pioneer. Larabee mistakes the escaping stranger for Clay, and in the fight Larabee is killed. Dying, he confesses that Baldwin, now dead, was the other man in the hold-up. Then Salomy and her stranger sweetheart find happiness.

Novel attractions in the form of concert vaudeville will also be offered. Miss Edna Ayers, who scored an emphatic hit the first three days of this week will offer a complete change of programme.

With recitations on the mighty pipe organ, a comedy and news weekly, an evening of unsurpassed entertainment is assured.

GOONOD MALE QUARTETTE IN TAFTVILLE CONCERT

The Gounod Male Quartette of Boston and Worcester will be heard this (Thursday) evening in a grand concert at Parish hall, Taftville, which will be for the benefit of the Sacred Heart church. The artists will present a programme of ensemble and solo numbers that will appeal to the lovers of fine music and make the evning a rare treat for all who attend.

The quartette includes Miss Yvonne Dersoier, soprano; J. B. Cadieux, tenor; Elzear Fontaine, tenor; Marion Shebasta, violinist; Ernest Lamoureux, baritone; Dr. A. J. Harpin, basso; Rudolph Fargestrom, pianist.

Vaudeville at the Strand.

A very fine selected bill of B. F. Keith vaudeville and pictures is announced for the Strand theatre the last half of this week.

Frances Hart and Tom Breen, the dancing streaks, lead terpsichore a merry chase with their unusually fine offering.

Harry Smith and Jack Strong in Golden Voices From the Golden West offer an excellent singing novelty.

"High sassiety" was the bane of Pat Murphy's existence. It was the chief topic of conversation between his wife, Nora, and their daughter, Marcel. Mrs. Murphy's greatest desire was to see her daughter a member of the Blue Book set. Marcel shared the desire and those desires were voiced constantly in the Murphy household. Such talk bored Pat and he said no good would come of it. The Murphy domestic problem affords some extremely clever comedy situations in Crossed Wires, the Universal attraction starring Gladys Walton, now playing at the Strand theatre.

Guy Bros. Minstrels Coming to the Broadway Friday and Saturday.

Friday night and Saturday matinee and night will see Guy Bros.' Supr Minstrels at the Broadway theatre. This is one of the oldest minstrel shows on tour, it being the fiftieth anniversary of Guy Bros. on the minstrel field.

Special scenery, electrical effects and all that tends to make a road show a success will be featured.

The company is composed of 20 performers who know their work and can get most out of it.

Two street parades will be seen both Friday and Saturday noon with band concerts in front of the Broadway. Friday and Saturday nights at 7 p. m.

It is a two and a half hour show well worth twice the admission charged. Tickets on sale Friday.

Breed Theatre.

Today is the last appearance of Tom Mix in his new William Fox exciter, Soft Boiled, at the Breed theatre. Tom has given Norwich more laughs and thrills in one entertainment session than seen here in many a day. As a comedian Tom proves himself one hundred per cent merry. As a stunt star he is already rated in a class by himself. The combination in Soft Boiled is unbeatable. Billie Dove lends a radiant romantic glow and L. C. Shumway makes himself thoroughly satisfactory as the heavy. Others in the cast include Joseph Gerard, Tom Wilson, Frank Beal, Jack Curtis, C. H. Mailes, Harry Dunkinson and Wilson Hummell.

Other pictures on the bill include Movie Chats and an Educational comedy. Coming—Rex Beach's greatest story, The Spoilers.

JEWETT CITY

Nicholas Capadais, a young man employed by Sol Mugavero, and Miss Nefica Boulis, were married Wednesday afternoon in the front room of Mr. Mugovero's home. The young man has been here some time. The other day the Hamburg liner in from Gibraltar and Mediterranean ports was reported at Quarantine, Nicholas forthwith left for New York, saw the proper immigration officials, signified his intentions. Nefica's stay at the Ellis Island detention barracks was short and sweet, too.

Arriving at Jewett City the Greek Orthodox priest at Norwich was sent for on a hurry call. A number of witnesses, nearby residents, were permitted to attend the ceremony.

Not every girl who makes the 6000 miles' voyage, from distant Greece, to marry the man of his choice, gives as much evidence that all has ended well as the witness saw in Nefica's laughing eyes.

Adelarde Henesault has as his guest George Barnier of Los Angeles, California. Mr. Barnier left Canada forty-two years ago. He is the possessor of an education which includes proficiency in several languages. He has been an instructor in French for a long term of years, in one of the colleges of Southern California. He says his interests, after so long a time away from his native country, are all in the west, and he will soon return.

Within the last week Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown and their daughter Alice took a motor trip to Vermont. While in the Green mountain state it was a pleasant part of the journey, to visit Plymouth, go into President Coolidge's church, get photographs and see the Bible upon which the presidential oath was taken. Strangely enough, on the same day, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Tracy were there, visited the church and shook hands with the president's father. Yet the two parties from the home town knew nothing of each other's presence.

Leonel Boucher was in New York three days during the world's baseball series. In that short space of time while visiting different parts of the city, he met thirteen people, either former residents of Jewett City, or people who reside now in Norwich, or in this borough. Only a few of the 13 were there for the games, none were met at the games, and Mr. Boucher was not aware that any of them were in the metropolis. Contrarywise, another Jewett City man has been in New York, a good part of the time, every other day for more than thirty years. In all that time he has met only four local people on the "Sidewalks of New York"—the late John Crawford, Charles Gardner, J. T. Wilbur and Charles Edw. Prior.

Homer Gagnon is a patient at the Backus hospital, where he is making a fine recovery, following an operation performed Wednesday.

Rev. E. E. Scates, pastor of the Baptist church, Deacon and Mrs. Daniel L. Phillips, Mrs. E. M. Swift, Mrs. Arthur M. Brown and Mrs. Arthur D. Tripp are in Hartford attending the meetings in connection with the centennial anniversary celebration of the Baptist state convention. It is the plan of the convention to raise $100,000 from the Baptists of Connecticut by the means of soliciting one dollar from each one. The Jewett City Baptist church, in accordance with its custom, went over the top. There are 134 resident members, everyone was solicited, everyone gave, and the final sum turned in by the local church is $1358.25.

Secretary A. L. Stebbins of the Ashland Fish and Game Protective Association, has written The Sportsmen's News, of Bridgeport, the following letter which appears in the issue of October 16:

"The Ashland Fish and Game Protective association, of Jewett City, held its annual meeting, Tuesday, Sept. 11, with George S. Brown presiding, and A. L. Stebbins in the secretary's chair. A report of the progress made last year was read and among other things showed that 292 English pheasants were liberated in Griswold and surrounding towns. Of these birds 82 were raised by the association.

During the year 11,000 trout were planted in brooks throughout the section. Some of the fish were six and eight inches in length. Many other things were accomplished for the advancement of the sporting interest.

Two plantings of wild rice were made for wild ducks, but the plantings so far have not been successful. The club feels, however, that it has taken a step in the right direction in attempting to furnish food for the ducks and is nowise discouraged by the failure of the first effort.

A gain of 333 members has been made in the past six months, bringing up the membership to 154. A membership drive will be held by the club and it was voted to put up three prizes to be awarded the members who sign up the most new members.

At the next semi-annual meeting a set of Field and Stream hunting and fishing motion pictures will be shown and a committee consisting of P. W. Chase, Charles Frye, Herbert Wyatt, William McCluggage and A. L. Stebbins was appointed to make all arrangements for the showing of the pictures.

The meeting passed an unanimous vote to pay the secretary an annual salary of $25 in recognition of the faithful discharge of his duties and of the large amount of care and attention which he gives to the work of the association.

Deputy Warden W. R. Palmer, attended the meeting and answered questions concerning the new game laws. He also explained the law.

At the election these officers were chosen: George S. Brown, president; S. A. Thompson, vice president and A. L. Stebbins, secretary-treasurer. The board of directors elected follows: William McCluggage, R. F. Cheney, P. W. Chase, John Ehreman and Herbert Wyatt.

The association voted to go on record as highly approving the activities of the county fish and game warden and his deputies.

The association subscribed to three copies of The Sportsmen's News of Connecticut which will be placed in the barber shops visited by the sportsmen of this section.

The meeting was well attended and marked by high enthusiasm, giving promise of future growth of the association and general improvement in the propagation and conservation of the fish and game in the section covered by it.

CHESTNUT HILL

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Peckham spent several days last week in Manchester and witnessed the parades, pageant and centennial celebrations in that town.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murdock and son, also Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and son of Hartford, were visitors at C. E. Elmon's recently.

Miss Cora Chappell spent the week end with Waterford relatives.

Harold Ladd of Willimantic is staying at the home of his uncle, Everett C. Payson.

Mrs. G. T. Chappell and daughters were in Norwich Sunday evening and attended the services at the Central Baptist church.

"June Berry."

The Amelanchier, a genus of plants of the family Rosaceae, is commonly known as the June berry. There are about 18 species, which occur in America and in the different localities are known as service or sarvas berry, June berry, shad bush, May cherry, and wand cherry.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

by DAVID CORY

The Dwarf's Big Cavern

Well, it was a mighty lucky thing that Little Jack Rabbit hopped into the little dwarf's house before I commenced this story for no sooner was he inside than a big rock fell on the very spot where he had been standing.

"Old Mountainside, the Giant is angry over something," said the dwarf as he bolted the door. "But he can throw all the stones he wishes. I don't fear any by little house."

"Not a bit of it," laughed the dwarf. "This house is now ten feet underground," and he explained how this magic house of his would let itself down into the cellar, after which two big flat rocks would slide over the roof.

And now I will show you the inside of the mountain. Come with me," and the dwarf opened a door into a big cavern where forty little men of the mountain were busy digging diamonds and rubies and storing them away in sacks.

"Down in the mountain, deep, deep deep,
Where never the twinkling stars may peep,
We dig for diamonds and sparkling gold,
With never a fear of robbers bold."

sang the little men as they swung their picks and dug out the sparkling stones from Old Mother Earth.

"Is Dapple Gray all right?" asked Little Jack Rabbit, for he didn't want anything to happen to that dear little pony, let me tell you. And neither do you and neither do I.

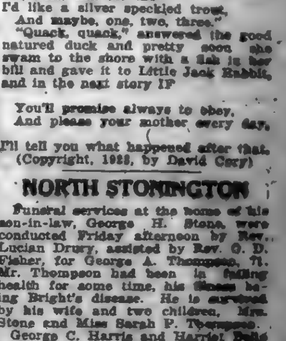
"He's safe and sound," answered the dwarf. "Come and see for your self."

Sure enough, there he was in the stable which had come down with the little house out of harm's way.

After a while, the dwarf peeked up through the skylight, which is a little window in the roof, you know, and said, "I guess Old Mountainslip is tired of throwing stones."

Well, as soon as the little house was once more on the mountainside, the bunny boy jumped on Dapple Gray and rode away, down the mountain until he came to a pond where a duck was fishing for little minnows. She didn't have a rod and line. Oh, dear no. She just stood on her head in the water and whenever a fish swam near her, she grabbed him up in her bill and wiggled her tail.

"Dear Mrs. Duck, oh! won't you catch
A little fish for me?
I'd like a silver speckled trout,
And maybe, one, two, three."
"Quack, quack," answered the good natured duck and pretty soon she swam to the shore with a fish in her bill and gave it to Little Jack Rabbit, and in the next story IF



You'll promise always to obey,
And please your mother every day,

I'll tell you what happened after that.

FOUND ARMY MAN IN SAWMILL CAMP

Floyd A. Day, wanted by Uncle Sam for desertion has been returned to the army authorities at Fort Wright by Constable Lucius Fenton of this city. With Deputy Sheriff Roxie and Sheriff Smith of Moodus, Constable Fenton made the arrest Monday in a saw mill camp in Moodus, where Day had been hiding and working for some time.

Constable Fenton returned to Norwich with his man Monday night and locked him up until Tuesday morning, when the trip was made to Fort Wright.

CLAIMS NORWICH LESSEE LET MILL PROPERTY SUFFER DAMAGE

Damages of $15,000 are claimed from the Reliance Yarn Co. of this city in a suit brought against it by Amsden H. Smith of Lincoln, R. I., on account of damages which he claims were done to certain mill property in Central Falls, while it was leased by the Reliance Co., from the Blackstone Stocking Co. Amsden bought the property on June 5, 1917 from the Blackstone Stocking Co. and took possession upon the termination of the lease held by the Reliance Co.

Amsden claims that the defendant company failed to keep the property in repair, as was provided for in the lease, so that he had to spend $2,080 in repairs and replacements. He also claims that the defendant company did not pay a water bill from Pawtucket for $261.60 which he had to pay. Because of the condition of the property rents and profits amounting to $2,000 were lost for two years and they had to spend 18 months of his own time in supervising repairs, which time was worth $300 per month. It is also claimed by Amsden that he had to employ contractors and architects at a cost of $2,500 and spend $2,700 for materials, fixtures, tools, lumber, belting, steel, brass and copper, in making replacements, repairs and restorations which were necessary because of the alleged failure of the defendant to live up to the terms of the lease in keeping the property in good repair, ordinary wear and tear and damages by the elements excepted.

The suit has been filed here with the clerk of the superior court and is returnable in November.

J. JORDAN IN FIRST PLACE IN PINOCHLE PLAY

J. Jordan climbed three notches in the West Side Pinochle club tournament standing Wednesday evening and took first place, displacing Shuler who dropped back to second place, Lewis going to third. The high score for the evening, made by J. Jordan, was 8,040. Boynton was a close second with 8,015.

The scores made Wednesday evening follow:

J. Jordan 8040, Boynton 8015, Pettis 7470, Parker 7380, Shuler 7345, Bailey 7310, Lewis 7295, Underwood 7250, Pendleton 7130, A. Jordan 7080, Peckham 6880, Haskell 6510.

The standing to date:

J. Jordan 34,395, Shuler 33,330, Lewis 32,950, Bailey 32,006, Underwood 31,806, Haskell 31,780, Pettis 31,635, Pendleton 30,955, Boynton 30,925, A. Jordan 30,835, Peckham 19,895, Parker 19,680.

TWO MISSIONARY WORKERS TO ADDRESS BAPTISTS

This evening at the First Baptist church Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Peters will address the people of the church during the prayer meeting hour. With them will gather the Central Baptist church members who will give up their own meeting to join in the union service. Mr. and Mrs. Peters are well known in the Baptist denomination, having addressed the Northern Baptist convention assembled in Atlantic City and having recently appeared upon the programme of the Centennial convention in Hartford. During last winter they conducted a great evangelistic campaign throughout Cuba and this year they are going out as missionaries under Tremont Temple Boston, for further work in Cuba.

Mrs. Peters will sing some of the songs which proved so effective during their work last year in Cuba.

STATE'S HEALTH BETTER IN LAST NINE MONTHS

Miss Elizabeth C. Nickerson, director of the bureau of public health instruction of the state department of health has prepared a statement of the health of the state for the first nine months of the year 1923. The statement says that during the period there was a lower incidence of diphtheria, typhoid fever, and tuberculosis in Connecticut, than during a similar period of the last five years. There were 1,054 cases of diphtheria reported or 145 fewer than in 1922, 587 less than in 1921, 541 under the number reported for the first nine months of 1920, and 106 less than that of 1919.

The 190 cases of typhoid fever during the nine months compare favorably with the previous low record of 242 in 1922.

The 1292 cases of tuberculosis reported for the first nine months of 1923 falls just 13 short of the number reported for a corresponding period of 1922, but is less by 323,209 and 275, than the total for 1921, 1920 and 1919 respectively.

There was a slight increase in the number of scarlet fever cases for the period of 1923 the total being 2,135 over the number in the period of the preceding year. But in both of these years the incidents appeared greatly lower than in 1921 when 3,193 cases were reported and somewhat lower than the 1920 record of 2590 cases. The lowest incidence of scarlet fever the first 9 months of any of the past 9 years occurred in 1919 when the number was 1492.

There were 7,961 cases of scarlet fever during the first nine months of 1923. This was the highest number for the same period in five years.

Whooping cough with its 2,857 cases for the first nine months of 1923 was 993 more than for the same period of 1922 but less than the number in 1921 or 1920.

There have been fifty-five cases of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) reported up to September 30, 1923, as against thirty for a similar period last year, and sixty-five in 1921 while in 1920 and 1919 only twenty-two and eight cases respectively were reported. A study of the situation this year failed to locate any serious outbreak. Nine of the fifty-five cases occurred in Seymour, the largest number for any one community.

The 1923 record for influenza with 3,491 cases reported up to September 30 is the lowest of any of the five years considered except 1921 when only 230 cases were reported for the period. The highest point was reached in 1920 with reports of 23,768 cases.

ARREST FARRELL FOR BURGLARY AT KINGSTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 17.—The New London police this afternoon arrested Herbert Farrell, alias George Gray, alias Frank Carson, charged with burglarizing a store at Kingston, R. I., last Monday night. Part of the plunder Farrell is alleged to have stolen from the store was found in his possession when apprehended. This evening Sheriff Wilcox of Kingston came to New London and took Farrell back to Kingston for trial.

Shortly after one o'clock Acting Detective Edward Daniels in passing through Main street observed Farrell, carrying a burlap bag, enter several stores between State and Federal streets. The officer made inquiry at one of places as to what the bag-carrier's mission was and upon being informed Detective Daniels arrested Farrell who was taken to the police station. The bag contained 12 cartons or 320 packages of Camel cigarettes. Upon his person Farrell had $14.70, 12 being in bills, $2 in silver and 67 cents in pennies.

Farrell declared that he became possessed of the cigarette in Kingston, the goods being given him by a stranger.

The store alleged to have been burglarized by Farrell located near the Kingstone railroad station and the plunder taken from there comprised $60 worth of Camel cigarette and $17.

PENDLETON DENIES THAT TIMBER WAS ORDERED

Edwin S. Pendleton of New York and Mystic, a member of Pendleton Bros., Inc., which is defending a suit by the Boston Lumber Co. of Boston for a balance of approximately $4,000 on a consignment of timber early in 1920, went on the witness stand in the superior court at New London Wednesday morning and gave testimony regarding the transaction between his company and the plaintiff company. The plaintiff claims that the defendant ordered a consignment of 3r timber, which was shipped from the Pacific coast and on which a balance is due. The defendant company alleges that it did not order all the timber which was shipped, that it did not accept the carload in dispute, which is the reason it has not been paid for.

Mr. Pendleton testified that his brother, F. S. Pendleton, now deceased, who handled the transaction, did not order the timber and that he had never heard of it until the New York office was notified by the Mystic office of the arrival of a carload of timber at Mystic. He also testified that delays in the arrival of shipments of the consignment had held up work on two schooners which the company was building for four or five months, as a consequence of which their sale was delayed from spring until fall. Market prices were higher in the spring, falling off between 30 and 40 per cent. in the fall.

Mr. Pendleton was the only witness for the defense. At the conclusion of his testimony, the defense introduced some documentary evidence in the form of letters and communications after which the defense rested.

Following arguments by Attorneys B. H. Hewitt of Mystic and Lawrence Howard of Boston, for the plaintiff and Attorney Terbert W. Rathbun of Westerly for the defense, Judge Isaac Wolfe took the papers.

Tuesday afternoon Guy Butler and Fred B. Reynolds, officials of the Boston Lumber Co., and Richard Warren, receiver of the Thames River Lumber Co. of New London, were on the stand and testified for the plaintiff. All three gave testimony as to the difficulty in obtaining 60-foot fir timbers, such as were ordered by the defendants, the difficulty in shipping them and the delay involved in shipping them from the Pacific coast to Mystic.

NEXT BAPTIST CONVENTION TO MEET IN NEW HAVEN

The final days of the centennial sessions of the Connecticut Baptist convention in Hartford started Wednesday morning with a large audience, in attendance and a number of important questions to be considered.

The board of trustees, elected Tuesday, held its first meeting for organization purposes, and elected the following executive committee: The Rev. James McGee, New Haven; W. T. Trevithick, Middletown; Rev. Dr. Herbert J. White, Hartford; William O'Neil, Waterbury; Rev. H. M. Thompson, Stonington; Edward K. Nicholson, Bridgeport; Elias F. Wilcox, Mystic; H. H. Dickinson, Hartford; Mrs. E. R. Hitchcock, New Britain and Mrs. Allen W. Brown, West Hartford. Employes of the convention, it was voted, will be the same as before.

The Rev. Albert E. Gates gave the report of the committee on centennial thanks offerings. A total of $7,456.98 has been collected or promised.

On recommendation of the committee on place and preacher, the Calvary church, New Haven, was chosen as the place of next year's convention, and the Rev. M. R. Foshay, of New Haven, as preacher. The Rev. C. E. Decker of Bridgeport was chosen as alternate preacher.

Rev. Horace B. Sloat, director of promotion for the Baptist state convention, reporting for the promotion work, made the interesting statement that of every dollar contributed by the individual in Connecticut to Baptist missionary and educational work, 96 1-2 cents of it is used for the purpose designated. The overhead expense of gathering in the dollar and getting it to its destination costs just three and one-half cents.

Mr. Sloat said that for the three years ending April 30, 1923, the average yearly reciepts received at the state convention office for missions, educational work and benevolences amounted to $253,430.43. The average yearly cost for promotion had been $7,584.86. Thus there had been received and credited on the states pledge of $1,007,000 toward the New World Movement, the sum of $760,411.27. In two years the women, in the Woman's Continuation Campaign, had secured $96,364.06.

MARRIED 50 YEARS AGO AT STAFFORD SPRINGS

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Barber of 80 Montauk avenue, New London, observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage Monday, which occurred at Stafford Springs Oct. 15, 1873.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frederick L. Batchelder at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Taylor. The bride was the daughter of Benjamin Franklin and Matilda Ellis Taylor and was born in Stafford in 1848. The groom, the son of John and Sarah Griswold Barber, was born in Sheffield, Mass., in 1849. Each was the third child of respective unions, the year of marriage 1873, consisting several symbols, the last figure being the number of the family itself.

Mrs. Barber attended Monson academy and later taught in district and public schools, also teaching music.

Mr. Barber received his education in the schools of Sheffield and Springfield, moving from the latter place to Thorndike, where he assisted his father in the carriage business, being caretaker of the Congregational church as well as librarian for its school, receiving a valued testimonial in recognition of the latter services, moving to New London, where the family had made its summer home for many years. He was connected for some time with the Central Vermont railway, later conducting a carriage shop of his own at the old stand of Dudley & Guest, 18-20 Church street.

Mr. Barber was for several years Y. M. C. A. vice president from the First Baptist church, of which both are members. Mrs. Barber having been baptized about 60 years ago by the pastor who performed the marriage. One daughter was born of the union, Mabel Ellis Barber Walcott, the wife of J. D. Walcott of New Britain, and there are two grandchildren, James Dexter Walcott, Jr., a student at Harvard, and Wilfred Ellis Walcott, a Middlebury man and clerk in the Savings Bank of New Britain.

FINED $25 FOR SKUNK KILLED IN CLOSED SEASON

Charles Desmond Knight of North Stonington was arrested late Wednesday afternoon at North Stonington by Deputy Fish and Game Warden George Bliven and Christopher Culver, charged with violation of the game law in slaying skunks. Knight was presented in the evening before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton in North Stonington court and was fined $1 and costs, the latter amounting to $25. He paid. Robert P. Chappell, fish and game commissioner, prosecuted. It was represented that last week Knight killed two skunks contrary to law, inasmuch as the law permitting the killing of these animals is not off until November 1st. Knight also was possessed of two deer skins, but he was not prosecuted for the offense of slaying the animals and there was no evidence at hand to show that he did kill them. Knight declared that the skins had been given him by a fellow-huntsman.

DEPUTY MASTER SEAMON INSPECTS ST JAMES LODGE

St. James lodge, No. 23, F. and A. M., had an official visit of inspection Tuesday evening at the Masonic temple from David H. Seamon, deputy master of the eighth Masonic district, before whom work in the first degree was put on by Worshipful Master Fred G. Prothero and associate officers. The work earned the warmest commendation of the inspecting officer, who told the lodge that he could not remember he had ever seen it surpassed.

Supper was served at the close of the evening. Visiting officials from many lodges in the district were present for the evening.

Nutrition Class Demonstration.

The women of Goshen Hill will be given a demonstration on hot supper dishes by Mrs. M. E. Dakin, nutrition specialist at Connecticut Agricultural college, at a meeting this (Thursday) morning at 10 o'clock at the Goshen schoolhouse. It is expected there will be a large attendance of the women from this neighborhood.

Hailed As King By Bavarians

"Hail, King Rupprecht" was shouted by thousands of enthusiastic Bavarians, at the unveiling of a monument in Munich to former Crown Prince Rupprecht's former bodyguard regiment. Rupprecht accepted the salutations and cheers with regal bows and Berlin feels sure that the occasion was manufactured by von Kahr as the first step towards putting Rupprecht back on the Wittelsbach throne.

PHYSICIANS EXPLAIN WHO SHOULD TAKE NUXATED IRON

PRACTICAL ADVICE ON HOW TO HELP BUILD UP GREAT STRENGTH, ENERGY AND ENDURANCE

"Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life," says Dr. Emile Sauer, well known New England physician. "It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable. I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anaemic, run-down patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year suffering from physical weakness and a highly nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles without ever realizing the real cause of their trouble. Without iron in your blood your food merely passes through the body something like corn through an old mill with rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind.

"For want of iron you may be an old man at thirty, dull of intellect, poor in memory, nervous, irritable and all 'run down,' while at 50 or 60 with plenty of iron in your blood you may still be young in feeling, full of life, your whole being brimming over with vim and energy.

"But be sure the iron you take is organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and no metallic iron which people usually take. Organic iron—Nuxated Iron—is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron filings and is therefore an entirely different thing from Nuxated Iron. Nuxated iron represents organic iron in such a highly concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating one-half quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen baked apples. It is like taking extracts of beef instead of eating pounds of meat."

Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It quickly helps make rich red blood, revitalize worn-out exhausted nerves and give increased strength and energy. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if it does not produce satisfactory results.

For sale by all druggists.

POETRY

Elfin Song

Ouphe and goblin! imp and sprite!
Elf of eve! and starry fay!
Ye that love the moon's soft light,
Hither—hither wend your way!
Twine we in a jocund ring,
Sing and trip it merrily,
Hand to hand and wing to wing—
Round the wild witch-hazel tree.

Hail the wanderer again,
With dance, and song, and lute and lyre,
Pure his wing and strong his chain,
And doubly bright his fairy fire—
Twine ye in an airy round,
Brush the dew and print the lea;
Skip and gamboi, hop and bound,
Round the wild witch-hazel tree.

The beetle guards our holy ground,
He flies about the haunted place,
And if mortal there be found,
He hums in his ears and flags in his face;
The leaf-harp sounds our roundelay,
The owlet's eyes our lanterns be,
Thus we sing, and dance and play,
Round the wild witch-hazel tree.
—Joseph Rodman Drake in Indianapolis News.

The Question Whither

When we have thrown off this old coil,
So much in need of mending,
To sink among the naked mute,
Is that, think you, our ending?
We follow many, more we lead,
And you who sadly turf us,
Believe not that all living seed
Must flower above the surface.
Sensation is a gracious gift,
But were it cramped to station,
The prayer to have it cast adrift,
Would spout from all sensation
Enough if we have winked to sun
Have sped the plow a season;
There is a soul for labor done,
Endureth fixed as reason.
Then let our trust be firm in God,
Though we be of the fasting;
Our questions are a mortal brood,
Our work is everlasting.
We children of Beneficence
Are his being sharers;
And Whither vainer sounds than Whence
For word with such wayfarers.
—George Meredith

SENSATIONAL DISCLOSURE OF LIQUOR LAW VIOLATIONS

Activity Yesterday of Federal Agents Revealed That State and Other Officials, Politicians and Persons High in Society Have Been in League With Bootleggers in New York and New Jersey—Eleven Alleged Bribers Were Arrested at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York—Said to Have Been Using $80,000 to Bribe Corrupt Prohibition Agents to Permit Brewing of Beer in New Jersey—Bribes Accepted by Agents Ranged From $400 to $6,000—Some of the Go-Betweens Received $20,000 for a Single "Fixing Job"—Are to Padlock Several Thousand Saloons and Speak-Easies Said to be Running Wide Open in New York.

New York, Oct. 18.—(By the A. P.)—The federal government today fired a double-barreled charge into wet forces alleged to be drenching New York and New Jersey with illicit liquor.

With one charge federal agents, working under direct orders from Washington, brought down a bag of eleven alleged conspirators, rounded up in the Hotel Pennsylvania and elsewhere and alleged to have been using $80,000 to bribe prohibition agents not to stop the brewing of real beer in New Jersey; not to interfere with the converting of industrial alcohol into strong liquor; not to block the flooding of New York and New Jersey with beer from rival vats in Pennsylvania.

With the other barrel the government fired a broadside into the first of several thousand saloonkeepers alleged to be running wide-open in New York City since the repeal of the state prohibition law. Fifty-four suits were filed in federal court to padlock these alleged speak-easies under provisions of the Volstead act and United States Attorney Hayward added that more actions would be brought as soon as clerks could prepare the complaints.

The round up at the Hotel Pennsylvania came at the close of day. Federal prohibition and treasury agents, on appointment made with the alleged bribers, waited in several rooms and took their guests into custody one by one as they arrived. It was stated that a regular weekly bribe of $4,500 was accepted by one of the agents before making the arrests.

The men arrested were J. Harry Sloy, former secretary to Senator Edwards of New Jersey, when the latter was governor and now superintendent of weights and measures; Herbert Katz of the Paterson Brewing and Malting company; Edward Butler of the Peter Breidt Brewing company of Elizabeth, N. J.; Harry Keller of the Hygeia Brewing company, Passaic, N. J.; George Seeber of the Rising Sun Brewing company, Elizabeth, N. J.; Henry Greenfield a prohibition agent; Eganuel Elfenbein, a truckman and warehouseman; Herman J. Goldman; Theodore I. Schwartzman of the Herman Chemical company, Brooklyn, N. Y.; William Nathans of Hoboken and Dr. Leo Zackaroff, treasurer of the Alcohol Warehouse corporation of New York.

All were charged with conspiring to give bribes to influence the conduct of prohibition agents. Specific charges against Goldman, Schwartzman, Elfenbein and Greenfield involved giving money to permit the transportation and sale of alcohol to be rectified into whiskey and other alcoholic beverages.

It was explained that denatured alcohol was redistilled into grain alcohol and used for manufacture of whiskey, that grain alcohol which was to have been denatured was instead used to make whiskey and that money was paid to permit these practices and to protect those carrying them out.

The charges against Foley and the other officials of breweries alleged that they had paid bribes to federal agents to permit them to flood New York and New Jersey with beer of high alcoholic content. The agents in accepting the bribes, it was stated, agreed to permit the manufacture and sale of New Jersey beer and on the other hand promised to use their best efforts to prevent the sale in New Jersey of beer made in Pennsylvania.

With the $4,500 received by federal agents today, the total bribes seized by the government forces and confiscated was $84,500, according to United States Attorney Hayward, who estimated the total given in bribes since the conspiracy originated was about $700,000.

Mr. Hayward said baring of the alleged conspiracy revealed a "shocking and sensational state of affairs in New Jersey and possibly Pennsylvania." State and other officials, politicians and persons high in social standing, he said, were in league with the bootleg conspirators.

He declared he was powerless to act against these corrupt officials except insofar as they came within his jurisdiction but he said he intended to submit all his findings to Attorney General Daugherty for direct action. He said he would urge upon Mr. Daugherty and high prohibition officials that they take up the matter with New Jersey state officials.

The investigation, it was stated, began in June when reports came to Washington that the prohibition law was being brazenly violated and that an attempt was being made to cover those violations by wholesale bribery in which prominent persons were involved.

General Prohibition Agents Grill Dunigan came to New Jersey and on inquiry. Immediately, they they were approached by bootwho assured them "they could quick if they would be ...' One such offer, it was ... made in the corridor of a in Newark and the man ... d it was a defendant in ... tried.

Special Agents Roche ... the special intelligence ... easury department John Grill and Dunigan. All were corrupt and that ... ng hand in glove with ... Meanwhile the ... agents were care... ... gan rods into New ... loaded with beer to ... While the agents ... ,000 in bribes, they saw that other bribe collectors were reaping a harvest of money on promises that they would establish connections in high places in Washington with people who would make beer running and selling absolutely "safe."

Most of this money, the agents found, went into the pockets of the collectors and go-betweens whose pretensions of influence in high places were false. Bribes accepted by the agents ranged from $400 to $6,000; some of the go-betweens received as much as $20,000 for a single "fixing job."

During the inquiry, the agents followed trails leading to the doors of persons high in the social and political life of New Jersey. It was decided to postpone action until government officials were able to capture a member of the alleged conspirators at once.

Today while some of the agents waited in the Hotel Pennsylvania in an improvised "prohibition headquarters," other agents drove over to New York on trucks. It was felt that it would be better to capture and try the alleged law violators in the jurisdiction of New York rather than that of New Jersey.

All of the eleven were arraigned before Federal Commissioner Hoyle late in the day and held in $15,000 bail each for a hearing November 1. All were well dressed and appeared at their ease as they heard the charges read. After the arraignment, they began telephoning for bail which was furnished by a bonding company.

Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, who has been in New York for two or three days, declared the most gratifying aspect of the day's work was that it had been carried out in "one of the most difficult sections for enforcement in the United States."

"It has been known all over the nation," he said, "that prohibition violations in New Jersey have been flagrant. Some political leaders have used the illicit traffic for private and political gain. Because of conditions these it has not only been difficult to protect the integrity and morale of operating forces against efforts to bribe and efforts to discredit, but it has been difficult in many instances to secure convictions.

"The cases that have just been developed by federal agents during the past several months, in which arrests have been made today, have disclosed astonishing conditions. Overwhelming evidence has been secured against a large number of New Jersey breweries and several large industrial alcohol concerns of New York and many other New Jersey places. Some of the breweries and alcohol concerns are implicated in conspiracy, and all in attempting to bribe federal officers, about $80,000 in cash having actually been paid. Several men of political prominence are also implicated in conspiracy, and the accurate knowledge we now have of the methods of graft being practiced by others will no doubt justify additional prosecutions later.

"It is represented that men who have collected graft money have paid but a small part of it to alleged corrupt agents, having personally pocketed the greatest amount, representing that high treasury and justice officials in Washington participate. These brazen methods, set in motion currents of corruption in the underworld and even among many who should know better. This creates the impression that all connected with enforcement must be corrupt, therefore, they argue—"Why not get in on the graft ourselves." These corrupt practices so emboldened the law violaters in New Jersey that part of them followed the federal agents into New York City there to culminate their briberies and conspiracies against the government."

When earlier in the day United States Attorney Hayward filed his injunction suits to close alleged wet saloons and cabarets, he said he had a locality card index of some 11,00 open saloons. He estimated that there were probably more than 2,000 in Manhattan and the Bronx alone, and declared they had taken on a new lease of life since repeal of the Mullan-Gage act.

"The old saloons," Mr. Hayward said, "are with us still and have taken a new lease of life since they defeated the efforts of the state of New York to put them out of business and this great state has surrendered to them."

HAULS BY "DRY" AGENTS IN NEW YORK WATERS

New York, Oct. 18—Sixty rum boats ranging in value from $20 to $30,000 each, 180 prisoners and 15,000 bottles of liquor valued at approximately $500,000—this is the aggregate haul of the government in New York waters for the last three and a half months, H. D. Esterbrook, agent in charge of customs and head of the second special agency district, announced tonight.

Mr. Esterbrook took occasion to deny rumors that Washington recently had given him orders to intensify the war on rum runners and declared records showed a seizure for almost every day since July 1 last by the searching squad operating in the port of New York.

The seized rum runners include sharpies, high powered steamboats, tugs and sea going yachts; with an occasional sailing craft. The richest prize was the seizure of the Atlanta, valued at $30,000, which formerly was owned by George J. Gould.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Failed to Conduct Picketing.

Dublin, Oct. 18.—The plan adopted at yesterday's session of the Ard Fheis convention for picketing public buildings and places of amusement as a sign of sympathy with the striking republican prisoners was not carried out to any great extent today. Entertainment managers ignored it, feeling certain that the military authorities would not arrest pickets.

A NEW WITNESS APPEARS AGAINST MRS. STOKES

New York, Oct. 18.—Edgar T. Wallace, the principal co-respondent named W. E. D Stokes in the retrial of his divorce suit against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, was expected to arrive tonight for his second appearance on the witness stand in behalf of Mrs. Stokes. Before leaving San Francisco, Wallace telegraphed instructions to Charles F. Erbstein, one of Mrs. Stokes' attorneys, to take any action he believed necessary in the case before his arrival.

Mr. Erbstein announced he had been retained by Wallace after the jury had passed a day listening to emphatic testimony against Mrs. Stokes by Horace G. Knowles, former United States minister to Rumania, Serbia, Nicaragua and Bolivia, and had heard Ezariah Epps, a negro witness for the wealthy hotel owner, contradict repeatedly his story of having seen Mrs. Stokes at two of Wallace's apartments.

Mr. Knowles, whose appearance took defense counsel completely by surprise, said he had seen Mrs. Stokes late in 1914, or early in 1915, in the East 35th street apartment of Wallace and on the stairs leading to the apartment. He did not appear at the first trial.

Mr. Knowles said he had come to the court room October 1 to see Mrs. Stokes and identify to his own satisfaction, the woman he had seen enter the living room of the Wallace apartment and pass through to another room. Questioned by Samuel Untermyer, attorney for Mrs. Stokes, Mr. Knowles was not sure it was October 1, but was positive it was the first day of the trial.

"But you recurred to you, didn't it, that Mrs. Stokes was in Chicago October 1?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"It occurs to me now, but I saw Mrs. Stokes here the first day of the trial, whenever it was."

"That was the first time you had seen her since 1915, but you are sure now she was the woman?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"I am sure."

"There can be no mistake?"

"No."

Mr. Knowles said he had never seen Wallace in the apartment. "Do you want me to tell you why?" he asked.

"No," answered Mr. Untermyer.

SLEUTH AS SHOP WORKER ARRANGES LIQUOR RAIDS

New Haven, Oct. 18.—Mingling with other men employed in a Seymour manufacturing plant, where he had obtained work, enabled Harry Sansabrino, a private detective, to obtain evidence that paved the way for the liquor raids of state policemen in the Naugatuck valley last August, he revealed in superior court here today.

Sansabrino was called to the stand by State's Attorney Arthur A. Alling during the trial of Harry Suwak, of 22 Third street, Seymour, who is charged with a number of liquor violation counts. Suwak is alleged to have sold liquor in his home to Sansabrino and the man who brought the detective there.

On the stand Sansabrino also mentioned other places where he had purchased liquor.

Because of failure of two state policemen to be present, the trial was adjourned to tomorrow.

SIX MORE SERGEANTS FOR THE STATE POLICE

Hartford, Oct. 18.—By authority of an act adopted by the 1923 session of the legislature, the state police commission today appointed six additional sergeants, making a total of eight for the department. They are: Inspector-instructor, Willard E. Bushy, New Haven, senior sergeant; John O. Kelly, Ridgefield; Clifford N. Gorgas, Bridgeport; Russell I. Harmon, Stafford; Albert B. Fields, Brooklyn; Arthur W. Williams, Danielson.

Frank Virelli, of Fairfield, has been a sergeant of the department for some time, and will be continued as such. Two more sergeantcies remain to be filled.

LLOYD GEORGE AT GRAVE OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Springfield, Ills., Oct. 18.—(By the A. P.)—David Lloyd George came here and paid homage to the memory of Abraham Lincoln.

With bared, head, heedless of a cold driving rain, the war time premier of Great Britain, approached the monument and entered the tomb of the martyred president where he placed on the sarcophagus a wreath with his card bearing the words:

ENTOMBED TWO DAYS; MEN STILL ARE ALIVE

Bingham, Utah, Oct. 18.—Three of the five men who have been entombed in Stope No. 30 of the Utah-Apex metal mine for more than two days still are alive, according to reports reaching the surface. Rescuers expect to reach the men late tonight. Superintendent Joseph Norden is one of the men but the identity of the other two is unknown. The first hint that any of the imprisoned miners still lived came this morning when tappings were heard. At noon the relief crew had made sufficient headway to hear voices and late this afternoon in answer to a question came a weak answer that "Norden is here." The condition of the men is undetermined.

JOHN P. KILFEATHER, CIGAR MANUFACTURER, BANKRUPT

New Haven, Oct. 18.—John P. Kilfeather, cigar manufacturer and builder of the Kilfeather building at Meadow and South Water streets, here filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in United States court late today. Schedules filed with the petitions show liabilities of $466,399.25 and assets of $473,484.28. Value of real estate is given at $425,000. The trade names of the three cigars manufactured by Kilfeather are listed as being of no value.

Legion Passed Mich. Anti-Klan Resolution

Resolution of Oklahoma Delegation Was Overwhelmingly Voted Down.

San Francisco, Oct. 18.—The American Legion, in the annual convention here today, adopted resolutions declaring inconsistent with the ideals and purposes of the legion any individual or organization which fosters racial, religious or class strife, recommended that the legion urge the federal government to continue cordial relations with the former allies and endorsed France's occupation of the Ruhr.

A verbal battle over the Ku Klux Klan that has stirred the convention since it convened Monday, in which the press was charged with trying to split the legion, raged for several hours and resulted in the adoption of the "Michigan" anti-klan resolution, which does not mention any authorization by name.

Nine hundred and thirty three delegates voted for the "Michigan" resolution after the convention had overwhelmingly voted down a resolution the Oklahoma delegation introduced to offset a denunciatory resolution offered by Charles F. Kendrick, of San Francisco. The Kendrick resolution also lost, 815 to 142, and Kendrick accused the legion of "pussy-footing" on the Klan question.

The resolution was as follows:

"Resolved, by the American Legion in national convention assembled, that we consider any individual, group or individuals or organization, which creates or fosters racial, religious or class strife among our people or which takes into their own hands the enforcement of law, determination of guilt or infliction of punishment, to be un-American, a menace to our liberties and destructive of our fundamental law and be it, further,

"Resolved, that we consider such action by any individual, groups or organizations, to be inconsistent with the ideals and purposes of the American Legion."

When Major Kendrick accused the legionnaires of pussy-footing on the Klan question, he announced that he was there "to tear the mask off things and see just where we are."

"Far be it from me to inject into this convention, a religious issue," he said. However, much as I desire that such not be the case, there is a religious issue here and there has been one for more than two years. The only way to meet the issue, is to meet it squarely, meet it face to face, the same as we met other issues in times gone by.

"We cannot pussy-foot in this organization and get anywhere. Let's tear the mask off of things and see just where we are.

"You all know just as well as I do what happened in New Orleans. You know perfectly well that Bill Deegan's candidacy was proposed down there and the most important factor regarding him was his religion."

Major Kendrick withdrew the statement when it was objected to by California delegates and said:

"I withdraw the statement that you all know it and merely say that I know it, and let me get a little closer to home with you. . . In Kansas City my name was proposed throughout the convention as probable candidate for commander and on all sides I found my religion was a most interesting matter to men who desired to know whether they should or should not consider me as a possible commander.

"This is not a small matter to some little village. It has got so that a great state had to declare martial law because of it and other states are considering the question in a great state-wide way and it is high time that the American Legion, if it stands for the things it says it stands for, if it has what we thought it had in the war, if it has the courage on both ends of the gun, if it has that it will stand up and stop pussy-footing and come out in the open against things that are destructive to our American government, to our constitution.

"Let me tell you a telegram I received today from Lindsay Blainey, from Houston, Texas, a man who served with me for two years on the American commission and with Commander Gwatky. When this issue came before us, we recognized it was the most insidious and a vicious one and here is Blainey's message:

"'Congratulations in the name of thousands of Protestant veterans for your stand against this un-American organization. Former post here of three thousand now a few hundred on account of this issue. America is ready for some other organization sidetracking for fundamentals unless the American legion gets off the fence.'

"Are we any less American than the American Federation of Labor? That organization has not pussy-footed the idea. There are as many veterans of the World War in the American federation of Labor as there are in the American Legion and they have n't pussy-footed. Are we going to do so? I sincerely trust not, and I offer my substitute resolution degrading upon the manhood, the courage and the Americanism of the American Legion to put it through."

E. W. Whitney, spokesman for the Oklahoma pro-klan delegation, warned the legionnaires that the press of the country was trying to split the legion on the question of the klan. He said:

"This question has been brought insidiously before the convention for two different years. I see in it the life or the death of the legion and my position is that we want hands off. Irrespective of what any man may think or believe in religion or politics, the basis of this resolution for membership in this legion is service.

"It was service in the World war; it was service in the emergency and it is service now. We do not raise that question but since it has been raised in this convention, we humbly submit that this sub resolution (the Oklahoma resolution) will do away with the question and forever settle it which is our object and reason for urging it at this time.

"From the beginning of this convention until the present time, certain sections of the press have not ceased to misquote us and to try to divide our forces on this question. I have seen many of these things and disastrously and I warn you that if we do not settle this and say hands off, that the American Legion will be the goat and we will be the ones that will suffer.

"Many beautiful things are said in that original number 467, (the committee resolution) we all agree, with them but that subsidized press is waiting around the corner outside the building to get hold of anything that this legion can do today, no matter in what name we do it, in order to scandalize us, or see if our forces cannot be divided. There is an ulterior motive in me doing so."

Delegate Quigley, of Massachusetts denounced the Oklahoma resolution.

"I come here as a legionnaire from Massachusetts, interested first in the American Legion and for this great

SUCCESSFUL CRUISE OF BATTLESHIP COLORADO

New York, Oct. 18.—While thousands of busy New Yorkers paused to cast an admiring glance, the battleship Colorado of the United States navy, the world's greatest fighting piece of the high seas, crept majestically through the harbor and docked at Brooklyn navy yard punctually on schedule today. She had completed a successful test cruise down Delaware Bay.

The masterpiece of fighting ships will be equipped with a fire control system, requiring two months' time. Then she will start on a European cruise.

On board the Colorado were 1,266 enlisted men, 69 officers, 75 marines, and one dog. "Nigger," the canine member, stowed away a few moments before the Colorado started off, and has been officially accepted as mascot.

HELD FOR BREAKING INTO THE KENYON POSTOFFICE

Providence, Oct. 18.—Herbert Farrell, alias George Gray, alias Frank Carson, who was arrested in New London was turned over to Rhode Island authorities and is in the Washington county jail charged with breaking into the Kenyon post office and general store last Monday night. The New London police recognized him as the man who served a year and a day at Atlanta for breaking into the post office at Bradford, Conn., in 1917.

Family of Six Killed At Grade Crossing

When Automobile Was Struck by Pere Marquette Train Near Evart, Mich.

Saginaw, Mich., Oct. 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Peale, of Flint, and their four small children were killed today when their automobile was struck by a Pere Marquette passenger train at a grade crossing near Evart. Mr. and Mrs. Peale and two of their children, Glen and Carl, were killed instantly. The other two children, Corine and Irvin, died while being brought here.

TWO MEN WERE DROWNED WHEN STEAMER FOUNDERED

New York, Oct. 18.—(By the A. P.)—Two men the captain and engineer, of the fishing excursion steamer Halcyon, were drowned today, when the vessel foundered in a gale about two miles off Coney Island.

Thirteen passengers and the two other men in the crew were saved when it seemed certain their lifeboat was doomed to be engulfed by the raging waves.

Reports to the Coney Island police that a number of smaller craft including several motor boats which were supposed to have gone to the assistance of the Halcyon were missing could not be verified by the police boat Manhattan.

She returned to the Battery after many hours of search without finding any trace of the bodies of the victims, Captain John Van Kleet, and the engineer whose identity was not learned.

The Halcyon sprang a leak and foundered while running through a tempestuous sea kicked up by a rip tide and a northeasterly gale, the worst fishermen could recall in forty years.

One of the surviving sailors is James Finley, a survivor of two previous wrecks at sea, who was making his first trip on the Halcyon. Finley was one of the four heroic figures who answered the call to duty when it appeared the ship would go down. The others were the captain and the engineer, who also acted as fireman, and Captain Frederick Kirk, of the Becomah, a small oil supply craft who picked up and towed in the lifeboat which Finley had taken charge of at direction of Captain Van Kleet.

The Halcyon, formerly was the United States fish commission schooner Alcyon. She subsequently was converted into a steamer. She was 89 gross tons, 105 feet long and built in 1875 in Brooklyn, N. Y.

PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT DISCUSSED BY GOVERNORS

Westbaden, Ind., Oct. 18.—Agriculture, prohibition, penal reforms and uniformity of state legislation were considered today by the fifteenth annual governors' conference, here to discuss the national problems.

While the first formal sessions today were given over to agriculture, the question of prohibition enforcement was the overshadowing topic of discussion. Announcement of a move by several executives, including Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, P. P. Baxter, of Maine, and W. E. Sweet, of Colorado, to prepare a memorial to the people urging intensified enforcement activity, put that issue squarely before the conference. Sponsors of the movement declared tonight that when the governors meet with President Coolidge in Washington Saturday, the views of the conference here would be presented in definite form for the consideration of the chief executive.

HARDSHIPS WORKED BY HIGH RENTS IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 18.—Stories of whole families suffering from malnutrition because they could not pay the rent and buy food too; of mothers starving that their babies might eat; of tenement districts where the average infant was 6 pounds under weight; of "safety last" fire escapes and gouging landlords—all because of the shortage of homes and exorbitant rents—were related before the state housing commission today.

Judges, welfare workers, professors, wage-earners and mothers with babes in arms, appealed to the commission to recommend renewal of the emergency rent laws, so that when they expire next February thousands of families may not be thrown upon the mercy of landlords.

GERMAN CABINET MAY RESORT TO DICTATORIAL AUTHORITY

Socialist-Communist Ministry in Saxony Continues Its Defiance of the Central Government—Bavaria Has Severed Diplomatic Relations With Saxony—With the Dollar Equivalent to About 9,000,000 Marks the Government is Unable to Adopt Speedy Reformatory Measures.

Berlin, Oct. 18.—(By the A. P.)—With the situation in the Ruhr and Rhineland rapidly approaching a condition of an acute social and economic crisis, with Saxony's socialist-communist ministry continuing its defiance of the central government, and with Bavaria having severed diplomatic relations with Saxony, Chancellor Stresemann's coalition cabinet is confronted with issues which will afford it an early opportunity to make use of the dictatorial authority voted it by the Reichstag in the emergency power bill.

While these are the outstanding issues which harbor elements of immediate danger, the internal situation in its entirety, especially with respect to the financial problem toward which all classes of the population are heading through the further depreciation of the value of the mark, is automatically constituting itself a contributory factor which is destined to have a decisive bearing on the further course of events.

With the dollar soaring around the nine billion mark notch today a new period of price chaos set in, and with it the government's helplessness with respect to the adoption of speedy reformatory measures became more emphasized.

The social situation growing out of the complete wreck of the nation's economic structure is making the socialist party restive, in that it apparently no longer is able to cope with the clamor of the masses, whose cause is being espoused by the more militant of the communists. This phase of the situation already is seriously reacting on the united socialist party's attitude toward the coalition government, in which it is holding three cabinet posts; and as the party, as such, also is demanding the repeal of the state of emergency act in an effort to placate the rampant Saxon government, it is viewed as not improbable that the socialist party will instruct its members of the cabinet to retire from the government.

Such an eventuality in all probability would wreck Chancellor Stresemann's present ministry, unless President Ebert in the emergency should give Stresemann carte blanche authority, on which his dictatorship without need of party or parlian consideration.

Herman Mueller and Otto Wels who are the traditional emissaries of the socialist party when important assignments are decided upon, today had a lengthy conference with President Ebert. Representatives of the socialists and communists also have been conducting informal deliberations looking toward the creation of a "proletarian working alliance," although the ultra-reds have put forward such extreme demands that the conferences have been postponed for the time being. The conferences, however, are significant as representing the first serious attempt to unite both the radical parties on a common platform, especially as the socialist party, as such, up to quite recent times has openly and repeatedly asseverated its refusal to make common cause with the communists.

Since German Bolshevism joined in the formation of the Saxon ministry, the previously existing line of cleavage has become considerably blurred and there is an insistent demand in the ranks of the Berlin socialists that the central government forthwith assume a more conciliatory attitude toward Premier Zeigner and his Saxon regime.

By the way of laying stress on its defiance of the Berlin government, the Saxon government today announced the appointment of two communists, Herr Boettcher and Herr Heckert, as Saxony's delegates to the federal council. Herr Boettcher, who is minister of finance in the Zeigner cabinet, is a young communist who has just returned from Moscow where he is reported to have taken a "course of instruction" at the soviet's fountain-head. Herr Heckert is minister of economics, and as such holds a portfolio of strategic importance to any party in view of Saxony's preeminence as an industrial state. Both these ministers have refused to take the oath of allegiance to the republic's constitution, and this is being made a cardinal feature of the present controversy with the Berlin government. A section of the bourgeois press demands that both men be forced to swear fealty to the republic or retire from office.

The central government's failure to obtain even a small degree of accommodation from M. Poincare, the French premier, in connection with its program for a resumption of the Ruhr industries also has gravely complicated matters for the Stresemann regime, and official quarters appear to be wholly without counsel or wisdom with respect to a solution for the problem of the Ruhr and the Rhineland.

WHY CONSUMER PAYS HIGH PRICE FOR ANTHRACITE

Washington, Oct. 18.—Tracing anthracite shipments through distribution channels on its way from the mines to consumers, the federal trade commission has found a number of instances in which domestic coal was handled on an unusually large profit margin, and also was "scalped," or passed from hand to hand with added profits enroute.

The first of a series of weekly reports on the subject issued today covered the findings from wholesalers' reports for the week ending September 22. The study was made, the commission said at the direction of President Coolidge.

A wholesale margin of 25 cents a ton on coal handled, the commission concluded, was "rather generally recognized in the industry," while margins of 75 cents or more a ton were said to be the "result of wholesalers charging what the traffic will bear." Taking all the domestic coal handled during the week ending September 22, the report continued, it was found that 9.8 per cent had been handled on a $1 per ton margin.

As to 17 per cent. of the coal, the wholesaler had taken 75 cents per ton, and 36 per cent. was handled for a charge of 50 cents per ton, and 21 per cent. moved at a margin of 25 cents per ton: The wholesalers moved all of these shipments, the report said, "without physically handling the coal."

As the passing of coal from dealer to dealer in the wholesale market, the commission said, it was found that sixty per cent. of all the domestic hard coal produced during the week had been handled only by one wholesaler. Another 22 per cent. of the coal for the week had been bought by one wholesaler from another before delivery to the retail trade or to consumers. About 6 per cent. was reported to be bought from the mines by one wholesaler who sold it to another and an additional two per cent. had been bought by one wholesaler from another in the same trade and sold to a third wholesaler.

Gross profits and additional details of the traffic, it was announced, will be taken up in later studies.

LIQUOR DRINKING FLAPPER IS NOT REPRESENTATIVE

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 18.—The liquor-drinking flapper does not represent youth of today, who in large measure are God fearing and serious minded, declared Rev. Francis E. Clark, president of the World's Christian Endeavor society, in an address before the national council of Congregational churches tonight.

"I do not believe, Dr. Clark said, that the reckless, God defying minority, however vociferous, represent our young people any more than the 85,000 people who paid a million dollars and a half to see a brutal prize fight represent the American people in general."

OBITUARY.

Rev. Richard M. J. Grant.

Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Rev. Richard Merrill Johnson Grant, who served in the Civil war as an aide on the staff of General Sherman, died here today, aged 86.

Dr. Grant who retired from the ministry twenty years ago, was born at Oswipe, N. H., and was ordained in 1861. He enlisted in Company I, First New Hampshire Heavy Artillery, as a private.

CHARGED WITH FIXING PRICES OF TOBACCO

Washington, Oct. 18.—The American Tobacco company, P. Lorillard company and the New England Tobacco conference, composed of tobacco wholesalers and jobbers in six New England states, were cited today by the federal trade commission to answer complaints that they have entered into an agreement to fix uniform discounts or prices at which the products of the two companies shall be sold. The complaints further charge that the two complaints have agreed not to deal with wholesalers and jobbers declining to recognize the alleged price schedule.

Another complaint was issued by the commission against Joseph R. Manning company, of Boston, a wholesale tobacco concern, which is charged with discriminating in prices between purchasers.

All the parties named in the complaints have thirty days in which to file answer.

GREECE NOT TO FILL VACANCIES IN CABINET

Athens, Oct. 18.—Although it was announced early today that the government had named minor ministers to fill the vacancies in the cabinet caused by the recent resignations of the foreign minister and the ministers of the interior, war and justice, it was decided tonight not to appoint them. The cabinet will be composed of double offices, the vacant posts being given to ministers now holding office. Premier Gonatas will take the war portfolio while M. Alexandrias will resume his post as foreign minister.

Martial law and the remaining restrictions on the press have been lifted by the government. The number of deputies in the new parliament is fixed at 402 by a government decree; December 2 is set as the date for the parliamentary elections, and December 24 as the time for the assembly's first meeting.

WOULD MODIFY WASHINGTON EIGHT-HOUR CONVENTION

Geneva, Oct. 18.—Efforts by certain member of the international labor bureau notably England, to modify the Washington eight-hour convention in such a way that while the principle would be left intact certain latitude would be allowed with details, failed at today's meeting of the governing body of the bureau before the determined opposition of the workmen's representatives.

The sub-committee on the eight-hour day recommended a consultation by the different states to ascertain what amendments they desired with a view to securing ratification of the convention, but it was decided to let matters stand. June 15, 1924 was fixed for the opening of the international labor conference at Geneva.

PROHIBITIONISTS FAVOR FORD FOR PRESIDENT

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 18.—Henry Ford in all likelihood, will get the prohibitionist nomination of the prohibition party, according to Virgil G. Hinshaw chairman of the prohibition national committee, who today issued a call for a national conference at Washington, December 15.

County Investigator William E. Jackson has requested complainants in the habit of writing complaints to police authorities regarding some violator of the law to sign their names. Very often, the information given concerning the names of alleged violators is true but the authorities must have something more than anoymous communications to work on. Grudges between two people oftentimes are the cause of such complaints. Investigator Jackson received an unsigned letter Thursday forenoon purporting to come from a member of the local Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which told of violations of the liquor law at a certain place and asked for immediate action on the matter. An ink blot appeared where the signature should have been. Efforts were made to find out just who the writer was but to no avail. Anonymous communications of this kind have been received by local federal prohibition agents, local and state police officers and in many cases the writers stated that they were members of the W. C. T. U.

The order to dismantle all remaining saloon bars in Windham county by Saturday night of this week was issued by State Attorney Charles A. Searls at Putnam Wednesday afternoon and County Investigator William E. Jackson was placed in charge of the work. There ware four bars still used for the dispensation of near-beer and other mild cordials and these were torn down Thursday. There were eight bars in Willimantic up to a short time ago, but they had been in disuse for two years. Three of the bars were in hotels. Two others were recently dismantled. All the proprietors were visited Thursday by Investigator Jackson and orders were given that the bars be removed at once. The order at Killingly was served Thursday by Deputy Sheriff Charles Ayers.

While the "other woman," Mabel Geishecker crooned to a five and one-half months' baby of which she and John A. Connolly admitted being the parents, Mrs. Lena Connolly of Franklin, Mass., in the local police court Thursday morning accused her husband of deserting her last April and of not giving her any support during the interim. Connolly pleaded guilty to the charge but he was not called upon to explain his predicament and no statements were made by the Geishecker woman. Mrs. Connolly informed Deputy Judge Curtis Dean that she would not live with her husband again. Connolly was bound over to the next criminal term of the Windham county superior court, under bonds of $500.

Connolly deserted his wife and two children on May 1, and came direct to this city from Franklin, Mass., with the Geishecker woman. They registered at a rooming house and the next day the woman gave birth to the child. Connolly took on an alias at that time and the child was recorded as having been born to Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Geishecker. In the meantime Mrs. Connolly was forced to secure assistance for herself and two children from the Franklin, Mass., authorities. Connolly was finally traced to this city where he was found working in a restaurant. He and the Geishecker woman and their child had an apartment in the Council building. Mrs. Connolly came to this city and her husband was arrested on a warrant made out by Chief of Police Allan MacArthur. Connolly made no denial to the charges and was detained in the police station.

When Connolly stated that he could not secure anyone in Willimantic to furnish the bonds of $500 the Geishecker woman seemed very much moved. She talked with Connolly in the cell room and expressed her belief that she could secure the money in a short time. Mrs. Connolly calmly left the courtroom and took the 9.46 a. m. train back to Franklin, Mass.

Thomas Wiley, one of the drivers for the Hartford-Willimantic jitney association, was fined $25 and costs by Deputy Judge Dean, in the local police court Thursday morning for violation of the automobile laws. Wiley pleaded guilty to the charge of operating a jitney car under an "O" number and collecting individual fares with a public service car other than a jitney over an established jitney route. State Policeman Harrison Hulburt of the Stafford Springs barracks stated that the department had a complaint first on June 25 but owing to pressing business the matter was not taken up until recently. Officer Hulburt made the arrest at the Andover station and read the names of three Windham people who paid individual fares. Wiley contends that the "O" car was run because the "J" was undergoing repairs and was not available for schedule time.

The First Methodist church of Willimantic is to celebrate its ninety-fifth anniversary October 21 to 28. While the first Methodist sermon was preached in this section one hundred and thirty years ago, it was not until forty years later that the membership was large enough to build a place of worship. This was in 1828. The people of that faith were previously supplied by pastors of the Mansfield circuit and services were held in homes or schools. The first church, a one-story wooden building, was built in 1829 on the site of the present Holmes block on Main street opposite Railroad street. The Mansfield circuit, however, continued to supply the pulpit until 1833. Moseley Dwight was the first resident minister and he served two years, 1834-5. The present church edifice was built in 1851. The old church building was sold to Warren Atwood, who moved it to where the Johnson block now stands on Church street and converted it into what he termed "The Christian Boarding House." The historical landmark was destroyed when the Johnson block was erected. The programme for the week's celebration is to be announced in Saturday's Bulletin.

The Flying Squadron engaged in a nation-wide campaign in the interests of Law Enforcement, Civic Righteousness and Social and Industrial Justice will visit Willimantic for six big meetings Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, October 24, 25 and 26. The meetings will be held at the town hall at 2.30 and 7.45 p. m. With the third division will be Oliver Wayne Stewart, president of the Flying Squadron Foundation and Editor of the National Enquirer.

Harry S. Ruby of Norwich and Miss Dorothy Flippen were married Tuesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Flippen of 920 Main street. Rev. William C. Pittman of Hartford performed the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by Albert H. Harrid. Raymond Ruby, brother of the groom, was best man and Mrs. Pearl M. Johnson was maron of honor. The bride wore a handsome suit of black broadcloth and carried carnations. The matron of honor were pale pink silk organdie and carrier carnations. Mrs. A. H. Harris, organist at Calvary Baptist church, played the wedding march.

The ceremony was performed under an arch of autumn leaves and was followed by a reception attended by friends from Norwich, Hartford, Manchester and this city. A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Ruby of Norwich. Mr. and Mrs. Ruby will make their home on High street, Norwich.

Adelord LaVallee and Miss Alice Arel were married in St. Mary's church Thursday morning at 9.15 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Papillon. Theodore LaVallee, father of the groom, and Gideon Lisgee were the witnesses. The bride wore a dark brown traveling suit trimmed with fur and hat to match, she carried white carnations.

A breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Josephine Arel of 30 John street, to friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. LaVallee will reside at 92 South street.

A parade Thursday evening marked the opening of the St. Jean Baptiste Society carnival at the Al-Pierre Tabarin. Joseph P. Gaudreau was marshal, the parade moving down Valley, down Jackson, up Union and Main, up High and down Valley street, to the Tabarin. The formation follows: B. P. O. E. band, Charles N. C. Wheeler; Garde Sacred Heart, L'Union St. Jean Baptiste D'Amerique, Les Artisans, Foresters of America, San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus, members of St. Jean Baptiste society, Mayor Charles A. Gates and other city officials in automobiles. Clergymen of St. Mary's parish in automobiles. Upon arrival at the hall the opening address was delivered by Mayor Gates and the festivities were officially declared under way.

Valuables belonging to Mrs. Margolis who was instantly killed when the Boston Express struck the automobile in which she and members of her family were riding, at the Columbia Crossing of the New Haven railroad Monday afternoon, were not stolen, Chief of Police Allan MacArthur stated Thursday when asked about the report that valuables, including a diamond ring had been taken from the dead woman. His statement was corroborated by the railroad officers and Conductor Rascell of the express train that struck the Margolis car. Chief MacArthur was at the location of the accident within a few minutes after it occurred and he failed to see any jewelry on the body of Mrs. Ida Margolis. Two valises were turned over to Conductor Rosell for safe keeping and later in the day they were opened before witnesses. Carefully packed in each belongings were a diamond necklace, two diamond rings and other valuables which were turned over to relatives of the dead woman. Paul Margolis, who was most seriously injured in the accident, is improving, according to information received from the hospital Thursday afternoon.

Funeral services for Miss Cate J. Clark were held Thursday afternoon at two o'clock at 62 North street. Rev. Harry S. McCready officiated. Burial was in the Chaplin cemetery. The bearers were D. E. Clark, E. Boyce Loomis and J. Risser. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Mariette King, who died at her home, 90 High street, Wednesday afternoon, was born in Mansfield, January 16, 1849, a daughter of Alden and Nancy Holly Church. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Caroline Lawton of this city and Mrs. A. L. Bliss of Norwalk, a brother, Ralph Church, and a son, Lawrence King of this city.

John R. Haran and Miss Myrtle Weaver Lewis were married Monday morning at St. Joseph's R. C. church by Rev. O. S. Baumeister. The attendants were Miss Estelle Morin and Victor Morin of Putnam, cousins of the groom. Following a reception at the bride's home on Crescent street the couple left by motor to spend a honeymoon in the Berkshires. They will reside at 25 Bank street.

A belated return received Thursday at the office of the town clerk of Windham from the bureau of vital statistics, Hartford, announces the marriage of Clifford John Crawford of Westerly, R. I., 21, a salesman, and Miss Catherine Scholaska, 22, of Willimantic. The ceremony was performed in Hartford, Sept. 22.

At the last meeting of Willimantic lodge, No. 1371, B. P. O. E., held in Odd Fellows' hall, the sum of $100 was voted to the Visiting Nurses' association.

Archie Lessard of Willimantic, who is spending the fall in Hebron, lays claim to the record for coon hunting this fall to date. He captured a twenty-two pound coon at Devil's Ledge recently with Fred Smith's hound. So far he has captured twelve specimen's weighing in the aggregate 185 pounds.

Invitations have been received in this city to the wedding of Miss Bernice Adams of Glen Manor, Mass., and Warren Tenney, of Providence, October 27.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Lawrence Kolojuani was fined $200 and costs of $20 and sentenced to ten days in jail by Judge William H. Heald in the borough court Thursday morning. State Policeman Harmon accompanied by officers Hulbert and Hardisty of the local barracks and Deputy Sheriff Hayes, armed with a search waygant visited the home of Kolojuani Wednesday night and seized a five gallon still with cooler, three quarts of moonshine and paraphernalia used in the manufacture of liquor.

The accused was charged with manufacturing liquor for the purpose of sale and keeping with intent to sell. The fine and costs were paid but the jail sentence will have to be worked out.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Leach who recently returned from their wedding trip were given a reception by Baker and Wolcott chapters, Order of Eastern Star, Wednesday evening. The hall was decorated with autumn foliage and in the receiving line with the honor guests were officers of the local chapter, W. E. Heald, Anders Jacobsen, Mrs. John A. Foster and Mrs. Emily Burdick. Miss Elsie Teel played the piano and a victrola furnished music for dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Barber of New London have been visiting friends in town.

Charles E. Butterfield 67, died at his home on East Main Street, early Thursday morning. Mr. Butterfield had been in ill health for about two years but has been able to be out most of the time and last Friday rode through the Stafford fair grounds.

He was born in Staffordville and most of his life was spent in this town. For several years he was a railroad employe and later was engaged with his father in conducting a wood working mill and wood yard. For a number of years he had been janitor at the Congregational church.

Besides his widow Mrs. Annie Butterfield he is survived by a brother Frank J. Butterfield of Stafford Springs. He belonged to Orient Chapter of Masons and was a member of the Congregational church.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church has elected the following officers: President, Mrs. T. F. Muller; vice president, Mrs. E. C. De Borde; secretary and treasurer Mrs. C. B. Tashurman; solicitors Miss Linda Mitchell and Miss C. R. Newton; collectors, Miss M. E. Royce and Miss Grace Griffiths.

country of ours," he said. "I come here to offer my objections to this resolution because if you will read it, it is only for the protection of members of the American Legion . . . .

"We want to legislate for the good of the country and not the American Legion.

"I have sprung from that faith. In dense quarters of the globe criticised. I am a Catholic from Massachusetts, but I am first of all an American."

Delegate Johnson of South Carolina said that "for the first time in our lives we have heard the name of any denomination from the platform of the American Legion."

Delegate Good, of Massachusetts, a member of the resolutions committee that recommended the anti-klan resolution that finally was adopted (the "Michigan") resolution said that question was not a religious question but an American question.

The report of the resolutions committee, which was adopted, reads:

"We recommend the national convention of the legion urge the government of the United States to continue cordial relations with our former allies to the end that the sacrifices made by our comrades shall not have been in vain . . . .

"Whereas, especially since the World war, the American people are more than ever alive to the necessity of successfully curbing strife and hatred, the cause of war, by thoughtful arbitration of international disputes and,

"Whereas because of the participation of its members in the World war, it is the high purpose of the American Legion to concern itself in the promotion of peace and good will among men everywhere; therefore, be it,

"Resolved by the American Legion in 5th annual convention assembled, that we heartily commend the thoughtful consideration of peace and activity, urge the stimulation and development of worthy plans and means for permanent peace; and further, that while we do not commit ourselves to any particular partisan or political plan for world peace, that we do pledge ourselves to the continued support of any practicable and workable plans ending to promote permanent peace."

Another resolution called for the convention to confirm the action of the national executive committee, which, in session in Indianapolis January 15 approved the French occupation of the Ruhr.

A resolution asking that the convention use every possible means to obtain the enactment of legislation to retire Sergeant Samuel Woodfill, of Fort Thomas, Ky., a hero of the World war, as a captain, was unanimously adopted.

General Hunter Liggit of San Francisco, today, was elected president of the Association of the Army of the United States, meeting here in conjunction with the Legion convention.

Col. J. H. Van Horn, Albany, N. Y., was named first vice president.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Dark Lantern hill—Jonah of all the heavy grades in this part of the state kept up its reputation as a cause of accidents Thursday, when two more cars came to grief upon it, but, fortunately, the people in the cars escaped without serious injury. A Chandler touring car with a New Hampshire registration was the first to come to grief, losing some of its wheels as the machine went out of control and crashed off the road. This was a morning accident. In the early afternoon a Packard limousine owned by M. Fred Drew of Brockton and driven by Leona H. Blood of the same city overturned while going down the grade. None of the three persons in the car were injured but the machine was damaged to the extent of $100. State police officers checked up this accident.

In view of the long string of accidents that have occurred on this hill it might be pertinent to suggest this morning that a field hospital be established upon it, and it seems like a good business bet that a garage, especially fitted to handle wrecked machines, would do a land office business over there. Hardly a day goes by without a call coming through for the wrecker from a local garage to haul in some smashed machine. As the fall rears on and winter comes with storms and ice, conditions are going to be even more dangerous on Dark Lantern hill than they have been during the warmer periods of the year.

Frankly, the greater part of the danger in negotiating the hill is due to strange drivers not knowing it is at hand until they start plunging down it and to the fact that many drivers risk descending it at reckless speeds, as will be demonstrated to anyone who cares to go there and watch the traffic for half an hour. Warning signs are wanted there—and wanted badly. The signs will not check the reckless, perhaps, but they will be a measure of protection to those who do exercise care in the operation of their machines. State Officer Albert S. Fields in charge of the Danielson barracks suggested Thursday that the hill be sanded. This was done on Spalding hill in South Killingly, and is regarded as having greatly reduced the risk of travel there.

Though Dark Lantern hill has a sinister record of accidents it is insofar as its steepness and length are concerned no more dangerous than Hampton hill or Pomfret street hill. The suddenness of the approach to it after a long upgrade from South Killingly over a splendid road where most drivers are tempted to let their machines roll along at a fast clip is held to be chiefly accountable for many of the accidents that have occurred upon it.

Gasoline was being sold in Danielson Thursday as low as 19 cents a gallon, said to be the lowest price at which it has been retailed here for about eight years. The new price is a drop from a minimum of 21 cents that has been in force during the early fall, though some stations have been getting 22 cents. Needless to say the new low price is hailed with delight by motorists, the majority of whom never have purchased gasoline in all their driving experience for as little money as they are now required to pay.

Incidentally, the present price of gas is almost 100 per cent. under the peak price attained here in the period just following the war, when some stations charged as high as 37 cents per gallon. The new quotation, too, sets those with good memories to wondering what has become of the man who used to say with every assurance and with all prestige of a prophet—this three years ago—that gasoline "is going to 50 a gallon and I expect to see it touch $1.00 before it gets through climbing."

Well, that dire prophecy never came true, and there isn't any indication just now that it's going to in the very near future. It was even suggested Thursday that gas will drop still further unless the present cut stabilizes the market, which has been upset and irregular, on account of a tremendous surplus, for months past.

The first in a series of evangelistic meetings to extend through this week, all of next week and closing Sunday, October 28, was held Thursday evening, at the Church of the Nazarene on Academy street. Rev. John E. Hewson of Indianapolis, well known evangelist of the Methodist church, is to be the speaker at these services. He is being assisted by Rev. C. C. Rineharger of New Albany, Ind., who has charge of the singing and music. Rev. Mr. Rineberger is a soloist of great ability and his singing was one of the features at the Douglass camp meeting. Members of the church have invited the public to attend these services, opening each week day night at 7.30. The Sunday services are to be 10.45, 3.00 and 7.00 o'clock.

Two cases were disposed of at Thursday's session of the town court. Fred Phaneuf, bridegroom of eight months, was sent to jail for 60 days on a non-support charge. His wife informed court officials in touch with the case that he had spent $2300 of her money during their brief married life, purchase of an automobile figuring heavily in this disbursement.

Also before the court Thursday to answer to charges of intoxication and breach of the peace, was Harvey Baker, an elderly man living at Dayville. He was fined $2 on the first count and $3 on the second. Baker appeared in court with a badly blackened and swollen eye, the legacy of a blow dealt him by his son, he said, and an announcement that immediately claimed the attention of the court officers.

Wednesday evening the annual meeting of the People's Library association was held at the library. Reports for the year were made and matters of interest to the association discussed. Frederick A. Jacobs was re-elected president, W. Irving Bullard vice president and Clifford H. Starkweather secretary-treasurer. The board of directors is the same as during the past year.

Included in meetings of the week was that of the Danielson Building and Loan association, a monthly meeting. The association remains in splendid condition. It was stated Thursday that more applications for loans are on hand than there are funds to fill, so great has been the demand for money throughout the year. Another series of shares will be issued soon after the beginning of the new year, and if this series is heavily subscribed the association's income will be so materially increased that greater loans will be possible during the 1924.

Leaves fairly rained down from the trees in the borough during the northeast storm of Thursday and by nightfall trees were in many instances almost as bare as they will be in midwinter and lawns were blanketed with leaves. Incident to the coming down of the leaves attention is being called to the fact that it is unlawful to burn leaves on state highways, because of the damage such fires do to the road surfaces, largely treated with asphalt or other materials that contain carbonhydrates or volatile oils. Leaf fires are very hot and ashes from them hold heat for hours, damaging state road surfaces and eventually causing heavy repair bills for the state highway department. State police have instructions to prohibit the burning of leaves on state highways and persistency in attempting to do so may lead to arrest and prosecution under a statute providing against damage to state roads.

Gaston A. Maindon has not been noted as an expert at celery growing, but he is so skillful at this sort of gardening—home gardening—that an exhibit of his celery recently was awarded first premium at the fair in Stafford.

Members of the Roundabout club are to hold their first meeting of the fall seasno this (Friday) afternoon with Mrs. Orray Potter of Broad street. After a period of whist, there is to be a formal meeting of the club.

George O. Thomas and F. X. Lemieux, who is in his employ, have returned from a business trip in New York.

Eugene Reed, who recently underwent a surgical operation at a Hartford hospital, is visiting with his mother, Mrs. Frederick M. Reed of High street.

Wet leaves are adding to the worries of automobile drivers, for they are one of the things apt to cause a machine to skid.

Many citizens will improve the occasion to file their tax lists when the assessors are in session Saturday.

Henry C. Gerhardt of New Haven was a visitor with friends in Danielson Thursday.

Miss Elizabeth Dunn of the commercial department of the S. N. E. T. company here is away for a vacation period.

A considerable number of native turkeys will be available in the local market for the Thanksgiving holiday period.

PUTNAM

It will be a matter of regret that the proposed ceremony of dedicating a new bridge being built over Little river on the route out of this city to Pomfret will have to be foregone by Anselm Mayotte post, American legion, of this city on Armistice day, as the construction work will not be sufficiently advanced by that time, it was stated Thursday. Such a ceremony had been planned as a feature of the Armistice day observance by the local post. J. J. Whitehead has been named as chairman of the Armistice night dance committee.

In co-operation with the Windham County Farmers' association a series of meetings for locals of the New England Milk Producers' association in Windham county towns has been arranged. The first of these meetings in the one to be held at Woodstock next Monday evening. Tuesday there will be meetings of the locals in Scotland and Hampton; Wednesday of the locals in Brooklyn and Danielson, Thursday of the local in Pomfret, Friday of the local in Windham and Saturday of the local in Plainfield. These meetings will be of very special interest to the members of the N. E. M. P. A. in this county.

Christianity, The Church and Human Need will be the general subject for a series of sermons to be delivered by Rev. Simeon Cozad of the Congregational church of this city, the first of the series to be given next Sunday. The dates and topics for these sermons are as follows: October 21, The Church and the Community Oct. 28, The Church and the Christian; Nov. 4, The Christian and the Church; Nov. 11, The Christian and the Nation; Nov. 18, The Christian and the World; Nov. 25, The Christian and His Money; December 2, Broadcasting Love; December 9, The Rule of God and the Golden Rule.

The senior class of Tourtellotte High school, North Grosvenordale, is now engaged in worsing out a series of affairs to be given during the fall and winter months with a view to raising money to be used in defraying the expenses of the class trip to Washington, D. C., next Easter time. Such a trip for the senior class is an established custom at this high school, and the seniors plan for it, work for it and look forward to it during the greater part of their final year at high school work.

Adjutant R. Klepzig, Captain S. Pearcel and Envoy E. McCabe of the Hartford barracks of the Salvation Army were in this city Thursday evenings to assist at a special meeting conducted at the headquarters of the Salvation Army in this city. Salvationists working here have planned a fall and winter of much activity.

North Grosvenordale is another of the communities of the town of Thompson that finds itself in need of additional school facilities, and that the matter may be discussed citizens of North Grosvenordale are to meet with members of the town school committee on an evening next week. Additional rooms are required at North Grosvenordale to accommodate the pupils of the district

Ernest B. Keint, Arthur Tourtellotte and Hector Duvert, members of the board of assessors for the town of Putnam, are going to devote the coming week and in fact all the period up to the first month receiving lists of taxable property.

Putnam purveyors of gasoline to the consumer were not so prompt in reducing their retail prices Thursday as some of the motorists thought should be the case after reading in the morning papers of cuts of two and three cents per gallon by producing companies, these prices quickly reflected in other towns in this section of the state. However price cuts came here during Thursday, so the buyers were feeling more cheerful about the matter later in the day.

Wednesday night gasoline was selling at 22 and 23 cents a gallon at filling stations in Putnam, whereas in an adjoining town the price had been cut to a minimum of 19 cents.

In the announced public sale of the mills and machinery of the Nightingale-Morse company, scheduled for an early date, observers here see a possibility of the mills passing into some ownership likely to arrange for operating the plants again.

At this time who may get the mills appears to be a matter merely of conjecture, but it is pointed out that Kit is not reasonable to suppose that two such valuable plants will be taken over by anyone unless with a view to operating them in some line of textile endeavor.

One of the mills to be sold—The Powhattan is a 5-story brick structure, 191 by 68 feet, with a picker house addition, boiler and engine house and other structures required in conducting a textile business.

These plants are to be sold with the privilege of taking a million gallons of water daily for power purposes from the Quinebaug river.

Machinery of the plants is also to go under the auctioneer's hammer. The machinery has been divided into nearly 2,000 lots and will be sold with the plants or separately, it is understood.

The Nightingale-Morse mills have been a great pillar of industry in Putnam for many years and the fact that they are now passing through a sale process is of very great interest here, especially because the sales very likely will result in Putnam getting one or two new manufacturing companies.

The second anniversary of the Putnam Manufacturing company Social club will be observed by the members Saturday evening at their club rooms on Church street. At the gathering the new officers will be installed. Frederick Bousquet is the president, Alexis Bibeault, the vice president, Paul Dufault the financial secretary, Frederick LaBonte the recording secretary and Louis H. Mathieu the treasurer. The club has a membership of 50. A program of entertainment has been arranged for Saturday evening and refreshments are to be served.

Following are the newly elected officers of the Drop In class of the Congregational church: President, Miss Josie Grosvenor; vice president, Mrs. Mary E. Bishop; secretary, Miss Warren; treasurer, Mrs. George Harrington. Miss Elizabeth Clark was named as teacher.

Having finished picking his apples at Pomfret, Fayette L. Wright with members of his household is now en route to Clearwater, Fla., where he has orange groves and where he will engage in picking that variety of fruit soon after the first of the coming month. The party is traveling south by automobile and will reach their destination in about ten days. With Mr. Wright is his wife and daughter and his son and son's wife.

The local League of Women held a meeting at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday afternoon, this being the fiirst meeting of the organization during the fall season.

Thursday counted largely as a lost day for those who are engaged in erecting new business blocks in Putnam and are hurrying to get them closed in before real cold weather comes in order that work may proceed on the interiors during the winter season.

On account of the use of the underpass at South Main street as a part of a detour the place has become more than ordinarily dangerous, because of the heavy increase in traffic.

Many members of the Arcanum club are planning to be on hand for the annual coon hunt of the organization, scheduled to be held Saturday evening of next week, in one of the outlying sections of the county.

A prisoner arrested by the state police for shooting at roosters in the town of Woodstock was being held at the police station here during Thursday. While this is the open season for game birds, it is not for roosters.

Angelo Alfira, driver of the auto-truck of the American Waste and Metal company of Norwich, was presented before Judge William A. Wilcox in Stonington town court in Borough hall Thursday morning, charged on two counts, with violation of the Connecticut automobile laws. The first count was the driving of a truck without obtaining an operator's license and the second that of operating a truck without designating numbers as to weight, carrying capacity and speed. It happened as State Policeman Carson was conducting an examination, a truck passed him on which the required figures were not seen. Close examination showed that numbers had originally been on the vehicle which had later been painted out but as the law required the numbers to be plainly legible it was apparent that the law had not been complied with. Upon request of the state police for the driver's license, the reply was given that they had been left in another car but the required papers were not produced in Stonington town court Thursday morning. The accused was found guilty on the two counts and centenced to pay a fine of $3 on the first and $25 on the second with costs amounting in all to $41.53 which was paid. This was the only case to come before the Thursday morning session of court.

The Melrose electric plant of the Narragansett Electric Lighting company was formally opened in Elmwood district, Providence, Wednesday evening with more than 900 of its directors and employes in attendance, representing in this section the Mystic Power Co. and the Westerly Light and Power Co. The program consisted of the 17 acre plant, introductory remarks by officials, entertainment and dance. Present from Westerly and Mystic were Mrs. Isabelle Joy, Misses Florence Vennard, Louise Carr, Irene Brainard, Irene McKnight, Dorothy Krebs and Annie Packer, George Marr, George Mitchell, John Gilkinson, Walter Kennan, John Smith, Louis Crandall, Dominic Italiano, Arthur O'Neill, William Crockett, Gilbert James, Thomas James, Elmer Sherman, William Keenan, Henry Rossi, Russell Sparks, Warren Chapman, John Burdick and William Clendennon, making the trip to Providence by automobile.

About six o'clock Thursday morning, the Westerly fire alarm was rung from box 52, corner of Main and Union street for a fire in the coal bin partition of the storage bins of the Westerly Textile company on Main street. A quick response by the Westerly fire department prevented the spread of flames and the damage done was of small amount. Considerable trouble has been experienced recently with the soft coal in the textile company's bins which has frequently become ignited during the past few weeks.

Music was furnished by the Crandall and Sutcliff orchestra. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Doris Eldridge, David Lowry and Earle Saunders.

Postmaster Thomas J. Lannihan and John H. McGuire of the Westerly post office returned to Westerly Wednesday night from the Massachusetts and Rhode Island Postal conference held in Boston.

The Westerly police received a telephone message late Wednesday night that a fleet of seven automobiles had stopped on the outskirts of Wakefield, R. I. under what was thought to be suspicious circumstances and urged that it be stopped for investigation at Westerly. Sergeant Donald Ferguson and Patrolman George Champlin first held up an automobile belonging to a Mystic young man accompanied by a young lady, much to the young man's surprise and he was allowed to proceed. It was not long before the automobile caravan made its appearance and the drivers were questioned. It proved to be the property of a New York dealer who had picked up the autos from Woonsocket and Providence dealers and they were being driven through to New York. A proper bill of sale produced was the passport necessary.

John C. Stanton of Westerly was a business caller in Providence Thursday.

Rev. A. E. Witter of Berlin, N. Y., was in Westerly Wednesday attending the session of the Seventh Day Baptist Missionary society.

Miss Mildred Higginbotham, formerly of Westerly, having returned from an automobile trip through the Middle and East Central states; is the guest of relatives and friends on the West Side.

Henry Hanrihan of Boston was a business visitor in Westerly Thursday.

That the deepening of the Pawcatuck river channel to eleven feet for a six-mile stretch, from Westerly is an assured fact, became known Thursday, when it was announced that under the supervision of the United States engineering office in Providence, the contract has been let to the Bay State Dredging Contracting company of Boston.

Following numerous surveys and borings made by the federal engineers, which have seemed almost endless, the next few days will witness the inauguration of "making the dirt fly" or more exactly speaking the "mud spatter," for the channel is to be kept at a depth of 11 feet. River bottom amounting to 62,500 cubic yards is to be removed. The channel when completed will be 100 feet wide for the entire length. By the terms of the contract entered into, the contractors are to receive 53 cents for each cubic yard of bottom removed and this must be taken out at an average of 10,000 cubic yards a month. The cost of the work will be $27,280.

The Westerly Board of Trade activities for the deeper Pawcatuck river channel improvement project began at a meeting of the board, held December 1, 1911. It was voted that immediate steps be taken to improve navigation conditions in the Pawcatuck river and Little Narragansett bay. A committee was appointed to gather information and to take such steps as would accomplish this purpose. The committee got in touch with the United States engineering office in New London and it was found that the channel from Stonington to the entrance to the docks at Westerly was supposed to be 100 feet wide and 10 feet deep, at low water, and from the entrance to the docks to the head of navigation 40 feet wide and 10 feet deep. As a representative of the people in this section at the national government, the Westerly Board of Trade appealed to the congressional delegation to secure a survey of this waterway with the idea of improving the channel and making it possible for the town of Westerly and the town of Stonington to benefit by better water freight rates and accommodations than existed and to safeguard such vessels as navigated the waters.

PLAINFIELD

At the Methodist Episcopal church at Canterbury Green, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock Miss Anna Marie Grab was united in marriage with Benjamin Tanner Burdeck of Plainfield. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William C. Prentiss, pastor of the First Congregational church of Plainfield. The organist, Mrs. Emma Bushnell played the wedding march Lohengren, as the bridal party entered the church.

The bride wore an attractive gown of Alice blue and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid, Miss Hilda Grab, sister of the bride, white carnations. The best man was William Veit. After the ceremony breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Grab, after which Mr. Burdeck and his bride left by automobile for the Plainfield station where they took the train for New York. The wedding trip will take Mr. and Mrs. Burdeck to Elmhurst, N. Y. When they return they will reside with the bride's parents in Canterbury. Mr. Burdeck resuming his position in the Arthur C. Tillinghast store.

The famous little bird meeting house at the junction of Plainfield and Railroad streets has received a new coat of paint. This unique little structure has attracted much attention during the summer is built an exact model of the stone church on the hill and is the work of H. H. Holloway.

THE HOSPITAL APPEAL.

Communitywise and individually Norwich is seriously concerned in the appeal which is being made for "$250,000 and more" for the Backus hospital which is formally opened today.

Here is an institution that has been doing valiant service beyond its means and where a judgment of endowment cannot continue without seriously affecting the service to the community.

Here is an institution that spent $42,225 over and above the income from the patients in charge for the sick and injured in this city and vicinity last year.

Here is a hospital that has made no previous public appeal for maintenance of this important work, or the protection of such a vital community asset.

Here is a public institution serving a territory whose good people which has an unanswerable provision as to housing adequately for the nurses and those training to become nurses.

Crippled as an institution that is too small by a half because of economic conditions, and handicapped by the lack of a proper nurses' home, how for whose benefit the hospital visitors are being urged to provide the funds for lessening the financial drain and meeting the needs for equipment, that will place it on that basis of efficiency with the best community service demands.

Facts and figures presented make certain that the appeal is well founded. A bit of thinking home brings the realization that no growing community can afford to allow its hospital service to retrograde.

Faced with the existing situation, Norwich and surrounding towns must get for self preservation. With a generous community response on behalf of a general community need the goal will be reached. But it is a case in which the many, not the few, should show their civic pride and push the appeal far over the top.

AUTOS AND BICYCLES.

Attention has been directed in Providence to the number of automobile accidents that have occurred in that city in which bicyclists have figured. Children riding on much used streets invite dangers that are alarming.

There can be no justification for thinking that the autoist has a right to hog the road. He has no greater rights there than other users of the highway, and he is in no way relieved of the responsibility of respecting the rights of others. For the most part the auto drivers are fully conscious of such a fact, but even that doesn't relieve the danger that surrounds the children who ride bicycles in much used streets unless they are fully cognizant of their situation and do their utmost to protect themselves.

Because there is little or no telling what they are going to do without warning, autoists approach children riding bicycles with fear and trembling. If there was a certainty that they were going to stuck to their course, to go forward instead of playfully wobbling along the roadway it would be possible to give them plenty of room in passing and less accidents of the kind referred to would happen. Accidents are not the result of failure to give the bicyclist his part of the highway so much as they are the outcome of suddenly placing the autoist in a situation from which he cannot extricate himself.

Auto drivers are gripped with fear that children on bicycles will fall off their wheels into the path of the machines, much the same as adults as well as children dodge out into the street without looking to see what is coming or step in front of autos from a back of standing vehicles.

There is thus excellent reason for emphasizing the fact that the riding of bicycles on much used streets involves danger, and that those doing so should be made to fully understand the situation and the part which they should play in insuring their own protection.

THE OGLETHORNE DECISION.

Heed has been given to the protests against the proposed removal of the bones of General Oglethorpe and his wife to Georgia. The plan encountered opposition not only in England but in the state of Georgia, in which General Oglethorpe rendered such conspicuous service and where his work is not likely to be forgotten.

It was not because Georgia desired to do more than seems to have been done to perpetuate his memory that opposition was raised. It was because of the feeling that it could be done without the disturbance of the bones, which act was looked upon as not showing the proper respect for the dead.

Let Georgia go as far as it desires in memorializing its founder. That can be done as effectively as if his bones actually rested in Georgian soil. It is a worthy undertaking, that will gain support from without as well as from within the state. But when it comes to disinterring the remains from elsewhere [illegible] that artists to such a practice under such conditions.

But more than the adequate memorialization of General Oglethorpe in Georgia seems likely to be the outcome of the effort to bring his bones to this country. Many years have passed since this well known Englishman exerted his influence in the south and it is found that his burial place in England is not properly designated. Nothing is more fitting under such circumstances than that the Georgians should undertake this work and there can be certainty felt that henceforth there will be no difficulty in locating the resting place of this man to whom Georgia owes so much.

The decision not to allow the bones to be brought here must be regarded as a wise one, and it is to be hoped that it will be accepted as the rule to be followed in connection with other movements of the kind. Even the English must appreciate the interest that still surrounds the good work done by one of their number long years ago.

COAL HAULING RATES

This part of the country is interested in the outcome of the discussion that has been set in motion by President Coolidge as the result of his conference with President Rea of the Pennsylvania road concerning the question of rates on coal.

It was at this meeting that the president called attention to the fact that coal for export, including the coal that goes to Canada, was being transported at lower rates than coal destined for New England or intended for domestic consumption.

There has been talk about checking the amount of coal going to Canada, but there appears to be no sound basis for that. When it is asserted that Canadian bound coal is transported at a less rate than coal to points in this country it is time to at least get an explanation for it.

If the millions of tons of coal that go to Canada can be transported at a profit, it is not surprising that it should be felt that the same benefit should accrue to American consumers. Directing attention to the lower Canadian rate isn't for the purpose of having the Canadian rate increased. It is based upon the reasoning that the Canadian tonnage is not being carried at a loss, and therefore it would not impose a loss upon the roads if they put down the rate of hauling domestic coal to the same figure.

Just how the railroads can justify the charging of a higher rate for hauling coal for domestic consumption than they do for carrying coal that is to go abroad will be interesting reading if they undertake any such claim.

SERVING ALASKA.

Building a railroad into the wilds of Alaska is not all that is involved in the way of expense when we are informed that over a stretch of 100 miles of that line there have been serious washouts. The repairing of this damage must come under the head of maintenance, but it indicates the expense that seems likely to be involved in connection with that piece of government railroad.

The Alaskan road is built through a great scenic country. It is built along streams that may be a brooklet today and a raging torrent tomorrow. It is subject to the whims of the glaciers which are to be found in that region. They may pour forth a steady stream to feed the rivers or they may let loose great floods without warning which are bound to have their effects upon railroad fills which happen to be along the riverbanks.

Engineers fully understood these conditions but there was nothing else to do. It was a case of making the most of the situation in the territory that was being crossed by the iron horse. When the glaciers "behave" their good behavior all is fine; when they are on the rampage trouble can be expected. And this doesn't decrease the difficulties of maintaining a railroad under such conditions.

Railroads have their troubles and even those operated by the government are not immune. Dividends are not being sought by the government in the operation of this line. The benefits that go with railroad service is what has been aimed at in Alaska and the development of the territory through such assistance will be carried on even though it is sure to be expensive.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

France hasn't much sympathy for Germany, and it cannot be blamed very much.

The man on the corner says: Are you buying your gasoline supply for next summer?

Some people anticipate a cold winter because of the fact that thieves are stealing furs.

Alfalfa is reported nearly normal. Well it is refreshing to see something getting back there.

The unemployed in France number less than 2000. That should be enough to set the Germans to work.

If it is necessary this early to warn landlords to provide heat, what can be expected before the winter is over?

Parking places become more and more scarce every day. Only a small part of the city streets are available for traffic.

Not everyone who brags about an idle furnace lacks his winter's supply of coal. Many have been driven into being conservationists.

It is reported from Utah by Explorer MacMillan that winter is closing in. Now and then there is evidence of it hereabouts.

There is talk about America helping Europe, and yet figures for 1922 show that American tourists alone left $856,000,000 over there.

What happens when weather seers disagree? One down in Pennsylvania declares it is to be a winter of thunder showers and warm rains.

There are landscape pictures to be seen these days which are to be found at no other season. They command study and admiration like other works of nature.

Eight in an auto were killed on an Ohio grade crossing. Nine was the total in Indiana a few days later. Is there such rivalry that human life gets no consideration?

MYSTERIOUS ADMIRER

"I met a lot of people last summer up at the hotel," declared the shy young man. "Some of them were very pleasant and some weren't."

"I've been places like that," said the girl with a laugh. "It sometimes happens the persons one meets are nice and sometimes they are not."

"I think you are making a hit in fun of me," sighed the young man. "But anyhow, there was one chap there who thought an awful lot of you."

"That was very good of him," said the girl.

"You know perfectly well that everybody who knows you thinks you are nice," said the young man.

"I am grateful for that, too," said the girl. "Were there other nice people up there?"

"I didn't say this fellow was nice," said the young man. "Yes, the others were all right, I suppose. This fellow I was telling you about didn't care much about any of the lot, though."

"I contend," said the girl firmly, "that any man who cannot find some pleasant people in a crowd like that is snippy, and that's all there is to it. Some girl there ought to have given him a real good lesson and taken him down a bit."

"When you don't care a whoop about people they can't take you down," said the young man, with decision.

"He must be terribly conceited."

"I always get lost when I begin to argue with you."

"I am not arguing. I am just stating a fact."

"In doing so, you are losing sight of the young man I was telling you about."

"Young man? What young man? And who is he, pray?"

"I have quite better, myself."

"Isn't that just like a man! You say that we girls never say anything good about other girls, and yet, when you get the chance to say pleasant things about a man friend you slam him. Are you going to Letty's dance, Thursday?"

"If you'll let me take you."

"Letty's dances are always first rate fun," said the girl. "I'll be glad to go with you."

"Splendid!" said the shy young man. "I hope we'll have a pleasant evening, don't you?"

"Yes, indeed," said the girl. "I don't like going to parties in the rain. Didn't I interrupt you when you were telling me about your friend?"

"Oh!" cried the young man quickly. "You want to hear about him, after all, do you?"

"Only if you'll tell me who he is," declared the girl; "Otherwise it's like hearing a compliment from a ghost or something."

"If told the strict truth," sighed the shy young man, "I think I'd say he is a dub but, honest to goodness, he thinks you are the very nicest girl who ever drew the breath of life. He thinks you are the prettiest——"

"Oh spare me, please," laughed the girl. "I want to hear about the man, not about myself."

"Oh, I suppose so! You have heard how lovely you are from so many fellows that it is an old story."

"I want to hear about this friend of yours. What does he look like?"

"He's tall," began the shy young man, "and he has a cowlick."

"For goodness sake!" laughed the girl. "You certainly are generous! All you can say in praise of a man is that he is tall and has hair that sticks up! I never in my life heard of such a thing as that! I suppose if you won't tell me decently what he looks like I'll have to ask you point-blank who he is."

"Do you think you really want to know?" asked the shy young man. "Or are you just joshing me again?"

"I don't see how I could be 'joshing you,' as you call it," said the girl with dignity. "It can't make very much difference to you whether or not I am pleased at what your mysterious friend thinks of me, so why get cross?"

"Honest, I'm not the least bit cross," cried the shy young man. "You see, this fellow who thinks you're so great you know, who knows you're the best ever, well, it's only me, that's all."—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A New Sermon from the Mount

Mr. Editor: Perhaps one who has no public hearing may be excused for using your audience in airing an important religious question; especially as no one else assumes the responsibility. My subject relates to a new translation of the New Testament.

The new translation of the New Testament, by Prof. E. G. Goodspeed of the University of Chicago, has attracted wide comment. A special dispatch from Chicago to the New York Herald said:

The Sermon on the Mount has been improved. So far Lincoln's Gettysburg Address has not been brought up to date, but there is a chance for it when Prof. Edgar G. Goodspeed of the University of Chicago gets the time. He has just finished a new, up-to-date, Chicagoese translation of the New Testament, and this is what he has done to the Sermon on the Mount, which nearly everybody had believed to be perfect. Only the more striking changes from the original are quoted herewith:

The New Sermon

Blessed are they who feel their spiritual need, for the kingdom of heaven belongs to them.

Blessed are the mourners, for they will be consoled.

Blessed are the humble minded, for they will posses the land.

Blessed the they who are hungry and thirsty for uprightness, for they will be satisfied.

Blessed are the merciful, for they will be shown mercy.

Blessed are the pure in heart, for they will see God.

Blessed are the peacemakers, for they will be called God's sons.

Blessed are they who have endured persecutions for their uprightness, for the kingdom of heaven belongs to them.

Blessed are you when people abuse you, and persecute you, and falsely say everything bad of you on my account. Be glad and exult over it, for you will be richly rewarded in heaven, for that is the way they persecuted the prophets who went before you.

In this brief sample of an important passage of scripture—even a superficial reader can see that the language of the beatitudes is impoverished and loses that pith and substance which is to be found in the authorized versions and loses that felicity of expression which is properly conveyed in the name "beatitude." With all due respect to the learned professor's work, a simple analysis is in order.

The accepted versions give us, "Blessed are the poor in spirit for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." Professor Goodspeed attempts an interpretation, attaching his meaning thus, "Blessed are they who feel their spiritual need, for the kingdom of heaven belong to them." No such thing—except prospectively—is intimated in the text. Strictly speaking they who feel their spiritual need, belong to the kingdom of heaven, and are candidates for its possession. In his way Prof. Goodspeed semes to lose his speed in the economy of words for he uses sixteen to accomplish his alteration where the accepted revision arrives at a better conclusion using only thirteen words.

Of course no one needs to be told that our Lord did not use the English language in delivering His address, but we are supposed to have a very correct translation from the Greek—neither being the tongue in which these beatitudes were spoken. In the next six, the professor contents himself by changing the words "shall" to "will."

It may seem presumptuous for a layman to raise a grammatical criticism but even laymen have access to the decisions of the grammarian. Now we all know that acute grammarians lay particular stress on the use of the words "shall" and "will." They tell us that the word "shall" is imperative, while the word "will" is in a sense conditional. For example in the sentence, "Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted." There is an assurance of comfort. But in the sentence of Prof. Goodspeed, "Blessed are the mourners for they will be comforted," the consolation is more objective, conveying the idea that they who mourn will to be consoled, which is a different idea altogether. The word will here instead of shall rather emasculates the language.

The remaining beatitudes are each open to criciam, but it would occupy too much space to follow them up here.

The subject would make profitable study for a Bible class and we leave it with this suggestion.

JOHN TROLAND.

Today's Birthdays

Brig. Gen. William H. Johnston, U. S. A., who commanded the 91st Division in France born in Cincinnati, 62 years ago today.

William H. Burns, chief of the United States Secret Service, born in Baltimore, 62 years ago today.

Oscar Hallam, former Minnesota supreme court judge and recent candidate for U. S. senatorial nomination, born at Linden, Wis., 68 years ago today.

Nannie Hurst, well-known author and playwright, born in St. Louis, 34 years ago today.

Dr. John H. Finley, noted educator and editor, born at Grand Ridge, Ill., 60 years ago today.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

William H. McMaster, who has announced his candidacy for United States senator on the Republican ticket in South Dakota, is the present governor of that state, and as such he attracted country-wide attention recently by inaugurating a war against the big oil companies because of the high price of gasoline. Born of humble parentage in a small town in Iowa, Governor McMaster reached the chief magistracy of his adopted State by the unusual route of baseball and banking. Thrown on his own resources at an early age, he worked his way through school and college, earning a considerable part of his expense money by his ability as a baseball player. After completing his studies it took him just two years to learn the technique of country banking, so that at an age when most young men are just starting on their carreers he was enabled to set himself up in the banking business in a small way. By 1910 he ownod four rurll banks and in the same year he started his public career as a member of the legislature. Two terms as lieutenant governor were followed in 1920 by his election to the governorship.

Stories That Recall Others

She Was Furious

Doris, two years old, became so enthusiastic about some food served at the noonday meal that she stood up in her chair. Censured by her father the little girl was admonished to sit down.

"I can't," she cried, "I'm mad, now!"

What Thoughts Will Do

A lawyer went into a nearby office the other day and lingered and loafed, and loafed and lingered. Finally he said: "I'm usually at home at this time of day but it happens that my wife isn't speaking to me and—"

His friend's surprise made him give the reason. "You see, it was this way," he explained. "Our little girl found an old album that belonged to her mother. It was filled with my in-law pictures. The youngster began to show them to me and said: 'Daddy, I fink dese folks look like dey ought to be in the penitentiary.'

"I just said, 'I think they do, too.' My wife heard me and the rest followed."

Every woman knows that her husband has aults, but she won't admit it to other women.

THE WORLD AS IT GOES

The world as it goes—and that's the best way;
With God's arms around it, it can't go astray;
The sunlight above it, the meadows below—
It's a sweet world of glory—and so let it go!

Ah, it rolls through the shadow toward the bright sun—
With God's arms around it, the goal shall be won
The bright stars to deck it when day dies in night—
It's a sweet world of beauty—and God gives it light.

The world as it goes—and that's the fine thing,
With a heart that can follow the furrow and sing;
The seasons all lovely, and best thing of all,
God's arms around it—and how can it fall!

| Tosca—E lucevan le stelle (The Stars Were Shining) In Italian (Puccini) | Beniamino Gigli | | 942 | $1.50 |
| Tosca—O dolci mani (Oh, Gentle Hands) (Puccini) | Beniamino Gigli | | | |

Two numbers of intense and thrilling beauty. The first depicting a few moments of bad, sweet love-memory. Then in the second number, a few moments of false hope.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| The Juggler (Moszkowski) Piano Solo | Sergei Rachmaninoff | | 943 | 1.50 |
| Etude in F Minor (Dohnanyi) Piano Solo | Sergei Rachmaninoff | | | |

In this remarkable piano record, hear Moszkowski's "Juggler" throw silver balls in the air, and finish off with a whirl. Then hear the subtle and tremendously difficult Etude of Ernst Dohnanyi. Both played with splendid virile power.

Light Vocal Selections

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Honey, Dat's All | Olive Kline | | 45367 | 1.00 |
| Laddie o' Mine | Lucy Isabelle Marsh | | | |

Two songs for the heart of Woman, however mute and however deeply hidden. "Honey, Dat's All" has wonderfully soft, smooth cadences. "Laddie o' Mine" is in waltz time. Both songs have orchestral interludes.

learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy. His prescription is HEM-ROID, a tablet medicine, taken internally, that is now sold by druggists generally. ### OBITUARY

John H. Ford.

John H. Ford, prominent ice dealer in Norwich for over 40 years, died Thursday morning at his home at East Great Plain. He had been in poor health for nearly 10 years, but had been seriously ill only a week.

Mr. Ford was born in Norwich, Nov. 13, 1858, the son of Sherwood H., and Martha M. Burke Ford. His early education was received in the schools of Norwich but during the days of the Civil war his parents moved to Providence. His father was a government engineer and during the war, while in the performance of his duties, he was taken prisoner and contracted typhoid fever from which he died.

Following her husband's death Mrs. Ford returned to Norwich. Mr. Ford was then 14 years of age and completing his education in Norwich he entered the employ of Palmer's grocery store on West Main street. He afterwards was employed at the market of William J. Merrill. In 1874 he entered partnership in Comstock's market under the name of Ford & Comstock. This concern continued in business a number of years after which Mr. Ford entered a partnership with Elihu Frazier in the ice business.

In 1882 Mr. Ford took over the entire interests in the ice business, having conducted it under his own name since that time. His watershed covers about 25 acres. Mr. Ford conducted both a retail and wholesale business and disposed of 12,000 tons of ice a year. In 1916 Mr. Ford took into partnership his son, Harry Billings Ford, but there was no change in the name of the business. About five years ago the business was expanded to include a general trucking and wood business.

In Norwich, Dec. 9, 1874, Mr. Ford was united in marriage with Miss L. Alice Maples, daughter of John Maples. Mr. and Mrs. Ford had but one child. For many years they have made their home at East Great Plain. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ford joined the Central Baptist church membership and took much interest in the welfare of the church. He was a member of the City Bible Class of the Central Baptist church.

He was a member of the Arcanum club, of the Citizens' Corps, G. A. R., a past vice president of the Connecticut Ice Dealers' association, a member of the National Ice Association of America and an agent of the Connecticut Humane Society. Surviving are his wife and only son.

In his long business life and social relations in this city he had been held in sincere esteem. He was a true friend, generous and large-hearted, and he made Christian principles the guide of his life, leaving a wide circle of friends who will feel a sense of real loss in his passing away.

Mrs. Charles F. Setchel

The death of Hannah Starkweather, wife of the late Charles F. Setchel, occurred Tuesday in Denver where her home had been for over thirty years since she and her husband removed there from this city. She was in her 91st year. Mr. Setchel's death occurred in Denver on Nov. 4, 1921.

Mrs. Setchel was a native of this city and was a sister of Congressman H. H. Starkweather, who was the Norwich postmaster during part of the administration of President Lincoln and during the administration of President Johnson. She was married in Norwich, Oct. 14, 1856, to Charles F. Setchel and they celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary in Denver, not quite a month before his death. Both Mr. and Mrs. Setchel were members of the Central Baptist church during their residence here.

She is survived by three sons and a daughter, Charles J. Setchel of Denver, John C. Setchel of Rochester, N. Y., Henry L. Setchel of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Eliza Setchel Barnes of this city. She also leaves three granddaughters.

FUNERAL.

Samuel Cohen

Many relatives and friends of Samuel Cohen of New York, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wolf Blinderman of 37 Thames street on Tuesday attended the burial services at Mt. Zion cemetery at Long Island City, L. I., on Wednesday. There was a service at the grave at which were present many delegations from the various fraternal orders of which Mr. Cohen had been a member.

The life of Mr. Cohen came to a peaceful close early Tuesday morning while he was visiting his daughter. He was a man well known in New York, being an officer of many of the Hebrew fraternal and charitable organizations in that city. He had been a resident of New York for over thirty years, having conducted a large meat business there for a number of years. Besides his daughter, Mrs. Wolf Blinderman, of this city, he leaves five other daughters and one son, all of New York, and 23 grandchildren.

Showers put an end to the moonlight coon hunting trips of the county sportsmen.

TELLS POMONA GRANGERS TO DEVELOP BEST IN MANHOOD AND WOMANHOOD

A. P. Hitchcock of New Lebanon, N. Y., a former editor of The Bulletin, delivered a straight-from-the-shoulder talk to the meeting of New London county Pomona, No. 6, Patrons of Husbandry, at its meeting Thursday at Ledyard in the new hall of Ledyard grange, where he vigofously called upon the Grangers to make one of their ideals the cultivation among themselves of the higher and better manhood and womanhood and not which he professed but little admiration.

Mr. Hitchcock spoke at the lecturer's hour in the afternoon before an audience of about 100 who gave him a rising vote of thanks and three cheers for his inspiring talk upon The Seven Windows of the Grange. He was introduced by lecturer, Mrs. R. J. Whitman, who was in charge of the programme.

The old question about a man, said Mr. Hitchcock was "Where does he stand?" Now we don't care where he stands. We want to know where he is going. The first window of the grange should look out upon the country, not upon any road leading to any city. Too many are looking twards the city. Why should we Grangers, born to better things ape the fads and follies of the city? Where can you see better faces, or better characters behind the faces, than in this audience right before me? Let the city imitate us if it will, it might have a poorer pattern.

The second window looks deliberately purposely backward. The word of the age is progress, but all movement is not progress. The world, or a good part of it, is fast moving towards Niagara Falls. There are some things in the past that we have been fools to grow out of. Our ancestors had honesty—well course not, all of them for there have been scalawags ever since the first scalawag crawled into Eden—but show me today the man who packs his barrel of apples, middle, top and bottom all the same. Our ancestors on the farm had foresight, they had to have it, but today it is rare to meet the farmer who can, think from one end of the week to the other. We are too willing to let others think for us. They had stick-to-it-tiveness. The men who can do one thing at a time and do it well are scarce, and the man who can do two things at a time and do them well hasn't been created. Neighborliness is another thing to look back to, not the neighborliness of the sewing society style, ready to pick flaws, but the beautiful, human style, ready to help when help is needed and without being asked. These are some things worth looking back to.

Another window looks out upon thrift. Thrift is not stinginess, miserliness. It involves spending just as much as saving money, the intelligent use of the smaller things towards the accumulation of the greater. The old notion that the farmer needs a fire or an auction every so often to get rid of the little things that accumulate is the exact opposite of the idea of thrift.

A fourth window looks out upon the growing need of farm independence, the speaker said. He gave the example of a Shaker community that was so completely independent that it didn't buy $100 worth of materials in a year, raising practically everything for food, clothes, boots and hats. Today what is there about the farmer, except his appetite, that is really his. He doesn't meet his own needs where he might well do so because it is too much trouble. There is nothing worth having that is not trouble to get, and if you dodge the trouble some one else will take it for you, but you will pay him for doing so, and pay with a profit. As an example of this point, Mr. Hitchcock asked why the New England farmer today, who might raise the cracked corn for his chicken feed, was paying for Illinois cracked corn, that had in it the cost of the speculator's profit, railroad dividends, high railroad wages, and retailors' profit.

A fifth window is cooperation, which doesn't mean all grab but much of give. It consists just as much in service to others as in asking service from them. Mr. Hitchcock spoke of his own experience of eight years as purchasing agent for a cooperative plan, in which everybody saved money but himself, and it came to a wreck because of "individual whims that couldn't cooperate. At the end of the sixth year it showed it had saved 18 cents on the dollar on purchases of $500 a month, but in the whole 60 families included in the plan there were just two cooperators. The rest were just plain two-legged hogs.

There can be cooperation in farm labor, one helping another in plowing, planting and harvesting. In places it is practicable, because in places it is done.

The salvation of New England farms lies in intensive tillage, making every inch that you cultivate sweat pennies and dimes for your pocket. A little farm well tilled is worth more than a big farm poorly tilled, he declared, and as an example he stated his experience in producing ten times more from 7 1-2 acres, intensively tilled, than from a whole farm of 100 acres that he could not take care of.

Finally, the speaker said that the Grangers should cultivate among themselves the higher and better manhood and womanhood. New York is the most un-American and anti-American place in the country. Three out of every four people were not born in this country. The big cities get the outcasts that Europe gets rid of by sending them over here, and the tendency of the big-city man is towards greed, selfishness, everything non-altruistic, self-absorbed sponges soaking up all they can get out of their surroundings. The Grange should establish standards outside of these un-American conditions of manhood and womanhood.

Mr. Hitchcock painted a glowing picture of the beauties of nature, especially at this time of the year of glorious autumn foliage, and asked his hearers why we shouldn't absorb some of this beauty into our own souls. The cities haven't the country's advantages of fresh air, pure water nad beautiful surroundings. Why can't the grange lay the heft on making its people appreciate their advantages and fit their characters into their royal surroundings?

State Lecturer C. A. Wheeler from Storrs led the Grange songs which opened the afternoon meeting and there were solos by Mrs. J. H. Thompson of Groton, Byron Kinney of Pachaug and a duet by Mr. and Mrs. George A. Montgomery of Ledyard.

Following the address of the afternoon, there was an interesting report on the New England lecturers' conference at Amherst by Mrs. R. Ethel Krug of Pachaug and another feature of the programme was a farce, The Sewing Society, given by Pachaug Grange members.

In the morning business meeting at which Worthy Master J. P. Hollowell presided there was work in the fifth degree, with eight candidates. It was voted to hold the December meeting in Norwich.

FIVE COLCHESTER BUILDINGS BURNED WITH $25,000 LOSS

With loss of about $25,000 at Colchester, Thursday morning, fire swept away five buildings and most of their contents, on Lebanon avenue, in spite of hard fighting on the part of the Colchester department and aid given by the New London department. The fire started from a torch which was being used in soldering, in London's garage, which building was completely destroyed, with contents, including four motor cars and a motorcycle. The loss on the building and contents will reach $8,000.

From the garage the fire spread to a two-story, frame house and store ownd by Lewis Solomon. The first floor was occupied by A. Alpert, dealer in meats and groceries; the second floor was rented for dwelling purposes, and the third floor was occupied by a Jewish lodge, Federation of Farmers. Part of the contents of this building were saved, but the loss is estimated as high as $7,000. In the rear of this building was the Kaprosser blacksmith shop, also destroyed with the most of its contents; loss about $2,000.

The fire also took the dwelling of Benjamin Miofes, a two-story frame structure, with John Stiles' barber shop on the first floor; loss, $5,000.

A barn, owned by the estate of Dr. E. B. Cragin, was quick food for the flames; loss $1,500.

The fire started at about 2.30 o'clock, and was not under control until about 11. High praise was given local firemen for their excellent work and bracery.

The town has only an old fashioned engine which was of no use in a fire of this size and New London sent the Nameaug machine. There was no water available, and although the New London crew laid a hose to a brook some distance away the fire could not be fought and the buildings were entirely consumed.

The fire in London's garage spread so quickly that nothing in it was saved, but in the stores and tenements most of the stock and furniture was taken out in time.

60 YEARS TO RESTORE CHESTNUTS TO CONNECTICUT

Granted the most favorable conditions for the restoration of Connecticut's once important chestnut forests, it will be between sixty and seventy years before this source of timber and nuts will again reach normal proportions. Before the chestnut blight killed practically all the trees of this variety, chestnut lumber was used to a large extent in rough construction, such as barns and other farm buildings and thousands of the trees, were cut for use as telephone poles.

Dr. W. E. Britton of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station in New Haven stated Thursday that it would be possible to use chestnut trees, which are in the sprout stage now, as telephone poles in about forty years, but that it would take from twenty to thirty years longer for the trees to grow to good timber sizes.

Dr. Britton said that the chestnut tree disease still persists and that his estimate for timber restoration was based on the assumption that the blight could be controlled or stamped out in the future.

ELKS VOTED $300 TO BACKUS HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN

Norwich lodge of Elks voted a contribution of $300 to the Backus hospital campaign at the lodge meeting Thursday evening at which Exalted Ruler Arthur F. Campbell presided. The meeting was a short one and was principally occupied with routine business.

SETTLED FATHER'S SUIT FOR BEING THROWN OUT

The case of Henry Wills of North Stonington against Alfred H. Wills and Mabel Wills, husband and wife of Pawcatuck, for $5,000 damages for alleged failure to provide him with a home during his lifetime under an agreement whereby, for so doing the defendants were left a house and farm in North Stonington by the wife of the plaintiff and mother and mother-in-law of the defendants, was settled in the superior court in New London Wednesday afternoon, after it had been partly tried. The trial of the case was started before Judge Isaac Wolfe and a jury early in the afternoon and a settlement was reached by stipulation before court adjourned for the day.

The plaintiff was the first witness and he testified that he was to be provided a home during his lifetime by his son and daughter-inlaw, but they abused him and mistreated him and finally after a year and ten months they threw him out of the house, putting his effects in the street. The day he was ejected his son started to choke him but was prevented by Henry L. Allyn, who was at the house. Mr. Wills is 78 years old.

Mr. Allyn, the only other witness, corroborated the testimony of Mr. Wills as to the abuse of the latter by his son and daughter-in-law and he said that on the occasion of Mr. Wills being thrown out of the house, he told the latter's son that if he struck his father, he (the witness) would beat him (the defendant.)

At the conclusion of Mr. Allyn's testimony Judge Wolfe suggested that the case should be settled and he asked counsel into a conference in his chambers. At the conclusion of the conference the case was declared to be settled.

ARRESTS FOLLOW RAID AT AMERICAN HOUSE

In a raid for liquor late Thursday afternoon at the American house on Shetucket street John Plota, 34, and Henry Mueller, 42, were arrested on charges of violation of the liquor law and Stanley Chimielewski, 35, alleged to be one of the proprietors was later arrested at his home on Slater avenue.

According to the police the evidence against the men is an actual sale and the seizure of some liquor in a fruit jar and in a measure, as well as two or three bottles of beer.

The arrests were made by State Policeman Henry with Officers Smith and Morgan. The three men arrested gave bonds for their appearance in the police court.

GRAND LISTS REDUCED $6,435,449 BY RELIEF BOARDS

Not reductions by town boards of relief of $6,435,449 from local grand lists upon which taxes were paid this year were shown Thursday at the state department by a compilation of reports forwarded by taxing officials of the several towns.

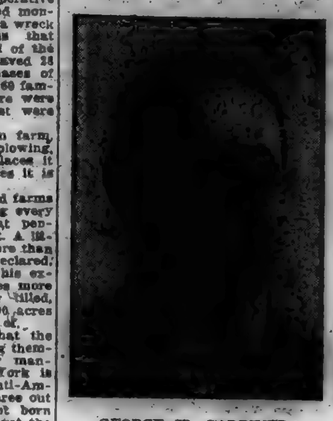
The total reductions reached $7,689,116, of which Fairfield county was responsible for $4,252,272, and the aggregate of increases was $1,253,667. Bridgeport alone reported reductions of $3,566,589, as against increases of $500,238, while Hartford's reductions totalled $52,857, New Haven's $43,900 and Waterbury's $373,900. Excluding Bridgeport, not a single increase was made by the boards of relief of the three largest cities of the state.

Coincident with this disclosure, State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett declared in a letter sent to tax assessors throughout Connecticut yesterday that "many board of relief do not function" and that he had arranged for the preparation and distribution of a pamphlet as a guide to such boards.

To procure a more equitable distribution of the tax burdens among the taxpayers of Connecticut, uniform application of the tax laws, and assessments which will stand every legal test, the commissioner announced the issuance by his department of six other specially prepared pamphlets for the guidance of tax officials throughout the state.

PROVIDENCE SPEAKER FOR OPENING HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN

Formal opening of the Backus hospital campaign for $250,000 will take place this (Friday) evening in the town hall at 6.30 with a dinner for the entire working organization that will be busy for the next ten days in the biggest civic effort in the history of Norwich. There will be several speakers this evening with the principal address to be delivered by George



GEORGE W. GARDINER.

W. Gardiner, vice president of the Union Trust company of Providence, who was chairman of the campaign for the Homeopathic hospital of Rhode Island in Providence in which the amount raised went $350,000 over the objective of $1,000,000. He spoke at the opening of the recent campaign in Westerly and at a campaign in Worcester and had a leading part in a campaign in Pawtucket.

Others to speak will be G. Benjamin Utter of Westerly, who will tell of the campaign there in which a goal of $350,000 resulted in raising $750,000, Mayor Milo R. Waters of this city, Henry A. Tirrel, president of the hospital board, and Miss Kathleen Down, the hospital matron and superintendent of the nurses' home.

The invocation will be by Rev. Dr. S. H. Howe and William G. Park will be song leader.

BARRED ROCKS LEAD IN 50TH WEEK AT STORRS

The total production at the end of the fiftieth week of the twelfth egg laying contest at Storrs was 164,573 eggs, which is 1149 eggs above the highest yearly total for any of the preceeding contests and there are still two weeks to go. The total number of eggs for the week was 2454 or a yield of 25 per cent. This is 559 eggs more than for last year for the same week and 537 eggs more than the eight year average for the corresponding period.

A pen of Barred Rocks owned by Edgar Stoughton of Wapping, Conn., was an easy first for the week with a total of 44 eggs. Sunnyfields Farm's Rhode Island Reds from Wallingford, Conn., and a pen of White Leghorns owned by S. G. McLean of South Glastonbury, Conn., were both tied for second place with a yield of 41 eggs each. A pen of White Rocks entered by Albert T. Lemon of North Attleboro, Mass., and Lion Head Poultry Farm's White Leghorns were both tied for third place with a yield of 40 eggs each. Two pens of Rhode Island Reds owned by Pinecrest Orchards, Groton, Mass., and Charles H. Lane of Southboro, Mass., and a pen of White Leghorns owned by Ernest Crane of Ramsey, N. J., were all tied for fourth place with a production of 39 eggs each.

During the week two progressive poultry clubs visited the Connecticut Agricultural college in order to get first hand information on what the poultry department at the college was doing. On of these clubs was from Springfield, Mass., and about forty of the members were present. A few days later the North Providence poultry club consisting of fifty members drove by auto to Storrs. It was very gratifying to the department to have these poultry clubs make us a visit, and we hope that other clubs will follow the example set by them.

Salvation Army Visitors.

Major Thomas Seaver, the new divisional officer of the Salvation Army for the Southern New England and Vermont divisions will make his first appearance in Norwich this (Friday) evening. He will be accompanied by his staff which includes Adj. Klepsig, the Rev. P. secretary, and Captain Pierce. They will stay at the Wauregan hotel where they will have two rooms through the courtesy of Manager Frank Watson. There will be an open air meeting at 7.15 on Franklin square, followed by an indoor service at 8 o'clock in the Salvation Army hall, 10 City street. There will be special music.

Electric Wires Down.

Electric wires along Town street a short distance north of the Williams garage were blown down about 10.30 Thursday evening during the heavy rain storm. The city gas and electric department was notified by Constable Lucius Fenton, sending men up to make conditions safe for the night.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

MELLON GIVES HOPE FOR REDUCTION IN TAXATION

Washington, Oct. 18.—Secretary Mellon, in a letter to Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, made public today, expressed the hope that congress may be able to reduce taxes at its next session. Replying to an inquiry from the senator as to whether any recommendations have been made for the repeal of the tax on telegrams, the secretary of the treasury said:

"The tax program of the treasury to has not yet been finally determined. I hope, however, that if congress does not makea any extraordinary expenditures, a reduction in the burden of taxation can be made, and that the repeal of the war tax can be included in the program."

Hubbard Apples Displayed

Two varieties of apples, the eight-inch King and the eight-inch greenings, in which James L. Hubbard is specializing at his farm Uplands, on Scotland road, are given a fine display in the window of the store of George O. Hathaway at 67 West Main street. At Uplands Hubbard has installed the most modern storage plant in the state which wins the admiration of every visitor for its neatness, cleanliness and completeness of equipment.

Warned to Keep Sober.

A Baltic man who was before the city court Thursday morning for the second time within three days on an intoxication charge was fined $15 and costs, paying $23.50. He was warned by Judge Libby that he will receive a jail sentence if he appears before the court again inside of a year.

Rain Arrives

Rain which is predicted to prevail generally over the east for the next two days began here Thursday morning about 8 o'clock and continued heavily for an hour. The rest of the day was cloudy with occasional showers and there was again heavy rain during the night.

DONOGHUE PUTS PAPYRUS THROUGH FINAL SPEED TEST BRILLIANTLY

New York, Oct. 18 (By the A. P.)—An exceptionally brilliant workout by Papyrus, with Steve Donoghue up, in the English Derby winner's final speed test, and orders for the shipment here of Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson's My Own, ready to substitute for Zev in an emergency, were developments that held the center of interest tonight in the $100,000 international turf classic to be run next Saturday at Belmont.

The Jockey club's international race committee late today decided to have My own here as a precautionary measure, it was announced by Major August Belmont, committee chairman, who denied that any eleventh hour shift in the horse which will carry America's colors, was contemplated. Coming on top of criticism of Zev's showing in workouts for the match race, however, the Jockey club's step had been interpreted in some quarters as indicating the possible withdrawal of the Rancocas colt.

Major Belmont explained that the committee simply desired to leave nothing to chance, pointing out that My Own was designated as first alternate by the committee and that Dunlay, the second alternate, had already been eliminated as a possible substitute by breaking down.

Meanwhile, Papyrus' chances of victory in the cup race were considerably enhanced in turf circles by the colt's final trial this morning, in which Donoghue guided the Derby winner a mile and a furlong in 1.51 3-5. One of the immediate results was the sharp decline of betting odds to even money, whereas about a week ago they stood at 3 to 1 on the American entry.

The high early speed shown by Papyrus, which covered the first five furlongs in one minute flat and the mile in 1.38 3-5, has tended to dissipate among experts the belief that Zev could be depended upon to outrun the invader through the early part of the match race. Those who have hitherto regarded the result of the race as dependent purely upon whether Papyrus could close the gap in the last quarter are now looking for a neck-and-neck struggle from the start. There was some opinion that the first six furlongs might furnish the real test of the race, with victory going to the horse which is able to "stand the gaff" of the early pace.

"He's all right," was the laconic comment of Donoghue after the workout, which Papyrus finished breathing easily. Basil Jarvis, trainer of the horse, also seemed entirely satisfied with the final test of his charge and indicated that he planned nothing but light exercise until the day of the race.

Comparison of Papyrus' performance today with Zev's final trial yesterday showed a slight margin most of the way in favor of the English horse, which completed the mile a full second faster than his rival.

A slow, steady rain, which began falling this afternoon, carried a threat of rain for the turf classic. This may have the effect of re-establishing Zev in public favor to some extent, since he has a wide reputation as a mudder. Papyrus, however, it was pointed out, won one of his hardest races of the year, The Duke of York stakes, at a mile and a quarter, over a track ankle deep in mud.

The statement of Major Belmont concerning the shipment of My Own to the track for emergency purposes, in part, follows:

"Leaving nothing to the element of chance that had already removed Untidy from consideration, the filly breaking down recently at Latonia, the committee asked Rear Admiral Grayson to have his colt worked today, just as thought he, instead of Zev, were scheduled to meet Papyrus on Saturday. Admiral Grayson had been asked previously to keep his colt in readiness and that this was done was shown in the recent running of the Laurel handicap which My Own won, covering the mile and a quarter in time that was close to the track record, with 126 pounds in the saddle.

"The presence of My Own on the grounds at Belmont Park to cover any contingency was a further precaution by the committee and arrangements were perfected to have the colt come from the Laurel race course to the stable of Max Hirsch at the Queens course by special train. My Own should be at Belmont Park early Friday morning."

McTIGUE SIGNS TO FIGHT TUNNEY ON DECEMBER 16TH

New York, Oct. 18 (By the A. P.)—Mike McTigue, light heavyweight champion of the world, today signed with Promoter Tex Rickard to defend his title in a 15-round match with Gene Tunney, of New York, holder of the American light heavyweight crown, in a 15-round match at Madison Square Garden on December 16.

The match, which has been ranging fire ever since McTigue returned from Ireland early in the year with the title he wrested from Battling Siki, was clinched at a conference between Rickard and the rival managers, Billy Gibbons for Tunney and Joe Jacobs for McTigue.

McTigue has had but one decision match since he won the 175-pound crown. That was his recent affray with Young Stribling at Columbus, Ga., where Referee Harry Ertle, of Jersey City, N. J., declared the contest a draw. McTigue was forced at the point of the gun to go through the match after an attempt had been made to call it off because of an alleged injury to the champion's left hand in training. Before and after the contest McTigue and his party were the storm centers of a popular outburst.

McTigue accepted Rickard's terms today after receiving an offer from Jim Coffroth, promoter of Tia Juana, Mexico, for a fight there either with Battling Siki or Tom Gibbons, of St. Paul.

Tunney regained the American light heavyweight title from Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, now middleweight champion, in a 15-round match at the garden last winter.

LYNCH DISLOCATES SHOULDER; FIGHT WITH BURMAN OFF

New York, Oct. 18.—The fight tomorrow night between Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion, and Joe Burman of Chicago, at Madison Square Garden has been postponed, it was announced tonight by Eddie Meade, Lynch's manager, who said the champion had dislocated his shoulder when he tripped and fell over his dog.

Meade announced that efforts were being made to obtain a substitute for Lynch in order that a bout might be held. He indicated that Pancho Villa might take Lynch's place.

When informed of the postponement Tom Walsh, of Chicago, Burman's manager, issued a statement in which he declared he had been treated unfairly and would claim Lynch's title.

"Burman will weigh in tomorrow afternoon under the bantam limit, 118 pounds, before the state athletic commission, as originally scheduled," asserted Walsh, "and will file a formal claim to Lynch's title at the same time. I am not in a position to pass judgment on Lynch's reported injury but I do not think the champion has treated us fairly."

MY OWN WILL BE SENT TO BELMONT TRACK TODAY

Washington, Oct. 18.—Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson's My Own, will be shipped tomorrow morning to the Belmont Park track where Zev and Papyrus are scheduled to race Saturday, according to word received here from Laurel, where the colt is now quartered. My Own has been selected to race Papyrus in the event Zev is considered unfit to compete.

Admiral Grayson announced his intention of transfering his colt to the New York track, the message said, after he had a telephone conversation with August Belmont, one of those arranging for Saturday's international race.

It was not made clear whether there was any likelihood of My Own facing the Barrier instead of Zev. One report at the Laurel track was that My Own was being sent to Belmont to be ready to replace Zev in the event anything should happen between now and S prevent the colt from competing.

CUBAN BASEBALL SEASON OPENS UP SATURDAY

Havana, Oct. 18.—The Cuban professional baseball season will start Saturday with teams made up chiefly of league players who have starred in the United States. Havana, Almendares, Santa Clara and Marianao will be represented in the league.

In the seven game preliminary series the Almendares club managed by Jose Rodrigues, first baseman of the Bridgeport Eastern league club, won from Adolfo Luque's Havana team and was tonight awarded a loving cup. Twirling by pitchers Tuero and Fuhr of the Southern association had much to do with the Almendares victory.

COLLINS MAY BE SELECTED AS GLEASON'S SUCCESSOR

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Eddie Collins, captain and second baseman of the Chicago White Sox, probably will be selected to succeed William "Kid" Gleason as manager of the club, it was reported in baseball circles tonight. President Comiskey of the Sox would not confirm or deny the report.

Comiskey said Gleason's successor probably would not be named until after the annual meeting of the American League to be held here in December.

Collins has been with the Sox for ten years and on numerous occasions directed the club, with success. During Gleason's absence, Collins, at one time, was under consideration as the manager of the New York Yankees, but trades involving his transfer to the Yankees fell through.

The star second baseman finished the 1923 season with an unofficial batting average of .362 and led the league in base stealing despite an injury to mid-season that forced him out of the game.

COOK IN ZEV STABLE FACES SERIOUS CHARGE

It is seldom that Norwich gets first hand tips on international sporting events, but such is the case in regards to the international derby scheduled for Saturday at Belmont track. The tip was given by a little almond-eyed Chinamon who was presented before U. S. Commissioner Earl Mathewson on Thursday charged with violation of the narcotic law.

The little Chink was Willie Mar of 107 Greene street, New London, who is a cook at the training stable of Zev, famous American horse that will race against the English entry, Papyrus on Saturday. Mar was held by Commissioner Mathewson and bonds fixed at $1500. The Chinaman was almost moved to tears and pleaded with the commissioner to allow him to go back to the track to be with Zev. He said that he could not raise the bonds, as all his life's savings were placed on Zev to win the race. He pleaded with the commissioner to allow him to go back to the track, giving his word that he would come back immediately after the race was over. Commissioner Mathewson did not see any way to allow the follower of Zev to go back to the stable, but finally George H. Beck of New London was secured as bondsman. The Chink's eyes were soon dried of tears and he was in his way back to his beloved horse. Just before leaving he expressed his gratitude by telling Commissioner Mathewson to bet all his money on Zev as the English horse didn't stand a chance of winning. The commissioner is seriously considering the matter.

MY OWN WILL RACE ZEV ON DRY TRACK

Laurel, Md., Oct. 18.—Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, owner of My Own, agreed today to enter his colt in a race against Zev here next week provided the track management adhered to a precedent it set in 1918 when it staged a match race between Hourless and Omar Khayyam—namely, that the track must be dry and weather fair.

Spalding Lowe Jenkins, president of the association operating the Laurel track, who has been negotiating for the race, declined however, to make it contingent on track and weather conditions.

Originally the Laurel management offered a $50,000 purse for a race at one mile and one half next Thursday between My Own and the winner of the international race Saturday between Zev and Papyrus. Plans for the return of Papyrus to England early next week, regardless of the outcome of Saturdays race, eliminated the British thoroughbred, but Sam Hildreth, Zev's trainer, said he was willing to race Zev against My Own.

MORRISSEY UNDECIDED ABOUT ENTERING THE FORD

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 18—The Schooner Henry Ford, one of the candidates as challenger for the international fishermen's trophy now held by the Bluenose of Nova Scotia, returned to this port today from a five week's fishing trip. Captain Clayton Morrissey, her skipper, was not ready tonight to announce whether his vessel would be ready in time to race the schooner Columbia for the honor of meeting the Bluenose at Halifax October 27 in the first of this year's cup series.

The American race committee in sending a formal challenge to the trustees of the international fishermen's trophy at Halifax last night, announced that if the Ford failed to arrive home today the Columbia would be certified as the American challenger. While Captain Morrissey's decision will not be known until tomorrow, it was believed tonight that the Ford will be unable to get rid of her cargo of fish and prepare for an elimination race in time. The challenger must leave Gloucester Sunday or Monday for Halifax. It was said that the Ford could not land her fish, 175,000 pounds of fresh and 50,000 pounds of salt, before Saturday at the earliest.

The committee will meet the Ford's skipper tomorrow to reach a decision. In the meantime the Columbia is being tuned up in readiness for her selection.

The U. S. S. Bushnell, designated as [illegible] American vessel for the international series, will arrive here Monday from New London, Conn., and will be met Wednesday evening for Halifax by the American race officials and committeemen.

GRAYSON DECLINES TO RACE MY OWN AGAINST ZEV

Laurel, Md., Oct. 18.—Admiral Cary T. Grayson, owner of My Own, today declined to enter in any match race with Zev as proposed by Spalding Lowe Jenkins, president of the association operating the Laurel track, when the matter was put up to him today.

Dr. Grayson gave no reason for his refusal. Mr. Jenkins had secured the assent of Sam C. Hildreth, trainer of Zev, for a race for a purse of $50,000 here next Thursday, if Zev wins the international race with Papyrus Saturday.

Later Admiral Grayson was quoted as saying that My Own would meet Zev here on one condition, namely, that the track should be dry. The association, it was understood, would not agree to that condition as it would be put to a great expense to prepare for the race and then it might not be run.

GLEASON WILL NOT GO TO DETROIT TEAM

Detroit, Oct. 18.—William "Kid" Gleason will not be engaged as assistant manager of the Detroit team of the American league, it was announced here today by Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit club. Late in the season when there were rumors that Gleason would resign as manager of the Chicago White Sox, there was a report current that the Chicago manager would be selected [illegible] assist Ty Cobb at Detroit.

KANSAS CITY ADVANCES TOWARD MINOR LEAGUE TITLE BY BEATING BALTIMORE

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 18.—(By The A. P.)—Freddie Schupp pitched Kansas City to a 5 to 2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles, here, today, and gave his team a 3 to 1 lead in games in the contest for the minor league championship.

Both pitchers were wild, due to the cold northwest wind which chilled the players and spectators, but Schupp had better luck after his wildness than Groves. Schupp struck out ten men Groves gave way to Ogden in the seventh after injuring a finger on his right hand. Score:

NOTRE DAME PLAYERS TO BE GARBED IN GREEN

Such is the avowed attitude of Knute K. Rockne, coach of Notre Dame, and on Saturday afternoon, when he sends his Army-conquering eleven against the Princeton Tiger at Princeton, Rockne plans to exemplify that attitude by robing his players in brilliant green jerseys and stockings instead of the traditional darw blue woolens of the Indiana school.

Against the Army team last week and on all other occasions when Rockne's charges have thrilled eastern football followers, the Notre Dame elevens have appeared in the university's color, dark blue. But before leaving New York last Saturday the Notre Dame coach heard numerous tales of the difficulty of spotting dark-jerseyed players against towering stadium walls, especially as the afternoon wears along and darkness descends. And because, in his lightning like forward pass attack, it is essential that the passer knows exactly the location of the receivers, Rockne has since ordered a complete equipment of dazzling green, and the Notre Dame eleven for the first time in its football history, will appear against Princeton in this garb.

The game with Princeton will mark the second time Notre Dame has clashed with a member of the so-called "Big Three."

In 1914, before Rockne became Notre Dame's coach, the middle west representatives met Yale and were defeated 28 to 0.

Princeton may be without the services of Caldwell, regular centre, and Howard, regular left guard both of whom were reported today to be suffering from injuries received in the Georgetown game last week.

RECORDS WILL FALL IN 500-MILE ENDURANCE RACE

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Upsetting the predictions of expert horsemen, all except two of the remaining sixteen entries in the national 500 miles endurance contest at Aven pulled into the stables within the minimum time limit of nine hours at the completion of the fourth sixty mile lap today despite the gruelling route yesterday, The stiffest in the history of the rides.

Jane Gray and Red Cloud, Morgans, entered by the U. S. Morgan Horse Farm and Horse Club, suffered time penalties of eight minutes and one hour and ten minutes respectively. Jane Gray was an hour late at the noon halt, but steadily decreased the deficit during the afternoon.

Contest records will be broken this year, according to Wayne Dinsmore, of Chicago, chairman of the board of supervisors, who is quoted as saying that many of the horses will finish the test in 45 hours flat, the shortest time possible.

Athletic League Organized.

An athletic league was organized among the member of the employed boys gym class at the Y last night. There are four teams, and the series will be continued over a period of six weeks, during which time various athletic and gymnastic events will be conducted. The leading individuals in last night's events were: Pull-ups, Grieco first Falcone second; Angelopolis, third. Bread jump, Grieco, first; Hyatt second; Falcone third. Teams and standing as follows:

Triangles, 139 points—Pascocchi, Grieco, Kirby, Daily, Brauman.

Circles—126 points—Hyatt, Mahorn, Greggery, Grover, Angelopolis, Malone.

Mrs. Hurd Wins Farnum Cup

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former woman's national champion, today won the golf tournament for the Mary Thayer Farnum cup at the Philadelphia Cricket club with a score of 174 for the 36 holes. Her card of 87 for the eighteen holes today was the same score she had for the first eighteen yesterday.

CONGREGATIONALISTS RESENT PROPAGANDA OF MERGER

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 18.—Some indignation has been aroused among delegates to the national council of Congregational churches by what they consider propaganda said to have been sent from official sources of the Universalist general convention, which opens in Providence, R. I., tomorrow, apparently for the purpose of inspiring interest in a proposed merger of liberal progressives of the Universalists and Congregationalist churches.

An article entitled "liberals and fundamentalists" is so worded, they say, as to be viewed as an attempt to bring about a split between the liberals and the so-called fundamentalists within the Congregational body. One paragraph reads: "The Universalists meeting in national convention in Providence, this week intend to clearly define the program of religious liberals. They will follow the lead of the Unitarians in their recent convention. Fundamentalists and liberal Congregationalists are more equal in strength among Congregationalists, at their national council in Springfield, also held this week. There is great likilhood of an open clash." Congregationalists declare there is no ground for this supposition.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theatre.

A photoplay that carries its adventurous actors through scene after scene of thrilling adventures staged in out-of-doors that have seldom been more artistically reproduced on the screen, is shown at the Bread theatre today and Saturday. It is entitled "Good-Bye Girls" and carries as its star William Russell, the very ideal of a big, broad shouldered hero who fights for the safety of his lady-love, beautifully played by Carmel Myers, and the secret she was so anxious to keep.

The action of the play is sweepingly swift and vivid and never for a moment lags. There are scenes in the picture that make it difficult for you to keep from leaping to the aid of Vance McPhee, the big hero writer, and his brave but diminutive little friend.

The story is of an author who thinks himself beset with various aches and pains. His doctor told him to give up medicine and take a wife. He told the doctor that he was wrong. But the old physician knew better.

Other pictures on the bill include Ruth Roland in "Haunted Valley," the Pathe News and a Sunshine comedy.

Continuous show Saturday, 1.30 to 11.15.

"Salomy Jane" is Delightful.

One of the most delightful picture offerings seen in Norwich in many months is "Salomy Jane," a Paramount picturization of Bret Harte's celebrated story of California during the gold rush days, which proved delightful to a large audience at the New Palace theatre last night. Jacqueline Logan, George Fawcett and Maurice Flynn, the featured players of an unusually capable cast were excellent in their respective portrayals of Jane, Yuba Bill and the stranger.

The scenes are laid in the mining town of Red Dog, and from the robbery of the stage coach at the start down to the finish, when Jane and the stranger plight their troth, thrills never cease for a moment. Western pictures may be regarded as ordinary, but this production by George Melford rises to the dignity of majesty of art and beauty. The shots of mountain scenery and of a storm with wild rides, seldom have been equalled and never surpassed by any other picture. No one who likes strong, virile, beautiful and impressive pictures can afford to miss "Salomy Jane."

Concert Series Ticket Distribution.

So many conflicting opinions have been expressed concerning the distribution of tickets for the Connecticut College Course series, that the committee, through the courtesy of The Bulletin, makes the following authoritative statement:

Guarantors of the series receive first consideration, and seats have been reserved for all of them. In a few instances these are being held subject to the receipt of an order.

Subscribers' seats are selected in the rotation in which their orders have been received.

Every wish concerning location, expressed either verbally or in writing, has been observed as nearly as possible.

All tickets in both groups are ready for mailing, and any one who has sent an order accompanied with a remittance, may expect them by registered mail sometime Tuesday or Wednesday.

A few subscribers have expressed on their orders the desire to make their own selection of seats. For their convenience a representative of the committee will be at Starr Bros., Saturday, October 20th between 2 and 6 p. m. Any one may select seats and receive tickets for the course at that time.

Single tickets will be put on sale at the same place Monday, October 22, at 9 a. m.

Keith Vaudeville at the Strand.

Joseph Rankin, a Juvenile Xylophonist, opened the bill with an exceptionally fine musical offering. This youngster certainly knows how to play this instrument.

La Vigne and Marie followed with a comedy singing offering that went well.

Smith and Strong, sure have Golden Voices from the Golden West. The applause they received bore out this fact.

Hart and Breen, the dancing streaks, closed with an exceptionally attractive dance novelty.

Her associates along the telephone switchboard gave Marcel Murphy "the laugh" when she told them that she was going to get into "society." But one day she "fixed" a telephone connection that brought about the realization of her desire. "Crossed Wires," the Universal attraction starring Gladys Walton, which is now showing at the Strand theatre, is a clever satire on the modern standards of society. It was written and directed by King Baggott. Hugh Hoffman prepared the continuity for the play.

Picture of Movieland is James Cruze's "Hollywood."

Photoplay patrons everywhere are going to be greatly interested in "Hollywood," a new James Cruze production for Paramount which has as its background—the motion pictures themselves.

Imagine getting an intimate glimpse of behind the scenes at the big studios, seeing all the noted stars and directors at work viewing the familiar scenes of the western film capital—the hotels, boulevards, studios, bungalows, bowl, etc.

That's what "Hollywood," which comes to the Broadway theatre next Sunday night brings to the screen and with it a very enjoyable tale of a middle western family which goes to Hollywood and gets entangled with the great industry that has made the community as famous as Paris itself.

This is no expose, no propaganda but just a straightway tale of the sort that will appeal to all who love pictures and wish to know all about how folks get in them, how they are made and so on. There's a fine romantic strain, love interest in plenty and an abundance of comedy of the best quality.

Several faces unfamiliar to the screen public will appear in leading roles which adds zest to the whole thing, but the "support" includes many screen notables of international prominence.

"Hollywood" promises to be the season's greatest novelty and one which might well be dedicated to lovers of motion pictures the world over.

Here is a story—a gripping, throbbing, irresistible human story that will make you sit up and take notice.

N. B.—This feature will be seen at the Broadway theatre Sunday night only and on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be seen at the Strand theatre.

Orpheum Theatre, Danielson.

If 2,000,000 persons will pay more than $9,000,000 in two years' time to see "The Bat," the great mystery play by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, how many persons will see it and how many millions will be paid for the privilege in ten years? That is a problem those most interested in things theatrical are trying to solve these days for all doubt has long since vanished that "The Bat" is destined to be the greatest theatrical attraction ever offered in the world.

"The Bat" will be presented at the Orpheum theatre, in Danielson, by Wagenhals and Kemper, its original producers on Thursday evening, October 25th.

The engagement here is part of the third sensational tour of the country by "The Bat" and every sign points to it being by long odds the greatest sweep yet to be made through the states of the Union. It is the one play that brings its admirers back time and again to see it.

The amazing story of the success of "The Bat" finds its keynote in the power of the play to attract those who have seen it once, twice, thrice, or even more times, back into the theatre to see it again. Without question, it is the greatest repeating play that has ever been produced. Theatregoers will, perforce, need to search their mind well in order to fasten on any play they have seen once that they really want to see the second or third time. Yet the fact remains that those who have seen "The Bat" frequently stand in line early the next day to purchase seats for the following night's performance.

Sale of Dimmock Property at Jewett City.

Burdick and McNicol, real estate brokers, have sold for the estate of Esther Dimmock of West Willington, Conn., the well known property located on East Main street, Jewett City. The sale was made to Joseph Rosenburg and Morris Gittlaman of Jewett City. This attractive site has been watched with eager eyes for many years and the new owners are to be congratulated upon the purchase of such a property.

Smart Gowns at Fashion Show.

The Tubridy-Weldon Company of Willimantic are offering for Friday afternoon, October 19th, from three until four o'clock a fashion show, at which time the newest and smartest in fall gowns and women's wearing apparel, all with their charming lines and draperies will be displayed on living models. This is of especial interest to the stylish stout woman who often finds it a bit difficult to select just the style suited to her particular figure. The models will be on the floor for consultation all day Friday and will give the fashion show at the hour mentioned. This will be the first appearance of living models in Willimantic and indeed an opportunity which every woman will be pleased to take advantage of.

STONINGTON

The rain of Monday helped to fill ponds a little. The Stonington-Mystic water supply is meager for this time of year. The Dean's Mill pond has not been so low in many years and an abundance of rain is needed to fill the pond for winter use.

WILLIE MAR UNDER BARS AT NEW LONDON

SAM KEE SENT TO STATE HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 19.—In the police court this forenoon, Sam Kee, alias Billy See, and Willie Mar, the two Chinamen arrested by federal and city officers in a raid for narcotics late yesterday afternoon at 107 Green street, where the two Chinese resided, were given a hearing. Mar was turned over to the federal authorities by Judge Vister S. Prince and later was taken to Norwich, where he was given a hearing before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson. Mar pleaded not guilty to the charge of violation of the Harrison act, but probable cause was found and the accused was held for trial before the next term of the superior court, in bonds of $1,000, George Beck of New London became surety on the bond.

Kee was ordered committed to the Norwich state hospital for the insane for a period of six months, as an inebriate, as Kee's body was a mass of scabs as a result of the hundreds of injections of morphine into his body. Kee was in a highly nervous state and expressed pleasure in the thought that he was to receive treatment for the drug habit. Kee, before being taken to the asylum gave much information to the federal officers, the Chinaman revealing the names of those who supplied narcotics to the Chinese residents in New London and from his statements the government agents are satisfied that Kee related the truth, for the Celestrial knew many of the peddlers of narcotics in New York, New Haven and Hartford.

Last night at the police station Kee was prevented from making an attempt at self-destruction. Station House Keeper Frank Corcoran overheard Kee informing a prisoner in an adjourning cell that he was going to commit suicide as he was "in wrong this time" and that he was going to hang himself by using his belt as a noose. The other prisoner endeavored to discourage Kee in the latter's desire by telling the Chinaman to "be game" and "not quit" and that everything would come out right in the end. Station House Keeper Corcoran then went to the cell-room and found Kee with his belt in his hand and seeking a suitable place to make it fast to the side of the cage. Kee was then disrobed so that he would be dispossed of nothing with which he could carry out his desire.

Miss Annette Wynn of New York, Mrs. Nichols Prestcveit and infant daughter, Woodbridge street and Joseph Riley, Connecticut avenue, patients at Lawrence hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

Reene G. Flynn, administratrix of the estate of Charles J. Flynn, has sold a house and lot on Pequot avenue to Benjamin A. Armstrong.

John P. Costello and Mary J. Costello have sold two building lots on Oneco avenue to William J. Cullen.

Margo O'Neill, who has been confined to his home on Bellevue place several days by a severe cold is able to attend to business.

Miss Harriet Emmerich, clerk in the probate court, began a two weeks' vacation today. Miss Emmerich is now in Springfield, where she will remain for a few days.

Frank Downing, 28 Rogers street, complained to the police this afternoon that while his automobile was parked on Washington street, near State, Tuesday afternoon, a commercial car or a truck collided with his machine and occasioned considerable damages. Downing is anxious to ascertain the owner of the colliding vehicle.

The little child of Mr. and Mrs Rasario DiMaggio of 44 Orchard street strayed away from home this forenoon and sometime later was found roaming on Montauk avnue, in the vicinity of the car barn. Mrs. DiMagio, missing the child, visited the police station to request aid in locating the baby and to her surprise and relief learned that the youngster was being cared for there, the police having been called to the car barn when the child could not reveal its name or address.

Several days ago, the police were informed that Otto Cone, 14, a former resident of New London, had run away from his home in Brooklyn, N. Y. This morning the police were informed that the young man, who is a son of Theodore Cone, a former New London printer, had returned to his home. When the lad disappeared from home, his parents found a note left by him saying: "It is about time I went out into the world and made a man of myself."

The funeral of Anthony Jerome was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at his home, 29 Bayonet street and was attended by a large gathering, among whom were employes at the custom house where Mr. Jerome was janitor for many years, and a delegation of Union lodge, No. 81, F. & A. M. of which order Mr. Jerome had long been a member. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Members of Union lodge acted as bearers and conducted the committal service in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mrs. F. C. Childsey and daughter, Miss Esther, of 21 Alger place have returned, after several days' automobile trip to the White Mountains.

Henkle S. Scott, son of Mayor and Mrs. Malcolm M. Scott employed by the Winthrop Thust company as clerk, has concluded a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McElree of Providence, former residents of New London. Mr. Scott returned home yesterday in order to spend the day with his parents, who celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gleason have returned to their apartment at the Hotel Mohican, having spent several weeks in Salt Lake City, and other western cities.

Robert J. Gaharan of New York and Miss Irene MacDonald, daughter of Mrs. Mary MacDonald of New London, were married this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley. Fabian MacDonald, brother of the bride, was best man, and Miss Mae Carl of Willimantic, was bridesmand. Following the church ceremony a breakfast was served at the bride's mother on Woodbridge street. Mr. and Mrs. Gaharan left at noon for a wedding trip and upon its termination will reside in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holt Smith have closed their summer home at Oswegatchie and have moved into the H. R. Smith house, on Broad street, for the winter.

George R. Bruhns, chauffeur in the employ of Thomas L. Haynes of Old Lyme, was arrested late last night by State Policeman Fred Caron, charged with reckless driving. Bruhns was brought before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton at 10.30 o'clock and found guilty and a fine of $50 and costs was imposed. Bruhns gave notice of an appeal and his employer became surety on his bond for appearance at the next term of the court of common pleas.

Bruhns left New London about 10 15 o'clock accompanied by a young woman and started for East Lyme. As the machine approached the bridge spanning the Niantic river at the Golden Spur a machine owned by Louis E. Perkins, rural mail carrier of Route 1, Waterford, and in which were riding Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Clifford Lewis, also of Waterford, was about to pass over the bridge from the opposite side. Instead of waiting the passage of the Perkins automobile Bruhns continued over the bridge, it was contended, at a fast rate of speed. Hardly had Perkins' car entered upon the brodge than the car which Bruhns operated side-swiped it, the speed of the colliding car ripping the left front and rear wheels, mudguard and fenders from the Perkins' machine and forcing the latter car against the railroad. But for the ruggedness of the railing Perkins' car would have been precipated with its passengers into the river. Bruhns did not stop his car, but continued to the home of his friend after which he returned to the site of the accident. In the meantime Perkins communicated with the state police barracks at Groton and Officer Caron, who had been dispatched to the bridge placed Bruhns under arrest after questioning witnesses. Bruhns was arrested and convicted of reckless driving at Darien during the summer.

Within a few hours after arriving at the home of her nephew, Carlos W. Allyn, of Broad street, Groton, Mrs. Emma Mallory Williams of Portland, this state, suffered a heart attack, expiring early this morning. Mrs. Williames was the widow of Erastus J. Williams. She is survived by three sons, George of Portland, Ernest of New Haven and Clifford of Middletown and by two daughters, Misses Nina and Jessie Williams of New Haven. Mrs. Williams arrived at the home of Mr. Allyn yesterday noon and apparently was in the best of health. In the afternoon she had an automobile rids and retired about 10 o'clock. About an hour later Mrs. Williams suffered the heart attack and medical aid was summoned, but she died about 5 o'clock. When Mrs. Williams was stricken her children were notified and they arrived at the bedside of their mother before she expired.

Thomas Haney, formerly of Niantic, whom employed by the Niantic Bleaching & Dyeing company, now located in Willimantic, was a visitor in New London yesterday.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Ganey will go to New York tomorrow where they will spend a few days.

Patrolman Michael Dorsey and Mrs. Dorsey are in New York, having left New London this afternoon. Mrs. Dorsey has been in a highly nervous condition since the birth of a child several months ago and she may remain in New York indefinitely.

About 5 o'clock this morning, Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Frank Philopena held up a machine owned and operated by G. C. Hutchins of 561 Broad street and determining that Hutchins was not a rumrunner, the officers ordered the driver to appear in the police court this morning and answer charges of violation of the automobile law in operating his machine without taillight displayed and of reckless driving. Hutchins did not present himself in court, however, although he was there to defend the charges levied against him by the rum-sleuths. Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cremin upon hearing the facts that brought about Hutchins being summoned to court, together with the fact that Sergeant Patrick Murphy was present to testify in favor of Hutchins, ordered Hutchins discharged as there was no foundation upon which to base a prosecution.

With Hutchins' appearance at the station house, it developed that he accomodated Sergeant Murphy by driving the officer to a point to permit him to confer with one of his patrolmen; when the errand was completed Murphy was driven to the police station. In making the trip the automobile passed through Hempstead street and it was upon that street that Sergeant Hicks and Patrolman Philopena alleged that the automobile law violated. Hutchins was followed to State street and after Sergeant Murphy had alighted, Hutchins was held up by the officers and the summons to the car owner was delivered. Hutchins immediately gave the information of his summons to Sergeant Murphy and although the latter did not go off duty until 5 o'clock, he was at the police station to give his testimony in the event of Hutchins being presented in court.

An automobile, the identity of which is not known, in passing through Golden street, between Green and Bank streets, this evening, ran upon the sidewalk and collided with one of the city's parking signals, the signal being demolished. At the rate the signals are being destroyed by being struck by automobiles, a new supply will be necessary before long if traffic regulations are to be adhered to.

Continued improvement is noted in the condition of Miss Marion Nostrand of Huntington street, who was operated upon for appendicitis several days ago, at Lawrence hospital.

LOW WATER RECORD AT STONY BROOK RESERVOIR

Stony Brook reservoir on Wednesday was at the lowest level the water has reached since the reservoir was built. According to measurements taken by Superintnedent J. J. Corkery the reservoir was 20 feet 3 inches below full pond. At the same time Fairview reservoir is now 8 feet 7 inches below full pond, giving a total of 279,000,000 gallons on hand, of which 34,000,000 gallons are in Stony Brook and 245,000,000 gallons in Fairview. The total full pond capacity of both is 900,000,000 gallons.

What water is now on hand is a supply for 65 days, according to Superintendent Corkery, and there is little doubt that there will be enough rainfall before this period passes to bring the reservoirs back to greater figures of water on hand.

Since June 1, when both reservoirs were full, there has been a steady drop during the summer and up to the present time. However, this is a normal experience as the lowest points in the water supply are always reached in July, August, September or October, and the present condition need cause no worry or anxiety, according to Superintendent Corkery. With this assurance he couples the advice that it is always timely to be careful of water and not allow any waste at any time of the year.

In 1910, when the town had but one reservoir, the water famine occurred and at that time on June 30, Fairview was 3 feet, 7 inches below, just as it is today. On Oct. 17 it was 32 feet 6 inches down and of course this was so low that many places in the city, particularly on the upper floors of homes, were without water for a time.

The rainfall thus far this month resulted from but one storm which occurred Oct. 15 and amounted to .36 of an inch. Last year covering Oct. 1 to the 15th the rainfall was 1.82 inches.

The following table shows how the rainfall is liable to vary from year to year:

| Month. | 1922 Inches | 1923 Inches |
|---|---|---|
| April | 3.08 | 5.22 |
| May | 4.41 | 1.49 |
| June | 5.98 | 3.71 |
| July | 4.13 | 4.06 |
| August | 6.12 | 1.89 |
| September | 1.81 | 3.60 |
| October to 15th | 1.82 | .36 |

It is readily seen that from April to Oct. 15 this year the total amount of rainfall was 20.42 inches while covering the same period last year the total rainfall amounted to 27.30 inches inches or 6.87 inches more than this year. Naturally this 6.87 inches shortage means a great deal to the reservoirs for every inch of rainfall creates a good size increase in the storage of both Fairview and Stony Brook.

SOME OF THE PROBLEMS OF THE FARMERS.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

I foresee that this is going to be an unusually rambling sort of talk. There are a number of notes and clippings on my desk, each containing or suggesting an idea which I thought, at the time I made them, might be worth passing on to you. This morning I'm going to "clean 'em up." So, if we jump rather abruptly from one subject to another, don't blame me. You've heard of the old lady who read Webster's dictionary through. When asked what she thought of it, she answered that it was very interesting in parts, but the story was "terrible disconnected."

Fifty Danish farmers made a visit to England, recently, on business connected with their co-operative organizations. They spent some time looking over English farmers and English ways of farming. "Very old-fashioned very disappointing" was their verdict.

What d'ye s'pose they'd have said to some of the New England farming you and I see?

One of these Danes, asked for the reason why Danish farmers are at the head of their class and are beating all the rest of the world in farm accomplishment, answered that there were two reasons. Here they are in his own words:

"First of all—and this is the primary reason—every farmer in Denmark has had at least a high school education. Secondly, all are members of co-operative organizations, which market their produce for them in the best markets and at the highest prices." He added some details about the methods and cost of high school education in Denmark and about the system of co-operation adopted. But if all came back to the above two reasons.

The Danish farmers are better farmers because they are educated well enough to use their heads in their farming,—something too many New England farmers never do themselves and despise others for advocating. It is rather startling to read, though, that the average cost throughout Denmark for board and tuition in high school is about twenty-six cents a day per pupil. You see, even high school education is co-operatively managed, with all the wastes cut out. It makes a big difference.

We've all read various item's about the use of electric lights in henhouses to stimulate the hens to greater egg-production. Some of us have laughed over them, and some have wondered if, perhaps, there might be something in the idea. According to a recent report of The International Institute of Agriculture (where? what a name!) experiment has shown that the use of electric lights will grow two crops of lettuce where only one grew before.

Lamps were arranged over a lettuce plant so as to diffuse a uniform light and turned on for six hours nightly, beginning with dusk. In twelve days these electrically treated plants were as big as plants exposed only to daylight were after four weeks. Moreover, the heads of the forced lettuce were firmer and brought better prices. The experiment was continued for seven weeks, and the total gain on the lighted plots was a full fifty per cent. in weight of heads developed. We are not told how much the electric lights cost, nor how near the extra production came to paying for them. To practical farmers such information would have been worth giving.

In this same electric connection a stunt reported from England ought to be interesting to farmers who are sometimes troubled by rains and cloudy weather in haying time.

It is asserted that certain Englishmen don't depend on sunlight to dry their hay at all. They cut it when they please and pack into a rick as soon as cut, sometimes with dew or rain on it. As the rick is built up a metal cylinder is inserted in it in such a way as to make a central cavity in the completed stack. An electric fan is then set in the cavity. Presto! Press the button and the fan does the rest. It is added, just to give the tale keener zest, that the hay thus dried is found to have a much higher feeding value than that cured out in the open by sunlight.

Sounds a little fishy, eh? If that yarn had come up from Wiusted way it wouldn't have been wholly unexpected. But coming from staid, steady-going old-fashioned England, it sets some of us to scratching our heads and wondering what next.

It is rather the thing, now-a-days, for health experts to complain that we all eat too much. Again from Merrie England comes an item announcing the death of an old lady who had lived to be a hundred, and who, not long before her death, ascribed her longevity to her correct food habits. All her life, she explained in Dorsetshire dialect, she had eaten "a dewbit before breakfast, a staybit before dinner, a mummet and a crummet and a bit after supper." This seems to figure up about eight meals a day. I can't help wondering how much time for out-door work such an eating programme would leave the average farmer. It is easy to see how he might manage his "dewbit" before breakfast or his "bit" after supper, but where would that "staybit" and those "mummets" and "crummets" come in?"

It is the fashion among some farmers to denounce the railroads rather freely. Perhaps they deserve it. I don't feel any overpowering affection for them, myself. But fair play requires us to give even the devil his due. And there's one little fact about the railroads that might be sandwiched in, helpfully, between a couple of red-hot denunciations.

They pay more in taxes than they do in profits.

Last year the total dividends of all the railroads in the United States amounted to $271,876,000, while they paid in taxes $301,003,000.

In the last ten years their taxes have been increased about 138 per cent. while their dividends have decreased about 18 per cent.

At the same time, they are compelled to pay about three times as much in wages as ten years ago, and their employes are now calmly proposing to demand another boost.

In connection with which matter of wages, I suppose some of you may have seen the following paragraph, which is going the newspaper rounds:

"Translated into food, at the prices the farmer gets, it takes sixty-three and one-half dozen, or 762 eggs to pay a plasterer for one day of eight hours work in New York city. It takes seventeen and one-half bushels of corn, or a year's receipts from half an acre, to pay a bricklayer's one day. It takes twenty-three chickens weighing three pounds each to pay a painter for one day's work in New York. It requires forty-two pounds of butter, or the output from fourteen cows, fed and milked for twenty-four hours, to pay a plumber for a day's work. To pay a carpenter for one day's work, it takes a hog weighing 175 pounds representing eight months' feeding and care."

I can't vouch for the exact accuracy of each one of these items. But we all know that they're close enough to the truth to disclose a condition of simply monstrous injustice. The farmer's trade is every whit as technical, as complicated, and as difficult as the plasterer's or the plumber's or the painter's. Why should he be compelled to work a week or a fortnight, twelve or fourteen hours a day, to pay a plasterer for working eight hours, one day?

Perhaps the plasterer's lawyer will plead that the plasterer can work only part of the year, that he is debarred from earning anything during the winter. Well, for goodness sake, how much farming does he suppose the countryman can do when his farm is frozen solid three feet deep and covered with a blanket of snow? If it is right that the plasterer should have big wages during the portion of the year he can work, then the farmer should have proportionally high wages for the open season. You can't in justice make fish of one and fowl of the other.

The farmer's situation is tersely stated in a recent report by a leading investment authority in these words:

"The present difficulty in which the farmer finds himself is simply that he is deflated while others are not. He is getting low prices for his product but is buying his equipment and necessities at prices still high."

That puts the case in a nutshell. And the farmer knows perfectly well that the reason for the high cost of his equipment and necessities is found chiefly in the high wages paid for producing that equipment and those necessities.

That his wages should be deflated to the vanishing point while those in all other trades are inflated almost to the bursting point is manifestly unfair and unjust. It is something more and worse than that: it is reckless monkeying with a buzz-saw. Somebody's fingers are in grave danger. And why a whole lot of greedy-guts insist on steadily pushing their digits closer and closer to that revolving amputator I, for one, can't comprehend.

Perhaps the explanation, after all, may lie in a recent saying of Edison's, with which I shall close this scrap-bag of a Talk. Said he:

"Neither you nor anybody else can write a self-evident fact so plainly that 5 per cent of those who read it can understand it. On second thought, I think I would reduce the number who can understand to 2 per cent."

OH! BUT MUSTARINE IS SIMPLY FINE FOR BACKACHE, RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIA.

Earache, Headache, Toothache Also Banished in a Few Minutes—It Penetrates.

Just rub MUSTARINE on that sore, aching, almost breaking back. Don't be afraid to rub it on—it won't blister. But in five minutes you'll wonder where your backache has gone. You'll wonder why you never thought of MUSTARINE before.

Get a 30 cent box today. It overcomes and entirely banishes so many ailments that no home can afford to be without it.

Over night you can conquer Chest Colds, Sore Throat, Stiff Neck, Lumbago, Rheumatic Pains, Neuritis and in the same time you can remove all agony from your Sore Feet, Bunions and Calleuses.

Better and speedier than any liniment, poultice or hot water bottle. All druggists guarantee it. Be sure it's MUSTARINE in the yellow box—30 and 60 cents.

From which you will, if you are shrewd enough, be able to infer that Thomas Alvan Edison hasn't an unduly high opinion of the intellectual capacities of the 97 or 98 per cent.

It must be accepted, however, that they outvote the smaller remnant, in trades unions as well as in other elections.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

New York, Oct. 18.—Speculative interest in today's stock market was at low ebb with the general list closing slightly lower after a day of backing and filling movements.

Several new low records for the year were established during the session particularly by the tire stocks, selling of which was influenced by further cuts in tire prices and the passing of the dividend on Lee rubber, which closed 2 1-2 points lower at 11 3-4.

Additional reductions in gasoline prices were offset, in part, by reports of another reduction in crude production. Persistent rumors of new financing by the Pan American company, however, had a depressing effect on its issues.

National Enamelling broke 5 points to a new 1923 low in reflection on speculative fear over the safety of the dividend while Famous Players broke below 67 on reports of poor earnings and prospects.

Railroad shares held fairly steady until just before the close when the northwestern carriers had another sinking spell, notwithstanding the interstate commerce commission's statement that lower rates on grain from primary points should be compensated by increased rates in other commodities or by reduced operating expenses. Nothern Pacific and Great Northern preferred came within a very small fraction of the year's lows.

Stopping shares improved efforts of a better inquiry for freight space and the belief that lower railroad rates on grain for export would stimulate business. Marine preferred jumped more than 2 points and American International corporation, 1. Merchandising and chain store issues also gave good demonstrations of group strength on reports of high current earnings. Woolworth touching a new top at 261 1-2 and May Department Stores climbing 2 points.

Steel shares held relatively steady, reports of a better inquiry by railroads being counter-acted, to some extent, by the testimony before a local housing commission that the shortage of homes and apartments was rapidly being overcome.

Willys Overland preferred was one of the outstanding strong spots, being run up more than 2 points to 65 but easing slightly at the close. Nash Motors, Davison Chemical, General American Tank Car, Bayuk Bros., and Tobacco Products preferred also registered good gains.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent. eased to 4 1-4 and thence to 4, where it closed. The time money market was quiet on a 5 to 5 1-4 per cent basis.

Cabled reports of internal disturbances in Germany sent marks down to a new low of 1 cent a hundred million. Demand sterling dropped nearly a cent to $4.52 and French francs broke 8 1-2 points to 5.96 cents. Heaviness also cropped out in the Scandinavian rates.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Reported arrangements by which Russian exports of grain will be financed by leading British firms had considerable effect today in bringing about lower prices for wheat. The market closed weak at 1-3 to 1 1-8c net decline, with December 105 1-2 to 105 5-8 and May 110 1-2 to 110 5-8. In corn, the outcome ranged from 7-8c loss to 1 3-4c advance, oats finished 1-8 to 1-4c down, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 12 cents.

It was asserted that three large English concerns would work in conjunction with the Russian cooperative associations in selling grain already in Russian port elevators, and that Norway had contracted for 7,000,000 bushels, her entire needs for the season. At first, the Russian reports were given only moderate notice and by many traders were regarded as propaganda. Later, the wheat market helped by strength in prices for nearby deliveries of corn scored something of an upturn, but the effect failed to last, and with selling orders coming in a rush during the final half hour wheat underwent a sudden new tumble, and closed at the day's bottom figures.

In connection with the late weakness of wheat, gossip was circulated that Russian shipments this week would total 2,000,000 bushels. Other bearish factors today related to Argentina offering wheat cheaper than Canada and to prospects of enlarged acreage of domestic winter wheat southwest, Kansas in particular.

Forecasts of clear, frosty weather eased the corn market so far as December and later months were concerned, but October and November deliveries showed a decided upward tendency owing to smallness of immediate supplies. Oats lacked aggressive support.

Provisions went lower with hogs.

BOND MARKET

New York, Oct. 18.—Although several industrial bonds touched new low figures for the year, today's bond market displayed a firm tone generally and closing prices were slightly above those of yesterday in a majority of listed securities.

U. S. Rubber 7's, depressed on cuts in tire prices, slumped nearly a point to a new low, while Wickwire Spencer Steel 7's were offered freely and dropped more than 2 points to a new minimum price. Selling of Virginia Carolina Chemical bonds continued. The 7 1-2's falling off 3 points.

On the other hand numerous industrials including some of the Sugars, steel and utilities moved forward moderately. Marine 6's advanced 2 points on buying influenced by renewal of rumors of a shipping deal favorable to the company.

The market for high grade railroad mortgages was some better although charges in this group generally were small.

Little interest was displayed in U. S. government bonds which remained practically stationary. Foreign bonds also were dull although some selling of Mexican 5's pushed that issue down a point.

CURB MARKET

New York, Oct. 18.—Selling orders predominated at the opening of today's curb market, giving initial prices a reactionary appearance. Prices thereafter moved irregularly within narrow limits.

Most of the oils were adversely affected by the further reduction in gasolene prices, although the recessions as a rule were small. Standard Oil's of Indiana, New York and Kentucky closed fractionally lower. A rally in Carib Syndicate which carried it above 4 attracted some attention to the South American oils. Prairie Oil and Gas moved up two points on a small turnover.

Trading in motor shares was relatively quiet with Cleveland Motors, after declining steadily for a week, pushing through its previous low of the year on a thin market. Gillette Safety Razor dropped two points on odd lot transactions. Park & Tilford again led the activity in the industrial division, closing 1-4 lower at 30 1-2.

METAL MARKET

New York, Oct. 18.—Copper quiet, 13. Tin firmer, spot and nearby 42.12; futures 41.75. Iron steady, prices unchanged. Lead steady, spot 6.35. Zinc quiet, East St. Louis spot and nearby 6.40 a 6.45. Antimony, spot 7.50 a 7.60.

MONEY

New York, Oct. 18.—Call money; easier; high 4 1-2; low 4, ruling rate 4 1-2; closing bid 4; offered at 4 1-4; last loan 4; call loans against acceptances 4 1-4. Time loans: easier.

COTTON

JEWETT CITY

The meeting of Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R., held at the home of Mrs. John P. Post, Wednesday afternoon, was largely attended. The Regent, Mrs. Henry E. Olsen, presided. A novel feature of the roll-call was the source of much enjoyment to the daughters present as each name was called, the response came in the reading of a verse from an old song, in several cases the quotations were from melodies written over 100 years ago. The Regent, then gave two interesting and finely arranged reports of the recent meeting at the Ellsworth Memorial Home at Windsor and of the state meeting held at Cheshire. The meeting was then entertained by two Victrola records of speeches by the late President Harding—one Nov. 12, 1921 in Washington, at the National Conference for the Limitation of Armament, and that delivered May 23, 1921, at Hoboken, N. J. on the return for burial of 5,212 soldiers, sailors and marines.

Miss Ida I. Foster, had arranged a delightful program, which included two vocal selections of marked excellence by Misses Ellen Prior and Winifred Scates, entitled, America for Me, and An April Girlie. Miss Alice A. Brown was accompanist. Also two piano selections by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Earle E. Gilbert. The hostess received the assistance of Miss M. A. Burdick in serving delicious refreshments.

Local sportsmen, were interested in an item in the Danielson column of Thursday's Bulletin telling of a hunting dog that pointed a partridge, then stole up and sprang upon the unsuspecting bird.

Pete Benway, owned a thoroughbred red pointer named "Pride" probably one of the finest hunting dogs ever reared in this section. This dog is the well known, and thoroughly well authenticated record of capturing 16 partridges in the same way told in the Danielson story, all within the limits of one hunting season.

"Pride", was bred and trained by W. H. Brown.

List of new books at Slater Library now ready for distribution, announced by Miss Mabel Wilcox, librarian: The Pelham Affair, Louis Tracy; The White Flag, Stratton Porter; Only Henrietta, L. H. Richards; The Tenth Woman, H. Comstock; The Red Redmaynes, E. Philipots; The Clue of the New Pin, E. Wallace; The River Road, H. Thompson; Conflict, C. B. Kelland; The Mine with the Iron Door, H. B. Wright; The Soul of Ann Rutledge, B. Babcock; The Soul of Abe Lincoln, B. Babcock; The Public Square, W. L. Comfort; Under a Thousand Eyes, F. B. Livingston; The Sea Hawk, R. Sabatini; The Growth of the Soil, K. Hamsun; The Vision of Desire, M. Pedlar; The Singing Bells, R. Pertwee; Alcatraz, Max Brand; One of Ours, Willa Cather; Sir or Madam, Bertha Ruck; Gladiola Murphy, Ruth Sawyer; Ponjola, C. Stockley; The Alaskan, J. O. Curwood; The Enchanted Country, J. Sutherland; Mingle-streams, Jane Abbott; Dr. Nye, J. C. Lincoln; The Fighting Edge, W. Raine; Caroline's Career, L. H. Richards; Some Merry Adventures of Robin Hood; Robinson Crusoe in words of one syllable; Daffydowndilly; Jack the Young Cowboy, Jack the Young Trapper and Jack the Young Canoeman, G. B. Grinnell; The Scotch Twins, L. F. Perkins; Fables and Folk Stories, H. Scudder.

Aspinook Bleachery, shut down at 5 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, an account of low water. The per cent of rainfall in the last three months is much below normal as is shown by the register gauges at the Aspinook, Ashland and Pachaug mains.

At Aspinook the water is 26 inches down on the big penstocks, that carry the water to the turbines.

Passersby are admiring the handsome golden fall chrysanthemums in bloom at Mrs. J. C. Hawkins, and at Miss M. A. Burdick's on the highland section of East Main street.

A hunter was seen at the Plainfield railroad station Wednesday with seven cock pheasants which he had shot in the Clark cedar swamp, East of Tadpole pond.

Local game wardens are giving notice that those pretty black and white kitties that have a home under the school house wood-shed, are protected by law until Nov. 1st.

A local hunter, says that if 20 years ago and less a man had advised a state law, asking for a close season on the common skunk, he would have been deemed a fit subject for an asylum. Not so long ago, less than five years, a Griswold man netted $425 on peltries in one season with skunks only second to musk rats. He is waiting for the law to be off, and says if he has good luck he will furnish Russian sable and River mink for some of the toney nabobs down to New York to wear and they'll be Stone Hill skunks and Pachaug mush rats.

Mrs. H. C. Wilber entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church at her home, Thursday afternoon.

Re. and Mrs. H. S. Stephenson entertained Mrs. P. J. Lambert, of Henderson Ky., Wednesday.

It is expected that Sunday there will be a Rally Day at Pachaug for the church and Sunday school. Forward steps will be used, which is a Rally Day service prepared by Margaret Slattery. This will take the place of the usual morning sermon. A beautiful silk flag will be presented, a gift to the church from Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lester, of Bayport, Long Island, in memory of their parents.

The Jewett City Arrows and the Jewett City Mohawks are to meet in a game on the Convent grounds Saturday afternoon.

The Ladies Society of the Congregational church met at the home of Mrs. John T. Stewart, Thursday afternoon. Plans were made for an entertainment in November and a fair in December. Mrs. Stewart was assisted by Mrs. Walter Marshall, Mrs. B. W. Albertine, Mrs. Abraham Zegeer and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox.

By a typographical error in Monday's Bulletin, the amount raised by the local Baptist church for the state convention was made to read $1353.25, it should have been $135.25.

Do Ordinary Duties Well.

Do not grasp at the stars, but do life's plain, common work as it comes, certain that daily duties and daily bread are the sweetest things of life.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Unfortunate Truth.

"A man never sees all that his mother has been to him till it's too late to let her know that he sees it.—W. D. Howells.

Given Services Freely.

Few men understand the art of lovemaking, but women are always ready to afford them an opportunity to practice.—Chicago News.

NOANK

As the board of missions has made an appeal for money or clothing for Japanese relief to the societies of the Baptist church, heavy stockings, sweaters and woolen garments are particularly specified and such articles are being received by Mrs. Lida Fitch.

Kenneth Hill, after spending the week-end with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Hill has returned to his studies at Wesleyan.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. Robert Day, rector of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, accompanied by his church choir is to have charge of the Sheltering Arms service on Sunday afternoon.

There will be a religious service at the Scotland Road hall, Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

There will be two speakers at the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church. Thomas H. Bacheler is to have charge of the service, which will include echoes from the national council. At the Young People's Christian Endeavor service at 7 o'clock, Herbert E. Hicks of Hartford, field secretary for Connecticut, is to be the guest of the society and have an important part in the meeting during which the installation of officers and committees will take place. This is to be an open meeting. During his stay in town Field Secretary Hicks, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Hicks and their little son Douglas, will be the guests of George F. Hyde and the Misses Hyde, of Washington street. The Hicks family will return to Hartford Sunday evening.

In the interests of Norwich Christian Endeavor union, Field Secretary Hicks will again visit Norwich Tuesday, October 23rd, to remain two weeks. It is expected that at the expiration of his stay in Norwich, Tuesday, November 6th, many surrounding towns where there are C. E. societies, will have been visited by him in the interest of the work.

Scout Master Frederic H. Wyant, with his troop, No. 20, Boy Scouts is to hold a meeting this (Friday) evening in the First Congregational chapel.

This week, linemen for the Norwich Gas and Electric Co., have been stringing wires on the new poles which have been set along Town street, from time to time, during the past several weeks.

A certain portion of the state road leading up from the city line on Washington street, recently received the fall coating of tarvia from a force of men in the employ of the state highway department.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peck had as dinner guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Brainerd of New Britain. Mrs. William Rodge of Westchester, who has been visiting at the Peck home for the past three weeks, left Wednesday morning for a few days' visit with Misses Annie and Rose Smith, of Colchester. Later Mrs. Rodge is to go to Preston City, for an indefinite stay.

Mrs. Thomas Doyle returned recently to her home on West Town street, following three weeks' stay at Backus hospital, where she underwent special treatment.

Mrs. Arthur Park of Preston City, visited Wednesday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Browning had as automobile guests Tuesday to Amherst, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peck. While there they visited the Agricultural college

Know That Much, at Least.

"Do Frenchmen know our dialect?" asked Mr. Barker. "Some do, I suppose," answered his friend. "Well, my daughter is to be married next month in Paris" explained the father, "and my future son-in-law, the count, has cabled me to come across."

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The Sugar Candy Men

In the valley, green and neat
I see the print of little feet:
And, way, way, yonder in the glen,
Little Jack Rabbit gave Dapple Gray a gentle tap and away went his pretty little pony and by and by, not so very far, they came to the place where the little men were at work. And what do you suppose they were doing? Why, you'd never guess if I gave you till next Christmas.

There was a tall keeper.

They were making maple syrup from the sap of the maple trees. First they boiled the sap in great big pots and then put it away to cool in great little dishes of various shapes

HEARING $10,000 SUIT AGAINST NEW LONDON

A suit for $10,000 against the city of New London brought by Mrs. Catherine L. Bell of that city was on trial Thureday in the superior court there before Judge Isaac Wolfe and a jury. Mrs. Bell's arm was broken in a fall in Prest street in October, 1926.

Mrs. Bell claims that while she was walking along the west side of Prest street, shortly before 6 o'clock on the night in question she stumbled over a stone projecting above the sidewalk and fell, breaking her arm. She alleges that the injury to her arm is permanent and as a result she is unable to work at washing and ironing at which she earned about $10 a week. It is claimed that the accident was due to the negligence of the city.

Daniel Danaher of Prest street, employed at the Robert Gair Co., in Montville, testified to the condition of Prest street at the time of the accident and before. He said that about 5.50 o'clock on the evening of the accident Mrs. Bell came to his house after the fall and said that she thought she had broken her hand. He helped her upstairs into his house and washed the head and treated it to the best of his ability. She was there about an hour, after which she went home. When starting for home, she showed him the stone over which she stumbled and fell. The stone projected about three or four inches above the level of the sidewalk and it was fixed in the ground.

Dr. Joseph M. Ganey testified that Mrs. Bell was brought to his office the morning after the accident and that he treated her for a commuted fracture of the arm. He set the fracture and in his opinion Mrs. Bell has lost the efficiency of her arm to a degree of at least 60 or 70 per cent for labor. He said that the injury is permanent and that it will never be any better. Dr. Ganey said that Mrs. Bell suffered intensely for weeks.

The plaintiff introduced a plaster cast, purporting to be a replica of the stone over which Mrs. Bell stumbled and fell, made by George Guest, the local sculptor, and Mr. Guest went on the stand and explained the cast.

Mrs. Bell, the plaintiff, was the next witness and she told about the accident, telling how she tripped over the stone, which was protruding from the sidewalk. She also testified as to her earning capacity at the time of the accident, saying that she was earning about $10 a week on an average.

Mrs. Bell was on the stand when court recessed for lunch at 1 o'clock and continued her testimony with cross examination during the afternoon.

ADDRESSED SOCIAL WORKERS UPON MIND DISORDERS

At the meeting of the Social Workers council of New London and Windham counties, which was held here Wednesday afternoon at the United Workers house the speaker of the afternoon was Dr. Harold Bancroft, director of the state division of mental hygiene. He gave a very scholarly and suggestive lecture on the general field of mental disorders, and on the need of the establishment of mental clinics in the various communities within out state. He showed many of the depressing results of mental incapacity. Such incapacity causes the inability of the individual to adjust himself to his environment. Just because of this incapacity, examinations should be made, both physical and mental, to find the causes of maladjustments. After such examinations the psychiatrist recommends what should be done for those particular individuals. It may mean changing the environment. Some cannot live in the complex environment of home and school, but must for a time be in a simpled institutional environment. The clinic, therefore, steps in where the doctor cannot always assist. It finds the cause of maladjustment. Figures show that in the United States in 1930 the cost of the new admissions to hospitals for mental disorders was $162,000,000. This amount is the sum of the support of the patients and what they were unable to earn fro mtheir incapacity.

In order for communities to see the need of these clinics, there is much to be done. Dr. Bancroft made several suggestions. There should be instruction in mental disorders given to medical students, to nurses. There should be lectures in schools. People should have more knowledge of mental activities. Mental clinics have already been established in New Haven, Hartford, Waterbury, Stamford, Bridgeport, Norwich and Manafield, and Dr. Bancroft urged the closest cooperation with all agencies of social welfare in showing the communities the real need of giving mental disorders attention, in order to prevent disastrous results of neglect.

Norwich Clinic Discussed.

Miss Olive Rockwell of the state division of mental hygiene, told of the establishment of the clinic in Norwich. This clinic is being backed by the public health committee of the United Workers of which Mrs. Albert H. Chase is chairman, and Mrs. John P. Huntington, Miss Nancy Lucas and Miss Ella Norton are members. Mrs. Chase and Mrs. Huntington also entered into the discussion of the Norwich clinic.

Miss Edith Moran, secretary of the council, and general secretary of the Norwich Family Welfare association, was hostess for the meeting, assisted by Mrs. Henry T. Arnold, president of the United Workers, Mrs. Gardiner Greene, Mrs. Archibald Torrance, Miss Martha Osgood, Miss Dorothy Brown, former assistant to Miss Moran and Miss Mary Labister, present assistant, also assisted.

The meeting was the largest one the council was held. Miss Joyce Crosby of the state bureau of child welfare and chairman of membership, had invited social workers from the two counties to attend this meeting and become members.

After the formal meeting, tea was served by the Norwich hostesses. At this time flowers were presented by Miss Moran to Miss Florence Williams, social worker of the Norwich State hospital, one of the charter members of the council, who is leaving for a new field of work. She is to be field secretary of the Connecticut Society of Mental Hygiene, with headquarters at New Haven.

METHODIST PASTOR SPOKE TO SCOUT LEADERS' MEETING

The first meeting of the Scout Leaders' training course was held Wednesday night at scout headquarters, 28 Shannon building. Most of the troops of Norwich council were represented at the meeting by one or more leaders.

Rev. J. Harlow Graham of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church was the chief speaker of the evening. His topic was Scouting, and its Objects. Mr. Graham handled this subject in an instructive manner. During his talk he said: "Not all men can be boy leaders because they are unable to place themselves back in the position and viewpoint of the boy. The good scout leader must be able to look at scouting from the scouts' standpoint. Boys like scouting for the fun there is in it and by getting the boy interested in these things he likes to do, he is led generally to do the things he ought to do and thus become a good citizen. Some men do not appreciate and sympathize with boys, but seem to be ready at the slightest provocation to treat the boy as a trespasser and put him in the hands of the law, rather than help him. Such men can never be leaders of youth. The training scouts get in manual work, in games, and in outside activities furnishes an outlet for their exuberant spirits and helps the boy to find himself. Unfortunately, sometimes, a boy despite all his in school without any incentive or interest to help him in acquiring these principals of character which steady and develop his personality.

"A certain peach grower of the south found his orchard infested with some new pest which he did not understand. He called upon the county agricultural agent, who inspected the orchard and said 'This is something new.' The local agent called upon the state expert who came to see this pest, and he also said 'This is something new and interesting.' He, in turn, called upon the expert of the department of agriculture at Washington and he in turn studied the matter. The cause was discovered and remedied and the peach growers of this section profited thereby. In the meantime, the man's son was not interested in anything in particular and drifted along and became a loafer. A boy with no purpose and no object. Said the farmer: 'Look at the interest that has been taken by these experts in the peach crop, but why has there never been any interest shown in my son?'

Mr. Graham in talking, gave many interesting points of contact that the scout master has and that the scoutmaster profits in this great work in associating with boys. It would take too long to speak of the many excellent things brought out by Mr. Graham in his talk. His address was an inspiration and the men present appreciated it.

In the absence of A. L. Peale, deputy scout commissioner, Robert W. Otis spoke briefly for the council and the program was continued by Scout Executive F. A. Benton. Practical demonstration of scout knots and all tenderfoot tests was given by troop leaders Alfred Haring and Albert Rodgers. This was followed by a general discussion by Scoutmaster J. L. Johnson and Scoutmaster Frederick H. Wyant, and others on practical uses of knots, and methods of teaching them to scouts. Several new scout masters were present. The next meeting will be on Saturday, Oct. 20, if the weather is pleasant at Camp Tippecan. Automobiles are provided to take all who desire to go and Saturday afternoon and night will be spent at Beach Pond. Any scout master who was not present on Wednesday night desiring to go on Saturday, is expected to communicate with Scout Executive Benton his intention. Provision will be made for him.

It was the sentiment of the scout masters present to accept the invitation for an inter-city meet with New London, in the near future. This will necessitate a preliminary meet to prepare for it. The matter will be considered by a committee for that purpose.

The second evening session of the course will occur next Wednesday at scout headquarters.

Taken to State Hospital.

A Taftville young man, 25 years old, who has had other periods of mental lapse since his service in the army during the world war, was brought to police headquarters at noon Thursday after he had given a severe beating to another citizen. He was later taken to the Norwich state hospital.

DAVIS HIGH SCORER IN COLONIAL PINOCHLE

The Colonial club continued their pinochle tournament Tuesday evening with some radical changes in the standing of the contestants. Davis substituting for Kenefick moved from tenth to third position with the high score of 7665 for the evening while Amburn with low score for the evening dropped from fifth to eleventh place, his score being 5635. Scores for the evening: Davis playing for Kenefick 7665, Huntington 7240, Higgins 7150, Church 7125, Allen 6960, Harwood 6605, Drake 6645, Pierson 6595, T. G. Washburn 6455, Sherman 6380, McNaught 6205, Amburn 5635.

Standing to date: Harwood 14,580; Church 14,155; Kenefick 14,020; Sherman 13,985; Pierson 13,755; Huntington 13,735; Higgins 13,525; Allen 13,365; Drake 13,215; T. G. Washburn 12,770 Amburn 12,600; McNaught 11,955.

SUGGESTS LAW TO CLEAR UNSAFE CARS FROM ROADS

Removal of unsafe motor vehicles from the public highways by means of legislation requiring that every such vehicle be carefully tested and passed by the state inspectors before being admitted for registration was suvvested by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel in the October bulletin of the motor vehicle department issued Friday.

It would also be required under this tentative plan that automobile registrants be called upon to demonstrate financial responsibility, so that they could be held properly to account for damages resulting from accidents in which their cars were involved.

Department statistics it was stated, disclose that old automobiles are most frequently involved in accidents, and Commissioner Stoeckel offered his sugestion with the idea of inviting public discussion as to the most effective way to deal with a situation which has been steadily growing more menacing as the number of second hand motor vehicles in operation in the state increases. "It presents a possible way to drive off the road the man who has no financial resonsibility and the man who drives an unfit car which jeopardizes other traffic," said the bulletin.

The statement further suggests that "this department should be given broad discretion, under any such plan, in the determination of financial responsibility—as in deciding whether to require an insurance policy, a bond or deposit, or to make a certified determination of actual financial responsibility for every registrant.

"As a part of such a law, periodical examinations on the part of the state authority should be made and a severe penalty provided for the operation of any motor vehicle which is out of condition, misrepresentation of financial status or failure to give information of changed status."

NEEDS OF HOSPITAL ARE TOLD TO LIONS

James L. Case, chairman in the Backus hospital campaign for $250,000 and Treadwell Cleveland, the campaign director, were speakers Thursday at the noon luncheon of the Lions at the Wauregan house, briefly describing the imperative need of the hospital for this addition to their funds in order o build a nurses' home and add to its maintenance funds.

The speakers told of the splendid spirit with which the team workers were taking up the task and expressed their confidence that the campaign would be a great success.

President George D Finn, who presided, introduced as guests ex-Mayor H. M. Lerou, O. A. Rife, secretary and treasurer, and George A. Helwig, general manager of the H. H. Allyn Rubber Co., which is the new industry that is coming to Norwich.

"My topic of today will be "The Lion in his natural state and in civilization." The Lion in the jungle is the king of beasts and for beauty and form and strength of body he is not surpassed by any animal.

"The Lion in our city is the king of men and for beauty of form you are certainly a lot of clean cut, handsome and many-looking Americans. As for our strength, it lies in the strength of character, noble civic outlook and our beautiful sociability. When the Lion roars in the jungle all the animals tremble. When Lions roar in Norwich, the heart trembles with joy, brotherly emotions and good fellowship. Our Lions are yet in their infancy. Watch them grow and with their growth watch for creditable achievements. A dollar a dinner and a hundred dollars worth of good fellowship is certainly profitable enjoyment for a Thursday noon. I assure you that eventually we will all look forward for these bargain dinners. The recollection of Thursday noon makes me see a vision at every meal time.

"This fellow Lions, is real life. No matter how ideal our home life is, life is not complete until we add to it the great social life, that of our friends. And a real test of our character is how we feel towards the rest of the community—especially in a friendly way. You have made a noble beginning, fellow Lions. Keep on roaring! Your roar is the advent of happiness, of friendship and of good deed. Let it reverberate from the beautiful hills of the Rose of New England, and urge us all to add glory to our city by our social and civic brotherhood."

MONTVILLE CENTER POTATOES MAKE 18 TO THE PECK

E. L. Reeves of Montville Center, has raised potatoes this year of which he can well be proud in size and yield. His record has been 415 bushels per acre and he has sent The Bulletin a picture of heaped baskets of the potatoes and the rows from which they came. Out of less 16t he picked 13 perfect potatoes that made a fifteen pound peck.

Mr. Reeves grew these potatoes on the farm owned by Mrs. Lucy P. Schofield on land not planted last year, without manure, but with certified Vermont seed and 1,500 pounds of a well known brand of fertiliser. They were well cultivated but never hoed or sprayed.

GIVEN SURPRISE ON SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Thursday evening a party of friends called on Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. O'Connell of Maple street and pleasantly surprised them in honor of their 25 wedding anniversary. A bountiful supper was served and during the supper a large wedding cake was presented Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell. They were also presented a silver service. Dancing and games were enjoyed during the evening.

ARREST FOLLOWS COLLISION ON NORTH MAIN STREET

Clark Chapman, who lives on the East Side, was arrested Thursday morning on the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor after his car had run into an automobile of Swift & Co. on North Main street. His gave bail for his appearance in the city court.

The arrest was made by Officers Smith and Casey.

TELLTALE SYMPTOMS OF WOMAN'S ILLS

Every woman who suffers from backache, headaches, dragging-down pains, nervousness, irregularities, displacements, irritability, or despondency should recognize in such symptoms some derangement of her system which should have attention before some more serious ailment develops. These conditions are often evidanced by a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude and sleeplessness. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been pre-eminently successful in overcoming such conditions, and it is now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Quick Recovery.

One day my Sunday school teacher asked me to go to a missionary meeting at the home of one of my friends. I told her that "I would just love to come to the meeting, but have a terrible headache." She expressed her sympathy and left me. She no sooner left than I started to dress for the street. Meeting an old friend, we decided to go to a play. As we were at the window waiting for our tickets, my teacher walked up and asked me if I was feeling any better. She was on her way to the meeting.—Chicago Tribune.

Formidable Weapon.

The bolo is the national weapon of the Filipinos. The blade is about 18 inches in length by nearly 3 inches in width at its broadest dimension. It tapers from the middle towards the shaft as well as toward the point, making it strongly resemble the ancient short sword. It is not double edged, however, but tapers from a thick back to an extremely keen edge. The scabbard of the bolo is made of native wood with rough outlined designs carved upon it. The whole weapon is much more beautiful in outline and more formidable than the Cuban machete.

Shakespeare's Vocabulary Rivaled.

Probably no living poet has a more extensive vocabulary than Gabriele d'Annunzio, who is to visit Paris in the spring of this year. "Most people," he once said, "use only 800 words. I employ 15,000, which I cull from different volumes, some taken from an old book on agriculture, some from an old translation of Ovid, others from Machiavelli's works. Old Italian authors are my daily bread."

This Is Sad, Indeed.

When it comes to deception, girls can give us the dust any day. I worked for a farmer and fell in love with his daughter. She vowed she loved me, and we planned to be married the next month. While I was away on a threshing job she ran away with a summer boarder. She had helped him to my new suit and the wedding ring I'd bought, also my watch and $40 I had saved up for the honeymoon.—Exchange.

The Site of "Arrowhead."

Who ever built the house, he builded better than he knew, or else Orion in the zenith flashed down his Damascus sword to him some starry night and said, "Build there." For how, otherwise, could it have entered the builder's mind that, upon the clearing being made, such a purple prospect would be his? Nothing less than Greylock, with all his hills about him, like Charlemagne among his peers.—Herman Melville.

Bright Youngster.

While riding on a crosstown car Wednesday three teachers got on, standing in front of me. I could not help hear their discussion of their respective classes. One teacher remarked she had received some new word cards that day, among which was the word "Saturday." She called on a boy to read it, and he being unable to do so, she asked him what day came after Friday. He replied, "Saturday—the day I get my bath and my ears washed."—Detroit News.

Tribute to Forefathers.

Never forget that you are the descendants of men who ate up the fire that was to burn them, and digested it and turned it into noble strength; that drank up the sea that was to have drowned them, and came through ever thickening danger gathering strength with exercise, and being made out common men, heroic and illustrious characters.—Joseph Parker.

Some Curious Beliefs.

In the south of England it is believed even now that the eating of herrings' brains gives one beauty. The monks of the Tenth century had an idea that the ashes of burnt flies were good for the complexion.

Power of the Sea.

At some places the force of the sea dashing on the rocks of the shore is said to be 17 tons to the square foot.—Indianapolis News.

Not the Usual Ending.

I was ten when one of the "big" boys attending my father's school called at our home. I was very favorably impressed—was desperately in love with him. He was quite friendly and nice to me, while I was so self-conscious and awkward that I fell off my chair. It might have ended there, but I saw him soon afterward at a spelling bee and he invited me to be his partner in the games. Now we are both happily married to someone else.—New York Sun.

Old New Orleans.

In New Orleans, during the carnival season, many of the old dances are still practiced on Claiborne street in the French section. This is across the old basin which was dug from Bayou St. John, and many of the older Creoles of this section boast that they have never been across Canal street on the American side of the town. Also, far up the river, on St. John's night in mid-June, the old hoodoo rites are still kept up in isolated places.

Face Shows Character.

If the face is broad across the forehead, the reasoning ability is excellent, and the farther back the ear is from the face the more brain capacity is shown. You will notice in some people that when you look at them sideways the ear seems to be set back so far that it seems to leave only about a third of the head at the back, instead of half. These people will be extremely clever and able to do most things. They have master-minds and much originality.

Good Advice.

"Don't fret and worry over what may never happen," says Ruth Cameron. "One can waste just as much energy in false emotions as in false motions."

Record of Time's Ravages.

For 22 years a wealthy woman of London has had herself photographed once a month in order to note the ravages of age.—Indianapolis News.

Phrenology.

The brain that counts is from the ear to the top of the head and the ear to the forehead. The back part of the brain only shows affection and it is not nice affection, unless the head is rather rounded out between the crown of the head and the neck at the back. The more the head juts out at the back, the more affectionate and kind will be the nature.

Earth Has Varied in Size.

It has been calculated that originally the earth had a diameter of 5,500 miles, but it grew by drawing planetesimals into itself until it had a diameter of over 8,100 miles at the end of its growing period. Since then it has shrunk and now has a diameter of 7,918 miles.

Felt Baby Was Lacking.

Elnora was trying to play with her tiny baby brother, who as yet can do nothing except smile and coo a little in response to her advances. She stopped a moment looking at him thoughtfully, then turned to her mother and said, "My, but don't I wish he'd brought his talk with him!"

No Place for Imitations.

We thought it was about time for some one to commit a brand new Spoonerism. It was at a prayer meeting and the young minister calling upon a Mr. Crowe who was in the congregation said solemnly: "And now I am going to ask Brother Pray if he will please crow for us."—Boston Transcript.

That First Love Affair.

She was ten and I was eleven. I asked her if she would attend a party with me, and she said yes. When the day of the party arrived she told me she could not go because her mother was sick. I went to the party alone. When I got there I saw her there with another boy. This ended my first love affair.—Exchange.

Stumped the Philosophers.

David Hume (1711-1776) was the greatest English metaphysician of the Eighteenth century. In his "Treatise of Human Nature" he propounded questions that stirred Kant and other philosophers to action—questions that have never been answered to the satisfaction of all philosophers.

Virtue Unless Tested.

That fortitude which has encountered no dangers, that prudence which has surmounted no difficulties, that integrity which has been attacked by no temptation, can at best be considered but as gold not yet brought to the test, of which therefore the true value cannot be assigned.—Johnson.

"Blue Hen" State.

Blue Hen state is a nickname for Delaware. During the Civil war a certain popular officer of Delaware, named Captain Caldwell, asserted that a game cock to be unconquerable must be "a blue hen's chicken." This name was at once applied to his regiment and later to the state and its people.

The World Do Move.

The old boy who used to have his afternoon nap in the twine hammock with his steel-rimmed specs on his forehead, and then fall asleep after tea, now wears the tortoise-shell kind, plays golf and knows the next week's moving picture program by heart.

Signs.

Abe says: "When you catch a girl studying the marriage ritual the branch of promise laws and the time tables to Reno at the same time you can figure she's in an uncertain state of mind."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Effects of Diet.

All races who live mainly on fish, such as the Eskimos, have small eyes. On the other hand, a diet consisting mainly of meat enlarges the eyes.

Cement for China.

Mix a cupful of milk with a cupful of vinegar, separate the curd from the whey and mix the whey with the whites of five eggs, beating the whole together thoroughly. When well mixed, sift in a little quicklime and stir until it is of the consistency of thick paste. With this, broken china, glass and cracks of all kinds may be mended. It dries quickly and resists the action of water and heat.

Canada Self-Governing.

Canada is a self-governing dominion of the British empire. It makes its own laws, has its own law-making bodies and provides for its own defense. The only symbol of British authority is the appointment of the king's representative, the governor general of Canada; his power is limited and almost nominal.

Bright Bits From Books.

"It's ridiculous to imagine that one is always the same person," said Nancy. "That's why marriage is such a risk. You don't marry one person, you marry a whole bunch. Some of the bunch you may love—the rest . . . "—From "Self," by Beverly Nichols.

All the Difference.

The very gruffest and hardest of hearts has some musical strings in it; but they are tuned differently in every one of us.—Longfellow.

A Step From Main Street—It Pays To Walk!

Old Population on Increase.

Census made by the lowest of intelligent survey, United States Department of Agriculture, show that birth in the agricultural districts in the northeastern part of the country diverges slightly more than a unity to the acre. Enough in parts of the mid West and on the treeless plains this number definitions to an average of half a pair, or less, to the acre.

The Use of Vertical Lines.

By remembering that vertical lines emphasize the height of a room, one is able to make the low-ceilinged room appear normal. Wall paper with a pencil-lined stripe, long side drapes hung straight, panel mirrors and pictures and high-backed chairs are some of the things that help.

He Was In a Hurry.

On the first day of school I was busy getting the children's names. I had noticed one little boy sitting very quietly. Presently he raised his hand and asked: "Teacher, when are you going to give us our education and let us go home?"—Exchange.

More Powerful Than Satapan.

I think that to have known one good old man—one rich, rich, wise, thought the charges and misfortunes of a long life has directed his heart in his hand, like a palm branch, waving all discords into peace—helps one daily in God, in ourselves, and in each other more than many sermons.—H. W. Cunliffe.

Aleppo's Many Charms.

Aleppo is a source of delight, for her bazaars are more primitive than those of any other city in the country and, for the same reason, full of charm. One can buy any product of the Near and the Farther East from those merchants, the products of the looms of Persia, the silk of China brought thousands of miles by caravan, and wonderful brass and inlay work.

Our Work.

We ought really to think much more of our work and of what comes next to our hands to do day after day than of our affections and the proportions in which they are distributed.—John Addington Symonds.

Wrote First Modern Novel.

Who was the first modern English novelist? Samuel Richardson (1689-1761) is credited with that distinction. From early youth he was a printer. When he was fifty some publishers desiring a letter writer for people who could not express themselves asked him to prepare it. He made these letters tell a connective story. The result was the first modern novel, "Pamela" (1740).

Socrates on Envy.

"An envious man waxeth lean with the fatness of his neighbor," said old Socrates. "Envy is the daughter of pride, the mother of murder and revenge, the beginner of secret sedition, and the perpetual tormentor of virtue. Envy is the filthy slime of the soul; a venom, a poison, or quicksilver which consumeth the flesh and drieth up the marrow of the bones."

First Religious Newspaper.

The first religious newspaper ever issued was the Herald of Gospel Liberty, which was published by Elias Smith of Portsmouth, N. H., in 1808.—Indianapolis News.

Odd Experience.

I was having a tooth filled when I suddenly glanced at the dentist and saw fire creeping up his coat. The next minute his whiskers burst into flame. He rushed to the faucet and I beat out the fire with my hands. He had spilled some alcohol on the table where he was working, and the next minute had overturned a lighted taper. The alcohol had caught and the blaze had rushed up his cotton blouse. He was in bed for several days, and I felt that I had had rather a narrow escape myself.—Chicago Journal.

New York's Women's Press Club.

The first women's press club in America was founded in New York city in 1868, with Jennie June, Mrs. Frank Leslie, Mrs. Sidney Rosenfeld and other women authors and journalists among the charter members.

All About Wigwams and Powwows.

Miss M. C. Inderyn us that a high school girl recently inquired of a librarian: "Have you a book on American education in the Twelfth century?"—Boston Transcript.

Explanation of Genius.

All the genius I have lies just in this: When I have a subject in hand, I study it profoundly. Day and night it is before me. I explore it in all its bearings, my mind becomes pervaded with it. Then the effort which I make, the people are pleased to call the fruit of genius. It is the fruit of labor and thought.—Alexander Hamilton.

Get Some of Life's Pleasures.

Too many who are poor, or who are in moderate circumstances, are putting off happiness until they are wealthy. It is well to remember there is no happiness except in the present. No matter how little a man has, part of it should be spent in making life pleasant for his wife and self.—L. C. Dillman.

Statistics.

"Ef ain' no chitch f' stahd a baby nowd," said Charcoal Eph, in a ruminative mood, "but dat ain' nothin' 'tall, nuh, f' changin' de mind of a woman who done got hern't set."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Talk and Action.

There's too much talk and too little action on the part of most men. Talk is cheap and action costs, 'tis true. But if hands would fly as fast as tongues there would be accomplished very much more than now is done.—Exch.

Remarkable Journey.

My nephew, Ike, went under ether for an operation. After he came out of it, he was greatly frightened and held tight to his mother, sobbing: "Oh, mother, I—I was all gone—nowhere at all!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SOME WONDERFUL SUBURBAN DAY VALUES IN

Fur Trimmed Coats
$25.00

Yes, you have been accustomed to paying as high as $45.00 for coats like these—but Suburban Day brings them to you at a figure most emphatically reduced—what some would term a slaughter price.

SEVERAL FEATURES YOU SHOULD NOT OVERLOOK

First:—They are all-wool Bolivias—fully lined throughout and warmly interlined.

Second:—All of them are fur trimmed—wolf, dyed opposum and other equally desirable furs being used. Some of the coats have fur collar—some both collar and cuffs.

Third:—Because of the delayed Fall season, these coats present the timeliest opportunity which we have yet offered. You could not expect to get a coat such as these, at a price so low, much before the middle of January when clearing sales were well under way, and price slashing was the rule.

NATIONAL PROHIBITION IS ENDORSED BY GOVERNORS

A Majority of America's 52 State and Territorial Governors Pledged President Coolidge Their "Fullest Cooperation" in the Enforcement of the Volstead Act—Action Was Taken After Three Hours of Fiery Debate—Three Governors Fought to Block the Vote—Upon Adoption of the Resolution Governor John M. Parker of Louisiana Withdrew From the Conference—Governor Templeton Was Among the Chief Executives Pledging Support.

West Baden, Ind., Oct. 18—(By A. P.)—Scrapping a conference tradition of fifteen years standing, a majority of America's 52 state and territorial governors took their first record vote of history today in unanimously passing a resolution endorsing nation-all prohibition and pledging President Coolidge, "our fullest cooperation," in the enforcement of the Volstead act. The action came as the climax of a three hour session of fiery debate, parliamentary tangles, and perplexing maneuvering in which three governors fought throughout to block the vote.

Tonight the executives were en route to Washington to lay their statement before President Coolidge at a luncheon conference Saturday.

Today America passed over the hill on the prohibition question," Governor William Sweet, of Colorado, who introduced the resolution said tonight. The governors' resolution declared law observance to be "the fundamental basis of American citizenship," and enforcement "the primary duty of every official."

"National prohibition is now, by constitutional amendment, the law of our land," it said, and "an overwhelming majority of the citizens of the United States, are law-abiding and desirous of the enforcement of law."

Setting forth that only the federal authorities have control of liquor importation, the governors declared that the national government should exercise its full power and authority in dealing with rum fleets and border smuggling.

On a viva voce vote in which no opposing voice reached the cadrian or official reporters, the resolution was formally reported as "unanimously adopted."

With this ruling Governor Percival P. Baxter of Maine, presiding, the prohibition question, which was thrust into the conference, at the opening session Wednesday by Governor C. A. Hardee, of Florida in his response to the address of welcome, was disposed of at the final session of the conference."

The adoption of the resolution was followed by the formal resignation of Governor John M. Parker, of Louisiana, from the conference. The Louisiana chief declared at the opening debate that a vote on the resolution would call for his immediate resignation as the din of yeas greeted the question he walked from the room. He was a member of the Washington party, however, when the train began its journey. He would attend the president's conference Saturday, he declared.

After much stormy debate Governor George S. Silzer, of New Jersey introduced a resolution declaring the federal enforcement organization ineffective in its operations and that "we believe there can be no real enforcement," as long as present conditions exist.

Governor Neff immediately moved it be tabled. Seconded by Governor Walker, of Georgia, the motion to table was put to a roll call, and passed 18 to 2. The official roll call on this motion to table, corrected this evening the addition of several names of governors, who were not in the room when the poll was taken, stood as follows:

Yeas: Alabama, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Massachusetts, Missouri, Minnesota, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, Wyoming, Alaska and Hawaii.

Nos: Louisiana and New Jersey.

Present and not voting: Wisconsin. Absent, Michigan.

Other states were not officially represented in the conference and therefore did not vote.

After the roll call, Governor Sehar moved the suspension of the regular order of business in favor of "the discussion of prohibition methods as suggested by the recent meeting of the federal council of churches of Christ in America." The New Jersey governor's proposal, however, was tabled, on motion of Governor Neff, and the governors returned to the discussion of Governor Sweet's memorial. More parliamentary wrangling followed and when Governor Baxter called for a voice vote it was greeted with shouts of "yea."

Commenting on the action, Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, said: "This is the day of victory for law enforcement. We are moving with the advancing stream of human progress, and our way now is smoother than ever before."

LETTER TO THE PRESIDENT ON PROHIBITION AND ITS EFFECTS

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 19.—(By the A. P.)—A plea for "justice to an industry that has been made the football of practical politics," has been made to President Coolidge, by August A. Busch, former brewer, it was announced here tonight by officials of Anheuser-Busch Inc.

The plea, it was explained, was in a letter to the president of the United States on prohibition enforcement and its effects. The letter was timed to coincide with the meeting of governors in Washington tomorrow to consider prohibition enforcement, it was stated.

"Owing to the unfortunate political condition with which we are surrounded," the letter said, "and the demands made upon us through legislation and taxation, there were some evils that crept into the retail distributing system of our business. We stand ready, and we think the entire industry stand ready, to correct all those evils, and to lend hearty and effective cooperation to the government in the administration of any remedial law that will preclude the possible of a reversion of those evils against which public resentmen had been directed.

"The latter did not make any specific proposals, but mentioned a readiness of the writer to cooperate in perfecting a system "that will reduce intemperance."

Mr. Busch alleged that the attempt to enforce the prohibition laws" has corrupted the federal service, and uprooted respect for law. He also quoted the late President Harding's declaration that conditions relating to enforcement savor of nation-wide scandal, and that the enforcement situation is "the most demoralising factor in our public life."

The letter presented figures intended to show that a majority of the people has never expressed approval of prohibition, and said these figures furnish "the real reason why prohibition is not enforced in the United States, and why it cannot be enforced."

PRESIDENT TO BE BRIEF IN EXPLANATION TO GOVERNORS

Washington, Oct. 19.—President Coolidge in convening at the White House tomorrow a conference of governors to consider enforcement of the immigration, narcotic and prohibition laws, will confine his address to a few words of welcome and an explanation of the purposes of the meeting.

This statement, was made at the White House on the eve of the conference and was generally interpreted as sitting at rest reports that Mr. Coolidge would open the meeting with a definite declaration of his stand on prohibition enforcement and the prohibition question in general. The president will declare for enforcement of the prohibitory laws as well as for those statutes relating to immigration and the traffic in narcotics but with respect to the demands of prohibitionists, as represented in the recent citizenship conference here, it is thought that he will remain silent.

The address of the president to the governors, who will arrive in Washington, shortly after noon from their annual meeting at West Baden, Ind., will be relatively short. Whatever program the federal government has to propose for more effective law enforcement, will be developed by other federal officials who will address the conference.

METHODS OF BROKERS BEFORE $4,000,000 FAILURE

New York, Oct. 19.—A prominent politician of Syracuse, N. Y., and an accomplice who produced a "dummy" $50,000, were used in inducing William Kinney, Titusville, Pa., banker, to invest $50,000 in the consolidated exchange brokerage firm of Raynor, Nicholas and Truesdell a short time before its $4,000,000 failure in April of last year, it was disclosed at a referee's hearing today.

Under fire of the trustee's attorney, Earl H. Truesdell and Blaine J. Nicholas, members of the firm, admitted they had engaged a politician to intercede with Mr. Kinney in their behalf. They said they had forgotten his name, however, although they had paid him for his services.

The politician, they said, introduced Mr. Kinney to Charles Appleton, who agreed to invest $50,000 in the firm if the Titusville banker would invest a like amount. Mr. Kinney, they said, agreed, and Appleton's $50,000 was returned to him after the banker's had been received.

"Was 'Appleton' Charles Appleton, the publisher?" Referee Coffin asked. "It has been charged that you represented him as such to Mr. Kinney."

Both witnesses denied this.

The volume of the firm's business a few months prior to its failure was the largest in its history, Louis Gilbaugh, floor broker for Raynor, Nicholas and Truesdell, testified.

SHOT SELF AFTER KILLING GIRL AND HER STEPFATHER

Derby, Oct. 19.—John Delacco, a New Haven youth, shot and instantly killed Miss Mary Winn, 19, and her step-father, John Pemcewasker, at their home, 92 Water street here soon after 11.30 o'clock tonight.

Delecco turned the gun on himself after rushing into the kitchen of the girl's home and fired several shots. He is dying in Griffin hospital, where he was removed as soon as neighbors had summoned the police.

Delecco had visited Miss Winn earlier in the evening and then he left her it was believed he was returning to his home in New Haven. A short time later he returned to the house and rang the front door bell. Miss Winn, who already had retired, came downstairs with her sister, Stefani, 14 years old. As the former drew open the door, Delecco began firing from a revolver. Several bullets struck the young woman and she died instantly.

Jealousy is given as the reason for the young man's act.

TO CONTEST ELECTION TO SENATE OF E. B. MAYFIELD

Amarillo, Tex., Oct. 19.—Election officials of Texas are enjoined from destroying or interfering with ballots of the general election of last November, in a restraining order granted here today by Federal Judge James C. Wilson. The election was marked last fall by the senatorial contest, between Earle B. Mayfield, and George E. B. Peddy, which was taken to the courts.

The order was granted on petition filed by Luther Nickels, attorney of Dallas, in behalf of Peddy, which also asked the court to appoint receivers in all counties to take possession of the ballot boxes and all election records. A hearing on this clause of the petition was ordered October 29, at Amarillo.

Peddy was unsuccessful in the electing for United States senator from Texas and a contest against the electio nof Mayfield was filed later in the senate by representatives of Mr. Peddy.

Political Forecast By Senator Moses

Leading Republicans Take Nomination of President Coolidge for Granted.

Washington, Oct. 19.—President Coolidge will have opposition in the republican national convention next year, Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, chairman of the republican senate campaign committee, said today, upon his return from a swing through twelve states, west and east. The senator, who conferred with the president during the day on the political situation, added, however, that everywhere he had been he had found a favorable spirit toward Mr. Coolidge, with scarcely any leading republicans who did not take his nomination for granted.

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania; former Governor Lowden, of Illinois, and Senator Johnson, of California, were among those mentioned by Senator Moses in connection with the presidential nomination contest. He would not venture a prediction as to whether Mr. Coolidge would be nominated, saying it was too early for that.

Senator Moses declared that there are today more men "affirmatively for Henry Ford for president than for any other one man."

Norwich Suburban Day

Suburban day in Norwich has long since been synonymous with bargain day. It is one of those trading events which is intended to appeal to the buying public of the eastern part of the state. The benefits that are attached make it advisable for traders to patronize the Norwich stores today.

None is helped like those who aid themselves. The opportunities are offered with the expectation that they will be made the most of. They are the trade openings that are sought and the time to get their benefit is while they are available.

Norwich stores have planned a day of big business. Bargains like time wait for no man. Make the most of the chance.

BUY IN NORWICH TODAY!

"They are not all of one party," he said, "nor are they organized. If Ford accepts the nomination of the Farmer-Labor party, as he seems inclined now to do, the situation will be somewhat unhappy for the republicans as I would think that every electoral vote Ford will get will be at the expense of the republican party."

Senator Moses said Governor Lowden is conducting an active campaign for the republican presidential nomination, adding that he has a capable representative in Washington who is undertaking to persuade the republican leaders in the states to stand for uninstructed delegates.

"In one or two congressional districts in Indiana," he continued, "Johnson-for-president' clubs have been organized. Also Senator Watson has an organization in that state that undoubtedly will try to get the delegation for Watson.

"I assure there is no doubt that Pinchot is a candidate. Governor Dixon of Montana recently made a speech nominating him. I expect that Senator Johnson will get some delegates in Pennsylvania, also.

"I was told in New York that that state will go for Senator Wadsworth."

Senator Moses said he had not found any material change in the political sentiment in the west.

"There still is this feeling of dissatisfaction and resentment," he added. "They find it hard to define or explain, but I think it exists very clearly and it seems that the situation has been very badly dealt with by the republicans."

BRYAN ISSUED STATEMENT WHEN NOT INVITED TO SPEAK

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 19.—William Jennings Bryan reappeared at the constitutional convention of the Y. M. C. A. today and supported opponents to the so-called Slade resolution, proposed as a new "test" for membership.

The resolution, which would eliminate reference to the scriptures and to Jesus Christ as divine, and calls for a simple declaration of purpose to serve Christ rather than membership in an Evangelical church, is the principal subject before the 400 delegates here from all parts of the United States and Canada to adopt a constitution.

Mr. Bryan is not a delegate to the convention, although he said he has been a member for forty years. His appearance today was the second since the convention opened Wednesday, but he has not been invited to address the gathering.

While the "membership test," committee was threshing out the problem today, Mr. Bryan issued a written statement, declaring that if the Y. M. C. A. lowers its bars to admit to active membership young men who are not members of an Evangelical church, the organization will be wrecked. A dozen speakers pleaded for the "liberalizing" of the active membership requirement before the committe.

WEDDING
Angell-Grew.

Wellsley, Mass., Oct. 19—Miss Jane Norton Grew was married to James Waterhouse Angell, of New Haven, Conn., son of President James R. Angell, of Yale university, at St. Andrew's Episcopal church today. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. C. Powell, of Boston. The bride is the daughter of Edward W. Grew, a Boston real estate broker. Mr. and Mrs. Angell will make their home in Cambridge.

Quinn Commander American Legion

California Man Was Elected on Eleventh Ballot—Election Made Unanimous.

San Francisco, Oct. 19.—(By the A. P.)—A tired hand yielded the executive management of the American Legion to a newly elected national commander when Alvin Owsley, retiring commander, turned over to John R. Quinn, of California, the responsibility of guiding the destinies of the legion for 1923-24, at the close of the fifth annual convention of the organization here tonight.

Owsley, weary from his year's strife, his 65,000 miles of traveling during his administration in behalf of the legion and showing a loss of 25 pounds, smiled a wan smile as he took Commander Quinn by the hand and said:

"I turn you over to the mercies of the newspaper men, the photographers and the public."

A far different type of man took up Owsley's burden. Quinn, a cowboy and a typical westerner of the open plains, immediately announced he would dedicate his administration to conducting a vigorous campaign to obtain immediate passage of the ex-service men's adjusted compensation act, and a close and human contact between the disabled veterans and the government agencies in charge of rehabilitation and hospitalization.

Quinn was elected on the eleventh ballot today. His total vote was 562, compared with 342 for James A. Drain, of Washington, D. C., 40 for Clarence R. Edwards, of Boston, and 54 for Wilder S. Metcalf, of Kansas, with 15 absent or not voting.

The following national vice-commanders were elected:

Ryall Duffy, Found Du Lac, Wis.; Thurman Mann, High Point, N. C.; William B. Healy, Wilkesbarre, Pa.; C. M. Stoddard, Arisona, and Lester Albert, Idaho.

The only other elective office in the legion, that of national chaplain, was filled by Ezra C. Clemens, of Minnesota, who was elected by acclamation.

While the convention was officially closed today until next October, when it will convene at St. Paul, a grand ball was held here tonight, as part of the official program.

The first communication received by the newly elected commander was a letter signed by M. E. Saville, formerly colonel of the 91st division, in which Commander Quinn was urged to drop his plan to fight for the bonus.

Quinn made this statement after his election:

"As national commander of the American Legion, I shall endeavor always to interpret the ideals and achieve the aims of my comrades in service. I shall carry on the fight the legion has always waged for the disabled men and women, who gave so much for their country. I shall seek to secure a close and human contact between them and the governmental agencies dealing with their welfare.

"I shall conduct an active and vigorous campaign to secure the immediate passage of the adjusted compensation act, urged by the fifth national convention of the legion.

"With the help of the thousands of men who have dedicated their lives to the principles set forth in the preamble of the American Legion constitution and who now constitute the membership of the American Legion, I expect to see the accomplishment of greater deeds to the benefit of our glorious republic."

MRS. FRANKLIN BISHOP PRESIDENT OF AUXILIARY

San Francisco, Oct. 19—Mrs. Franklin Bishop of Leicester, Mass., was elected national president of the American Legion auxiliary, composed of mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of legion members and women who performed military service during the war, at the final session of the organization, late today.

SITUATION IN GERMANY AGAIN BECOMES CHAOTIC

Berlin, Oct. 19.—(By the A. P.)—Diplomatic relations between the Berlin, Munich and Dresden governments, which local official quarters represented a shaving assumed "a more tranquil aspect during the past twenty-four hours," late tonight were given an unexpected jolt by Dr. Von Kahr, the Bavarian dictator.

Dr. Von Kahr informed the central government that Bavaria hereafter must decline to enter into formal or official relations with Dr. Otto Gessler, the federal minister of defense, who is military dictator for all Germany under the provisions of President Ebert's proclamation.

More than 800 treaties have been registered to date with the League of Nations.

UNITED STATED IS SAPPING BRITISH ISLES OF WHISKEY

Distillers in Great Britain Tell Consumers That They Must Face Occasional Shortages as Long as American Bootleggers Are Willing to Pay Higher Prices—Only 25 Per Cent of a Scotch Distillery Goes to Home Consumers—Tourist Traffic Profitable to Bermuda and the Bahamas—Commissioner Haynes to Conduct a Campaign Against Home Brew.

London, Oct. 19.—Whiskey drinkers of Britain are being told point-blank by some of the best distillers that as long as American bootleggers are willing to pay higher prices for their products the home consumbers must continue to face occasional shortages in their favorite brands.

One of the most famous Scotch distilleries recently ran a full page advertisement in some of the weekly magazines saying that only 25 per cent. of its stocks can go to home consumers.

"So long as American and other export markets are willing to pay extra for quality we must prefer to sell for exportation," the advertisement said.

Commended by English newspapers as more tactful is the outgiving of "His Majesty's Trade Commissioner," who wrote in a recent issue of the Board of Trade Journal:

"Bermuda and the Bahamas are enjoying exceptional prosperity at present owing to their tourist traffic and other resultants from proximity to the United States."

EXPECT FURTHER SEIZURES OF BEER AND GRAIN ALCOHOL

New York, Oct. 19.—Further arrests and confiscation of large quantities of beer and grain alcohol in breweries in New York and New Jersey were expected tonight as a sequel to the arrest of 11 ment and the revelation of an alleged $50,000 liquor bribery plot yesterday, it was intimated by officials of the federal attorney's office and of the internal revenue bureau.

Hugh A. McQuillan, chief special agent of the special intelligence unit of the treasury department, declared he expected federal agents to arrest another "real beer" brewer in addition to those taken into custody at the Hotel Pennsylvania yesterday. He will be charged, when arrested, with conspiring to bribe prohibition officials to permit the sale and manufacture of illegal beer and to prevent the sale of Pennsylvania beer in New Jersey.

Bribe collection money seized by federal agents from principals in the plot bared yesterday and turned over to the government, McQuillan said amounted to $150,000. On evidence gathered yesterday, Assistant Federal Attorney Matusek today obtained warrants for the searching of a warehouse on the lower west side of this city.

The warrants, he said, were obtained after arraignment and release in $500 bail each of six men arrested last night on three motor trucks alleged to have been bringing illegal beer from Paterson, N. J. to this city.

Meantime three alleged counterfeiters of internal revenue stamps, whiskey labels and government physicians' permits, who were arrested last April and who have been on trial before federal Judge Inch in Brooklyn for nine days, today were found guilty and sentenced to the Atlanta penitentiary.

Alfred Marciano and his brother Alphonse were sentenced to seven years and fines of $5,000 each. Vincent Larosa was sentenced to two years and a $2,000 fine. John Grasso was acquitted.

TRUNK CONTAINED THREE 5-GALLON CANS OF ALCOHOL

Andover, Conn., Oct. 19.—After watching a trunk from which trickled a fluid with the odor of alcohol in the railroad station here all of last night and today up to 5 o'clock, two federal officers and a deputy sheriff arrested Max Asher, of Andover, when he presented a baggage check for the trunk.

Asher was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Charles A. Faulkner tonight on a charge of having liquor in his possession. An examination of the trunk revealed three 5-gallon cans of alcohol, two of which nearly were empty because of leaks. Asher entered a demurrer to the charge and was fined $75 and costs, totalling $96.45.

Asher said the trunk was shipped to him by a friend in New York City and that the alcohol was intended for his own personal use.

COURT SUSTAINS INJUNCTION AGAINST SALOONKEEPER

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 19.—With their first victory won in the federal court here through the action of Judge C. L. Witmer in sustaining injunction proceedings against a Hazleton saloon proprietor, state police throughout the anthracite region today served notice on all saloons here to close their places within seventy-two hours.

Six state troopers from the Wyoming barracks visited places in Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Carbondale and other cities in the valley.

If the orders are not complied with, it is said the court will be asked to issue injunctions against hundreds of saloons throughout the hard coal fields.

TO CONDUCT CAMPAIGN AGAINST HOME BREW

Washington, Oct. 19.—Prohibition Commissioner Haynes has launched upon a new campaign against home brew.

In order to stamp out what he characterized as "the menace" of trafficking in home brew ingredients, the commissioner announced today he would revoke the permits of all breweries which continue the practice of making malt syrups, now widely used as a base for home made beers.

"All breweries will be notified," said Mr. Haynes, "to cease the manufacture of such syrups at once, and failure to do so will result in a prompt citation and revocation to their permits to manufacture cereal beverages.

"It is the intention of the department to absolutely stamp out the menace in all sections of the country in a campaign to halt the manufacture and traffic of home brew ingredients at the source."

The new policy was decided on after a conference between Commissioner Haynes and his legal staff. Clark M. Perry, prohibition Director of Wisconsin, also participated in the conferences and reported the large sales of syrup by Wisconsin breweries.

So extensive has become the traffic in malt and other beer ingredients that in many cities retail stores have been established dealing in nothing else. Several such stores are flourishing in Washington where a campaign to put them out of business was begun several months ago but failed. The establishments were raided by revenue officers, and the stock carted away to a government warehouse, only to be returned a short time later when it was found that there was no provision of the law under which prosecutions could be brought.

As put out by the manufacturers, the malt and other materials are accompanied by receipts showing how they can be used in making cookies and other food products, and labels are attached highly recommending malt for its food qualities. Heretofore it has been the apparent opinion of officials that the sale of these materials could not be regarded as a violation of the prohibition law. In cases where they are manufactured by breweries, however, Commissioner Haynes believes it will be unnecessary to go into the courts on the issue since the brewing establishments operate under permits issued at the pleasure of the federal government.

WORKINGS OF AN ALLEGED BOSTON BLACKMAIL RING

Boston, Oct. 19.—A story of the inner workings of an alleged Boston blackmail ring, involving William J. Corcoran, former district attorney, of Middlesex county, Harry E. Levenson, at attorney, and Joseph C. Pelletier, former district attorney for Suffolk county, removed for misconduct in office, was unfolded in Suffolk county court today when the voluntary confession of Mrs. Thereen Duggan, alleged "lure", was admitted as evidence in the trial of Corcoran and seven others on charges of larceny and extortion.

The confession admitted by Judge Joseph Quinn today after opposing counsel had argued since yesterday afternoon and read by Assistant District Attorney Hill, told how four "detectives" broke into her apartment and obtained $17,000 from James A. Donovan of Boston after threatening him with exposure. It related details of another raid in which a similar group entered a suite in a Boston hotel and obtained a sum of money from a Maine lumberman, whose name she said was Curtis, and of another episode in which the group was said to have failed in a similar attempt to obtain sums of money from Max Kern, of Beverly.

Mrs. Duggan's statement declared that she obtained $8,800 on her share in the Donovan affair, that her husband, Franch Duggan, received a like amount, and that "the rest was supposed to be divided between Levenson, Corcoran and Pelletier, and the detectives."

The confession was made in the office of Attorney General J. Weston Allen in November, 1919.

SWORN AFFIDAVIT ACCUSES W. E. D. STOKES OF TRICKERY

New York, Oct. 19.—Injury to a juror's leg this afternoon forced adjournment until Monday of the Stokes divorce retrial, after Mrs. Hattie Johnson, nearest active in procuring witnesses for W. E. D. Stokes in his suit against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, had been ejected from the court room on a suspicion of coaching witnesses with a huge gold crucifix and Mr. Stokes had been accused in a sworn statement read to the jury, of "trickery" in inducing a witness to sign an affidavit.

Juror No. 12, J. F. Grugan, sent word to Supreme Court Justice Mahoney shortly before 4 o'clock that his leg had been hurt and he would like to be excused. Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Mrs. Stokes, was cross-examining a minor witness. He raised no objection to immediate recess until next week, as court customarily adjourns over Saturday.

RIOTOUS SCENES OUTSIDE MOUNT JOY PRISON, DUBLIN

Dublin, Oct. 19.—(By the A. P.)—Rioting scenes occurred outside Mount Joy prison here today when crowds of women congregated in an effort to prevent the removal of hunger striking prisoners. ### 15,000 PRACTICING MEDICINE UNDER BOGUS DIPLOMAS

St. Louis, Oct. 19.—W. P. Sachs, who last night held a conference with Circuit Attorney Shlener in connection with the investigation of traffic in spurious medical diplomas, said the prosecutor he believed that probably 15,000 persons were practicing medicine in the United States under bogus diplomas, Henry W. McChesney, one of Sachs' lawyers asserted this afternoon.

SUIT FOR $50,000 DAMAGES AGAINST W. E. D. STOKES

Chicago, Oct. 19.—A suit for $50,000 damages against W. E. D. Stokes, of New York, who is suing his wife for divorce in that city, was filed by one Daniel Jackson. Only a praecipe in the suit was filed and the identity and allegations in the case have not been ascertained.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
31 Church Street Telephone 1062

An assignment of cases session of the short calendar term of the Windham County superior court was held in Willimantic Friday forenoon, Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin on the bench. The session lasted but ten minutes. The assignments follow: To Court—Bessie L. Dow vs. Bert E. Dow, first Tuesday, October 23; Joseph A. Baillargeon vs. Eleanor Marottes, second Tuesday, October 23; Bertha Erbacker vs. Albert Rondeau third Thursday, October 25; Marian Gaudreau vs. Ovil Lantagne, first Wednesday, October 24; Edward A. Gooding vs. Trenor A. Rice, first Thursday, October 25; Frederick C. Jackson vs. Frank Rossa second Thursday, October 25; Herbert L. Switzer vs. Peter Karouach and Anthony Turansky, third Thursday, October 25; To jury—Viola J. Karouach vs. William Gaffney, first Tuesday, October 30; Cornelius D. Shea vs. Nellie Shea, second Tuesday, October 30; Louise Van Derr vs. Christian Lorensen, D. A. third Tuesday, October 30; Victor Budinski vs. The Jones Auto Company, first Wednesday, October 31.

All the cases on the short calendar were continued, with the exception of that of L. Bachman & Company vs. River Weaving Company, which was declared off. Court adjourned until Tuesday morning at 10 a. m.

The Brotherhood of the Congregational Church held its first meeting of the season in the Church House with President Harry W. Standish in charge. Over one hundred members were present and a splendid supper was served by the Congregational women's society. It was voted to donate $30 to the Welfare Bureau and the Visiting Nurses Association. Norman Dash of Holyoke, Mass., provided the entertainment for the evening, giving Scotch dialect stories and songs. Rev. W. C. Norris was heartily applauded when he gave an account of his observation and a description of his recent western trip.

Frank Brown, proprietor of the old Eaton Farm in Mansfield, on Ash St., was before the Mansfield town court Wednesday afternoon, charges of reputation and sale of liquor. Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews held court. Brown pleaded guilty to the charges and after going out to raise the money to pay his fine he returned and gave notice of an appeal to the Tolland County superior court. Bonds were fixed at $1,000. State Policeman Harrison Hulbert brought the charges against Brown, following a raid made by himself, State Policeman Hardesty of the Stafford Springs barracks, and Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officers William S. Congdon and Stanton L. Briggs. A search was made of the premises but no liquor was found. Brown was arrested and taken before the Mansfield town court. No evidence was introduced in the case. It is understood that the evidence was secured by spotters in much the same manner as in Willimantic and Putnam, where violators were caught and sent to jail. Brown was fined $150 and costs on both charges the total amount being $425. In addition to that he was given a thirty day suspended jail sentence. There are certain technicalities in Browns' case which are said to exist. He has never been convicted before of liquor selling and could not legally be charged with reputation. The fact that both charges were preferred against him leaves a loophole for a reversal of the decision in the higher court. However, it cannot be understood why Brown pleaded guilty and then decided to appeal to the superior court.

Funeral services for Mrs. Eva Minnie Swan Doubleday were held at 11.30 o'clock Friday morning at 62 North street. Rev. F. F. Foshay officiated. Burial was in Windham Cemetery. Avery and VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

The funeral services for Mrs. Helen M. Ashmead were held at two o'clock Friday afternoon at the Scotland church. Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead officiated. Burial was in Scotland cemetery. The bearers were, James H. Johnson, Charles Brean, Gerald Waldo, and A. H. Gallup. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

In connection with the observance of Children's Week, in an effort designed to bring before fathers and mothers of the city the great need of religious training for the children, a union meeting of local Protestant churches was held at the Methodist Church with a large attendance. In charge of the meeting was Arthur Arnold, superintendent of the Congregational Sunday school and chairman of the Children's Week committee. On the platform were Rev. F. F. Foshay of the Baptist church, Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead, of the Methodist church and Rev. John H. Rosebaugh, Episcopal director of religious education in Connecticut. Rev. Dr. Rosebaugh, delivered an address on "Religion in the Home". The union chorus under the direction of Edwin F. Cross with Mrs. Charles H. Beebe at the organ provided music. Scripture was read by Rev. Mr. Foshay and the invocation was by Rev. Mr. Muirhead.

Attorney Arthur G. Bill of Danielson, coroner for Windham county, stated Friday morning that he would hold an inquest some day next week in this city in regard to the death of Mrs. Ida Margolis of Waterbury, killed Monday afternoon when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by the Boston express at the Columbia Avenue crossing of the New Haven Road. The inquest is delayed while a search is being made for certain witnesses of the accident.

An automobile driven by Omer Guay of Chaplin and that driven by Francis Perkins of South Coventry crashed, Friday morning, on Lowell Main street opposite the gate of No. 4 mill of the American Thread Company. Perkins was turning the street when his car was struck by the Guay machine, causing some damage. Guay agreed to settle. The police took no action.

The first Mothers' Meeting of the season was held at the Congregational Church House in the afternoon with the Beginners' Class, in observance of Children's Week. Twenty-four children were present and a number of mothers. Mrs. Helen Boss Cummings was in charge, assisted by Mrs. Donald A. French and Mrs. Marjorie Church.

Speaking of Evangelism in the Congregational Church, past and present, Rev. Walter E. Lanphear of Newton gave one of the most interesting talks on this subject that has been heard at the Congregational Church there for some days, according to the Wellington (Kansas Daily News of October 14. Rev. Mr. Lanphear was formerly pastor of the Congregational Church in Chaplin.

The automobile school open to men and women, held a session at the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening, with C. F. Putnam, instructor.

A. A. C. Tyler Camp, No. 3, Spanish War Veterans held its regular meeting recently in th eG. A. R. rooms in charge of Commander Bernet Windmiller. District Inspector, Arthur W. Sweet will conduct the annual camp inspection and a smoker will be held at the next regular meeting, November 1st.

Garde Sacred Heart of St. Mary's Parish, in command of Captain Arthur Vertefeuille will leave today (Saturday) to take part in a prize drill in Webster, Mass.

The sum of $25 was voted to the Willimantic Visiting Nurses Association, at a meeting of Obwebetuck Lodge, No. 14, I. O. O. F.

The Past Noble Grands of Violet Rebekah Lodge entertained the Thames Past Noble Grands' Association recently at the I. O. O. F. Hall in this city. Dinner was served at noon and a social hour followed. The October meeting was called at three o'clock by the president, Mrs. Ada Sweet of Mystic. One candidate was initiated. Mrs. Mary E. Lovett, president of the Rebekah Assembly gave an account of her visit to the Maine Assembly at Portland.

Much enjoyment was derived from a question box. Members were present from Mystic, Groton, New London, Jewett City and Norwich, also a visitor from Wangan, R. I.

Red Cross nurses from surrounding towns, Miss McNamara of the American Thread Company and Miss Stone, nurse at the Normal School, were delightfully entertained at dinner in this city by Miss Sara Keevers and Miss Alice Alford, the Red Cross Public Health Nurses of Willimantic. The dinner was given at the home of Miss Alford on Prospect street. The house and table were artistically decorated. Those present were, Mrs. O'Keefe of Windsor Locks, Miss Govern of Broadbrook, Miss Mead of Stafford Springs and the Misses McCarthy, Hoenheim, Kob, Ives and Hathoway from Rockville.

Twelve members of Windham Girls' Club will leave today (Saturday) to attend the two days' meeting of the Connecticut League of Girls' Clubs in Meriden. Two of the members are delegates.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

There was special interest in Danielson and all through this section Friday in the announcement that the state police commission had appointed Albert S. Field, officer in charge of the Danielson barracks, and Officer Arthur W. Williams, also of the local station, sergeants in the state police department.

Sergeants Field and Williams are officers of much experience. Sergeant Field was for years jailer of the Windham county jail at Brooklyn and in that capacity gained a broad insight into police work and methods and has added to this since he came into the state police department.

Sergeant Williams is the senior officer in point of service on duty in this section of the state. Prior to the consolidation of the state police department and the motor vehicle department he was a motor vehicle inspector on duty in this territory, having been appointed nearly three years ago.

It is anticipated that both officers will remain on duty in this territory.

Peter Jodoin, of North Main street, told Friday of an interesting interview he had with the driver of a large car bearing a New York registration that spun around on Dark Lantern hill Thursday and straightened out and came to a stop without overturning, though it came within an ace of doing so.

Mr. Jodoin, traveling eastward in his own car, was an eye witness of the happening. Curious to know just how the New York driver handled his car after suddenly coming upon the crest of the danger hill, he asked him about it. The answer bears out the contention made many times in this column that drivers unfamiliar with the route are so startled upon coming over the crown of the hill after a long pull upgrade that they lose their nerve and apply the brakes on their machines too quickly and too harshly, causing their cars to skid.

This driver told Mr. Jodoin that when he saw the hill stretching downward before him that it gave him much the same impression as would be gained by looking down a chute the chutes. He was surprised and frightened at the grade and sharply applied the brakes, his car skidding and making a complete loop as he did so.

Another old stage coach driver departed this life Friday, when William Henry Taylor, 72, died at his home in Chepachet. Mr. Taylor sat atop a stage coach on its daily trips between Providence and Chepachet, a few miles east of here, until the advent of the Providence and Danielson trolley road, the operation of which spelled the end of the stage coach days, but Mr. Taylor, having retired to his little farm lived to see the trolley line go the same way as did his stage coaches and the rails over which the cars ran torn up and carted away.

Mr. Taylor was born in Coventry, R. I., and for years lived in that place. He leaves his wife, a son, Herbert H. Taylor of Providence, and a sister, Mrs. Gardner Howard of Howard Hill.

Another of the service battery's dances was held in the town hall on Friday evening, when the 192nd Field Artillery band of New London was on hand to furnish music for the dancers. This, the second dance of the fall season, attracted attendance from all the territory hereabouts and was successful.

Interesting are copies of three different Providence publications, dated in 1801 and 1802 that are in the possession of Lafayette Blanchard of Reynolds street. The papers, now yellowed and brittle with age, are interesting records of the days in which they were printed.

Old style spelling in which f replaces a is used throughout all three papers, which are much smaller than the standard publications of this day. The news not only covered happenings in Providence county, but also matters of importance that occurred in Washington, Baltimore and Boston.

There is some advertising, evidence that its value was appreciated even in those long past days. In one little single column three-inch advertisement one business man offers such a variety of commodities as flour, nails, pine boards, cheese, candles, saddles and several cannon.

The papers have been in the Blanchard family for many years and are highly prized by Mr. Blanchard.

Succeeding a northeaster that at times did produce considerable rain, though not up to the downfall of an old-fashioned fall storm, a southwest storm with nothing more than a drizzle to introduce it set in Friday afternoon in a belated effort to increase the water supply of this territory. Though Friday and Thursday may both be listed as rainy days the total rainfall during the period is estimated not to have exceeded half an inch up to nightfall Friday. While streams are remarkably low all through this territory, there is an ample supply of good water for Danielson, and no restrictions have been placed on its use up to the present time.

It was remarked Friday that notwithstanding the long drought all the territory hereabouts has been remarkably free from forest fires this fall. None of any importance has occurred hereabouts. Considering all the possibilities, it appears reasonable that those who have frequented the woods have used due care and have not been reckless in throwing away lighted matches, cigarettes, cigars or doing other things that would be apt to set a forest fire raging. The rain of the past two days has greatly reduced the fire hazard for the present at least.

The state armory is one of the structures in Danielson that has been definitely removed from the realm of purchasibility of being cold during the winter season through lack of coal for fuel. The state has equipped the heaters with oil-burning devices and fuel oil will be used for heating the building hereafter. Oil burning devices also have been installed in a number of homes in Danielson and other contracts are pending at the present time.

The third of the lectures in the university extension course arranged for and being attended by about 40 teachers of this immediate territory is to be held next Monday afternoon. The interest being shown in the course is indicated by the fact that out of a total of 40 enrolled there was only one absentee at the lecture on Monday of this week.

Mention was made Friday of the fact that the attention of the state highway department has been called to the desirability of improving Stearns street as a state highway, in order to reduce the burden of traffic now passing out of the business center of the borough through Reynolds street onto the route to Providence. With Stearns street improved, an alternate route off the Danielson-Providence trunk line, or onto it, would be offered the thousands of motorists who use it every week. Using Stearns street would save distance for inbound traffic due to bear north from Danielson as well as offering a freer avenue of operation. The same would apply to traffic coming from the north and due to bear eastward from this place. The Stearns street cut-off would offer a splendid optional route for many drivers and would greatly lessen the pressure of traffic through Reynolds street, now often congested with moving machines.

The entertainment given at the theatre, Thursday evening, for the benefit of Minnetexit Hook and Ladder company attracted a large audience and will be the means of increasing the treasury holdings of the fire company.

On account of congestion in the schools at Ballouville, 12 pupils are being daily transported to the school at Attawaugan.

New surfacing has been placed this week on a section of the road leading from Attawaugan to White's crossing, this route now carrying heavy travel on account of the detour between Attawaugan and Putnam on the regular state highway route.

Miss Susie Collins has been a recent visitor in New London.

PUTNAM

Numbers who remember him as a boy and youth in this city are interested in the fact that Attorney W. J. K. Patron is one of the attorneys for the defence in the so-called Corcoran case, an action about to be tried in Boston and one in a series of cases attracting more than ordinary attention in that city. Attorney Patron began his law studies after leaving this city and is remembered here as a youth with ambition to get along in life, but only starting on his way. He has done well in the legal profession and his activities in the important case in which he is about to actively engage will be watched here with special interest.

It may have taken court action to prove the matter, but it has been definitely established that there are no wild hens or roosters in the neighboring town of Woodstock. For that matter, few have been under the impression that wild poultry roamed the expanses of that town of large area, though one hears tales of the wild turkeys once so abundant in this territory.

Nevertheless, Gus Racine and Stanley Galenski, both more or less well known here and neither so careful that they take four looks in each direction before crossing a one-way street, have been before Justice Chas. M. Perrin in Woodstock to answer to a charge of shooting a hen in that town. Some chasing about was necessary on the part of Officer Merrill Keith of the state police before Racine and Galenski were rounded up, but they were finally apprehended, presented in court, charges made and explanations offered.

It appears Racine and Galenski have been engaged recently in picking apples for pay in Woodstock. While over in that territory they saw a flock of hens roaming about in a heavily wooded section and were told, and convinced, that the hens were wild—the descendants of others that had escaped from the coops of poultry dealers who come into Woodstock buying live fowl for delivery in the Providence market.

The appeal of wildness having been established to their satisfaction, they came here, obtained a gun and went over into the nearby town, in the vicinity of Harrisville, and shot a hen. Their arrest followed, although a special trip to Montville was necessary for Officer Keith in returning Racine, who had gone there to work.

Rev. H. A. Calhoun, of Woodstock, appeared to claim ownership of the hen that was shot and to set forth for the world to know that his hens were not wild—that he fed them and that they came home to roost every night.

This information was in the nature of a surprise for Racine and Galenski and, after explanations all around it was finally decided that the matter could be adjusted by the accused replacing the hen they had shot with another one, and this being done the case was rolled.

William S. Johnson, one of the best known residents of Putnam, has a 10-cent mark note which he bought in Boston late this week for five cents in American money, and which Mr. Johnson is a shrewd speculator appears that he overpaid in this particular trade at least when consideration is given to the depths to which the German mark's value had fallen when the exchange quotations were made Friday morning. Mr. Johnson is not worrying about his investment however. He bought the marks not for large denomination merely to obtain a souvenir that is more or less of a curiosity and not with any view to netting a margin of profit or with the expectation that there may come a day when Fraser Williston that was will be back in power and redeeming the coupons of paper marks with which they say has been flooded at their face value.

At Friday morning's session of the city court, Michael Gadzenski was before Judge M. H. Geissler to answer to a charge of intoxication and also to another count alleging improper conduct with little girls. Gadzenski was fined $20 and costs on the intoxication charge and the second count continued and Gadzenski placed on probation for a period of six months.

Stuart H. May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra May, and Miss Marguerite Bosworth, were married Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. Henry D. Baker at the home of the bride's brother, Wendell Bosworth, in East Woodstock. The rooms were artistically decorated with autumn foliage.

The guests numbered about sixty, nearly all relatives. Nelson Frink of North Woodstock played the wedding march. The bride wore a gown of white satin and georgette with veil of tulle and a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of carnations.

The bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy Bowen of Eastford, a niece of the bride. She wore blue crepe de chine. Two little nieces of the bride, Irene and Mildred Bosworth, daughters of Wendell and Benjamin Bosworth, were flower girls and were dressed respectively in pink and blue silk mull.

WESTERLY

Mrs. Joe Stedman of Westerly returns today (Saturday) after four weeks' trip in northern New York and a visit with her son, Edmund C. Stedman, at Glens Falls, also visits in the Adirondacks and Catskills, with Ticonderoga, Hudson Falls, Lake George, Saratoga Springs, Mount McGregor and Albany in the itinerary. She admired the scenery along the Hudson, and had a visit at Mount Vernon, N. Y., where she was the guest of Mrs. Fred H. Benedict (Edna Summers), formerly of Westerly. In New York Thursday evening she attended a concert in Carnegie Hall by the famous Sistine Chapel choir, from Rome.

Most of the cases in the Third district court Friday were continued for trial, having been postponed a week to permit the interested attorneys to be present at the Rhode Island public utilities hearing on the granting of bus licenses on the Westerly-Ashaway route. Clerk M. Walter Flynn on Friday morning in the district court room read the docket as follows:

New Writ—R. M. Hollingshead & Co., vs. A. D. Day alias. Continued two weeks.

Russell L. Slocum vs. Harry Deutsch. Continued one week.

State, Thomas E. Brown, Chief of Police, com'lt. vs. Frank Algiers. Continued one week.

State vs. Frank Stella. Continued one week.

As there was no appearance of anyone to claim the liquors seized in the raid of the house of Louis Garofia, 56 Cross street, on Saturday, Oct. 13th, Judge Michael J. Turano ordered the nine cases of home brewed beer and the half-barrel of the same together with the bottle of gin and moonshine forfeited to the state.

Monday morning, in the superior court in Providence, a hearing will be granted Attorney Henry L. Burdick and Everett A. Kingsley on the restraining order issued by Judge Barrows, when an injunction was asked to prevent the collection of the sewage assessment tax laid by the tax assessors of Westerly. This tax, which was to be due and payable Oct. 15, was held up by the restraining order. Cited to appear at the hearing in Providence Monday is the town treasurer of Westerly, James M. Pendleton.

The temporary wooden front to the north show window of the Woolworth store was removed Thursday. The store now presents an up-to-date appearance with its new glass and iron front with granite sub-course to the show windows. There are now three show windows with two front doors, where formerly there were only two front windows.

Miss Maud Briggs has arrived at her home in Ashaway from East Liberty, Pa.

The two store buildings under the West Broad street railroad bridge are undergoing alterations and improvements. The store front, corner of Liberty and West Broad, has been brought two feet nearer the curb line and up-to-date windows are being put in. The floor level has been lowered two feet. At the corner of West Broad and Mechanic streets the building has been altered to be occupied as an automobile display room, a double large door having been cut of sufficient size to admit an automobile, on the West Broad street side. A shoe repairing store is to occupy the Liberty street corner.

By the first of December the lunch cart at the west end of Pawcatuck river bridge is to be removed for the purpose of clearing the site for the erection of a new business block.

Barney Fain of Westerly was in Providence Thursday.

Up to Thursday night, one-fifth of the taxpayers or some 500 of the 2,000 assessed taxpayers of Westerly had visited the town treasurer's office in the Westerly town hall.

While workmen were engaged in raising the roof for the addition to the top story of the C. B. Bliven house on Main street they came across a copy of "The Protestant Independent", a paper published in Dewitter, N. Y., under date of 1834.

Rev. and Mrs. Clayton A. Burdick left Westerly this week-end for a vacation trip through Massachusetts.

JEWETT CITY

Each year about this time, when the season's hunting stories are coming in, some of the older hunters are thinking of the famous Henry Carpenter musket. If that ancient arm could write its autobiography and add a line or two of its obituary, some astonishing tales would be told. First, when just a young gun, it was carried, and if reports are true, did some fine work in notable battles of the Civil war. Receiving honorable discharge, the old gun slept in an unfrequented attic for 15 years. Awakening then to a new sort of service, its six foot barrel, that could throw a handful of shot a quarter of a mile, did great execution among local flocks of ducks and quail, besides bringing down the biggest gray squirrels from the tallest trees. Later, just before the big Fourth of July celebration of 1886, the musket was sent to Norwich and four feet of its barrel was there cut off, the remaining two feet being fastened solidly into an oaken block. Such a cannon as it made, Jewett City boys never heard the like before. Its obituary came early in the evening. Loaded with a half pound charge of powder, tamped on top with wet brick dust and leaves, it was touched off. Several old boys living in Jewett City to day, were among the youngsters that ran for their lives. There came a deafening roar, a great hole was blown in the road. No trace was ever located of the exploded cannon. But the boys received a free and altogether forceful lecture, from the late Hiram M. Miner. A piece of the iron breech block, the size of one's fist, had been blown through the door of his house, and out through a back window, narrowly escaping Mr. Miner's head, as he sat at his evening meal.

Rev. J. W. Payne, Mrs. Francis Campbell and William R. Palmer, should have been included among the names of those who attended the recent meetings of the Connecticut Baptist convention in Hartford.

The heavy freight automobiles arriving in the borough Friday morning were all more or less behind schedule. The rain and heavy blow of Thursday night had covered the surface of the state road with wet leaves, which caused the drivers to slow down, to prevent skidding.

There was much interest and a large attendance at the Ashland club house Thursday evening, when the big tug of war, was called on, between the Ashland Bantams and the Weavo Room Heavyweight.

Cornell's giants pulled well, only losing by two inches. Steny Miss had one of his frequent pains, and Joe Gilbert was anxious to pull an hour. It is reported that he strained himself thinking so hard that he and his heavyweight friends could pull T. B. Duggan's duffers to defeat.

The Bantams included, Andrew Takmon, Theodore Casavant, Peter Raill, Ray Jarvis and Theophile Pepin, Coach Walter LePage. The Weave Shop Heavyweights are: Steney Miss, Leo Jarvis, Joe Gilbert, C. Frenchy, Joe the Pole. Coach, Mr. Gilbert.

Ollisim Bourie died Friday at his home in Sylvandale. He belonged to Court Liberty No. 182 of Voluntown. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. William Howeson of Lisbon, Conn., and Mrs. Bernard Hassel of New Jersey, and a son, Joseph Bowrey of Wauregan. Eight grandchildren also survive him.

Oliseen Magrey, who died Wednesday in Voluntown was buried Friday. Rev. Ludovic Paradis, read the burial services at St. Thomas church. The bearers were six son, Jerry, Victor, Joseph, Fred, Peter and Oliseen Magrey. Burial was in St. Thomas' cemetery, Voluntown. Hourigan Bros. were the funeral directors in charge.

Interested people all through this section are awaiting their opportunity to get in on the Backus hospital drive. It is believed, and indeed it was stated Friday as being a fact, that no locality outside the city limits of Norwich, receives such steady hospital benefits as does Jewett City. For all sorts of ailments and for operations of all kinds, hundreds of people from Jewett City have been readily received at Backus hospital. It is expected that it will be a case of over the top for Griswold!

Local interest is finding expression in the great horse race at Belmont park. Local radio operators who were so successful during the World's baseball series were tuning up for Washington Friday evening. The women of the town didn't seem to enthuse much over the ball games, but now said one, our innings have arrived! At the corner encyclopedia emporium, there has been arguments, some heated ones, as to the latest pronunciation of Papyrus. Most everyone stood for a short "y" Charlie put them all at rest, with proof from three authentic sources that the word is pronounced with the middle syllable accepted and pronounced as though pelled "pi" with the "I" long.

Finn's today, Quincy Adams Sawyer, Japanese earthquake pictures.—adv.

President Louis M. Gingras presided at the annual meeting of the Ashland club, Tuesday evening. Raymond F. Cheney, the secretary, gave a highly commended report of the year's activities. Treasurer C. D. Cornell was able to present a creditable and altogether satisfactory statement of the financial end of the institution. P. W. Chase, the efficient manager of affairs told of the plans he had been able to carry into effect, and of other ideas he was working out with the general benefit of the club always to the fore. The remarks made by L. M. Carpenter, agent of the Ashland Cotton Co., and by George S. Brown, its superintendent, were of the sort to claim the close attention of their listeners.

The selection of the board of directors included five overseers of the manufactory, L. M. Gingras, C. D. Cornell, T. B. Duggan, R. F. CSheney and C. C. Chase. In accordance with an established policy, the following elections were made from the employes. Ruth Peterson, Ell Nichols, Bert Shorey, Irene Le Fevre, Eva Raill, Hector Le Fevre, Florestine Ritchotte, Austin Harris, Esther Field and Ulric Gilbert, fifteen il all, as the and Ulric Gilbert, fifteen in all, as the

LIMITING ROAD LOADS.

Prevention of serious damage to roadbeds by protecting them against misuse has long since been recognized as necessary in connection with a state highway system. It is during those periods when frost is leaving the ground that good roads are subjected to great strain unless there is a limitation of the loads carried. Many of the good roads were not built with the expectation of carrying weights that should be transported on steel rails. They are therefore the more susceptible to great loads and to prevent needless waste through having them broken down by heavily loaded trucks restrictions have had to be placed upon the loads that trucks can carry during periods when they are the most likely, to be in poor condition.

In this state the load limit has been fixed for some time at 25,000 pounds. Rhode Island has just reached the decision that it is time to decrease the limit of 28,000 pounds that has prevailed in that state, and a cut to 20,000 pounds has consequently been made. That means that truck owners using Rhode Island highways must guard against overweight during certain periods.

That this fixing of the limit in Rhode Island at a lower figure than in this state will probably work to the benefit of Connecticut. If loads over 20,000 pounds cannot be carried on Rhode Island road it must mean, if there is respect for the regulation, that those loads coming into Connecticut from the neighbor to the east will be well under our requirements, while those going from this state into Rhode Island must take Rhode Island's rule into consideration before starting with the load.

It means a situation that can easily cause confusion, and for that reason must be dealt with in a sane manner if there are violations, but for those who seek to be on the safe side it is a situation where the state having the lower limit must serve as the guide.

SQUARELY BEHIND WOOD.

Possibly it was felt by the Philippine legislature that it had convinced most people in this country that it was pursuing a highly proper course in its opposition to Governor General Wood, and that all that was required was to demand of this government that General Wood be removed and that he would be recalled forthwith.

Nothing, of course, could be farther from the true fact. This government has previously declared that it endorsed the attitude and stand that had been taken by the governor general, so that there can be no surprise when it is announced at Washington that the administration places itself squarely behind the acts of General Wood. That is sufficient answer to the demand that he be recalled.

When Secretary of War Weeks cables the governor general that "You are entitled to the support of the administration and you have it," the Philippine legislature acts like a man butting his head against a stone wall in making any such appeal as it has. Instead of strengthening itself with the administration, congress or the country it has done exactly the opposite.

No political leaders in the Philippines should expect that the governor general would shut his eyes to corrupt conditions which have been uncovered in the islands. For the good of the islands those conditions need to be overcome, and it is in just such work that Governor General Wood is engaged.

If the Filipinos look upon this attitude of defiance as evidence of their fitness for self government they never made a more deplorable mistake in their lives. It proves to be a test which justifies the decision as the result of the recent survey in the islands, when it was asserted that the islands were not ready for independance. Standing firmly and squarely behind the governor general in his upholding of the law in the islands gives the Filipino leaders something for serious thought. They are not going to hasten the act of being cut adrift by any such conduct.

MISTAKEN FOR A DEER.

With the opening of the deer hunting season in Maine there comes an early report of the killing of an aged and experienced guide by one of the guide's party in mistake for a deer.

It is an old story. The same thing has happened repeatedly for years. Men go into the woods with guns seeking big game. They spread out and listen for a noise that would indicate the presence of a deer. There is a crackling of twigs, a movement of boughs is noticed, the gun is raised to the shoulder and the hunter blazes away. He hasn't shot a deer but he has killed a human being, the man upon whom he was depending to pilot him through the woods to the good hunting territory. He doesn't shoot at his guide, or friend, as such. He shoots at a noise or a moving of the underbrush. He doesn't take time, or think it necessary, to make sure that what he is aiming at is game. His eagerness to drop something in its tracks overcomes his willingness to actually know what he is shooting at.

Efforts to have hunters in Maine protect themselves by wearing gaudy hats or hunting jackets haven't apparently succeeded in overcoming all the cases of man-killing. There are of course those instances where stray bullets get in their work, but it is invariably the situation in the deer hunting country that anxiety to drop a deer leads to the abandonment of the ordinary precautions. Because it is in the woods there is a feeling that what makes a fellow nervous in his eagerness to get must stand before him in the hidden underbrush, though experience has repeatedly shown that when such chances are taken the object dropped is too often some friend.

Even though the hunting rig of a man might look like a deer through the brush there is such a thing as making sure of being right before going ahead. Killing a man in mistake for a deer, whether due to bad vision or mistaken identity, is a most lamentable affair.

THE RIGHT MAN.

President Coolidge is credited with favoring Elihu Root for the post of Ambassador to Great Britain. That is certainly an important post and for such a place great credit would be done to the country by the selection of such a man.

What the action will be in filling the vacancy to be caused by the resignation and departure of Ambassador Harvey from the court of St. James must be awaited. There have been occasions when Elihu Root has been sought for service that it has been found that he felt unwilling to accept because of his health. That may prove to be the case now, but it is to be hoped not.

A former secretary of state, a leading member of the United States senate for years, an outstanding citizen and a lawyer of the highest standing no better representative of the administration in London could be sought or obtained.

Inasmuch as Mr. Root has withdrawn from his political activities there is nothing of a political nature to be attached to the talk of his appointment. On the other hand it gives evidence of his desire to get the best for such diplomatic service without playing politics.

The country needs such statesmen as Elihu Root in its diplomatic corps. The plan of the president is an excellent one and it is to be sincerely hoped that he not only will tender the prominent New Yorker the office but that he will be successful in obtaining his services. Not only would he be one of the distinguished men called to that post but it would be certain that the country would receive distinguished representation.

FIGHTING THE PROFITEER.

In view of the complaints that have been made concerning practices of operators and wholesale dealers in coal it is fitting that the federal trade commission should be put to work upon the matter.

That there are dealers who profiteer in coal is known. They are known not only to the public but they are known to the operators. In the effort of the governor of Pennsylvania to have the operators refuse to sell coal to profiteering dealers he received a flat refusal. The operators declared their unwillingness to comply with such a request on the ground that they would be involved in a violation of the law if they did so and intimating that the remedy lies elsewhere than with them.

This is a situation that may well get early attention from the federal trade commission. If dealers insist upon taking an undeserved profit they should certainly be shunned by the consumers of coal. The householder should be keen to protect himself in this respect. Where it is a case of getting coal quickly and there is no other place where it can be obtained except by paying the profiteer's price there is good reason for bringing the law to bear upon such dealers that they may be called to account and a needed check applied to such dealings.

If it is possible for the federal trade commission to handle this phase of the coal situation and do so in a manner that will relieve the public of gouging dealers it is a timely move on the part of the president in putting it to work in that direction. May its inquiry be successful and the desired results obtained.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Have you stopped to think that Thanksgiving is just around the corner?

In spite of all the activity by the dry forces we seem to be living under a wet moon.

The weather over the week-end can be easily judged by the number of automobile accidents.

The man on the corner says: Man complains because of a drought and then kicks over a rainy day.

"Do it for Norwich" is well to bear in mind in connection with the Backus hospital community appeal.

The floods in Oklahoma look as if there was an effort being made to cover up some of the riots experienced in the recent past.

In addition to leaves on that list of things coming down there must now be included rain, gasoline and another Laurel Hill avenue tree.

It is going to take some rain before the streams will be filled to the point where winter will be willing to take off its coat and get down to work.

One or two deaths at a collision on railroad crossing do not seem to inspire safety considering the way in which they are insisting on group slaughter.

If Governor Pinchot cannot get the coal operators to refuse to sell coal to profiteering dealers is there a chance for the federal trade commission to take a hand?

Those who plead for replacing an American governor general in the Philippines with a native have prefaced their proposal with actions which condemn any such move.

Philadelphia judges believe that banditry can be ended via the stone pile. It has taken some time to reach the conclusion but the longer leniency is tried the greater becomes the opposition to it.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Every day something is being devised for the benefit and comfort of automobilists and pedestrians. And when such things are discovered about whose utility there can be no question, they ought to be put into use wherever traffic is congested. It has long been a question in our cities how to manage the crosswalks for the mutual benefit of both those who walk and those who ride. A scheme has been devised that works well wherever it has been adopted, and that has been putting the cross walks into zones the limits of which are determined by wide white bands. The understanding is that when pedestrians occupy these zones under the permission of the traffic cop no machines are supposed to cross. To do so is absolutely inexcusable. It teaches all car drivers that they are not the sole possessors of the highways, and many of them need to learn it. On the other hand it will teach pedestrians not to do fool stunts before automobiles when they have the right of way.

Is it not true that human life—and all animal life, for that matter—carries with it a certain amount of rapture? Given a certain few fundamental conditions and rapture will manifest itself. The body healthful; the mind satisfied, the conscience easy, and the possession of enough of this world's goods to lift one above all need of fret and worry—in such a condition of body and soul life feels a rapture, a glow of joy from the mere fact of being alive, well and strong. It is a sensation that is utterly indifferent to geography. It makes no difference what part of the earth he inhabits, in pagan or civilised lands, if he possesses these fundamental conditions life will be rapturous to him. Wealth has little to do with it, for the little fellow in the alley with a string tied to a paper bag is just as happy as the richer boy with the expensive toy. Neither fame nor social status has anything to do with giving, modifying or taking away this rapture which other conditions make possible. In all this may we not see the hand of God?

A lesson of rich significance may be learned from the effect of frost on vegetation. A drought will affect it but it must be extremely long continued to blast it as several hard frosts will do. It seems a little singular that frost, which is a combination of cold and damp, should have a blistering effect on some things which it touches. It literally seems to burn some things on which it falls. After three or four hard frosts, as we have had lately, the grape leaves look like cinders. The same is true of corn. Do we not find a parallel to this in daily life? Do we not come into contact with those who seem to have been frost bitten? Has there not been an exposure to some evil forces that have taken away a certain charm? Do we not realize the charred remains of beauty and vigor in the ashes that remain? Young people who are out late at night where they ought not to be stand in danger of the moral frostblight.

If my observation has not been at fault, I think that the following is a fair illustration of what occurs daily, at least in this favored land of ours: He lived on one of our rocky New England farms, a boy of manly physique, and a mind to correspond. His morals were above reproach, but the most conspicuous thing about him was an insatiable thirst for a college education. There was little money in the family to carry this project out. He went to Yale with a painfully slim pocket-book but with a fine mental preparation. Had he been older possibly he would not have dared to make such a venture. He went to church and Sunday school; was asked to take a class of boys and at once completely captured them. One of those boys was rich (in money) but a poor scholar. The boy's parents employed this young teacher to tutor this boy which enabled him to pay all his expenses during his first two years in college. Did not Providence respond to his daring to do a big thing?

A man once went to a college president to arrange for the entrance of his son to the freshman class. He related to him how the war had broken up the regularity of his preparatory course. When he came back from the war, a big, strapping fellow, it seemed to be bad psychology to put him into a class of little lads still in knee-pants. The president made this reply: "We have a rule in this institution that all candidates must have a full course of preparatory training. On the whole we think this rule is wise. It is not, however, so fixed that it cannot be modified when circumstances require. We make rules to help us, not to hinder us, and we think we are bigger than the rules we make. In this case we shall modify the rule. Send the boy up next Wednesday." That president was a broad-minded man. "We are bigger than the rules we make." How many there are in the ranks of the higher education who worship rules! The college that makes the individual bigger than the rules is a big college.

Neighbor, please tell us how you manage these crisp, cool mornings about heating your house! Have you wrestled with the heater down in the cellar with coal at $15 per ton? If so what do you do to make the house endurable from 1 p. m. to 7 in the evening? Do you open all the windows and doors for the benefit of your estate that doesn't exactly need the extra calorie? If it is not the furnace, what is it? Is it the oil stove?

Plague on the man who invented the oil stove! It makes the whole house disreputable in thirty minutes, and it is sure to add to your natural stupidity, which is certainly uncalled for. If anything meaner than this was ever invented it is a gas stove that assassinates all the oxygen in the room within fifteen minutes, and makes the meter spin round so fast that you can't see it. Do you have a certain ornament called a Franklin stove whose chief distinction is in making your pretty daughters look like smoked hams? Do you say the wood stove? If so your shouting—and yet the dirt and ashes!

Parent, when that Johnny of yours makes the football team in the academy or university, don't scowl at him, but just look like the angel you were at his age. When he makes a spectacular run across the gridiron, smashing through all the interference, and get the necessary touchdown that wins the game, and his mates carry him on their shoulders from the field to the railroad station, praise the boy and not let the papers do all of it! It may not be quite so important as shining in the x-y-z business. But when your lad earns the letter he is allowed to wear on his sweater, it is your Johnny—all right. Don't chill the boy's enthusiasm by hurling at him, "If you'd work half as hard in getting A on your card as you do Y on your sweater I'd be mighty happy." Now this Presbyterian stuff is all right in its place, but don't work it on that young, active, hopeful animal known as Johnny!

However frequently we look back in our national history we cannot fail to admire the heritage bequeathed to us by the Puritans. It certainly was not their harsh and loveless theology, but this was not so much their own as what descended to them from ages that were hard, cold and cruel. It is chiefly worth remembering for its close and urgent reasoning. If one accepts Calvin's premises he cannot logically deny his conclusions. In a modified form Calvinism will probably influence human thought for a long time to come. But the great contribution that Puritanism made to this country was its men and women who were so anxious to do the will of God and to live according to His laws that they gave to the world the greatest race that ever trod the earth. That is the reason why northern Europe and America dominate the world.

HOW VETERANS' BUREAU HAS BEEN FUNCTIONING.

Frank T. Hines, director of the United States veterans bureau was a speaker at the business session of the American Legion convention in San Francisco this week.

Mr. Hines said:

"In the course of my administration of the veterans' bureau I have found it necessary in many instances to adopt new policies or change the existing procedure to meet the requirements of efficiency and economy. Much has been accomplished in the way of expediting action on claims and appeals, reducing the cost of operation and by eliminating extravagance and waste.

Preferential Treatment for Women

"In the adjustments made, the interests of the ex-service man have been safe-guarded in every way and preference given in all matters of employment or assignment. In fact, since assuming the position of director I have approved the appointments of none but ex-service men, and in the reduction of the number of Bureau employees from the grand total of 30,300 to 28,182, there has been no cause for complaint on the part of the ex-service man. I have issued instructions emphasizing that women should receive preferential treatment.

"The budget system put in operation the first of the present year has been made fully effective.

"About forty subdistrict offices have been largely consolidated with other subdistrict offices without impairment of service to the disabled.

"The small supply depots formerly maintained throughout the districts have been closed and their stocks concentrated in the three large depots located in New York, Chicago and Federal Park. It may, with reasonable assurance, be stated that the present method of checking and handling bureau supplies will result in a total saving of several millions of dollars.

"In rentals of space to be used by the bureau the greatest economy consistent with good operating facilities is practiced with the result that a saving will be effected in this item of more than $800,000 annually.

"For July distribution was made as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| For Vocational Training | 28 cents |
| For Compensation | 56 cents |
| For Medical and Hospital Services | 12 cents |
| For Insurance | 3 cents |
| For Salaries | 6 cents |
| For Rentals and Other Administrative Expenses | 3 cents |

"On March 1 of this year there were more than 4000 cases before the Central Office Board of Appeals and this number and all other cases received in the meantime were given full consideration and the work of the board brought to a current basis before July 1 and it has been maintained on that basis ever since.

"A great saving to the bureau has been accomplished by the establishment of permanent partial ratings.

"On Sept. 1, 1923, there had been accomplished by the establishment of permanent partial ratings.

"On Sept. 1, 1923, there had been received in the bureau a total of 926,404 disability claims and this number is increasing at the present time at the rate of 266 daily. A year ago the number received daily totalled 481.

"It is significant to note that the character of cases which are now coming before the boards of appeal indicate most clearly that the peak of the load has long since passed, leaving for consideration principally those claims which are very much involved, due to conditions and circumstances too numerous to detail.

Hospitals in Operation

"Hospitals at Tuskegee, Ala.; Muskogee, Okla.; Jefferson Barracks, Mo.; Kerville, Tex.; and Rutland, Mass., have been completed and put in full operation within the past six months.

"The hospitals under construction at Excelsior Springs, Missouri, and American Lake, in the State of Washington, Tupper Lake, N. Y.; Chelsea, N. Y., Northampton, Mass., Chillicothe Ohio Camp Custer, Mich., Knoxville, Iowa., St. Cloud, Minn., and Gulfport Miss. are progressing satisfactorily and most of them will be completed in a few months.

"It is interesting and significant to note that there are available, in Government Hospitals as of September 20, 1923, 26,115 beds—of which number but 16,586 are occupied and that with the opening of hospitals now well advanced in construction, plus a few institutions determined upon but upon which work has not been begun 3427 additional beds will be provided, making a grand total of 31,542 Government beds available for the disabled ex-service men.

Home Treatment Condemned

"The term home treatment is a misnomer and a dangerous enticement. The last four years have demonstrated beyond peradventure the effectiveness of the United States Veterans' Bureau hospitals in the treatment of tuberculosis.

"Looking at the hospitalization situation as it exists today, with some 9200 beds vacant and 6300 bureau beneficiaries in contract hospitals, it does seem to me that it would be the part of wisdom to work out a system whereby the government hospitals could operate nearer a full load.

"The progress made in the work of rehabilitation has resulted from closer supervision and the elimination of a large number of minor institutions for training whose facilities were found to be inadequate for the needs of the men.

"Splendid service to the bureau that has been rendered by the Merchants' Association of New York city in securing of upwards of one hundred new places of training involving sixty-six training period extensions that average close to four months per man.

Saving of $20,000,000

"The employment campaign inaugurated several months ago has enabled the bureau to place from 97 to 99 per cent. of its rehabilitated men in employment.

"The senate investigating committee is making a real investigation of the bureau and it has been beneficial.

"I shall be greatly disappointed if the close of the present fiscal year, June 30, 1924, does not show the completion of the hospitalization plan, the effective establishment of permanent partial ratings, the rehabilitation and return to gainful employment of a grand total of 76,000 men and a net saving to the government in the operating expenses of the bureau for the year of $20,000,000.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

What God "Prepared" For Jonah.

A fish, a gourd, a worm, a wind. God did not create new agencies to carry out His plan for Jonah's teaching. He only "prepared" certain ones already existing to take their part in the work to be done. Jonah did not know that these experiences came to him in any extraordinary way—he did not see the preparation by which each one had its influence on his life—perhaps he never saw it. They were very common things which wrought them in and for him. Their virtue lay in the fact that God used them in the training of Jonah for a special service.

Was Jonah alone in this experience of preparation?

Your life and mine may be laid among the most ordinary circumstances, with no outstanding evidence of special preparation in any of the influences of feeling them. We follow our impulses, perform our duty, more or less faithfully, avoid apparent perils, accept misfortunes, and give thanks for deliverance and success, too often forgetting that in and behind all these experiences the hand of God has been preparing just such influence as shall fit us for His service. He may have used some force of nature, some creature despised of man, some beautiful and fruitful growth, or some sudden destructive blast, such instruments as He employed for Jonah, or it may have been only the quiet home atmosphere, prepared of God to nourish and educate the soul in holy life, disturbed by a few storms or tumults of any kind.

Whatever corner into our lives, let us recognise that it is all part of God's preparation for us, no matter how trivial or earthbound it may seem. He "knoweth us altogether" and what He "prepares" for us will not fail of its effect or make the mistake of thinking that because things are common, they cannot be intended to greatly affect our lives. Let the experience of Jonah teach us otherwise.

Stories That Recall Others

She Had a Limit.

He is one of the stingy young men. And he is engaged to a young school teacher whom he intends to keep teaching school after they marry if he can. But it seems doubtful now. The other evening they were discussing the work on the little home they were going to have.

"We'll get up in the morning, and you'll cook my breakfast, and we'll eat and you'll wash the dishes while I read the paper and straighten up things a little and then we'll start downtown to work together," he said.

"John," she looked straight at him, "Start work." Don't forget I started a long time ago when I cut the bacon for breakfast. It's about quitting time for me."

Opposed It.

The teacher had been giving a graphic account of the reindeer, its haunts, habits and uses. One little urchin was, however, not paying the slightest attention so the teacher asked him, "Now, what is the use of the reindeer?"

The startled urchin loked up and said: "It makes everything in the garden lovely, teacher."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Miss Ada Comstock, whose inauguration as president of Radcliffe College will be made the occasion today for a notable gathering of educators at Cambridge, Mass., comes to her new post from Smith College, where for more than ten years she served as dean. Miss Comstock became widely known in academic work in 1909 as the first dean of women at the University of Minnesota. A native of Moorhead, Minn., she studied for two years at the State university and later attended Smith College and Columbia University. Two years ago she was honored with the presidency of the American Association of University Women. The inauguration of Miss Comstock will mark the beginning of a new era in the life of Radcliffe, she being the first president to give full-time service to the college and the first woman president of that institution.

ALL NATIONS MARCHING TO ARMAGEDDON BUT — "MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE"

In a FREE LECTURE at Madison Square Garden, New York City, Sunday afternoon, October 21.

JUDGE RUTHERFORD

President of the International Bible Students Association will prove by prophecy fulfilled and in course of fulfilment that the greatest crisis of the ages is upon the world; that all nations are mustering their forces for the great battle of Armageddon foretold by the prophets of God; that the Lord will cut short the terrible conflict and millions now living will never die.

Concerning the world conditions Judge Rutherford says:

WHY THIS RAGING?

"In Jehovah are all the riches of knowledge and wisdom. His Word, the Bible, furnishes a sure and perfect guide. Many centuries ago, foreknowing the condition of our day, he caused his prophet to write propounding this question: 'Why do the nations rage and the people imagine a vain thing?' —Psalm 2:1.

"The raging of the nations is apparent to all. What vain thing do the people now imagine? Big business, big politicians and apostate clergy join together in announcing that they possess the wisdom and power to adjust the ills of humankind that by means of compacts or leagues of nations or worldly conferences they can establish peace and prosperity and bring the desire of the people. Millions of good, honest people imagine that this can be done, and that imperfect man can establish peace and righteousness. This is a vain imagination; for Jehovah, referring to this time, through his prophet said: 'Associate yourselves, O ye people, and ye shall be broken in pieces; and give ear, all ye of far countries: gird yourselves, and ye shall be broken in pieces; gird yourselves, and ye shall be broken in pieces. Take counsel together, and it shall come to naught.—Isaiah 8:9, 10.

THE REASON.

"The reason why the great crisis has come now is this: The gentile world or order of things began in 606 B. C., was to continue 2,520 years, and according to the Bible legally ended in 1914, at which time the Lord foretold that the nations would become angry and God's wrath would come. From then until now the nations have been raging, and the raging continues, and the people continue to imagine a vain means of settlement.

THE ONLY REMEDY

"For nineteen hundred years real Christians have been praying earnestly the prayer that Jesus taught his followers to pray: 'Thy kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven.' This prayer was taught that those who earnestly pray it might be in an attitude to receive the kingdom at its coming. The King is now present. The kingdom of God is at hand. All who are not for the Lord are against him. (Matthew 12:30.) Concerning those who are against him the Lord through his prophet says: 'The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together, against the Lord, and against his anointed, saying, Let us break their bands asunder, and cast away their cords from us.' (Psalm 2:2, 3.) In 1919 the political and financial rulers of the world said: 'We must have the League of Nations.' And the Federal Council of Churches said: 'The time has come to organize the world for truth, right and justice and humanity. To this end as Christians we urge the establishment of the League of Free Nations. . . . It is the political expression of God's kingdom on earth.' Here was a statement of these three elements equivalent to saying: 'We will not have the King of kings, the Lord's Anointed to rule over us. We will maintain our old arrangement.' To this Jehovah's prophet answers: 'He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh; the Lord shall have them in derision. Then shall he speak to them in his wrath, and vex them in his sore displeasure.'—Psalms 2:4, 5.

WHAT NEXT.

"What, then, may we expect to follow this condition of fear, perplexity and distress of nations? What shall be the result of the arrogant speech and efforts of the ruling factors to carry out their selfish desires? The answer is found in the scriptures: 'And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon. . . . to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty.' (Revelation 16:14, 16.) This is to be followed by the complete establishment of Messiah's kingdom of righteousness, which will cure the present ills of humankind and bring peace and prosperity to the people, the desire of all honest hearts. The whole creation groans and travails in pain, waiting for the time to complete deliverance. It is at hand. Millions now living will never die. It behooves every one to inform himself about this important subject."

You will be well repaid for making a trip to New York to hear this thrilling lecture. If you are unable to attend you will want to read the heart-cheering message. This coupon and 50c. will bring you a copy of Judge Rutherford's book, "The Harp of God," cloth-bound, 224 pages. It answers clearly and satisfactorily questions that are puzzling all thinking people today. Address: I. B. S. A. Service Bureau, 18 Concord St. Brooklyn, N. Y.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Charles E. Church.

Following an illness of about a year Isabella N. Beebe, widow of Capt. Charles E. Church, died Friday afternoon at 1.15 o'clock at her home in Montville. She was 85 years and 10 months of age and was born in New London, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Beebe. The greater part of her life had been spent in Montville.

Mrs. Church is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Jerome House of Montville, and two nieces, Miss Carlie Marsh of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Francis Towner of Portsmouth, Va.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Filippo Giacomatonio.

Friday morning at 8.30 o'clock the funeral of Mrs. Filippo Giacomatonio was held from her home, No. 147 Franklin street, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. At 9 o'clock a requiem mass was celebrated at St. Patrick's church by Rev. Myles P. Galvin. Prof. Frank L. Farrell presided at the organ. The bearers were six friends and burial took place in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Mrs. Giacomatonio died suddenly at her home Wednesday. She had been in poor health for some time. Mrs. Giacomatonio was about 60 years of age and was a native of Italy. She came here about four months ago with her husband, Filippo Giacomatonio, from Brooklyn, N. Y.

Surviving are her husband, a son, Mischele, and five grandchildren. The grandchildren are Filippo, Rosa, Felice, Saverio and Martha Giacomatonio, all of this city.

Undertaker Charles A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Alfred Hough.

Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock the funeral of Alfred Hough, who died Tuesday in Hartford, was held here from the parlors of Undertakers Church and Allen. Relatives and friends were present and there were a number of beautiful floral remembrances. The service was conducted by Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, and burial took place in the family plot in Yantic cemetery. A committal service was read at the grave by Archdeacon Brown.

The bearers were John M. Lee, Rutherford CC. Plaut, Frank I. Dodge and Charles L. Stark.

Mrs. Charles C. Champlin.

The funeral of Mrs. Charles C. Champlin was held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her home at Oxoboxo, Montville, with a very large attendance of relatives and friends. The service was conducted by Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, this city. Sleep On, Beloved and Abide With Me, were sung by Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., of this city.

The bearers were William Bogue, Frank L. Lathrop, Edward Reynolds, Griswold Morgan, David Maynard and Sidney A. Dolbeare and burial took place in West Plain cemetery, Lettingwell. A committal service was conducted at the grave by Rev. Mr. Graham. There was a wealth of beautiful floral forms. Among those in attendance were relatives and friends from New London, Norwich and Montville.

QUEEN ESTHER STANDARD BEARERS BEGIN SEASON

The Queen Esther Standard Bearers, founded last month, held a meeting at Trinity M. E. church early Friday evening, preceded by a picnic supper, for the purpose of electing officers. The supper was served at 5.30 o'clock after which the meeting was called to order and the following officers were elected:

President, Miss Charlotte Geer; corresponding secretary, Miss Blanche Freeman; recording secretary, Miss Marcia Stanton; treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Durie. The remainder of the meeting was devoted to an interesting programme on Japan.

The new society which is a combination of the home and foreign missionary societies of the young people of the church, has a charter membership of 17.

HELD IN NEW YORK ON CHECK FRAUD CHARGE

Louis Rosenblatt has been arrested in New York city for the Norwich police and is being held there to await extradition papers on the charge of passing a fraudulent check upon the Lalin Toggery Shoppe of this city.

Motor Truck Broke Wheel.

A motor truck that was being used Friday afternoon to haul away a big tree that had been cut down in front of the Jennings block on Laurel Hill avenue broke a front wheel when just beyond Walnut street and had to be jacked up to make repairs.

The truck blocked direct traffic on the street, where the new cement is being put in, but fortunately was in such a position that traffic could be sent around a detour through Walnut street.

BACKUS HOSPITAL DRIVE OPENS WITH "PEP" AT WORKERS' SUPPER

Promptly on the stroke of 6.30 Friday night, Chairman James L. Case's gavel rapped for order and declared the Backus hospital campaign formally opened in the town hall where the team captains, members of teams, executive committee and advisory board and all officials of the campaigns were gathered for supper. There were seats for about 500 at the tables in the hall with the chairman and speakers seated at the long desk on the platform, while clear across the room over their heads ran an immense blackboard on which the results will be announced when reports are made next week. The teams were seated at their assigned places at the tabls.

Following the singing of America, led by Swahn's orchestra, Rev. Dr. S. H. Howe gave the invocation and an oyster partie supper was served by the Wauregan house. William G. Park, song leader, kept the supper hour enlivened in his characteristic manner with popular songs by the entire assemblage.

Before presenting Mayor Waters to officially open the campaign, Chairman Case told the workers that there were three things for them to have, viz, belief in the cause, enthusiasm, and cooperation. With these Norwich is bound to go over the top in this campaign as it has in every other similar effort.

He displayed a fine silver cup which he announced was donated by Mayor Waters to be given to the captain whose team makes the best showing. There are also red and blue silk banners which will be placed each day with the men's and women's teams making the best showing and to be awarded to the winning teams at the close of the campaign.

Mayor Opens Campaign.

Mayor Waters was given a rising greeting before he spoke. He said that Norwich had had drives in years past for many objects, had helped the unfortunates in all parts of the earth. Now it is our privilege to help ourselves. For 30 years the hospital has been helping the community. Now it asks help. Let us give it for a grand victory in this campaign.

President H. A. Tirrell on behalf of the hospital executive committee thanked the workers for the services they were about to give and declared it was for everybody to consider whether he could put his money to any better use in the world than by giving it for this community effort at home.

Miss Kathleen Dowd, matron of the hospital and superintendent of the nurses' home, expressed the great appreciation of all past, present and future nurses for the effort that was to give them a suitable nurses' home, which would bring return in increased nursing service to the community.

G. Benjamin Utter of Westerly, a leader in the drive there for $250,000, which brought in $751,611, predicted that Norwich would have the same kind of success. He spoke of the great returns that came in on the memorial plan in Westerly, which brought $260,000 on this feature. He mentioned some of the unusual encouraging things that happen in a campaign like this, one instance being that of a little girl who took the card of a man in Westerly, who gave her a check and told her to come again. The girl thought the check was for $13, but her mother saw it was for $13,000. The girl went back and the man increased his subscription by $30,000, making $42,000 in all from him. But Mr. Utter said it was the volume of small gifts that count and they must not be neglected.

Providence Man Speaks.

George W. Gardiner of Providence, was pleasantly introduced by Chairman Case, who referred to Mr. Gardiner's great interest and service in campaigns for hospital and other philanthropic lines.

The big gathering rose and applauded Mr. Gardiner as he stood up to speak. He responded with an inspiring talk, that was sprinkled all the way through with witty stories that made apt illustrations of the points he wished to make. He complimented Norwich for the repute which it had in Providence of being a first class, wideawake community, and spoke a good word for the campaign organizer, Treadwell Cleveland. Mr. Gardiner said this would be the eighth hospital campaign in which he had participated this year and everywhere it had been the experience that the women beat the men two to one in the amount of money raised, particularly in a hospital campaign. He predicted that the workers would look back upon this week as one of the greatest in their lives.

No nation he said had been more unselfish than America in the last ten years. We've done wonderful things for the world. Why can't we do something for our own. Hospitals are not run on public funds. It must be done on the money from the private purses in Norwich, just as it is everywhere else. The hospital today is a protector of public health and the health of every family and household.

He predicted success for the Norwich drive, which is bound to go beyond the $250,000 goal, and the reward of the workers will be that future generations will rise up and call them blessed.

Campaign Slogan.

Chairman Case gave the workers the campaign slogan of "We Can Do It and We Will," as he spoke a few final words of exhortation to concerted effort in the next few days. Campaign Director Cleveland gave some final instructions after which the cards were handed out to the team captains and by them distributed to the team members.

First reports will be made next Monday night.

Through the efforts of Mrs. Allyn L. Brown, head of the woman's department of the campaign, the large town hall has been most attractively decorated. Supt. Joseph J. Fields of the court house generously assisted Mrs. Brown in arranging the decorations.

Through the courtesy of ex-Mayor Fred L. Osgood the hall is most attractively arrayed with Mr. Osgood's numerous yacht flags. These are festooned through the chandeliers in the big hall. James J. Moore, of the Norwich State Hospital, delivered to Mrs. Brown two truck loads of pine trees gathered from the vicinity of the hospital and these were attractively placed about the hall.

Campaign Manager Cleveland has gotten together a flying squadron of women automobilists who are to cover the outlying district during the 10 days of intensive soliciting. In every case the drivers have donated their services as well as their cars. These include the following:

Mrs. Henry F. Ulmer, 269 Broadway; Mrs. Louis R. Porteous, 2 Sachem terrace; Mrs. Charles D. Noyes, 18 Lincoln avenue; Mrs. Robert C. Johnson, 179 Broadway; Mrs. Charles W. Burton, 744 North Main street; Miss Isabel Mitchell, 315 Broadway; Mrs. Harry E. Prentice, 191 Washington street; Mrs. Charles R. Butts, 270 Washington street; Mrs. George W. Carroll 257 Broadway.

GAVE TALK ON RUHR AND PHILIPPINE CONDITIONS

The first meeting of the parish house department of the Women's Federation of Park church was held at the Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial Friday afternoon, Mrs. Henry T. Arnold, president of the federation, presiding.

An announcement was made by Mrs. Arnold of the coming meeting of the missions department on Nov. 9th when Mrs. Harriet Hyde Zumbro will speak. The meeting was then placed in charge of Miss Louise Howe, the chairman of the parish house department. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. W. Tyler Browne and the report of the treasurer was given by Mrs. Rollin C. Jones.

Miss Howe then introduced Dr. F. S. Bunnell, who gave an interesting talk on Current Events, which was greatly enjoyed by an appreciative audience. Dr. Bunnell confined his talk to two main subjects, first, the situation in the Philippines since we acquired that island in 1898 as a result of the Spanish-American war; reviewing the difficulties of General Wood. His second topic was the French condition in the Ruhr and the industrial situation in Germany. Dr. Bunnell's address was most instructive and comprehensive.

Tea was served by Miss Mary Avery, assisted by Mrs. Fred W. Cary and Mrs. Beatrice Eastwood Peterson. Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn and Mrs. Charles W. Prentice poured.

AMERICAN HOUSE CASES BEFORE CITY COURT

John Plota and Henry Mueller, who were arrested at the American house Thursday afternoon on the charge of violation of the liquor law, were before the police court in chambers Friday morning where each was fined $200 and costs and given a sentence of 10 days in jail.

In an afternoon session of the court Mueller withdrew his plea of guilty and was bound over to the superior court.

Stanley J. Chimielewsky, who was before the court as the alleged proprietor of the American house, was discharged in the afternoon session of court. It was understood from the prosecuting authorities that the state's case against Chimielewsky fell apart, when Mueller, who had at first agreed to turn state evidence and testify against Chimielewsky, changed his mind and would not be a witness for the state. V. P. A. Quinn was attorney for Chimielewsky.

Another man is charged with being a joint proprietor of the American house but he was out of town when the police were looking for him on Thursday night.

Automobiles in Collision.

About 5.45 o'clock Friday afternoon a Cadillac machine, registration number 130,806, collided with a Dodge sedan, registration number 130,876, in front of the Community Bakeshop, on Franklin square. The Dodge was at a standstill at the time. The only damage was a bent mudguard.

The Cadillac, according to the automobile registry, is owned by Mellie M. Wilson, No. 167 Broadway, and the Dodge by Margaret M. Hill, No. 87 Washington street.

Unclaimed Letters.

Unclaimed letters in the Norwich, Conn. post office for the week ending Oct. 20, 1923: Mr. Paul Castro (2); Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Conner, Miss Anna Rabinowich, D. Sigaun.

ASKS COURT TO SET ASIDE $2,120 VERDICT

A motion was argued before Judge Isaac Wolfe at the short calendar session of the superior court in New London Friday morning to set aside the verdict in the case of Josephine E. Murray against the estate of Henry C. Gardiner of Flanders in which the jury last week rendered a decision for $2,120 for the plaintiff. Miss Murray, who went to the Gardiner home when she was 13 years old, brought the suit for services which she rendered as housekeeper, assistant postmaster and clerk in the Gardiner store.

The motion, which was made by the defendant, was argued by Attorney H. A. Hull, representing the defendant and Attorney Abel P. Tanner for the plaintiff. Judge Wolfe took the papers and reserved decision.

Judge Wolfe passed an order authorizing Robert W. Perkins, receiver of the Shore Line Electric Railway Co., to sell poles between Essex and Chester on the Saybrook-Chester line for $125.

Motions for acceptance of the committee's report in the case of Harry M. Lee, individually and as trustee, vs. Benjamin H. Lee, adm., and Frederick Cox Wight, as administrator and individually vs. Harry M. Lee, trustee, appeals from probate in which Judge John M. Thayer, committee of the superior court, rendered a finding last week, went off the list.

HEARS PETITION TO USE BUSES FOR TROLLEYS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, Oct. 19.—At 11 o'clock this morning in room 121, state house, Providence, the Rhode Island public utilities commissioners, William C. Bliss, Robert F. Rodman and Samuel E. Hudson with Secretary George A. CarMichael, gave a hearing on the petition of the Shore Line Electric Railway company to discontinue its electric car service on the Ashaway and Watch Hill lines for the winter, and substitute buses. No formal action could be taken at the time as the town council of Hopkinton through oversight had not received notice of the hearing.

However, the matter was informally discussed.

Appearing for the various interests were R. W. Perkins of Norwich, receiver for the Shore Line company, which holds the franchise; Attorney John Ferguson of Union, town solicitor for the Westerly town council; Ralph Lloyd Briggs of Ashaway, representing the Ashaway Woolen company, and Westerly postmaster Thomas F. Lenihan and Assistant James Spellman and Superintendent Lester O'Brien and Manager Joseph Hull of the Mystic office. The hearing was adjourned to Friday, Oct. 26 at 2.30 p. m.

The utilities commission with Harold R. Shipps, state inspector of motor vehicles, were given a ride about Providence with the Westerly party in the 35-passenger Fageol bus in which the trip to Providence and return was made.

Arthur Hanney on Radio.

COMMUNITY HOUSE OPENED FOR LORRAINE EMPLOYES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, Oct. 19.—Nearly 900 employes guests and officials among whom was a large delegation from Pawtucket of the Lorraine Manufacturing company attended the formal opening and house warming of the new community house of the Lorraine Community Association on Mechanic street this evening. The entertainment committee of which Terrance Mallaghan was chairman, having named Superintendent R. E. Speers of the Westerly branch as master of ceremonies for the evening the varied programme was announced by him.

Stressing the wonderful opportunities offered through this building Mr. Speers said the Lorraine community house had been formed with by-laws which for a very small membership fee employes and members of their families, not employed by other manufactorers, were eligible, and concluded his remarks with naming the membership committee.

T. H. Walker, of Pawtucket, assistant treasurer of the Lorraine Company, was the next speaker and with his congratulatory remarks urged the employes to keep their work well up in quality from which success would not only follow for the management but for the workers themselves.

George C. Clark, secretary of the Pawtucket Chamber of Commerce, gave his hearers an extended talk and taking as his theme The Spirit of Cooperation. In concluding the formal programme Superintendent Speers read a telegram of congratulation from Treasurer William B. McCall expressing his regrets that he could not attend.

The next hour was well filled by Herbert Clark of Boston with his humorous stories, character impersonations, songs and musical numbers. At the conclusion of the entertainment adjournment was taken to the filling room of the mill where coffee, sandwiches, cake and ice cream were served. Following refreshments dancing was enjoyed in the assembly hall and the large number present enjoyed music by the Blue Ribbon orchestra of Norwich.

Prospects For Young Men's Forum.

A group of fellows met at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening for supper and talked over the possibilities of forming a Young Men's Forum. Everyone present was interested in something of the sort and they have started out to get more fellows interested and will report back for organization purposes next Thursday around the supper table at 6 o'clock, at the Y. M. C. A.

ZEV WILL MEET PAPYRUS TODAY IN SPITE OF HIS SKIN AFFLICTION

New York, Oct. 19.—(By The A. P.)—Zev, the Rancocas stable's brown son of the Finn—Miss Kearney, will match strides with Papyrus, English Derby winner, for international three-year-old supremacy and stakes of $100,000 at Belmont Park tomorrow in a race that promises to take rank among the greatest classics of all time.

Zev will go to the post despite the eleventh hour developments of a skin malady which it seemed today would force the withdrawal of the colt and the substitution of Admiral Cary T. Grayson's My Own, which was shipped to Belmont Park, prepared to race, if called upon. But the race committee of the Jockey club, after examining Zev and receiving the report of a veterinarian, decided that the Rancocas star was fit and ended a day of sensational speculation in turf circles by announcing America's original entry would oppose the English champion.

Though the Jockey club committee's decision, made public by Major August Belmont, had the effect of restoring to some extent the waning confidence in this country, representative, general belief prevailed that, regardless of the seriousness of his malady, Zev would go to the barrier under a handicap.

6 to 5 Odds on Papyrus.

And as a result, betting odds, which had declined to even money yesterday after a spectacular final workout by Papyrus, swung sharply tonight toward the English horse, which was expected to go to the barrier tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock a favorite, probably at odds of 6 to 5.

Zev's Condition Mysterious.

The exact condition of Zev remained somewhat of a mystery tonight. There have been reports for some time that the Kentucky Derby winner was not in the best of condition, but the first intimation that anything was seriously amiss came yesterday afternoon, according to Major Belmont's statement, when Harry F. Sinclair millionaire owner of the horse advised the Jockey club's committee that Zev had developed a skin malady which threatened the fitness of the colt.

It was this information that prompted the committee to send a hurried call last night for the shipment of My Own to Belmont Park to be ready to take Zev's place, if necessary, but first public word of the Rancocas star's condition came this morning when members of the committee, headed by Major Belmont, inspected the colt.

The skin ailment was diagnosed by veterinarians as something akin to "hives," large blotches appearing on the horse's shoulders, head and legs. An epidemic of the malady, it seemed, had spread to several barns at Belmont Park almost overnight and Zev was among the first to show signs of it.

But, while frankly concerned over the condition, Major Belmont and his associates seemed convinced that it had not yet affected the running power of Zev, which flashed impressive speed in a half-mile gallop in 47 3-5 seconds. A favorable veterinarian's report later clinched this opinion and influenced the committee to stand by its first choice.

Still Chance For My Own.

There still seemed a chance, however, that over-night developments might lead to substitution of My Own if Zev's malady becomes more serious.

Admiral Grayson's colt arrived at Belmont Park late this afternoon after an eight-hour trip by special train from Laurel, Md., and was pronounced in excellent racing condition.

Zev will be gone over thoroughly by trainer and veterinarian tomorrow morning, when it will be possible to determine more fully the effects of his malady.

The Jockey club, under its agreement with Ben Irish, owner of Papyrus, has the right to make a substitution at the last minute. And My Own, the first substitute, will be held ready until race time.

Zev's condition and the sensational turn it has given to developments were the chief topics on the eve of the international classic, which is expected to attract a notable throng of close to 100,000 turf followers to the picturesque scene of the match. The gate receipts, it was indicated, may reach $500,000, thus setting a new record in American thoroughbred racing animals.

Prospects of inclement weather and a resultant heavy track tonight gave another topic for speculation. Though it did not dampen the ardor of turf enthusiasts.

Both Horses Good 'Mudders."

The condition of the track, however, probably will not affect the relative chances of either Zev or Papyrus, as both are acknowledged to be good "mud-horses." Zev, particularly, has shown a likeness for heavy going, winning four of his two-year-old races on heavy tracks, while Papyrus, though he has been favored by good going in most of his races, won the Duke of York stakes this season on a heavy track.

My Own, on the other hand although his breeding stamps him as a mudder, has shown no likeness for heavy running and in the opinion of critics might not be at his best on a slow track. His sire, King James, however, was one of the outstanding "mud-runners" of the American turf several years ago and in horses, his heritage usually is handed down.

Despite today's rain, however, the track at Belmont Park did not seem especially heavy. Due to its sandy texture and excellent drainage, it was believed the course, while it might be somewhat heavy, would not be muddy.

Opinion Favors English Horse.

Wherever the thoroughbred was the chief topic of discussion tonight, in drawing rooms or on the street corners, opinion in support of Papyrus was reflected. Veteran horsemen, too, who have watched closely the preparatory work of the rivals, seemed convinced that the English champion at least had an even chance of victory, not only because of the eleventh hour ailment to Zev, but also because of the impressive showing of the invader.

Papyrus, despite a slight ankle injury soon after his arrival in this country, has rounded, apparently into close to his best racing form despite the numerous handicaps he faced in coming here. He has shown not only the staying qualities with which he was credited before his arrival, but, in his last few trials, early speed of a type amazing to the critics and close to a parity with that of Zev. This fact has done as much as anything else to swing favorable opinion to the side of the Derby winner.

Zev, on the other hand, since losing part of a frog in winning the Lawrence realization early in September, has not shown the remarkable form that carried the colt to victory in eight out of nine starts and earned him acclaim as the year's three-year-old champion. The Rancocas colt, too, went lame not long after his Kentucky Derby triumph and this, combined with ater developments, undoubtedly has affected his form.

Both Jockeys Have Brains.

One of the most picturesque features of the race tomorow will be the matching of riding wits and generalship between Steve Donoghue, premier rider of England, and Earl Sande, the leading American jockey, who will have the leg up on Zev. Both are exceptional horsemen and quick-witted pilots, bred in the strategy of the turf.

Donoghue, who has won five English Derbies, piloted Papyrus to victory at Epsom Downs this year for his third successive triumph in this classic. He ranks at the top in a number of victories in England this year, with 62, while Sande, with 163 victories to his credit, heads the western track riders.

THE FORD AND COLUMBIA IN ELIMINATION RACE

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 19—An elimination race to choose American challenger for the international fishermen's race will be sailed off Gloucester on Sunday, the American race committee decided tonight. The contestants will be the new schooner Columbia and the Henry Ford, which was defeated off Gloucester last year by the Nova Scotia vessel, Bluenose.

If the Columbia wins the elimination contest the arrangements already made for meeting the Canadian defender Bluenose at Halifax, October 27 in the first race of this year's international series will be adhered to. In the event of the Ford winning on Sunday the American race committee will ask the Halifax trustees of the international trophy to postpone the international event until the Ford can be made ready.

GOLDSTEIN BEATS BURMAN AS SUBSTITUTE FOR LYNCH

New York, Oct. 19—Abe Goldstein of New York won the judges' decision over Joe Burman of Chicago in their twelve round match at Madison Square Garden tonight. Goldstein substitute for Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion, although Burman was recognized as the titleholder in New York state. Lynch dislocated his shoulder yesterday his manager announced. Burman weighed 118 pounds and Goldstein 117 1-2.

Goldstein was announced the champion from the ring, although it later was reported that a meeting of the state athletic commission would be held Monday to determine Lynch's status.

Goldstein had five of the rounds in tonight's fray, Burman took three and the rest were even.

ACADEMY AFTER SCALP OF TECH AT NEW LONDON TODAY

Urged on by the sting of many defeats at the hands of the warriors from the New London school, the Norwich Free Academy eleven is on the war-path to get the scalp of the Red and Black today at New London. The local team has been through a hard week's practice in preparation for this contest. Scrimmage has been the order of the day with several old alumni including Fred Williams, "Bill" Ringland and Bixby working as the backfield of the second team and have kept the first-string men busy tackling them. The Academy has not had any real contest for a little over a week and the boys are "rarin' to go" in the language of the race track. Eby is the only member of the first squad who will not be ready for the fray. The reason for this condition is the injuries which he received in the Plainfield game and from which he is still suffering. Captain Phil MacNamara still has to be a little easy on his ankle injured in the Westerly game but otherwise is as good as ever.

The New London team lost several of their stars by graduation last spring so that the contest will be more of the nature of a contest than several of the past encounters. According to the dope sheets the game promises to be a very close contest, for the Whalers defeated the Stonington gridiron warriors to the tune of 19-0 with the game ending with the ball in Tech's possession on their own 20 yard line. Norwich, playing the same wrecking crew, defeated the Stonington boys, 19-6 but in their case the game ended with the ball on the Stonington 5 yard line in the Academy's possession. These two scores go to prove that the spectators will see a highly exciting contest with the probability that the breaks will decide the final result.

TIGERS HAVE REAL TEST AGAINST NOTRE DAME

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 19—Facing the first real test of the season, the Princeton football team tomorrow will confront Notre Dame with two of its regular and a sub-center on the sick list. Charley Caldwell, star center and Bob Beattie, half back, will be out of the game as will Forrest, also center. They have not recovered fully from injuries received in the Georgetown and Johns Hopkins games.

The Tigers' final practice today was held indoors because of rain.

The Notre Dame team arrived at Asbury Park today and will come to Princeton tomorrow morning for a short workout.

Although Palmer stadium was muddy tonight, it is expected that the playing field will be in fairly good condition by tomorrow.

BUCKNELL STUDENT HIKING TO NEW HAVEN FOR GAME

New Haven, Oct. 19—Sixty Bucknell students left Lewisburg, Pa., yesterday to hike to this city where they and 150 more co-rooters will witness the Yale-Bucknell football game tomorrow.

Fred Angstead and Morris Howell, freshmen, who arrived soon after noon today, said they had to walk only five out of the 400 or more miles between New Haven and Lewisburg. Rides with passing autoists enabled them to make the trip in approximately 24 hours. The two are former members of the eleven, and are unable to play because of injuries from which they have not fully recovered.

SIX THOROUGHBREDS ENTERED FOR LATONIA CUP RACE

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 19—A field of six thoroughbreds have been entered over night for the $15,000 added Latonia track tomorrow, Chacolet, the mare which won the Latonia special at the present meeting, will likely be installed the favorite in the betting for the cup event. Cherry Tree, will probably be second choice, and Fancy Free, third, with marine corps, Tip-Toe Inn and Fantoche, regarded as outsiders.

Bowdoin Loses Cross-Country Run

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 19—Harvard defeated Bowdoin in a five mile cross country run over the Allston course today, 24 to 31. The race was featured by a battle between Byron R. Cutcheon, of Long Branch, N. J., running for Harvard, and Robert Foster, of Bowdoin, New England intercollegiate half mile champion which Cutcheon finally won by 25 yards. His time was 25 minutes 40 seconds.

Harvard Loses at Soccer

COLLEGE FOOTBALL COMES INTO ITS OWN TODAY ON MANY GRIDIRONS

New York, Oct. 19—Football comes into its own tomorrow.

The big intersectional game and probably the most largely attended of the day will be that at the Palmer Memorial stadium, Princeton, N. J., where the Princeton Tiger, which went unconquered last season, meets Knute Rockne's brilliant Notre Dame eleven, recent victor over West Point. Notre Dame is reported the favorite by reason of its triumph last Saturday and also because of the fact Coach Roper of the Tigers has been forced to make several shifts in his lineup owing to injuries, ills or inefficiency.

Important also to the football public are the contests involving Cornell and Colgate, at Ithaca, N. Y., Penn State and Navy, at State College, Pa., Pennsylvania and Columbia, at Philadelphia; Syracuse and Pittsburgh at the Yankee Stadium; and two intersectional clashes, one between Army and Alabama Poly, at West Point, the other between Georgia Tech and Georgetown, at Atlanta, Ga. At the same time, the impressive showing made in recent years by Holy Cross against Harvard, makes their game one of promise, and Vermont's 1922 defeat of Dartmouth lends to their Burlington clash an added note of interest.

Mindful of the stirring 21 to 14 contest between Pittsburgh and Syracuse last year, New York fans anticipate another afternoon of thrills when at the new Yankee Stadium football will be played for the first time tomorrow afternoon.

The Pennsylvania-Columbia game, bringing together old rivals under new coaching systems, presents many interesting aspects. Neither team has fared well thus far this season, Pennsylvania having been defeated by Maryland, and Columbia tied by Amherst. Much uncertainty as to the outcome is evidenced by the rival supporters.

Games, other than those mentioned, which should develop interesting play and possibly an upset or two, are the Yale-Bucknell game at New Haven; Washington & Jefferson-Carnegie Tech game at Washington, Pa.; Lehigh-Fordham game at Bethlehem, Pa.; Lafayette-Springfield game, at Easton, Pa.; Brown-Boston University game, at Providence, and Rutgers-New York University game at Brunswick.

Jockey Injured

PAYMASTER FELLED AND ROBBED OF $2,750

New York, Oct. 19.—Two men today held up Antonio Martio, paymaster for Klein Brothers, makers of bamboo products, a block from the concern's factory, in Long Island City and escaped in an automobile with $2,750 after felling Martl with a rubber hose filled with lead.

Martio was returning from a bank. Max Downath, superintendent of Klein Brothers, was walking behind Martio to protect, but lagged so far behind that he did not witness the hold-up. He found the paymaster lying unconscious and carried him into the factory.

K. of C. to Hear Prison Chaplin

Knights of Columbus from this section will go to Westerly Sunday evening, for a public lecture, when Rev. Michael J. Murphy, chaplain of the Massachusetts state prison at Charlestown, one of the best known public speakers in New England, will deliver an illustrated address at Bliven Opera House under the auspices of Narragansett council, No. 21, Knights of Columbus.

Father Murphy's lecture will be on "Scenes Behind Prison Walls."

BOLTON

Andover grange met with Bolton grange last week Tuesday evening and provided a pleasing programme as follows: Music by a male quartette, piano solo, Miss Stanley; character singing, ladies; paper, "Good Housekeeping;" play entitled "Rosalie." After the programme refreshments were served.

Bolton was largely represented at the meeting of East Central Pomona Grange held in Columbia.

Last Friday over a dozen men met at the Congregational parsonage where they dug the cellar a foot deeper, it previously being to shallow for a furnace. They also dug a new cellar drain to the west. At noon the women of the church served the men a fine dinner at Mrs. Samuel M. Alvord's "Alvord Acres."

Morgan H. Alvord, son of Prof. and Mrs. Samuel M. Alvord has just been awarded the Witherbee scholarship at Yale university for his senior year. This scholarship is awarded on the merits of excellent scholarship and good character. Mr. Alvord has won a scholarship every year since entering the university.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Levy have returned to their home in Indianapolis, after spending the season at their Bolton home. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Tinker, Jr., returned with them for two weeks' visit.

Miss Ruth Warner of Hartford has been visiting at Miss Louise J. Hutchinson's.

The school board met last Friday evening and selected officers as follows: Chairman, H. E. DeWolf; secretary, Mrs. F. D. Finley; caretakers for the districts, Center, J. Wesson Phelps; South, F. D. Finley; North, H. E. De Wolf; Southwest, William R. French.

Mrs. James H. Frances of Pittsfield, Mass., has been visiting her niece, Mrs. Charles M. Pinney.

Miss Cora Blankenberg of Rockville, spent the week end with Mrs. John Toomey.

Miss Lucy Carver of Ludlow, Mass., spent Sunday with Miss Lillian C. Selvtzer.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Stetson of Cromwell were guests Sunday at Charles N. Loomis.

Miss Helen Taylor of Holyoke, Mass., has been visiting her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Frederick C. Taylor.

William Warner, of Hartford, state dairy inspector was in Bolton last week on duties pertaining to his office.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Kneeland Jones were Lebanon visitors Sunday.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Charles E. Griffiths of New Haven was elected grand chancellor of the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias which met this week in annual session at New London.

The report by George H. Wright, grand keeper of records and seal, which discloses a net gain of 40 during the year, does not indicate the real gain, for between 700 and 800 new members were initiated and reinstated to cover the loss of those who were suspended because of non-payment of dues. The order now has a membership of over 11,000. The report shows that there were 71 withdrawals during the year and 129 deaths.

The lodge to make the greatest gain during the year was Fidelity No. 787, which reports increased membership of 93 over the preceding year.

The list of officers elected follows: Grand chancellor, Charles E. Griffiths, New Haven; grand vice chancellor, Fred M. Parsons, Seymour; grand prelate, William L. Morgan, Rockfall; grand keeper of records and seal George E. Wright, Hartford; grand master of the exchequer, William M. Potter, Willimantic, (re-elected for the twenty-eighth consecutive term); grand master at arms, Arthur F. Mitchell, Hartford; grand inner guard, Charles Andrews, Bridgeport; grand outer guard, Walter R. King, Willimantic; grand trustee, John F. Osborne, Ansonia; supreme representatives, Manilus F. Norton, New Britain and Fred C. Marggraff, Waterbury.

MACCABEES.

The regular meeting of the W. B. A. of Maccabees was held last Wednesday night at 8 p. m. at the Buckingham Memorial.

After the meeting the members spent a social hour in honor of their distinguished guests, Deputy Supreme Commander Mrs. Littleton and District Deputy Miss E. Hess of Hartford. Refreshments were served.

A. O. H. AUXILIARY.

Division 54, Ladies Auxiliary, A. O. H., held its regular meeting on Wednesday evening in A. O. H. hall on Main street with a large number in attendance. At the business session three applications for membership were received and favorably acted upon. A very gratifying report of the recent whist was made by the chairman of the committee, Mrs. Anna O'Donnell, showing that a large sum had been realized. The meeting voted to have a Hallowe'en social as Thursday evening on Oct. 25th at the hall. A five-piece orchestra is to furnish music.

FORESTERS.

At the regular meeting of Court City of Norwich, No. 62, Chief Ranger Henry A. Congdon presiding, a large amount of routine business was transacted. Three applications were read and seven voted on. The degree team which has been resting during the warm weather has been practising for the last month and will put through a class of ten candidates next Tuesday night, which is the regular meeting night. The interest that is being taken in the work is an indication that the members of the team wish to be classed among the topnotchers of the order.

Several important communications have been received which are to be acted upon with a large amount of committee business which is of very great interest to the members and a large meeting is expected.

The quarterly report was read and showed an increase in membership and finances. Court City of Norwich is the largest court in the state, having a membership of 980, and this number will be increased as a result of the many interesting events which are now in the hands of the different committees.

A large number from Norwich witnessed the Waterville team put through a class of 35 candidates last Sunday at Moosup. The work was very pleasing to the grand court officers who were present.

PYTHIAN SISTERS.

At the annual convention of the Pythian Sisters, auxiliary to the Knights of Pythias, in New London, this week, Martha Snyder of Hartford was elected grand chief for the coming year. The report of the secretary shows that three new temples were organized during the past year, making a total in the state of 34. There was reported a gain of membership for the year of 262. Cash on hand Dec. 31, 1921, was $6,372.81 and $7,257.29 on hand Dec. 31, 1922, a gain of $884.08.

Officers were chosen for the ensuing year as follows:

The next annual meeting will be in New Haven.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

The regular meeting of White Cross Council, No. 18, was held at the K. of C. home Tuesday evening. Grand Knight F. T. Diggins presided. Routine business was transacted and matters pertaining to the welfare of the order were discussed. The social held Thursday evening, Oct. 11, was reported a success. Plans are under way for another social to be held in the near future. The fair committee held a meeting Thursday evening, October 18th, and matters pertaining to the fair were talked over. This committee meets every Thursday evening and is working hard to make this fair bigger and better than any held in previous years.

The newly organized bowling league has caused much interest in the welfare of the council and promises to be one of the main attractions this coming winter. Next Tuesday evening, Oct. 24, at the Aetna bowling alleys the league will battle for the leadership which is held by the Westerns.

ODD FELLOWS.

Uncas Lodge, No. 11, held its regular weekly meeting Monday evening at Odd Fellows building with a large attendance. Routine business was transacted and plans were made for the working of the second degree with a tableau at the meeting next Monday evening. Several visitors were present from Stafford Springs.

REBEKAHS.

The regular meeting of Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, was held Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows hall Main street, with the noble grand, Bertha Collins, in the chair. Regular routine business was transacted and after the meeting an entertainment was given by the entertainment committee. The programme included readings by Mrs. Grace Manning and solos by Miss Gladys Rice, Miss Elizabeth Hartley and Miss Charlotte Fowler accompanied by Prof. Hugh Kinder. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and ice cream were served.

ODD LADIES, M. U.

Loyal Victory Lodge, No. 4, met on Thursday evening at Steiner's hall with the noble grand, Gertrude Alquist, presiding. The meeting was well attended and the usual routine of business was transacted. The next meeting of the lodge will convene at 7.30 instead of the usual hour, 8 o'clock, on account of the whist planned for that night. It is expected that the members of Hugh Osgood lodge will be present at the whist.

Two applications for membership were acted upon at the meeting and after adjournment a Hallowe'en social was held. The hall was prettily decorated in the Hallowe'en colors. The social committee served doughnuts, coffee and apples.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Getting a Splinter From a Bear's Foot

"Give me a penny, bunny boy,
For that is the toll you must pay,
If you would cross over the river to Dover.
Dover, just over the way."

sang the little old lady toll keeper whom I mentioned in the last story.

"Here is a penny," said Little Jack Rabbitt leaning down from Dapple Gray, to drop it into the old lady's apron.

"Pass on, little rabbit," she said, opening the gate and in a few minutes Dapple Gray was clattering over the bridge and before long he stopped at the Goody-Sweet-Tooth Shop.

"I bring you good news from the little men of the glen said Little Jack Rabbit to the little old lady who just then looked out of the door.

"What is the news, dearie?" she asked, shading her eyes with her withered hand to make sure, I guess that Little Jack Rabbit was really a bunny, for maybe she wasn't used to talkative rabbits.

"Tomorrow morning, just at dawn
When the little rooster blows on his horn,
The maple sugar candy hearts,
Cute little cupids and candy darts,
Is a great big box will be laid at your door,
To give to the children who come to your store," sang the little bunny. But how he had learned to speak in poetry is more than I can tell. Perhaps the fairy maple sugar candy, which he had eaten on his way to town had lent magic to his tongue.

"A pretty song," cried the little old woman with a curtsy, and then the rabbit boy continued on his way and by and by, after a while, he came to a great big bear sitting on a stone by the road. On the ground by his side was a big bundle, tied with a thick leather strap.

"I wish I had a pony,
Either brown or gray,
So I could ride whate'er betide,
For many miles away."

sighed the bear, taking off his hat

"Why, what's the matter?" sighed Little Jack Rabbit.

"I have a splinter in my foot," answered the bear.

At once the bunny boy dismounted to look at the bear's foot and when he found the splinter, he said:

"Now, don't you cry and don't you pout,
And I will pull the splinter out."

And, would you believe it? In less than five hundred short seconds, he held the splinter under the bear's nose so he could see it for the bear was near sighted and couldn't see the end of his toes. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

ANNOUNCEMENT

THE H. H. ALLYN RUBBER CORPORATION

Manufacturers of Standard "Self Seal Leak Proof" Inner Tubes

(PATENTED)

Are pleased to announce that the Company has leased for a term of years, a portion of the ground floor and basement of the Rogers Mill Plant, located at 18-28 Thames Street, Norwich, Conn. The space leased is approximately 9,000 square feet, and will be used exclusively for the manufacture of Standard "Self Seal Leak Proof" Inner Tubes. In selecting Norwich as its future home, the officers and directors of the Company took into consideration all vital matters, as transportation facilities, access to raw product markets, distribution and marketing of product, rentals, future expansion, general co-operation, and all minor details necessary for successful operation. Several other cities were considered, but it was found that what the Company wanted was to be had at Norwich, hence the decision to locate factory here. The minimum daily output of factory will be (1,000) one thousand Tubes.

H. H. Allyn Rubber Corp.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Gentlemen:—Permit me to acknowledge, herewith, the receipt of your letter of recent date, inquiring as to the service that your "SELF SEAL" inner tubes are giving me.

As you know, I placed them in all four shoes on my Dodge sedan about seven months ago and during that time have run more than eight thousand miles.

Using my car at all hours of the day and night, they have given me excellent service and are puncture proof in all sense of the word. I have picked up three nails and a piece of sharp steel, but never had to change a tire or even inflate them after pulling them out.

In view of the fact that they add to the comfort of driving and eliminate all fear of punctures, you should call them to the attention of every physician using an automobile.

Very truly yours,
Wm. J. Lynch, M. D.

Gentlemen:—On or about the 14th day of June, 1921, I purchased for my Hudson sedan four new Miller Cord Tires, 37x4½, and, when these tires were put on the car, I had four of your puncture-proof inner tubes put in the casings, and I used these tires constantly until about the middle of July, 1923, when one of the casings blew out. My speedometer showed that these tires had run 13,710 miles and I have not had a single puncture in the meantime.

I am convinced that the casings were run further and longer with these inner tubes than with the ordinary inner tubes.

Yours very truly,

Bell Telephone 39-M

H. H. Allyn Rubber Corporation,

Gentlemen:—In March, 1923, I purchased two of your Standard "Self Seal" inner tubes and take pleasure in stating that I have run them about 5,000 miles with perfect satisfaction.

These tubes have been subjected to some very severe tests. One tube was accidentally punctured by a railroad spike which passed through the outer and inner walls of the tube. These punctures were repaired with patches and the tube has been in service in the tire ever since.

I purposely have punctured this damaged tube with nails twenty-one different times.

All of these nail punctures automatically sealed themselves and the tube is still in perfect working condition and running on my machine.

I consider such results prove conclusively the great value of your Standard "Self Seal" inner tubes and I believe people who once use them will discontinue the use of the ordinary tube.

I certainly wish you success, as I believe you are entitled to it.

Very truly yours,
Thos F Bast

H. H. Allyn Rubber Corporation,

Gentlemen:—Replying to your request for a service record of the Self Seal Inner Tubes that I purchased from you eight months ago, I gladly offer you the following information: The tubes are still in the casings in which they were installed and have been a source of security and pleasure to me in driving my car that I have never felt before.

The fact that these tubes will hold air for an indefinite period is in itself a feature that more than justifies their use, my car during the period just mentioned has not had its tires replenished with air more than three times. Prior to this the attempt, to keep my tires constantly inflated to the proper running pressure was a constant worry to me.

The puncture sealing feature has been demonstrated to me in a very satisfactory and convincing manner. A short nail was picked up by one of my tires and remained there for some time, just how long I do not know, but the head of the nail was completely worn off before I discovered it. When this nail was pulled out there was no loss of air whatever.

Yours very truly,

Product

STANDARD "SELF SEAL" Inner Tubes are built to overcome the most common causes of tire trouble — PUNCTURES — SLOW LEAKS and PINCHES. They do not make punctures impossible, but they seal ordinary punctures instantly and without loss of air, something that no other tube on the market will do in an equally effective manner.

Standard "Self Seal" Inner Tubes consist of two specially made tubes of the best quality tube stock, with a composition of pure plastic rubber between them and a half circle of the same plastic rubber inside of the innermost tube, placed against the tread side. They are scientifically constructed, the result of several years' experimental work and continuous tests in actual service.

The Self Sealing Feature is simple. The plastic rubber clings to the object which has punctured the tube, and when this object is withdrawn it is pulled through the holes made in the tube stock, plugging and permanently sealing them. Not an ounce of air is lost, as has been proven many times.

NO PINCHES

The double wall construction of the Standard "Self Seal" Inner Tube prevents pinches on the rim, one of the most frequent causes of tire trouble.

NO SLOW LEAKS

The plastic rubber between the two tubes prevents leakage of air through pores in the tube stock, thus maintaining uniform air pressure for months, instead of weeks, insuring constant, even riding that will give you the greatest comfort and longer mileage from your casings.

Standard "Self Seal" Inner Tubes are quality tubes, built to last, and with ordinary care will give several times the service of common bladder tubes. This makes them the most economical in use, without taking into consideration the extra comfort and convenience they give, neither counting the saving in time and tire patches, nor the extra life they add to the casings. Standard "Self Seal" Inner Tubes are the best tubes on the market, correct in every principle. Start using them now and avail yourself of the many advantages their use offers.

This tube has been in use under all driving and climatic conditions for the past two years and a half and has done more than stood the test. It is the only Inner Tube on the market that successfully seals Punctures, prevents Pinches, Slow Leaks and other Tire Troubles.

SPECIAL CAMPAIGN OFFER

Believing that the citizens and public in general of this section, and also our many stockholders, located in Connecticut, and elsewhere, are always ready to invest their money, when they feel assured of a good return on their Investment, the Company will inaugurate a short campaign for the distribution of a limited number of its shares of Capital Stock at Par—$1.00 per share. The shares are all Common Voting, Fully Paid and Non-Assessable. The Campaign opens Monday, October 22nd, 1923, and closes Thursday, November 8th, 1923. After November 8th, shares will be sold at $1.50 per share.

EARNINGS

The World's registration of automobiles and motor trucks as reported by the United States Department of Commerce for January 1, 1923, is 14,622,161. Of this number 12,357,376 are registered in the United States.

When it is taken into consideration that this enormous number of cars require at least four inner tubes annually, which is approximately 50,000,000 tubes it is only reasonable to assume that a large quantity of these tubes will be STANDARD "SELF SEAL" INNER TUBES.

Under manufacturing conditions as our new factory will afford, the average net profit will exceed $1.00 per Tube. Based on a minimum production of only 500 tubes daily, (whereas the minimum of factory will be 1,000 daily operating to capacity.) This would show a profit of $150,000 per year on a total capitalization of $500,000.

Distribution

The Company in the past six months has obtained and placed the following dealers and representatives. These are all exclusive, as to our product, and practically in all instances, handle and sell only Standard "Self Seal Leak Proof" Inner Tubes.

CONCLUSION

The H. H. Allyn Rubber Corporation is pleased to locate in Norwich. The corporation believes that there are many advantages favorable to manufacturing in this good city. From henceforth the H. H. Allyn Rubber Corporation will become part and parcel of this community.

The inner tubes manufactured by this concern will have a nation-wide distribution and consequently Norwich will be advertised throughout the nation as the home of the "Self Seal Leak Proof" inner tube. Offices and factory are located right here. We firmly believe that Norwich will be proud of her new industry as time goes on.

The Chamber of Commerce and one of the Local Banks have investigated the personnel and the whole proposition and the corporation welcomes any inquiries concerning its stability and its product through the local Chamber of Commerce.

To the good people of Norwich we extend our felicitations on your thriving community. We hope for your support and your encouragement to your newest industry. Together we fondly hope to grow and prosper.

The necessary changes to the building will be completed as speedily as possible. Thereafter all machinery and equipment will be installed. It is the intention and desire of the Company to start operating on or about January 15th, 1924.

It shall always be our pleasure to demonstrate Standard "Self Seal Leak Proof" Inner Tubes, "Made in Norwich, Conn."

Respectfully,

Dealer in Norwich and vicinity

Slater Hall Musical Course.

The Slater Hall Musical Course for the season of 1923-24 offers to musical patrons a series of strong artistic appeal and of great variety.

Four concerts will be given by celebrated artists of world fame.

A large number of subscriptions for the course have been sent in and much interest is manifested by music lovers.

Patrons who have not already sent in their names as subscribers are requested to do so immediately.

Subscribers may have their names placed on the subscription list at The Cranston Co., or may mail their order for tickets to Grace Benjamin, 110 Washington street, Norwich, Conn.

The course tickets will be on sale Monday morning, Oct. 22nd at 9 o'clock at The Cranston Co., Broadway.

Course tickets only $6.00 (four concerts) which includes a reserved seat for the season; tax exempt.

The artists will appear as follows:

On Friday evening, Nov. 2, Jeanne Gordon, leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company, will appear. George Roberts will be the assisting pianist and accompanist. Mr. Roberts previously appeared in Slater Hall as assisting pianist for Florence Macbeth and will be favorably recalled as an artist of marked ability.

Miss Gordon has had one of the most sensational rises to fame of any singer of recent years. Though engaged only three years ago as a member of the Metropolitan Opera company Miss Gordon is acknowledged one of the foremost artists of the world's premier operatic organizations and is already taking the place in the affections of the New York operatic public relinquished by Mme. Louise Homer. There are three requisites for a popular operatic and concert star and all three requisites Miss Gordon possesses—a wonderful voice, beauty of face and figure and personal charm.

On Friday evening, Jan. 11th, Percy Grainger, the famous Australian pianist and composer, will appear.

There is probably no figure in the musical world of today of more vital interest than this young artist. Fascinating as a pianist, compelling as a conductor and unquestionably powerful among the serious composers of today, the name of Percy Grainger has become famous in European countries and in America.

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 6th, Olive Marshall, the noted soprano, and Jean Bedetti, the distinguished cellist, will appear in joint recital. To attempt with Olive Marshall has been to succeed. Endowed with a voice of great beauty, this young singer has attracted favor of the public and critics wherever she has appeared. In the concert and recital field she has achieved success and stands today in the front rank of the younger singers. In recital and as soloist with the Boston Symphony orchestra, Jean Bedetti has been acclaimed as a leading 'cellist.

On Friday evening, March 7th, Erna Rubinstein, aptly called a genius of the violin, will appear. Erna Rubinstein is the musical sensation in New York. At her debut, she had the honor of being soloist with the New York Philharmonic orchestra, led by Willem Mengelberg. The critics were amazed by the stupendous gifts of this young artist and likened her playing to that of Kreisler, Elman and Heifetz.

Renaissance of Tea.

The transformation of the hotel bar, with its doubtful cheer, and invariable inebriation, into a tea room is to be noted frequently in high class hotels, while in many of them the bar fittings have been retained and adapted to the new requirements.

Apropos of this one writer says: "It is noted by observant travelers that a growing army of men are to be seen dropping in to a hotel tea room for refreshments on their way home from business." The same authority says that "From this it is only a step to afternoon tea in the business offices and factories—a custom that the English have found to be exceedingly beneficial in keeping up the morale of the workers when the mid-afternoon fatigues begin to interfer with efficiency."

Indeed it is a regular custom in the Salada Tea packing plant in Boston and has been for years, as in London, Liverpool, and other places in England, to serve tea to the employes. Gerald R. Larkin, the general manager, says: "It is impossible unless you have tried it, to know how much exhilliration and refreshment one gets from a cup of tea deliciously prepared, if served at four o'clock in the afternoon, as is the custom at the American and Canadian headquarters. It has a wouderful vitalizing effect.

"While afternoon tea is of course primarily an English custom, there is no question but the habit has already taken a firm hold here, and it is inevitable so it seems, that ere long it will become as common as the tea habit of our British cousins. There you know it must be catered to no matter where it overtakes them, at home, in the city, in the factory or shop, in the country or while traveling. For at least a half hour around four o'clock in the afternoon the "tea dogs" may be heard barking, very much as is the custom and manner of the soft drink "barkers" at Coney Island and elsewhere, to lure the passerby to an indulgeace of the cup that cheers."

Russian Cathedral Sextete at United Congregational Church.

In the United Congregational church, Sunday, October 21, at 4 p. m. under the auspices of Norwich Y. M. C. A., the Russian Cathedral Sextette, consisting of six of Russia's best vocalists, now touring America, who will open the local Y. M. C. A. course on Monday evening, October 22, has been secured for a special programme Sunday afternoon, October 21, 4 o'clock. Public invited.

The personnel follows: Mme. A. Schlikevich, soprano; Mme. X. Aganoff, mezzo-soprano; Alexander Vikinsky, tenor; Nicholas Vasilieff, tenor; Nicholas Antaoff, bass; Alexander Kandiba, bass; Harry Wilhelm, pianist-accompanist.

The programme follows: 1 Lord, Have Mercy. (Responses from the Liturgy of John Chrysostom.) 2 Prayer of the Good Thief, Lvoff. "Tonight is the Last Supper, Thou art the Son of God. Accept me as a communicant. I shall not kiss Thee like Judas, but shall confess thee like the good Thief. Jesus remember me when Thou comest into Thy Kingdom." 3 In Church Tschaikowsky. "With contrite heart in ardent prayer we bend to the Creator. Oh, God, keep our Russia. Oh, God, Oh Providence, let her sons atone for their sins. Oh God, save and forgive our Fatherland. So many trials have descended upon her. Give her new life and hope, renew her strength and courage." 4 Trio, Gold Clouds, Dargomisky. Mme. Schlikevich, and Messrs. Vikinsky, Antanoff. 5 Solo, The Wayward, Massenet, Nicholas Vasilieff. 6 Piano solo, Sixth Hupngarian Rhapsody, Liszt, Harry Wilhelm. 7 Volga Boatman's Song, Folk Song, quartette. 8 A Song of India, Rimsky Korsakoff, sexteete. 9 Sextette from Lucia, Domisetti, sextette.

Breed Theatre.

"The Spoilers," which will be shown at the Breed theatre four days starting Sunday, is said to be a stirring picture of Rex Beach's celebrated novel of the historic clash that occurred in the Klondike when crooked politicians tried to rob the miners of their properties. This book was a sensation in its day and when a decade ago Selig made a film of it, that too was a big success. The 1923 "Spoilers," which was produced by Jesse D. Hampton for Goldwyn is declared to be one of the finest and most thrilling photoplays ever made.

There is a remarkable cast of stellar players, headed by the manly Milton Sills the beautiful Barbara Bedford, and with blond Anna Q. Nilsson as the sympathetic Cherry Malotte. Noah Beery, the powerful villain of many a movie, is said to be at his sauve worst in "The Spoilers." Robert Edesom Mitchell Lewis, Ford Sterling, Rockcliffe Fellows, Robert McKim and Sam De Grasse are some of the other well-known players in the cast. Miss Bedford is the girl from the states with whom Mills as Roy Glennister, falls in love. Miss Nilsson, a girl of the dance hall, who roams from camp to camp in the Northland, "asking odds of no man." Director Lambert Hillyer has adhered closely to Beach's story, which was founded on historic facts as viewed at close range. Critics have said that if anyone wants to see before his eyes the rough, reckless and ready life of Alaska as it was in the days of the gold rush, he can see it in "The Spoilers."

Topics of the Day and an Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Today's bill consists of William Rossell in "Goodbye Girls," Ruth Roland in "Haunted Valley," the Pathe News and a Sunshine comedy. Continuous show today from 1.30 to 10.15.

Broadway Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Starting Monday of next week, the Broadway theatre will inaugurate its new policy of B. F. Keith vaudeville for the entire week.

An exceptional programme has been arranged as well as a feature special. Both parts of the programme are sure to please.

"Marriage Morals," at the Broadway theatre next week Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday has met with such unusual success since its recent release that the producers, Messrs. L. Lawrence Weber and Bobby North, have determined to adapt it for the stage and produce it as a play after it has run its course on the screen.

This unusual procedure, reversing the usual process of stage to screen, has been inspired because of the extraordinary criticisms which have been lavished upon it.

The theme, rebellion against a false code of "Marriage Morals," culminating in an epic denunciation of the un-American standard of double morality, is one which has stimulated the genius of many famous authors and has commanded the serious attention of leaders of thought all through the country.

Will Nigh, its author-director, will write and stage the stage version, while the entire cast—Tom Moore, Ann Forrest, Edmund Breese, Florence Billings, Harry T. Morey, Shannon Day, Tom Lewis, John Goldsworthy, little Russell Griffin, Charles Craig and "Micky" Bennett—all stage favorites, as well as film favorites, will re-enact their screen roles.

"Hollywood" at the Strand, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

A cast of players practically unknown to the screen, but every one a type, every one talented—that is the roster for "Hollywood," James Cruze's new Paramount picture, which will be shown at the Strand theatre for three days beginning next Monday.

True, there are many others in the picture—all the prominent stars, directors, and officials of the Paramount organization, but they appear only in certain scenes. When Angela from the middle west visits Hollywood and tries to get into pictures, she meets all these notables and thus the public sees them all in one great picture.

The leading role of Angela Whitaker is played by Hope Drown, a young actress who has never heretofore appeared before the camera. She is lovely, youthful, vivacious and clever. Mr. Cruze remembered seeing her on the stage with a stock company in San Diego a year or so ago. He located her in San Francisco, where she was playing at a theatre. The arrangements were made and she was signed for a role which should make her famous.

Harris Gordon, another new face, plays Dr. Luke Morrison, which is something of a heavy role. Bess Flowers, altogether unknown to the screen, is Hortense Towers, in the film. Horace Pringle, another important character is portrayed by King Zany, new to the screen.

"Hollywood," which is a remarkable picture in many ways, is calculated to appeal to every lover of motion pictures everywhere. It is significant of the importance of the picture that it was made by James Cruze, creator of "The Old Homestead," and "The Covered Wagon."

A comedy and news will be the short subjects.

Note. This feature will also be shown at the Broadway theatre on Sunday night only.

Connecticut College Concert.

In reviewing the concert at which Mr. Van Hoogstraten made his first appearance in America as guest conductor of the Philharmonic orchestra, Henry E. Krehbiel wrote in the New York Tribune, "In Mr. Von Hoogstraten's conducting it is a pleasure to recognize the work of a thoroughly capable, earnest and unaffected leader, in admirable command of the technics of his art and devoted to high ideals."

Katherine Spaeth, in the Evening Mail wrote, "He deserved the ovation at the close and a similar demonstration for his mastery reading of Reger's variations on a theme of Mozart at the start. There should be a permanent place in America for this new master of conducting."

Mr. Van Hoogstraten will conduct the concert by the Philharmonic orchestra in the New London State armory, Monday evning, October 29th.

Ticket sale for this and all concerts of the Connecticut College Series begins at Starr Bros., Monday, October 22.

There will be a representative of the committee at the same place on Saturday, October 20, from 2 to 4 p. m. for the convenience of guarantors and subscribers who may wish to select their own seats. Course tickets only will be sold at that time. Telephone 2615.

WHAT TO DO WITH FERRY BOAT STILL A NEW LONDON PROBLEM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 19—Two more automobile owners lost their right to operate machines this forenoon, when Commissioner Robbins R. Stoeckel suspended the licenses of Henry L. Eaton, 150 Montauk avenue and Llewellyn H. Golden, stationed at the submarine base. Eaton was convicted several weeks ago of operating his machine while under the influence of liquor.

Miss Irene Molland of Williams street, Miss Virginia and Master Lester Reeves of Hamilton street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Anthony Crimmings of San Francisco, left for home this morning, having spent several days with his brother, John J. Crimmings, of 26 Main street. The brothers were together in San Francisco 36 years ago and until Anthony Crimmings appeared in New London a few days ago the brothers had not seen each other in that time.

Joseph Paxhio and Miss Marion Church, both of New London, were married yesterday afternoon by Justice of the Peace Perry J. Hollandersky, at the office of the attorney. The bridegroom gave his occupation as a laborer and the bride as housekeeper.

Mrs. Clarence Brown and infant, of Groton, Mrs. Ralph Strout and infant of Broad street and Wells Dimock of Waterford, were patients discharged at Home Memorial hospital today.

Meyred H. Hollandersky was in Hartford today on business.

Lieut. L. B. Olsen, U. S. C. G. until recently assigned to duty on the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Haida, has arrived at the United States Coast Guard here, where he will be an instructor.

Mrs. Isadora Crandall, 66, wife of Nathaniel R. Clark, died this morning at the Hotel Mohican, where Mrs. Clark had resided for a number of years. Mrs. Clark had been in ill health about six years. She was troubled with rheumatism at the outset of her illness, the malady developing tuberculosis and heart trouble. She was the daughter of the late William J. and Elizabeth Reed Crandall and was a native of Ashaway, R. I. Besides her husband, Mrs. Clark is survived by a sister, Mrs. William H. Cone of 48 Lewis street.

Patents recently issued at Washington include one to Oscar Lascher of New London, on a cloth-trimming device. Ernest D. Blackinton of of Groton and George E. Smith of Waterford, are granted a patent for a portable cab.

Foster K. Sistare of New London, class of '24, at Yale university, has been awarded the Bennetto scholarship at Yale. Headmaster Homer K. Underwood of Bulkeley High school today received announcement of the award. Mr. Sistare is a graduate of Bulkeley.

Captain John L. Doxey, U. S. Marine corps at the submarine base, and Mrs. Dorothy Hersey Greer, of New London, daughter of Brigadier General and Mrs. Mark L. Hersey of Boston, were married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at th parsonage of the First Church of Christ by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth in the presence of relatives and intimate friends.

The Bloom mill has anneunced a four-days a wek schedule in the weaving department that will hold for some time—perhaps for the winter. The Babcock Press company is operating but three days a week at present.

Edward S. Harkness, who has a summer residence in the Pequot avenue section, is to spend the winter in Europe and will, it is understod, go to Egypt, where he will visit King Tut's tomb.

Members of the Fish and Game club that has headquarters at Salem entertained officers of the British ship Valerain at Cedar Lake lodge on Thursday evening. A coon supper was served. The party was made up of Ira Comstock, Daniel S. Marsh, Jr., Roy Goddard, Henry R. Bond, Dudley Sitt, Donnelly, Dr. J. M. Shea, E. H. Schumaker, Lieut. Paley, Surgeon Ainsworth and Lieut. Robertson. The coon served was a 19 pounder.

Mrs. Catherine Bell sustained bad injuries by falling on the ice sidewalk of Prest street last winter. She sued the city for damages of $10,000. An effort was made by the city's legal department to get a settlement of the case by paying what was regarded by the lawyers as a fair compensation for Mrs. Bell, but she and her attorneys declined to make a settlement and the suit followed. Mrs. Bell was incapacitated for the performance of any work for a considerable time, but the attorneys for the city insist that such an accident was the misfortune of the woman who was injured and will endeavor to show that the city used reasonable care to keep its sidewalks in condition and that it can do no more. It will, it is understood, insist that the city does not insure the people who use the walks against accident and will hold that such cannot be expected of the city. Such a case was won by the defendant when the city was aued for damages because of injuries sustained by a man who fell on the walk at the library last winter.

People are surprised to learn that $17 a bushel of 56 pounds is the price dealers are compelled to pay now if they secure the nuts to supply the retail trade. There has been a blight on chestnut trees and farmers say they will not be half a bushel of chestnuts in this whole section.

New London lodge of Elks is to provide the biggest entertainment ever undertaken for the people of all this section next summer when they will put on a carnival at what was Plant field during the time this city had a baseball team.

What is New London to do with the ferry boat that has been running across the river between this city and Groton from the foot of State street? Many will say that the city is still to operate the boat and that New London and Groton will pay the bills if the boat does not earn the money to foot accounts. The city has an investment of $16,000 in the boat for that price has been offered by New York parties for it and the offer can be accepted at any time and the boat disposed of. But there seems to be others who want the craft. C. H. Willard who has been operating the boat has asked the city to name the figures that will buy the boat when the figures are turned into cash. Employes on the boat have sought the privilege of managing the craft for the city and are understood to have represented that they can show a profit while they are operating the line. The city council will consider the matter at its meeting next Monday and then perhaps the question of what the city is to do with the boat can be answered. There are members of the council who are of the opinion that the city should operate the boat to bring trade from the east side of the river to New London. The boat is regarded as an expense that the city should not dodge. On the contrary, it is held that there is no better advertising for the city than the operation of the boat.

Robert G. McQueen and Jeannette Daley have sold two parcels of land on Montauk avenue to William D. Fox.

Charles Benanti has sold to Josephine Santacroce a house and lot on Mountain avenue.

Patrolman Timothy T. Sullivan, ill at his home, 191 Montauk avenue, several weeks with asthma, is improving slowly, but it will be several weeks before the officer is able to resume patrol duty.

A touring car owned and driven by Harry Johnson of New London, in which his wife and five children were passengers, overturned on the curve between Quaker Hill and Boiles Hill, Waterford late yesterday. Mrs. Johnson sustained slight cuts and a wrenched leg.

Captain Evan Bruce Gardyne, in command of the British cruiser Valerian, and his officers were guests at an informal reception at the Thames club this evening.

Inspector O'Neill of the Boston police force came to New London this evening under the impression that Thomas Fruscher of East Lyme, arrested at his home last Sunday on a warrant charging Fruscher with the larcency of $1,600 from the Norbert Bleaching company of Boston, was to appear in the East Lyme court tomorrow morning at which time the prisoner was supposed to be delivered to the Boston authorities to be taken back there for trial. Fruscher's whereabouts have not been known to the New London police since he disappeared Monday and it is probable that the Boston inspector will be compelled to return to Boston tomorrow to await further developments.

An automobile owned and operated by William R. Patterson, 4 Maple avenue, Stonington, and a machine owned and driven by W. L. Hodgman of East Greenwich, were struck by a Groton and Stonington trolley car in Mystic late this afternoon. Both machines escaped with slight damage. Hodgman's car collided with Patterson's auto. The two owners, after bringing their cars to a stop alongside the rails of the trolley company, where they engaged in a debate to determine the responsibility for the accident, did not realize their closeness to the rails. The trolley car descended a grade and because of the slippery condition of the rails, the motorman was unable to bring the car to a stop until it had crashed against both machines. Neither automobile was disabled, it being possible for both to be operated to a garage.

Sailors on the government ships in the harbor evidently had little difficulty in obtaining all the drink they could carry for this evening, there were many of them on Bank street under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Some progress has been made, it is understood, toward making a report to the city council on the feasibility of providing automobiles for the various departments of the city which are now hiring motor vehicles frequently.

SERIOUS BLADDER TROUBLE

"Could not stand nor sit and was forced to cry out from intense pain," writes Henry Williams, Tarkio, Montana. "The doctors said I had inflammation of the bladder and an operation was necessary. Tried Foley Kidney Pills and improved at once. Tell all my friends about Foley Kidney Pills, as it will save many from suffering and perhaps, as in my case, a dangerous operation." Bladder and kidney trouble demand prompt treatment. Foley Kidney Pills give quick relief. The A. Osgood Co.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY.

The Long Ago.

When the rosy day is dying,
And the night comes on apace,
And the evening winds are sighing
With a wild, enchanting grace,
Oft before my memory's vision
Pass the forms I used to know,
Faces dear and voices tender
Of the long ago.

Faces that the violets cover
On a far and lonely tomb,
Lips unkissed by friend or lover
Smile and speak from out the gloom
But too soon the dream has faded
Like sweet music in its flow—
They are gone—the loved and cherished
Of the long ago!

—Ninette M. Lowater.

These Changing Times.

I've been up to th' city, Ma, an' what bewilders me,
They're wearin' rubber hinges where their necktips used to be.
You 'member how th' city folks was once so prone to smile
At country people rubberin'—now they've took up th' style!
They laughed at me fer lookin' up to see th' buildin's high—
Said we'd sunburn our palates openmouthin' at th' sky!

Well, Ma, I've seen th' city folks a-playin' th' giraffe,
Their noses in th' atmosphere—I couldn't help but laugh!
They spend their days a-rubberin' fer ships up in th' air—
Th' same as we have had fer years around th' county fair.
They're talkin' too, of war balloons—say, Ma, I'd like to bet
Them city folks all still believe th' war ain't over yet!

An', Ma, there's somethin' else they do—they argy an' discuss,
Whole crowds of them, about a game called "Big World's Serious,"
They say it happens once a year, an' all they ever do
Is rubber at some 'lectric lights an' give a yell or two.
It's what they call a scoreboard, Ma, all lit up red an' white,
But it ain't half as purty as our tree on Christmas night.

An' then they have "Th' Human Fly" to thrill their eyes an' spine,
But that don't have no thrill fer me—he ain't no kin of mine!
Why, Ma, you'd die a-laughin' just to see th' folks in town—
They've got so used to lookin' up it pains 'em lookin' down!
Well, it may be some happy scheme that Providence devised
To help them find where Heaven is—an' won't they be surprised?

—William Herschell in Indianapolis News.

ON TRACK OF MISSING REGISTER

Dear Corner Sisters: Well, I am going to help the editor make our page look like old times when he had to cut letters down to find space for them all.

Many tell of their trips and things they see. Well, if I did it I would have a continuous story of auto trips. I know we all enjoy them. I tell my son I wish I owned one of those Hartford buses so I could take all my friends for I feel conscience-stricken to go any place and have a vacant seat. We always take grandpa Sundays so when he and one more get one seat for three the space is all used up for grandpa is a big man in spite of his 81 years. Just now the trees are beautiful and nature's bouquet is blended with wonderful colors. They are so pretty to look at from our house.

Peggy Ann: Were you at the Pythian convention? I was there.

Delilah Deal: I think I have track of my book and good reasons to think so for I have address of party.

Cady: I'm glad you are getting well from your recent sick spell. Hope your health will be lots better so you can come to the Buckingham.

One Who Reads: I did not know you had moved to G——. Tell me your street. How does Grandma B—— like the change?

Rural Aunty and Free Air: Am in Scooba to get your badges to you just as soon as son gets time to do them. Has been making changes in store fixtures and that and trade means extra work.

Jerushy Spice: We never know who is who until we meet and then it's a surprise to know we have met before. Shall run up to see our E. H. relatives soon, where I met you first.

Bumble Bee: Was going to call on Sunday evening but saw three autos in your yard. I said "Drive on, E—— has company enough for today.

Annette: That place you saw me standing was near my street. I was waiting for the trolley. Miss you and Mayfare at the monthly meetings. Can't you try and come?

I wish more would try and do their bit for the Corner. Get busy and write something.

CALLA LILY.

GRAPE PIE, AND HOLDERS.

Dear Corner Sisters: As grapes have been very plentiful this year and I haven't seen many recipes for them, I will tell you how I make

Grape Pie: Pick off grapes till you have a quart. Take off the skins, take out seeds, then mix with three-fourths cup sugar, one tablespoon flour, pinch of salt. Bake with two crusts. I think it is very good, though my folks don't care much for it, so I only made one, but have thirteen quarts of grape juice.

I quite agree with Jessie about the holders. I shouldn't like to use either my apron or a dish towel for a holder. I make mine out of old stocking legs, not silk ones for I never have that kind. For a more fancy kind make them of striped bedticking, with the white stripes worked with woolen yarn of various colors, in any fancy stitch and line with gingham and bind with bright colored braid.

Free Air: I have had some terribly blue spells this summer. Just write another one of your jolly letters.

SILENT PARTNER.

PLEASED WITH REMEMBRANCES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wish to thank all of the sisters who sent me cards and sympathy while I was ill. Also Kitty Lou for the fine sunshine box. Everything in it was so good. I enjoyed it very much.

Calla Lily: I feel very sure I know where your book is with the Social Corner names in it. The woman that has the book does not know your address, so if she sends it to your son's store on Broadway you will get it all right. I hope she will do so, as I know you prize it highly for there are names in it that you can never replace. Hoping to hear that you get it soon.

As ever for The Corner.

CADY.

USUALLY COME OUT ALL RIGHT.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I was always considered "the odd one of the family." This not because I was third in the family of three, but because of my oddness and that I felt above some of the others according to the neighborhood estimate, was not a matter of numerals but of character. I was different, and this fact, unforgivable in a small community, made me the subject of conversation and the cause of many fears by my father for my future.

Part of my oddness lay in the fact that I had moods. The moods varied, but they were always marked and wholly unmistakable. Neighbors gossiping over fences said, with unkind glances at me, "She is such a proud girl she would be better for a switching, but that proud father of hers won't allow it." I made faces at them, and told my mother. She threatened to whip me, but she never did, for on that point my father was firm. If there was any punishing to be done he believed in administering it.

Dear Dad! I didn't care what the neighbors thought of me, but their words about my father stung. We were chums, and had a canny understanding of each other. Both of us puzzled and exasperated mother.

My step-mother was a New Englander. In her youth she may have had a certain delicate prettiness, but from the time I can remember, her features were a little sad. She had seen a great amount of trouble. Dad was English. His big brown eyes, in which imps sometimes danced, were often saddened by the pain of life. His laugh was a joy, but there were times when I have seen my father go into his room alone to think.

I started to write about myself, but I want to state that his life between the demands of different families that he helped and sickness in his own family, the supply of a small salary, was one long struggle.

With my sister, who was a little older than myself and everyone loved her, either the sun shone with overwhelming brilliance or suffered a total eclipse. The mood of awakening was the key of my day. Sometimes I would awake cheerful and full of imaginations. That day I would be "Mrs. Senior." No one knew I called myself "Mrs. Senior," but that day on which I was she, I became a creature of amazing ability. I would go up in the attic and drag an old lace curtain past its usefulness, and drape it over my coarse gingham frock. I twisted my hair ribbon in a tiara, strutted before the mirror, and conversed with unseen persons in strange words. All day long I would wear my lace curtain if I had a chance to, and I would talk to my invisible companion, laughing at, coquetting to them and coquetting with them.

I used to sulk but when I could dress up in pretty clothes I didn't feel like sulking. I was a problem. I was hard to get along with. I quarreled with my sister when I had to wipe dishes. The beds I made had to be unmade. The only household duties I could be depended upon for was feeding the bird and cat.

At school I was as fitful as at home. My teacher called one day, and I listened at the hole. I heard my mother's voice saying irritably, "She's the strangest child I ever saw, as uncertain as the April weather."

"But she's not a bad child," returned the teacher. "Only unusual." Her marks are dreadfully low in arithmetic, but she knows every verse in her reader by heart and she recites them beautifully. When she recites "Lord Ullin's Daughter" her voice trembles and there's a sob. It brings tears to my eyes, and little Ida C. cried aloud the other day. I wish you would come and hear her. (I write this so mothers won't get discouraged that children do what they prefer to do.)

"I haven't the time," said my mother. "And I wish you wouldn't encourage her in such nonsense. She's queer enough now. She's the heaviest cross of my life. If she were only like her sister."

My teacher said "if we could give her a chance to study elocution, she might give readings." "Nonsense, I never heard such nonsense," my mother said.

My father came to school and heard me and was preparing to send me away to study elocution when he died.

The railroad officials came to see me after father's death.

My mother said all of my children are handy and manageable, but that one, meaning me, is a pest. But this same girl turned out to be a wonderful actress, in fact she is a star, and that isn't half the autobiography she wrote me.

I wrote this for mothers who say to me my child dont appreciate what I do for her. I always say, "Did you when you were of her age?" Others say my daughter won't study. How do you know she doesn't? You know every girl who earns her living any where, and every girl who doesn't meets temptation. Character and training strengthens her to meet them. This mother thought she would be wicked if she studied elocution or went on the stage. They may not be studying what you want them to, but they may be different and have their heart on something besides arithmetic. They usually come out all right.

KITTY LOU

CLASS OF DESERTERS IS LARGE.

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: It has been such a long time since I have written anything for the Corner, so thought I would just drop a line or so to say I am well and hope you all are. I suppose most of the sisters are through housecleaning by this time. I have not started as yet; the weather is much too nice to stay indoors and clean, so while it is so fine I am taking advantage of it. The Social Corner page looks rather deserted these last few weeks. I cannot say a lot about it as I seem to be one of the deserters myself. Am expecting to attend the November meeting. I understand a ribbon (yellow) with the pen name of the wearer printed upon it is worn. As I have never attended any of the meetings will some sister kindly advise me just what shade of yellow?

Cretia: Have seen nothing from you for a long time and Thanksgiving will soon be here again. Should you spend Thanksgiving in town this year do not forget to call.

Here is a bit of poetry I read the other day I thought real good:

SMILE.

Smile once in a while, 'twill make your heart seem lighter.
Smile once in a while, 'twill make your pathway seem brighter;
Life's a mirror, if we smile,
Smiles come back to greet us; If we're frowning all the while,
Frowns forever greet us.
Keep smiling.

Will close now or the editor will say, it is a good thing she does not write very often. Will see you all at the Buckingham next month if nothing happens bigger than a woodchuck.

WHIRLWIND (Oct. 17).

SOME FACTS ABOUT DIAMONDS.

Dear Social Corner Friends: Here are some facts about diamonds which we may not all of us know.

The dazzling beauty of the diamond makes it the most desired of all precious stones even if the price is advancing every year.

The richest diamond mine in the world returns but six dollars for each ton of diamond-bearing rock mined. From this six dollars must be deducted the costly operations of mining.

Thirty-five to forty tons of diamond bearing rock must be mined and rehandled several times in order to get one diamond in perfect and just good color which will weigh when properly cut one-half of one carat. A half carat diamond measures about three-sixteenths of an inch in diameter.

The finest rough diamond can be either ruined or made a gem of great worth through its cutting. If it is cut too thick or too flat it loses its brilliancy and becomes dull but if cut properly it becomes the dazzling gem for which the diamond is cherished.

When found diamonds are eight-sided and of irregular shapes, the majority of which are too poor in color, too imperfect or badly broken to be used in jewelry so are used for mechanical purposes.

When a diamond is cut about sixty per cent of its original weight is polished away so it would be necessary to have a rough stone that weighed one and one-quarter carats to finish a stone weighing one-half a carat. Two entire days are needed by skilled labor, in polishing a diamond of this size.

Tuny Ann: Hope you weren't all tired out after your picnic. It was certainly a great success.

Dorinda and Malvina: You don't know what you missed.

Jill: Wish you could come to some of our meetings.

Diamond and H. M. L: Your turn next.

I have had very few flies all summer, but I shall be just as glad as ever to see the last one. I think this poem is fitting:

THE LAST FLY OF SUMMER.

'Tis the last fly of summer left buzzing alone,
All its germy companions fly-papered and gone,
No one of its kindred, no house fly is nigh
To re-echo its busses or in ambush to lie.

I'll not leave thee, thou lone one, the cold breezes to stem,
Since the rest are all sleeping, go creep thou with them.
Then kindly I "swat" thee upon thy small head,
And feel very thankful thou, also, art dead.

Best wishes to all.

CHUB.

RECALLS OLD DAYS IN HAMPTON CHURCH.

Dear Corner Friends and Editor: It has been a long time since I have done my bit for the Corner page so as I was using the pen thought I would finish by writing a few lines to the Corner. Hope all are well so they may get out to enjoy the fine view of foliage. What a lovely sight to ride along and see the lovely coloring of leaves. I have a maple tree in my yard. It is a beautiful sight. I don't think it was ever so lovely before as it is now.

C. E. S.: Say your letter last week. Glad to know you were able to write in once more. Hear you went to the shore.

Bar Bar: How are you? Saw your letter and have been going to send in a line ever since. I have not finished my crib quilt yet but hope to soon as Delvena will soon want it.

Yes, I did enjoy the 200th anniversary in Hampton church very much and it brought so many things of the past to my mind. It was very interesting and yet it brought so many things back to cause sad thoughts. When one looked round and did not to see those faces which used to be there but saw the changes it hardly seemed possible in so few years. Rev. Soule's mother and Deacon Henry Clapp, Mrs. Will Hammond, Miss Eleanor Sharpe, Mrs. Anice Holt were all of the ones I could recall of 25 years ago except a few Sunday school members, that won when I was going there.

Oh, those days of the past. There use to be quite a large school and Mr. Taintor always had a smile on his face to greet the school. I can close my eyes and see the lovely face of his wife.

She was beloved by so many. I can remember once her daughter, now Mrs. Frederick Davis, invited me home to supper with her and I felt so honored. I never forgot it. I could not help going at her while she was giving those names for the memorial organ, all of which were familiar to me but have gone beyond. Last week I received two pamphlets of the Hampton Church Review which are very interesting as I don't go out much all I have to amuse myself with is thinking of the past.

Now I must stop or shall be taking up more than my share of space. Hope some time to meet with you all. There are so many new ones I shall be a stranger, but I like to read all their letters. It is company to me. Hope the editor will forgive if I have been too long.

As ever,

AUNT JERUSHA.

WOULD LIKE MORE LETTERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Will add a little to the Social Corner page this week. Wish more could write as the letters are so interesting and the recipes are good. It is nice to know what the sisters are doing, if auto riding or house cleaning. I suppose the sisters are all through, especially Twice Twenty. She is so smart one has to hustle to keep up to her. What lovely weather we are having now, but all too soon the cold north winds will blow and the snow will fly and then these nice days will be fully appreciated. I wish to extend my sympathy to the families of the sisters who have lost their dear ones.

Twice Twenty: Have been looking for a letter from you. I am pretty well, considering.

OLD TIMER, (Nov. 24.)

SURPRISE CROQUETTES AND SUGAR COOKIES

Dear Editor and Corner Members: What to have for dessert is one of the questions which housekeeper must ask daily. If the meal has been heavy, dessert should be light. If fish has been served, fruit is acceptable. Do not serve a custard or any smooth dessert when fish has been boiled.

The prepared gelatine puddings are a great convenience. They can be varied by the addition of different kinds of fruit. Serve apple and rich steamed pudding when your meal has been a light one.

When potatoes are old they need very careful cooking, to make them tasty. These surprise croquettes are always enjoyed. Prepare two cups of large well seasoned potatoes (mashed). Take a large spoonful, hollow it in the center, and fill it with a little vegetable or meat. Carefully work the potato over the filling, being sure it is completely covered, shape into a cylinder form, dip in beaten white of an egg, to which two tablespoons of milk have been added, roll in fine bread crumbs and fry in deep fat until a golden brown. The yolk of the egg is mixed with the mashed potato before adding the filling. These I also dip in and fry in hot fat. These sugar cookies are very delicious and should be rolled very thin. Rub one cup butter into five cups flour with your finger tips. In another bowl beat two eggs, add two cups sugar and two-thirds cup sour milk into which you have previously dissolved 2 teaspoon soda. Add salt to taste and one whole nutmeg grated. Turn this into the mixture and flour and butter and mix again—turn out on board and roll, cut this and bake from eight to ten minutes. These can have a filling of dates or figs or raisins.

WHITE WINGS.

NOTHING TOO GOOD TO COME TRUE

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I have not written recently, having left my space for some other sisters, but I see they don't care to write. Most of us have little secret dreams. We do not tell the rest of the world, but they begin something like this: "When my ship comes in."

Have you? And what is it?

You see I have a ship at sea. In fact I have had a whole fleet of them in my life, and bringing them into port has proven such a fascinating enterprise that I am quite satisfied to rest content with my own small craft. But I am always sending out friendly "Ahoy!" to other dream-mariners, and, wanting to know if they stand in any need of a friendly and interested pilot.

It is my firm faith that no dream is too big or too sweet or to little or to queer to come true beautifully and gloriously true. I believe we can have anything we want in this world—well almost anything—if we only want it hard enough and long enough and never stop wanting for one moment. Of course, we have to work for it, too, but the wanting is quite as necessary as the working, and when there is a combination of the two, well that's invincible.

The trouble with most people is they have a too poor opinion of their own deserts. As a matter of fact, the things we want are just as important as the things Carnegie or Rockefeller or King Edward or Emperor William wanted, and whatever they are, the fact that we want them is reason enough for our feeling entitled to their realization. Get over the habit, once for all, of saying "But that would be too good to come true." Nothing is too good to come true. The better and bigger your wish, the more reason there is to expect its realization.

ETHELYN.

GLORIFIED GINGERBREAD RECIPE

Social Corner Sisters One and All: Well, here I am once more. This time I brought my glorified gingerbread recipe with me. Won't some one try it? One cup of sugar, 1 cup of flour 1-2 cup of shortening, mix the above like pie crust. Take out 1 cup. To that remaining in mixing bowl add 1 egg, 1 cup of sour milk, 1 teaspoon of soda, pinch of salt, 2 tablespoons of molasses, 1-2 teaspoon of cloves, 1 teaspoon of cinnamon, 1 cup of flour, beat well, pour into square pan and then add the mixture in your cup, scattered in crumbs over top. Bake in not too hot an oven. Mix in order given, add soda to the sour milk.

I have enjoyed my vacation a day at a time and been to a number of places new to me. Went to the shore for a week end, and day trips. I have a family at home which calls for me nights and mornings. If you dont think so just come and look in my yard at feeding time.

Sincerely,

ANONA.

A GLORIOUS, GOLDEN SUNSET

Dear Social Corner Members: I am going to share the beauty that lies before me with you, if I can but feebly portray a dim reflection by my pen. It is sunset on the water. I am comfortably seated on a shelving rock near the water's edge. Before me stretches out a broad expanse of water reflecting the blue grey of the sky. Off to the right at some distance, a slender point of land stretches out to sea, while from its shores huge derricks are outlined against the sky. The big bronze-yellow sun is rapidly sinking in the western sky and transforming the azure shades of the placid water to a changeable path of molten gold from my feet to the immeasurable distance of its origin. And again I am reminded of the vivid description Gene Stratton Porter gave of it in The Harvester. Suddenly all was changed and the beaming sun seemed to hide it face in a cloud that had been waiting to receive it. There is not a ripple on that vast sheet of water. The blue-grey of the sky and sea seem to converge into one; there is but a faint line of deeper blue that marks the horizon. The boulders projecting from the water, the landing place for birds in their weary flight, grow more dim in the distance. The twilight deepens and the grey-white sea gulls cease their fruitless search for food on the water's surface. A holy hush comes over all as when Moses, of old, stood before the burning bush and heard the Lord speak and felt His presence without seeing Him. And so it seemed as if all nature were bowed in a solemn benediction at the end of a perfect day.

As the lights were flickering from far distant forts and the deepening shadows brought me back to material things I wended my way back to shelter and repose. To me the sea holds a wonderful, mysterial fascination which I love and shall love till the boatman comes to take me to the Shore from which we never return.

Maine Lover and Wandering Jew: Why do we never hear from you?

Frances: It is time you hunted up your pen and used it. You must have lots of nice trips to tell about.

Polly: Where is that letter?

Lucy Acorn: You can guess where I am.

THEODA.

TABLE MATS TO BE CLEANED

Dear Social Corner Sisters. This summer I bought some table mats of ground cork to set hot dishes on so as not to leave white marks on the table top. They became quite soiled and looked very badly. Today I found that soap and water and a little elbow grease made them look as good as new. Maybe the other sisters already found this out but it was new to me.

Where are all the members of Club No. 3? Why not let us hear from some of you? There are enough of us to fill a whole page with letters just from that one club if each one would just do her duty.

I had one letter lost in the mail but wrote again.

Just now the child has the whooping cough but hope to be able to go to the meetings after she gets well.

Best wishes to all.

CHEF'S SISTER.

MEATS AND OTHER DISHES

Dear Sisters: Flank steak and lower round are good examples of cheap beef as they are most all lean with a very little waste. Always ask the butcher for the trimming of your own piece of meat. Spare rib is called cheap, but the bones are not good for much.

One piece of corn beef, thick end of the flank, not corned too much will last you one week. Buy one cabbage, cook it in the corned beef stock, then can your corned beef stock and one-half of your corned beef. If you can't eat it all make corned beef hash.

Braising is an important method of long cooking which is used in making pot rost beef a la mode. The meat is first browned on the outside, then cooked slowly until tender in a very little or small amount of water, either in fireless cooker, onstop of stove or in the oven. You can also make meat balls.

Meat Loaf—Take 1 lb. of your meat, chop it, 2 cups of bread crumbs, 1 cup thick, white sauce. Flavor with salt and pepper, bake in a moderate oven 2 hours.

Cook your corned beef with vegetables. That makes the stock good for a soup, if you don't wish it for soup, cook the beef and save the stock.

Hominy Baked with Cheese—Put alternate layers of boiled hominy and grated cheese in baking dish, add enough milk, thin white sauce or water to moisten. Cover with bread crumbs and bake until heated through and crumbs browned.

Steamed Rice with Stewed Cherries—For this steamed rice with cherries, use one cup of cherries (or any other kind of fruit, prunes, etc.) wash and stone the cherries, cover with water and cook until tender, add sugar to taste—save a little sugar and put a little of the fruit with the sugar. Eat on rice.

HUBBY'S CHUM.

A VISIT TO THE SOLDIERS' HOME

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It has been some time since I wrote a letter for our page. It is hard to find something to write about of interest, but as I went yesterday with three other ladies in an auto to visit the Soldiers Home in Noroton I thought perhaps some of the sisters would like to hear about the home. We left Norwich at 9 a. m. The drive there was beautiful, the trees and bushes were such beautiful colors. I don't think I ever saw such a beautiful sight. We arrived at the home at 10.30, ate a little of our lunch and then we went into the hospital where there were 90 soldiers. Some of them were able to walk around while others were in beds and chairs. After they had all had their dinners we went through the wards giving each one a bag of candy. It was sad to see how anxious they were for it, and they would hide it under their pillows or newspaper or wherever they could. Why they hid it, we could not understand, unless it was because they were afraid that they would not get any more, as there were a lot of other ladies there who were also giving candy, jellies, fruit, tobacco and other things to try and cheer the poor old boys up. One poor old soldier got hold of one lady's hand and he would not let her go. He was blind, and when the orderly came to take him back to the ward he would not go with him. He said this lady will take me. There was a very nice entertainment in the chapel from two to four and some of them from the hospital were brought over there. They all seemed to enjoy it so much. Everything was very neat and clean. Every one of the men seemed to be contented. If any of the sisters ever get a chance to visit the home go and carry some little dainty to the "boys."

Well, I guess I have written enough so will close with best wishes for the editor and all Social Corner sisters.

WETONA (April 6).

HOW TO MAKE GRAPE JUICE

Dear Editor and Sisters in the Corner. I think it time I helped fill the page. Have been very busy this summer with company and other things. With the rest I have had the chimney in my house taken down and a new one built. Very likely some of the sisters have gone through the same experience, and know what it meants. Some work!

I spent my vacation with Peggy Anne and enjoyed every minute.

Olive: Was so glad to see you at the centennial. That was some parade. Did you see the fireworks in the evening? They were wonderful. Came home Sunday.

Jane Ann: Have looked for that letter but as yet haven't seen it.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. P.: What a good time we had at Peggy Annie's! Expect to see you again soon.

I am going to tell you how I make grape juice.

Pick the grapes from the stems, wash them, pour boiling water over them and let stand just long enough to heat through. Fill two quart or one quart jar half full of the grapes (drained from the water) then fill the jars full of a thin syrup boiling hot. I use about two-thirds cup of sugar to a quart jar. Seal same as canned fruit. It is fine and has the good grape flavor. It is so nice for the sick. It kept two years the skin and seeds will be at the bottom of the jar.

All good wishes for the Corner.

AUNT SARAH.

GREETINGS FROM DIAMOND.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It is a long time since I've written but I always try to get a chance to read the letters.

I have been making apple jelly this morning in addition to my Saturday baking. Have been real busy canning fruits and vegetables, but I enjoy doing it. It tastes much nicer than what we can buy in the stores all canned.

Dorinda: Its a long time since I saw you. Wish H. M. L. would bring you down this way sometime when she is coming.

Papa's Boy: Hope the colds are better. How the children did enjoy the day together! That mule was quite an attraction to my boys.

H. M. L.: I hear you are planning on an auto trip. Hope you will have pleasant weather. You will have to write the Corner about it.

Cherisette: Have you finished that skirt you were making? Why don't you ever write to the Corner?

I must get dinner ready, so will close.

DIAMOND.

HARVESTING NEARLY DONE.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: There were so few letters appearing on the page last week, if the little lady in the carriage will keep still long enough, I will try and add my mite toward filling up this week's page.

The time between graduation and starting school again seems very short.

I have been very busy canning and for so late in the season today is a beautiful day. I am writing this letter sitting out of doors on the wheelbarrow.

Our harvesting is about all done, all but the cabbages and they are enormous in size. One would feed a large family. As we are a large family that is why we raise large cabbages. Have been interested in reading about the Social Corner gatherings. Hope to attend some of them some time.

I have reached the end of my rope, the little lady demands attention.

With regards to all.

SWEET WILLIAM.

SUMMER PASSED ALL TOO QUICKLY.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I will add a few lines to our Corner page for fear we will not what we have. I presume it has been with the others as it has been with me, there has been so much doing and going the summer has passed as quickly as if it stepped into an airplane and just flew, and on the return landed in the middle of October without an apology for so doing. The scenery around here is gorgeous. The fall colors are magnificent and I suppose altogether too soon the white flakes will be flying in the air. I supose you will all smile but I have my Christmas presents well under way. It pays to begin early and avoid the rush. I will attend some of the gatherings if I get a chance.

With best wishes from.

BON AMI.

THE ART OF PLEASING IS THE ART OF RISING IN THE WORLD.

Dear Cornerites: Christianity wants nothing so much as sunny people. The old are hungrier for love than for bread. The gift of joy is very cheap, and if you can help the por on with a garment of praise, it will be better for them than blankets.

Some people contrive to get hold of the prickly side of everything to run up against all the sharp corners and disagreeable things. Half the strength spent in grumbling would often set things to rights. No one finds the world quite as she would like it.

The power to do great things generally arises from the willingness to do small things. We are to be rewarded not only for work done, but for burdens borne, and I am not sure but the brightest rewards have come to those who have borne burdens without murmuring and have been pleasant at home and with their friends. I think it is especially well to create around you an atmosphere of happiness and helpfulness so that all who come in touch with you may be made better. Is not this possible?

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Little of note happened in Norwich fifty years ago this week. The week was as unusually quiet one as far as news was concerned, as few happenings were chronicled in The Bulletin of that day. Extracts takes from the files of The bulletin of October, 1873, are as follows:

Monday, Oct. 13, 1873—A general alarm turned out the fire department a little before twelve last night. The fire was located in a small house in the rear of that occupied by the Norwich Hose company on Boswell avenue. The origin of the fire is not known. The building is occupied by Mrs. Thomas Burke who is said to be the owner.

A man named Williams, a resident of the West Side, shot an eagle in Meatville on Saturday morning, six feet from tip to tip. We believe that Mr. Williams intends to present the bird of freedom to the Delanoy Steamer company.

Experts say that the patent granted to Noah and Benjamin Lucas, reported in The Bulletin of Saturday morning, is destined to be a very valuable invention. The invention is called by the patent office, "a condenser for carding machines," and is said to involve an entirely new principle.

Tuesday, Oct. 14, 1873. The bleaching company at Greeneville is rapidly pushing forward the addition to its works. It has recieved 600,000 brick from yards in the vicinity of Danielsonville and the frame timbers are now arriving.

Bail in the sum of $1,000 for the appearance at the November term of the superior court, of Cross, who killed Knight at Griswold, recently, was taken by Webster Park, assistant clerk of the superior court, at a late hour yesterday afternoon.

There is to be a town meeting at Preston next Saturday to consider the propriety of rescinding the vote of September 5th, instructing the selectmen to erect a wooden bridge over the Shetucket to Greeneville and the vote of October 4th in relation to repairing highways, levying taxes therefore, and appointing district surveyors. Also to act upon the petition of Lot K. Brown and others.

Wednesday, Oct. 15, 1873—(This issue of The Bulletin calls attention to the fact that the new courthouse, the present edifice on Union square, had just been completed and gives a two column description of the building.)

The receipt of $50 from Norwich, Conn., for the relief of the Shreveport, La., sufferers, is acknowledged by the treasurer of the Howard association. Through the benevolence of Edward Chappell $50 more should have been credited to Norwich.

A number of ladies and gentlemen met last evening at the hall of the Grand Army of the Republic and decided to form a singing society to be known as the Cecilia society. A meeting will be held next Tuesday evening at the same place to effect an organization.

A letter received yesterday from Captain James Carberry, dated Georgetown, P. E. I. 9th inst., says he hopes to pass the Bay of Fundy on his return home.

Thursday, Oct. 16, 1873—The reading room continues to grow in patronage and public favor. We believe that there are many who begin to realize that the city finally has what has long been needed. The best order is preserved the room is well kept and provided and it is an inviting place. Let no one be backward in contributing funds for its support and still further improvement.

Matrimonial—The Methodist church in Uncasville was filled last evening with a pleasant party to witness the nuptials of E. C. Rand, the popular conducter on the special train between Norwich and New London and Miss Edith M. Church, daughter of the late Captain Edwin Church.

Teachers in Norwich and vicinity may be glad to know that the best route for them to take in going to Hartford to the state teachers' convention is by way of the New London Northern, the Air Line and the Connecticut Valley roads.

The fifty feet extension of the day of the Water Power company at Greeneville was completed yesterday.

Friday, Oct. 17, 1873—Fort Point—The work of developing Fort Point has been taken in hand by a joint stock company and we may fairly suppose that a success will be made of the attempt to form a settlement there. There is no earthly reason, that we can see, why some establishment not requiring much power, but making use largely of manual labor, should not locate there.

E. H. Chapman, formerly of Ledyard, but now a resident of San Francisco, and for many years the engineer of Steamer No. 2, in this city, goes to Japan by steamer under engagement as agent to introduce the American steam fire engine system and carbolized hose in Japan.

The many friends here and elsewhere, of Albert Cleveland Hovey, will learn with deep regret of his death, yesterday morning, at the residence of his father in this city.

Saturday, Oct 18, 1873—Two lectures on Spiritualism will be given in this city tomorrow evening, one by Mrs C. D. Wescott at White's hall and the other by Miss Dickson at Franklin hall.

The judges' desk for the new court room which will it is hoped be ready for the session of the supreme court this month, is a beautiful piece of furniture. It is built of black walnut with French walnut panelling.

One of the finest places in this city, the Gilbert Osgood mansion, has been purchased by the Hon Henry Bill. Price $35,000.

More than 4,000,000 bricks were used in the construction of the city hall.

At last it seems that Norwich is to have some really good trotting. Those familiar with the merits of the equine celebrities of the present day, will find the names of many fast animals not unknown to fame in the list of entries. We trust that the affair will be such a success that the gentleman who have engineered the undertaking will be able to announce another meeting in the spring, and before another fall the completion of a mile track.

The signs of love show up as plainly as the symptoms of measles.

MARKET WAS PROFESSIONAL.

New York, Oct. 19.—Price readjustments in today's stock market were mainly upward but the fluctuations in leading stocks failed to furnish any conclusive evidence of definite trend. Trading, which continued to come almost entirely from professional sources, turned dull on the rallies.

When the market opened there was a fairly large accumulation of selling orders, particularly in the rubber stocks which sagged to new low records for the year and in the Pan-American issues which were sold on persistent rumors of new financing. Bear selling of these issues, however, failed to unsettle the general list which headed upward before the end of the first hour.

Another bullish demonstration was staged in the merchandising issues, Woolworth being pushed up 5 points to 264, a new high for the year. Kresge jumped 10 1-4 points to 235 1-4 and May department stores, National Cloak & Suit and Sears Roebuck closed at net gains of 2 to 3 points. Sales of the four leading 5- and-10-cent stores broke all previous records in September. The aggregate for the first nine months of this year being 13 per cent. over the corresponding period in 1922.

Northwestern Rails made partial recovery from recent heaviness on a more favorable interpretation by railroad executives of President Coolidge's recent recommendation of a reduction in the freight rates on grain for export. Chicago & Northwestern closed 2 points higher and Great Northern Preferred, 1.

U. S. Steel, Baldwin and American Can, the gains in which ran a point or more in the early trading, closed only fractionally higher while Studebaker, which had sold as high as 97 1-8, dropped back at the close to 96 1-8 off 1-8. Mack Truck, Famous Players, Tobacco Products, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Crucible Steel were the strong spots among the more active issues.

Heavy trading in such stocks as Alaska Juneau and Alaska Gold were described in some quarters as selling for the purpose of establishing tax losses.

The weekly mercantile reviews report continued irregularity in trade and industry. Dun's Review states that conditions in the different industries vary considerably, with substantial buying in some branches of manufacture and restricted demand in others. "Curtailment of output," it adds, "has gone further in certain textile divisions and in Pig Iron, mainly because current purchasing is narrow, and material goes out from steel mills faster than new contracts come in."

Call money opened at 4 1-4 and then advanced to 4 1-2. Time money continued at 5 1-4 for the shorter maturities and 5 1-2 for the longer dates with business on a reduced scale owing to the reluctance of brokers to pay over 5 per cent. Western banks are the principal takers of Commercial Paper, prime names moving at 5 1-4 per cent.

Trading in the foreign exchanges was steady with few important changes in rates. German marks sold at a new low of one cent a hundred million.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Influenced to a considerable extent by talk of Russian competition and of probable increased imports of Canadian wheat into the United States, the wheat market had a downward swing the greater part of the time today. Prices closed heavy, 1-3c to 1 1-8c net lower, with December 1.04 1-2 to 1.04 5-8 and May 1.09 5-8 to 1.09 3-4c. Corn lost 3-4c to 1 1-8c@1 1-4c and oats 1-4c to 5-8c. In provisions, the outcome ranged from 10c decline to a like advance.

The finish in the wheat market was at virtually the day's lowest level, about 6 cents under the recent high point. Persistent selling on the part of commission houses that were active buyers of late was a noticeable feature. Especially during the final half hour, demand was swamped, and much of the unloading was ascribed to holders who had purchased on the basis of assumptions that government farm relief plans would serve to advance values. Word that today's sales to Europe totaled 700,000 bushels, mostly Canadian wheat, had no apparent effect in rallying the market.

Assertions which were afterward denied that at present prices of flour a miller as far south as Kansas could import Canadian wheat at a profit, did a good deal to start the day's downturns in the wheat market here. Temporarily, an appearance of strength in corn was of aid toward steadying wheat, but weakness of hog values under mined corn, and with further bearish gossip about impending large wheat shipments from Russia, new declines issued.

Big receipts of hogs here pointed to increased demand for corn made sentiment in the corn pit veer to the bear side. Oats followed corn.

Packers buying gave comparative steadiness to provisions.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Oct. 19.—Despite an exceptionally large demand on the part of investors, both from individuals and corporations, for high grade investment railroad bonds, the net change in that group was very small. A survey of closing prices in today's bond market discloses.

In fact the averages for the day, based on ten fairly active bonds of this class, showed a decline of .01. Traders, however, reported that transactions were considerably larger than usual and that actual buying orders are on the increase.

The chief feature of today's trading, perhaps, was the heaviness of Mexican bonds, the Mexican 4s dropped 1 3-4 to a new low for the year and the 5s also fell off fractionally. Selling was influenced by published reports of further delay in getting the Mexican debt agreement in operation and inability of traders to obtain accurate information on the subject.

Prices of a number of public utility liens were shaded when the offerings exceeded bids for this class of bond, while some of the industrial liens fell off with the comparative heaviness of stocks.

Little interest was displayed in today's trading in the U. S. government bonds, all of which closed at practically the same levels as yesterday. Buying of Columbian and Bolivian bonds influenced a moderate advance in those issues.

The books were closed on the government of Finland offering of $10,000,0000 external 6 per cent. bonds.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Oct. 19.—Stock prices pointed upward in today's curb market, with major activities again centering in the oil shares.

Standard Oil of Indiana was pushed up more than a point to above 56 but failed to maintain its gain, closing 1-4 higher at 55 1-2. Net gains of 1 to 1 1-2 points were registered by Standard Oils of New York and Ohio, Magnolia Petroleum, Gulf of Pennsylvania and Buckeye Pipe.

Unusual activity developed in Associated Oil company 6 per cent notes maturing in 1935, nearly $400,000 of which changed hands at prices between 93 and 94 3-4.

Park & Tilford continued its rise to higher ground, establishing a new 1923 high at 31 3-4. McCrory stores touched a new top at 75 just prior to the declaration of an extra dividend of 5 per cent. American-Hawaiian Steamship Co. advanced 1 1-2 points to to 16 1-2 in sympathy with the strength of shipping shares on "the big board," but eased off to 16 later.

Norwich Suburban Day
In our advertisement in Friday's Bulletin, we enumerated many of the Suburban Day offerings. In addition to those mentioned in that advertisement, there are hundreds of Suburban day Special Values, not advertised, which will be displayed on our counters.
THESE SUBURBAN DAY SPECIAL VALUES
Will be found in every department of the store — from Basement to Third Floor. Make it a point to visit every section of the store.
One Point We Would Emphasize SHOP EARLY!
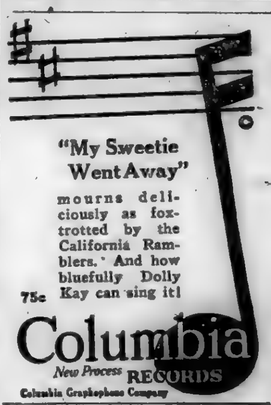
Everything will be in readiness when the store opens this morning at 8:30, and shopping will be more comfortable during the morning hours than later in the day, when the crowd will be largest. Come this morning, expecting to find the greatest merchandise values ever offered on a like occasion. You will not be disappointed if you come to this store.
THE PORTEOUS & MITCHELL CO.



"My Sweetie Went Away"

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR DR. SELDEN

The 32d Week service of the United Congregational church, on Thursday evening, was planned as a Memorial Service for the late Joseph H. Selden, D. D., who had been a pastor and friend to this church. Many friends spoke, paying loving tribute to his memory and recalling the innumerable ways in which he had been of service both in the church and in the community. The following resolutions, drawn up by Gen. William A. Aiken, were unanimously voted:

Whereas, God has taken from us one who was to us revered and beloved member of the Broadway Congregational church (now a part of the United Congregational church), therefore,

Resolved, That in the death of Rev. Joseph H. Selden, D. D., we, as members of the United Congregational church, realize, with deep sorrow, the loss we have sustained.

From the first inception of the idea of organic union between the Broadway and United Congregational churches, Dr. Selden was its strong and wise advocate.

His wide knowledge of the incidental steps attending such unions between other churches of our order gave material assistance along the path of Our accomplishment.

He has since in ways many and effective, by loving thoughts and services, shown his interest in the church, its pastor and its individual membership.

Resolved, That we extend to the surviving members of his family—wife, son, sister, and their wider connections—our sincerest sympathy.

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be sent, by the clerk of the church, to Mrs. Selden, Mr. Henry Hill Selden, and Miss Elizabeth Selden.

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The storm that was central over Indiana Thursday night has continued to move north northeastward and it was centered south of Hudson Bay Friday night. The North Atlantic storm has moved inland over New England and quickly dissipated after reaching land. These disturbances have been attended by general rains east of the Mississippi river and by gales in portions of the lake region and along the New England coast.

The weather will be generally fair Saturday and Sunday in the states east of the Mississippi river except that showers are probable Saturday in extreme southern Florida and in portions of the lower lake region, New England and northern New York. The temperature will be lower in the Atlantic states and the lower lake region and the weather will remain cool over Sunday throughout the Washington forecast district.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Strong south and southwest, shifting to west and weather overcast and showery Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh to strong shifting becoming northwest and weather overcast possibly local rain Saturday.

Forecast

For Southern New England: Cloudy and cooler Saturday possibly shower on the Massachusetts coast Saturday morning; Sunday fair and cool.

Observations in Norwich

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and the barometric changes Friday.

| | Ther. | Bar. |

PYTHIANS' WHIST HELD WITH TEN TABLES PLAYING

Ten tables were played at the benefit whist given by Wauregan Lodge, No. 6, Knights of Pythias, at Buckingham Memorial Friday evening. The prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies, first, Mrs. A. J. Wholey; second, Mrs. Joseph Moran; third, Mrs. D. E. Smith; gentlemen, first, Dr. Paul Schwartz; second, George Masse. Joseph Mackey was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

LIQUOR SALES ALLEGED IN TWO NORWICH CASES; FOUR MEN ARRESTED

Under the direction of County Detective Lewis and state police officers two more raids and arrests in liquor cases were made in the city late Friday afternoon.

The work began at the store at 47 Franklin street where Clarence Osborn was arrested and is charged with violation of the liquor law. He was brought to police headquarters where he was locked up.

Following this the officers raided the place at 8-10 Market street, arresting Tony Fatone and Michael Dipaola there. A sale is charged against the place and it is alleged that quart bottle of whiskey was dumped into the sewer when the officers arrived. Both men were brought to police headquarters, from which they were later released when a woman on Lake street gave bonds for them.

Fatone, who is accused of sale of liquor, was placed under $1,000 bonds and Dipaola under $300.

Later Edward Spano was brought to police headquarters and was placed under arrest when he was identified as having made a sale at 47 Franklin street. His sister, Mrs. Grace Desario, gave bond of $1,000 for his appearance in the city court.

Osborn also secured his release on bonds of $200 provided by his father.

The arrests were made by Detective Lewis, State Policemen Caron, Henry and Palmer.

BLACK AND ORANGE FOR BIRTHDAY PARTY DECORATIONS

A birthday party was held Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Watters, 124 Otrobando Ave in honor of the 14th birthday of their daughter, Helen. A violin solo was played by Miss Veronica Watters and a ukelele solo by Mrs. L. C. Mountcastle. The house was prettily decorated in black and orange. Miss Watters received many beautiful gifts, among them a string of pearls from her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Mountcastle.

A birthday cake with 14 lighted candles was presented Miss Watters. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Watters and Mrs. Mountcastle and games and dancing were enjoyed. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. T. F. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Mountcastle, Misses Marion Hunter, Clara Karkutt, Hazel Waterman, Veronica Watters, Helen Watters, Joseph Pilecki, Walter Karkutt, George Witchkowski, John Witchekowski and Raymond Koch.

GAMBLING CHARGE AFTER BREACH OF THE PEACE

Following the arrest Friday night of Fred George and Peter Carolinas for breach of the peace, claimed to have taken place at the coffee house at 9 1-2 Thames street, George Coutsakilles, alleged to be the proprietor of the place, was arrested on the charge of running a gambling place. The breach of the peace took place over a game of poker, it is understood. The arrests were by Officers Dombrosky, Donovan and Murphy.

District Superintendent's Appointments

Today (Saturday) Rev. Wm. H. Bath of Norwich will attend at Providence a meeting of the Board of Missions of the Methodist church. Sunday, he will preach at the anniversary of Willimantic M. E. church. Monday and Tuesday he will attend the district preachers' meeting at Rockville. During Wednesday he will go to Hartford for a meeting of the committee on comity of the Church Federation society. Wednesday evening he will be at Jewett City Methodist church.

EYESIGHT CONSERVATION IS TOLD TO SCHOOL CHILDREN

The pupils in the Elizabeth street school were addressed Friday morning at 10.30 by Charles F. Southard, field secretary of the Eye Sight Conservation Council of America, with headquarters in the Times building, Broadway and 42nd street, New York. The Eye Sight Conservation Council of America, he said, represents a distinct and organized phase of the general tendency towards social economic and physical betterment. It aims to bring about improved vision among the masses of the nation. Experience in education and industry has shewn that a long train of ills, involving grave consequences, follow in the wake of defective eyesight.

Headed by L. W. Wallace of Washington, executive secretary of the Federated American Engineering Societies, and guided by a dual governing body consisting of a board of directors and a board of councillors, whose membership includes representatives of the federal and state governments, universities, science and industry, the council is carrying on in the schools of the country a campaign for better vision. First, health and then, vision, is the slogan of the council.

The prime purpose of the council is cooperating with educational authorities. An illustration of this cooperation is found in New York city, where the council participated in the observance of Health Day in the schools, when the eyes of more than 1,000,000 pupils were tested.

In all places where the council is at work it is making an effort to establish the principle of continued supervision of the children, mothers cooperating with the teachers in identifying defects, often hidden, and in applying corrective measures.

The teachers of the public schools in the town were addressed by Mr. Southard at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

THROWN OVER FENCE ONTO JUDGE FOSS' LAWN

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, Oct. 19.—Mrs. John D. Avery of 30 Twelfth street, New London and Harold S. Berg, Jr., 12 Williams street, New London, were injured to some extent when a 1913 Cadillac touring car in which they were on their way to Willimantic, skidded in the trolley tracks in South Windham and turned over after colliding with a tree about 3.15 o'clock Friday afternoon. The accident happened at the corner of Main street and the road leading to this city, opposite the home of Judge Frank H. Foss. Witnesses of the accident said the car was traveling at a moderate rate of speed but tire wheels caught in the tracks, causing the rear of the heavy machine to sway to the left. The driver lost control and the car shot to the right of the road and after striking a large tree a glancing blow it rolled over on its right side. The machine was a right hand drive and Berg was pinned behind the steering wheel. Mrs. Avery was pitched over a three-foot iron fence onto the lawn of the Foss home. Both sustained broken noses and bad cuts from the broken windshield. Mrs. Avery was bleeding freely and she was taken into the Foss home and given attention by Mrs. Foss. Dr. M. D. Riordan of this city was notified and he gave the pair first aid treatment. They were later taken to St. Joseph hospital in this city. It is thought that they will leave the institution in a few days. Berg remained near the overturned car, but was nearly exhausted when the doctor arrived.

Mrs. Avery was coming to do business at one of the local banks. John Avery, her husband, an automobile salesman in New London, was ill at his home and Berg agreed to drive her to this city. Berg is a truckman by occupation.

The right side of the car was damaged and it was hauled to this city for repairs. The curve where the accident occurred is widely known as a dangerous spot. The trolley tracks at this point are badly situated and have caused many narrow escapes from serious accident.

REMONSTRANCE OVER REPORT FROM COMMITTEE SUSTAINED

In the suit of James W. Hillhouse and others against Giosue Duca and others of New London, which came before Hibberd Norman as referee, Judge Isaac Wolfe has sustained the remonstrance of Hillhouse and Taylor to the acceptance of the report and the report is recommitted to the committee to find out whether certain parties had waived liens and claims in writing, and to find out the facts respecting waivers of lien by Hillhouse and Taylor.

The remonstrance of the Land Mortgage & Title Company is sustained and the report recommitted to find out certain facts referred to in three paragraphs of the remonstrance.

"EVERGLADES LIMITED" TO FLORIDA FROM NEW ENGLAND

Negotiations have so far progressed in the matter of schedules and Pullman equipment, a solid through train service from New England to Florida points is assured for the coming season. The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company has been negotiating with lines in interest for this through service and only minor details are yet to be determined.

The new Florida train will be known as the "Everglades Limited" and will leave Boston shortly after 7.00 P. M. which will make the service available for travelers from eastern Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine points arriving Boston during the day. A train will be operated from Springfield connecting with the "Everglades" leaving Springfield about 8.30, which will in effect extend this solid through service to Western Massachusetts and points in Vermont and New Hampshire reaching Springfield via the Connecticut River Line. The route of the "Everglades Limited" will be via the Shore Line over the Hell Gate Bridge Route, thence via the Pennsylvania, Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomic and Atlantic Coast Line to Florida.

FIRST INDUCTION CEREMONY USED BY HI-Y CLUB

The Hi-Y club of the Y. M. C. A., held a very interesting meeting at the local association with a record attendance. Twenty-seven boys were present when the Hi-Y induction ceremony was used on four new members for the first time by the local chapter.

At last week's meeting the following committees were appointed:

Program; Everard Lester, chair; Richard Bunnell, George Geer; social, Stanley Vaughn, chair; Ralph Parker, Jack Henricks; athletics, John Fellows, chair; Fred Camp, Thomas Sharples; foreign work, Lloyd Hayden, chair; Harold Lathrop; Bible study, Richard Holden, chair; James Bradlaw, Burton Robinson.

The executive officers are, Russell Storms, president; Stanley Vaughn, vice president; Ralph Parker, treasurer; Richard Holden, secretary.

Plans are well under way for one of the best seasons that the club has ever had. Supper was served by Mrs. Lillian S. Young of the United church and three assistants.

THREE DIVORCES GRANTED BEFORE JUDGE WOLFE

Three divorces were granted by Judge Isaac Wolfe in the superior court at New London Friday morning out of six that were on the uncontested list.

Fred B. Huntley of Groton was granted divorce from Lucy Swaney Huntley, now of parts unknown. The ground was desertion since March, 26, 1919. They were married at Blackhall on Jan. 18, 1914, by Rev. Edward B. Phreaner. The petitioner was given the custody of a daughter aged 8 and a son aged 7.

Gustave A. Kutschkier of New London, was given divorce from Lillian Sloane Kutschker, now of parts unknown. They were married in London, England, Aug. 1, 1904. The divorce was granted on the ground of desertion on June 1, 1910.

Pauline Baker Chase, of Norwich, secured divorce from Thomas C. Chase, of this city whom she married Feb. 13, 1912. The divorce was granted on the ground of infidelity between Jan. 1 1918 and Jan. 1, 1923. was given the custody of a son.

The suit of Florence Lillian Seely of Stonington against Charlie Alford Seely was postponed until 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning for more testimony, the suit of Martha Elizabeth Shadd vs C. Frederick Shadd was postponed and the sum of Arthur Nadolny vs Winifred Nadolny went off the list.

MANCHESTER UNITY WILL ATTEND BRIDGEPORT DEGREE

At the regular meeting of Loyal Hugh H. Osgood Lodge, No. 690, I. O. O. F. M. U. held Friday evening P. G. John T. Broadhurst presided in the absence of Noble Grand Ellal who is ill at the Backus hospital.

A delegation from Samaritan and Livingston lodges of Baltic and Plainfield attended and it was voted to attend a working of the gold degree by the degree team of William Lincoln lodge of Bridgeport, whose reputation for this degree is known throughout New England. A good time is assured. It was also voted to attend the class initiation to be held in Infantry hall Providence, R. I., on Nov. 17, when the work will be done by the Bud of Hope degree team. Three bands have been secured for the parade, which will start at 6 p. m. sharp. After the regular lodge session the meeting was thrown open to the Ladies of Victory and Liberty lodges. A varied programme, including instrumental, vocal music was given. Solos were sung by Misses Irwin and Hartley and Messrs. Hollingsworth, Armitage, Grimshaw, A. Turner and Bahle quartette. The accompanists were Brucksch and Huber.

The treasurer, Thomas Addison presided over the entertainment. Refreshments consisting of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

TWO NEW BOY SCOUT TROOPS ARE ORGANIZED

North Stonington has just organized a scout troop under Scoutmaster Alfred H. Crofts, instructor in agriculture at Wheeler school. Principal F. E. Reed sponsors the troop and the committee consists of F. E. Reed, George H. Stone and N. N. Fisher.

It will be known as Community Troop No. 1, North Stonington, and has 18 scouts enrolled.

St. Paul's church, Willimantic, has also registered a troop of ten (10) scouts. Rev. Frederick C. Williams, rector, will be the scout master. His assistant scout masters are Theodore B. Ladd and Lloyd W. Williams. The troop committee are: Emil Bernet, Robert O. Branch and William E. Jackson.

Workmen's Compensation.

Workmen's compensation agreements as follows have been approved by Commissioner J. J. Donohue:

Ashland Cotton Co., Jewett City, employer, and Aibie Gallagher, employe, right leg swollen, at rate of $11.50.

Eckard Bloom Co., Inc., New London, employer, and Bridget Mealleary, employe, injured knee, at rate of $12.86.

Richmond Radiator Co. Norwich, employer, and James Finneron, 73 Washington street, employe, double hernia, at rate of $18.00.

Change of Name Granted.

Before the superior court in New London, Friday, Joseph Pegoraro of New London, received a change of name to Joseph Hopkins. He is a boatsman's mate, first class, at the Coast Guard Academy at New London. He made the application on the ground that he was born in Lexington, Mass., November 3, 1890, the son of Annie Hopkins, and that his mother took him to Venice in his infancy and there placed him in an orphan asylum where he remained until he was about 15 years of age when he returned to America. He wanted to take the name of his mother so as to have an American name instead of an Italian name as he is an American citizen.

Scout Leaders at Camp Tippecan.

Several automobile loads of scout masters will go to Beach Pond today (Saturday) if the weather permits and stay overnight at the beach cottages for an outdoor meeting and practical work in woodcraft and nature study. Trailing, use of knife and axe, fire building, cooking and hikes, will be carried on during the stay there. If the weather is very rainy, the following Saturday, Oct. 27th, will be taken instead.

POETRY

Provision

Oh, days of beauty standing veiled apart,
With dreamy skies and tender, tremulous air,
Is this rich Indian summer of the heart
Well may the earth her jewelled halo wear.

The long brown fields—no longer drear and dull—
Burn with the glow of these deep-hearted hours.
Until the dry weeds seeing more beautiful,
More spiritlike than ever summer flowers.

But yesterday the world was stricken bare,
Left old and dead in gray, encroaching gloom;
Today what vivid wonder of the air
Awakes the soul of vanished light and bloom?

Sharp with the clean, fine ecstasy of death,
A mightier wind shall strike the shrinking earth,
An exhalation of creative breath
Wake the white wonder of the winter's birth.

In her wide Pantheon—her temple place—
Wrapped in strange beauty and new comforting,
We shall not miss the Summer's full blown grace,
Nor hunger for the swift, exquisite Spring.

—Ada Foster Murray in Indianapolis News.

A FAR COUNTRY

Beyond the cities I have seen,
Beyond the wrack and din,
There is a wide and fair demesne
Where I have never been.
Away from desert wastes of greed,
Over the peaks of pride,
Across the seas of mortal need,
Its citizens abide.
And through the distance though I see
How stern must be the flare,
My feet are ever fain to be
Upon the journey there.
In that far land the only school
The dwellers all attend
Is built upon the golden rule,
And man to man is friend.
No war is there nor war's distress,
But truth and love increase—
It is a realm of pleasantness,
And all her paths are peace.

—Leslie Pickney Hill in Philadelphia Ledger.

ENORMOUS PROFITS TAKEN BY WHOLESALE COAL DEALERS

More Than 200 Per Cent Over Their Pre-War Margins—Fact Announced in Report of the Coal Commission—Retail Leaders Have Been Taking Less Profits—Investigation Indicates That There Are Altogether Too Many Wholesalers.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Wholesalers in the coal industry during recent years have been taking profits at a rate of more than 20 per cent. over their pre-war margins the coal commission reported today while retail coal dealers, in spite of increasing costs, have been taking less. The commission's study of coal distribution resulted in its recommendation to President Coolidge and congress that the federal government be empowered to regulate fuel distribution in times of shortage, but that the retail handling of coal be left chiefly for local treatment.

Though the commission ceased its work September 22, the text of its report on coal distribution became available today in complete form for the first time. The conclusions advanced were unanimously adopted by its membership including the chairman, John Hays Hammond, Thomas R. Marshall, Clark Howell, Dr. George Otis Smith, Edward T. Devine and Charles P. Neill.

The commission's study indicates that there are altogether too many wholesalers," the report said, "But that, notwithstanding this fact, the wholesale trade has made large profits in most of the ten year period from 1913 to 1922 inclusive, and excessive profits in the panic years 1917 and 1920. The year 1922 generally showed more moderate and even small earnings on account of the curtailment of the tonnage by strike. The commission's study also indicates that in times of shortage the pyramiding of wholesale stock margins through the speculative activity of wholesalers results in the enhancement of prices without furnishing the public an equivalent in distribution service.

"Recurring periods of coal shortage with wild wholesale speculation point to the need of a public service viewpoint respecting the entire coal trade backed by legislation providing for strict regulatory powers on the part of the federal government over the entire production and distribution interstate of coal. The exercise of such regulation is especially needed in times of shortage and wildly fucuating prices.

"When real competition for the purchasers tonnage exists, such competition is probably the cheapest and most efficient regulator of wholesale margins, but in times of shortage it fails entirely. It may therefore be desirable to set up skeleton regulative machinery which shall be put in operation when and only when in the judgment of the president an emergency exists."

Taking 1913 as a base, the commission found that the average wholesaler, who distributed coal without physically handling the shipments, made a profit of 3.6 cents per ton handled, and made an annual return on total capital invested in his business of 19 per cent. In 1920 the 333 wholesalers in the United States whose books the commission examined, took a profit of 15 cents per ton, and made 56.2 per cent. on the capital invested in their business. The year 1920, however, was the "banner year" in the business, the report said, adding that the figures were smaller in other years.

The chief addition to coal prices, the commission found, resulted from the handling about of coal shipments during shortages from one wholesaler to another, with two, three and sometimes four wholesale profits being taken enroute. Its inquiry resulted in the tracing out of a large number of such operations, particularly involving anthracite shipped to New England during the winter of 1922-23, after the coal strike.

It resulted in the uncovering of hidden margins taken by dummy concerns or closely affiliated wholesalers, mine operators, or individuals," the commission said: "In a considerable number of cases, wholesalers whose names were at first not reported, have been uncovered somewhere between the mines and the retailer. Specific examples of this hidden profit taking and ways in which such profits were taken are described.

"The maximum number of wholesalers intervening between the mine and the retailer was found to be four."

The American wholesale coal association, the commission also declared, had advocated an unfair profit standard.

"From this showing, it would appear that with margins of 8 per cent. on coal," the report said, "which figure is advocated by the American Wholesale Coal association, the entire wholesale trade and particularly the wholesalers handling anthracite would make exorbitant profits. Such a margin would neither be necessary nor desirable. Its presence in the trade would not only be a public injustice but would still further stimulate the already over developed wholesale trade. What is really needed is stability in the industry, so that with normal tonnage and demand, real competition can operate."

Turning to the retailer, the commission demarked that criticism of prices there was frequent, sometimes well founded, but often based on lack of knowledge that causes are beyond control of the retailer." Better public understanding and local treatment of the problems were advocated.

Average rates of retail profits on coal since 1918, the commission said, have been "generally moderate and much less than those of wholesalers."

STATE PROGRAMS FOR PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

Washington, Oct. 21.—Formulation of prohibition enforcement programs by the various states will come as the next step in the campaign of the federal government to make the dry laws more effective.

Governors of two-thirds of the states of the union who attended the conference here with President Coolidge yesterday on enforcement of the immigration, narcotics and prohibition laws, left their homes today pledged to call two kinds of conferences. One will include municipal, county and state officials while the other will embrace the prosecuting attorneys of the various counties of each state.

The proposal for the conference was adopted by the governors along with other plans providing for co-ordination of all federal, state, county and municipal authorities in the formulation of the state enforcement programs in line with these proposals the federal prohibition unit will be directed by the president to lend all assistance in promoting the conferences.

None of the governors before leaving Washington would say when they would call the state conferences.

Division of opinion existed among the state executives as to the ultimate benefit to result from yesterday's meeting between the president and representatives of the justice, treasury and labor departments on the one hand and governors or representatives of governors from thirty-seven states and territories.

Ninety per cent. of the property there is owned by Americans. Cuba now exercises soverignty over the island.

AEROPLANE MECHANIC KILLED BY PROPELLER

Washington, N. J., Oct. 21.—Marshal Ruellan, an aeroplane mechanic who recently came from Paris, France, was instantly killed near here today when he was struck by the propeller of an aeroplane on which he was working. The plane had made a bad landing, throwing out its passengers and Ruellan attempted to shut off the engine. The passengers escaped injury.

FORMER SOCIETY WOMAN DIED POVERTY-STRICKEN

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 21.—Mrs. Mariella Clark, a figure in New York's wealthy social set of 30 years ago, died poverty-stricken, here, yesterday. Her first husband, Alson Platt Mann, of New York, is said to have left his ex-wife fortune to his sons after divorcing his wife in 1905. In the tiny room where she died were yellowed newspaper clippings telling of her career in society.

BATTLE BETWEEN RIVAL GANGS OF BOOTLEGGERS

Red Bank, N. J., Oct. 21.—Six men arrested and one man in the Long Branch hospital suffering from dangerous bullet wounds, is the toll today of what police describe as a pistol battle between two rival gangs of bootleggers at the Atlantic Highlands railroad station late last night.

The fight in which fifty shots were exchanged, is declared to have been the outcome of a feud between two groups of rival interests one from Highlands and the other from Newark. Twenty men are believed to have participated in the battle.

According to Chief of County Detectives Smith, the two gangs had engaged in several altercations which came to a head last night when four cars containing fifteen Newark men and five Highlands men met at the station at Atlantic Highlands where they engaged in a running fight. The men left their machines and poured a fusillade of shots at each other while passers-by scattered in every direction.

At least six of the men are believed to have been wounded in the exchange, four of them, it is believed, being carried back to Newark by their comrades.

Frank Laconte of Newark was found a short distance from the scene. A bullet had pierced his body. He was taken to the Long Branch hospital but steadfastly refused to say who had shot him. His condition grew steadily worse and tonight it was not believed that he would live

HAWLEYVILLE FARMER RUN DOWN BY AN AUTO

Danbury, Oct. 21.—Edward Smalley, 50, a farmer, of Hawleyville, is in a local hospital suffering from serious injuries received when he was hit by an automobile driven by Frank Mancuso, of Danbury on a road near this city tonight. One of the man's legs were lacerated badly and amputation may be necessary.

Mancuso stated that he was forced off the highway by another autoist and that he did not see Smalley walking alongside the road.

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER SPOKE TO 300 IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, Oct. 21.—William Z. Foster, radical labor leader, spoke to an audience of 300 in Garden hall here tonight tonight. A squad of uniformed police and plain clothes men were stationed about the hall, but the meeting went on without disturbance. Foster spoke for more than two hours, outlining his communistic beliefs.

OBITUARY

Andrew V. Barber.

Bridgeport, Oct. 21.—Andrew V. Barber, veteran cartoonist, died this afternoon in St. Vincent's hospital after a nervous breakdown, resulting from a lingering illness. Known as "Dad" Barber to hundreds of persons prominent in sporting and political affairs throughout the state, the deceased had for years sketched or photographed, or chronicled inpublic life during the last quarter of a century. Barber was 58 years of age, and came to Connecticut from California. He was an enthusiastic navigator, and was the owner of a houseboat, upon which he made his home.

Opinions Differ on The Business Outlook

A Feeling of Uncertainty Prevails Regarding the Prospects for Next Year—Fall Trade Good.

New York, Oct. 21.—(By the A. P.)—Irregularity with a fairly steady undertone in the chief speculative markets during the past week has reflected the business community's satisfaction with the existing volume of trade and its uncertainty with regard to the prospects for next year. Business leaders continue to take an optimistic view, pointing out that credit resources have not been subjected to strain, that stocks of goods have not been accumulated and that liquidity of assets has been maintained.

On the other hand, those who are inclined to pessimism point out that iron and steel production has been declining steadily since the late spring and claim that the activity of that period will prove to have been the peak for the current movement. They consider that four consecutive monthly declines in imports support this conclusion.

Imports during September, amounted to only $255,000,000 as compared with $329,000,000 in January. With exports showing a normal fall pickup, September's excess of exports was $126,000,000, a sum which was sufficient to wipe out the import balance which had accumulated during the earlier months of the year.

Reports from the steel industry indicated that output is still receding, although the trade is somewhat encouraged by the fact that the rate of decline is becoming slower rather than faster. New buying during October has been better than that in September but, on the other hand, deliveries still exceed bookings.

An unfavorable development of the week was a sizable reaction in grain prices, which carried wheat off about 5 cents from the recent top prices. Reports of large foreign crops also had a depressing influence.

Cotton, however, while subject to considerable fluctuations, closed the week strong with the leading futures well above 29 cents.

Money remained relatively easy and the bond market displayed an improved tone. Offerings of new securities became more numerous and met with a satisfactory reception.

Foreign exchange rates were reactionary, sterling losing ground despite the fact that the British government definitely repudiated any inflationary intentions. Pressure of commercial bills against fall exports of cotton and wheat was considered to be responsible for this decline. French francs sagged off in response to the setback in the Ruhr negotiations.

RUM-RUNNER CAPTURED IN ROCKAWAY INLET

New York, Oct. 21.—The Razoo, a speedy rum-runner operating from rum row, which has evaded police and federal authorities for more than a year, was captured as she dashed into Rockaway Inlet early today with 208 cases of whiskey. Three prisoners were taken.

The craft which was trapped by the marine police, had a reputation of being one of the swiftest rum-runners plying in New York harbor.

Police reported that the whiskey cases bore the name of a popular brand of Scotch, but they suspected the brand of being counterfeit and that the razoo was aiding in circulating bogus Scotch being made in large quantities on a ship in the rum fleet. It was recalled that 5,000 collapsible whiskey cases with this same label were seized recently on a rum-runner headed for the liquor fleet.

The Razoo is a 31 knot craft valued at $25,000.

IMPEACHMENT PROCEEDINGS BEGIN TODAY IN OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 21 (By the A. P.)—Tomorrow Oklahoma will hear its governor, Jack C. Walton, accused by the investigating committee of the lower house of the Oklahoma legislature, of corruption in office, incompetency and offenses involving moral turpitude.

Twelve articles of impeachment will be reported to the house by the Disney-Tolbert committee when the lower body of the legislature meets at 1.30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The articles will allege corruption in office, incompetency and offenses involving moral turpitude, the committee announced today. Additional indictments will be returned two days later in a supplemental bill, W. L. Disney, of Muskogee, chairman of the committee, stated.

BODY OF MISSING MAN FOUND IN BARGE CANAL

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Missing 22 days, Pasquale Catrupe, aged 37, a resident of this city, was found dead in the barge canal a few miles east of this city today, shot through the head with a .32 calibre bullet. Officers of Oneida and Herkimer counties working on the case state it is a blackhand case.

In a pocket of Cathrupe's coat, was a letter written in Italian, postmarked Meriden, Conn., demanding $10,000 from Joseph Thomas, a successful bus operator of this city. Thomas admits receipt of the letter and on the day it was received he tells the police, Catrupe was watching his house. Thomas accused Catrupe of sending the letter which was denied. He took it when Thomas offered a reward of $500 to discover the writer.

Thomas admits receipt of two more letters in the same handwriting.

FASHION LEADERS HAVE ABANDONED BOBBED HAIR

Paris, Oct. 21.—Bobbed hair has become so general that the fashion leaders of last summer felt they simply had to let theirs grow again in order to be different and therefore a la mode. So now permanent waves decorate the short coiffures of those who must always set the pace. The short hair that once hung straight or fluffed now fits closely to the head, with something of the appearance of a wig patterned after an aviator's headgear.

BLIZZARD WITH TWO FOOT SNOWFALL IN ONTARIO

Sudbury, Ont., Oct. 21.—A blizzard with more than a two foot snowfall was reported today from Horne Payne, Ontario, along the line of the Canadian National railway.

Railroad Labor Board Awards Wage Raise

Two Cents an Hour to Clerks, Station Forces, Dock, Warehouse and Platform Freight Handlers.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—The United States Railroad Labor Board today made public a decision awarding increases of one to two cents an hour to clerks station forces, dock, warehouse and platform freight handlers and similar employes of 65 carriers.

An unusual provision of the decision is that the "sum of the increases granted to the employes in each section shall be distributed by joint action of the representatives of the carrier and of the employes in such a manner as to bring about just and equitable rates for the employes in each of the various sections for which increases are provided."

The decision followed close upon another denying an increase to signalmen. The present decision reads: "In the case of the signalmen, their present rates of pay and the very favorable treatment they had received in previous wage orders and adjustments, made it seem inequitable to award them an increase of wages under the state of proof before the board. In the case of the clerical employes, proper, it is undoubtedly true that their present wages and the previous wage wards and orders affecting them through a long period of years do not show that they have ever received treatment which could be termed preferential."

A dissenting opinion accompanied the previous decision denying an increase to signalmen.

The employes affected by the present decision were represented by the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship clerks, freight handlers, express and station employes, and by the Brotherhood of Railway Station Employes, and the International Longshoremen's Association.

The carriers affected include the Atlantic Coast Line, Boston & Albany, Boston & Maine, Erie and the Maine Central with the Portland Terminal Company.

DEMAND IMMEDIATE RESIGNATION OF PASTOR

Bridgeport, Oct. 21.—On the grounds that the parishoners have failed to support the church since four robed and hooded members of the Ku Klux Klan interrupted a service a year ago and presented a gift of $150, the official board of the Summerfield M. E. church in executive session today demanded the immediate resignation of Dr. Charles A. Quigley, pastor.

A 70 to 6 vote was registered in favore of dropping the pastor, with three present but not voting and the written expressions of three absent members for the retention of Dr. Quigley being ignored. Mrs. Fred M. Dowdney, president of the Ladies' Aid society, was not allowed to qualify as a board members until the ousting ballot had been recorded. Her vote to retain Dr. Quigley was then refused.

The dismissal of their pastor has thrown the congregation into an uproar. Dr. Quigley claims that the action of the board was "the greatest injustice ever done in a Christian church."

"There is a price on my head," he said, "only Friday I was informed by Dr. William H. Kidd, of Stamford, district superintendent of the New York East conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, that the other Methodist churches of Bridgeport would contribute to the support of the Summerfield church if I was removed."

Dr. Kidd presided at the board meeting today. The dissatisfaction with Dr. Quigley concerns a debt of about $75,000 on the new church that he has built, and the subsequent hesitancy of the parishoners in contributing money to the support of the church, board members stated tonight.

TWO FIRES WITH $600,000 DAMAGE AT PERTH AMBOY

Perth Amboy, N. J., Oct. 21.—Damage estimated at more than $600,000 is the toll here of fires which started five hours apart in two large manufacturing plants situated within a half mile of each other on the Raritan River.

The first fire last night swept through the Standard plant of the National Fire Proofing Company, completely destroying the main building, 2 kilns, a drying shed and several other structures. The loss was estimated at $500,000. Firemen were still at work in the ruins early this morning when an alarm was sent from the plant of the Raritan Hollow Tile Corporation about half mile distant.

The second fire attacked the engine rooms, the main building and several other structures of the plant, but flames were prevented from spreading to the kilns. The damage was estimated at slightly more than $100,000.

The blaze in the Raritan Hollow Tile factory is believed to have started in the engine room. The cause of the fire at the National plant has not been determined.

GOVERNMENT INSURANCE AGAINST UNEMPLOYMENT

New York, Oct. 21.—Government insurance against unemployment would be in contrast with recent developments in American industry, it was declared in a statement made public today by the national industrial conference board which was based on a report of economists who have studied the situation both here and in England where insurance legislation has been in operation.

The board pointed out instances of industries in the United States whose employes virtually had been guaranteed continuous employment and reached the conclusion that similar plans would be adopted in this country rather than legislation to bring about the same result through government agencies.

DERELICT SCHOONER A MENACE TO NAVIGATION

New York, Oct. 21.—The derelict schooner Governor Parr, laden with lumber and well above water, was reported as a danger to navigation in a radio received today from the Cunard liner Laconia, 890 miles east of Ambrose lightship. The schooner was abandoned at sea, October 3, on a voyage from Ingrahamport, N. S. to Buenos Aires. Her position today was given as latitude 42-18; longitude 54-19.

A RINELAND REPUBLIC WAS PROCLAIMED SUNDAY

Rhinelanders Occupied the Public Buildings in Aix-La-Chapelle Without Opposition—The Berlin Government Regards the Movement as a Purely Local Affair, Not Likely to Spread to Other Rhineland and Ruhr Towns—The German Government Today Will Send a Note to the Reparations Commission.

Aix-La-Chapelle, Prussia, Oct. 21.—(By the A. P.)—A Rhineland republic was proclaimed here today.

Rhinelanders occupied the public buildings at four o'clock this morning without opposition from the security police.

They purpose immediately to begin an extension of their control throughout the Belgian area.

The city was calm today, presenting its usual Sunday appearance. The public buildings occupied by the separatists displayed the colors of the Rhineland republic—green, white and red. Two proclamations were placarded. The first of these said:

"To the people of hte Rhineland: The hour of liberty has struck. Berlin has plunged us in distress and misery. We come to our own assistance.

"We proclaim today a Rhineland republic. Free and independent, we wish to live in peace and friendship with our neighbors and to work in an effective manner with them for the reconstruction of Europe.

"Workers, every man to his post! Immediate care will be taken to assure peace, work and bread.

The second proclamation read as follows:

"The Rhineland republic is an accomplished fact. Any existance will be crushed pitilessly. Pillagers and disturbers of public order will be punished with the severest of penalties.

"We shall apply all our care to the questions of food supply and work and will preserve order and peace."

This proclamation was signed in the same way as the first.

No other separatist attempt has yet been reported from the other portions of the occupied territory.

GERMAN CABINET DISCUSSED THE BAVARIAN PROBLEM

Berlin, Oct. 21—(By the A. P.)—The proclamation of a Rhineland republic at Aix-La-Chapelle is regarded in official circles in Berlin as a purely local affair, engineered by separatists with the support of the Franco-Belgian authorities. It is considered as not likely to spread to other Rhineland and Ruhr owns.

The cabinet met this afternoon, but the question under discussion was primarily the Bavarian problem, of which some solution is considered urgent.

GERMANY TO SEND NOTE TO REPARATIONS COMMISSION

Paris, Oct. 21.—(By the A. P.)—The German government tomorrow will transmit a note to the reparation commission.

It is understood the note will deal with propositions of a general nature, and not with the coal situation.

STINNES TO COMPETE WITH STANDARD OIL

Duesseldorf, Oct. 21.—The Stinnes group of industrialists, according to an article in the Duesseldorf Nachrichte, has organized a company with a capital of one hundred million gold marks to compete with the Standard Oil Company. It is said this company has purchased a large fleet of tank steamers in Argentina and also acquired large holdings of oil lands in Argentina, Persia, and Texas.

FRANCE TO CONTINUE ITS NON-INTERFERENCE POLICY

Paris, Oct. 21 (By the A. P.)—The proclamation of a Rhineland republic in Aix-La-Chapelle has not changed the attitude of the French government with regard to its policy of non-interference in the affairs of the Rhineland separatists, according to information obtained in official circles here today.

It was declared that the French government was not directly interested in this morning's coup d'etat, as Aix-La-Chapelle is in the Belgian zone of occupation. It was added, however, that should cities situated in the territory occupied by the French follow the suit of the Aix-La-Chapelle separatists the French troops would maintain a policy of absolute neutrality, except in case the lives or safety of the French troops and citizens or persons of other nationalists employed directly or indirectly by the occupation authorities or who are rendering services to them should be threatened. Then General Degoutte, the French commander, would be instructed to take such measures as are necessary for their protection.

2,500,000,000 MARKS FOR LOAF OF BREAD IN BERLIN

Berlin, Oct. 21.—(By the A. P.)—In view of the seriousness of the situation generally and continued reports of food riots, the government has decided to release immediately the comparatively small reserve supplies of flour which had been stored and originally intended for emergency use during the winter.

Officials express the hope that the release of the flour will have a tendency to relieve the conditions brought about when the government abandoned the subsidies to the bakers which for years had kept down the price of bread. The bakers maintain however, that there is not enough reserve flour in storage to materially relieve the situation. Many bakers in Berlin and other cities have announced that they are unable longer to finance their business, but that they will keep their ovens hot on certain days for customers who bring their dough for baking.

The price of a loaf of bread tomorrow in Berlin will be two billion five hundred million marks. The smashing of bakery windows late Saturday evening was reported not only in the Berlin workingmen's home districts but in other residential parts of the city. During the night numerous shoe shops and other stores were robbed. The police announced today that extra men would begin tonight to patrol the streets to prevent wholesale robberies.

WERE PRESENT WHEN PATROLMAN WAS SHOT DEAD

Boston, Oct. 21.—Two men who were arrested in Norwood have confessed to Boston inspectors tha they were present early today when Patrolman Joseph Gonya of the Hyde Park police station was shot to death in Readville after he had halted a car in which the men were riding. A third man known as "Red McCann" shot the officer, they said.

The two men arrested were charged with the murder of Officer Gonya. They were identified as Jeremiah J. Horgan of Cambridge and Henry T. Keefe of Somerville, both of whom, according to the police have criminal records.

The shooting occurred after Officer Gonya had pursued an alleged stolen autoobile in a commandeered machine. After a race of several blocks the fugitive car was overtaken and the driver halted. As Officer Gonya afternoon in the Bridgeport hospital light with drawn revolver he was shot in the chest and fell.

The fugitive car then sped on, almost running over the prostrate body in the road before it.

Horgan and Keefe were arrested by Patrolman Donnell in Norwood who sighted them hurrying through a stretch of marshland, soaked and bedraggled.

DAYLIGHT SAVING WAS HARMFUL TO CHILDREN

New York, Oct. 21.—Daylight saving has been harful to the health of many New York children, it was declared in a report made public today by Dr. E. Willis Kobler of the department of health who told of the city's intensive work in the health drive of the children's al dociety.

"Many parents have told me that it was impossible to get the child to go to bed before it was dark," said the report. "The children feel that they should be on the streets while it is yet daylight and this keeps them unduly active, preventing a normal relaxation which should precede bedtime."

Bad housing also was responsible for lowered vitality among New York's children, the report asserted.

THREE DEATHS TOLL OF GRADE CROSSING ACCIDENT

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 21.—A man, woman and child were killed and three other persons were probably fatally injured, tonight, when a Shore Line interurban car struck an automobile at a road crossing in Nottingham tonight. Of seven occupants all residents of Euclid village, only one escaped with slight injuries.

So badly was the machine wrecked that police declared they were unable to identify its make.

GOV. WALTON DENIES RUMOR THAT HE IS GOING TO RESIGN

Oklahoma City, Oct. 21 (By the A. P.)—On the eve of the filing of a report by a committee of the lower house of the Oklahoma legislature, named by that body to investigate the official acts of Governor J. C. Walton, the governor denied he intends resigning from office Monday morning.

"There is positively nothing to the report," the governor told the Associated Press Sunday night when informed of the existence of such a rumor. "Such rumors are merely to weaken my friends and supporters and stampede them. I have no intention of resigning—have never even contemplated such a thing."

The lower house of the state legislature will convene at 1.30 o'clock Monday afternoon to hear the report of the Disney-Tolbert committe, named to investigate the alleged irregularities in state offices and bring impeachment charges, if irregularities in state offices and bring impeach ment charges, if irregularities were found to exist against state officials state officials subject to impeachment.

LENINE HAS RECOVERED USE OF PARALYZED LEG

Moscow, Oct. 21.—Nikolai Lenine, the premier, has completely recovered the use of his paralyzed leg and is able to mount the stairs to the second floor of his residence unaided, according to a statement made today by Dr. N. Semashko, commissar of public health, who is one of the physicians attending Lenine.

Dr. Semashko added that Lenine talks freely, jokes with those about him and interests himself in public affairs. He is anxious to begin work and the physicians are having difficulty in restraining him.

DROWNED IN THE SOUND WHEN ROWBOAT CAPSIZED

Clinton, Oct. 21.—William H. West, of New York city, was drowned in Long Island sound off Grove Beach, near here, this afternoon when a rowboat in which he and Daniel Reid, were seated, capsized. Reid nearly lost his own life in attempting to save Mr. West. Reid's address is unknown.

Mr. West owned a cottage at Grove Beach. The family home is on West End avenue, New York city.

DEATH FROM SLEEPING SICKNESS IN MARLBORO

Marlboro, Mass., Oct. 21.—Willard A. Walker, former member of the board of aldermen and superintendent of streets when Marlboro was a town, died today at his home of what physicians said was sleeping sickness. Mr. Walker was born in Marlboro 96 years ago.

The home of Mrs. Josephine Mareno on the River road in Flanders, about half a mile from the city line, was raided Saturday afternoon by Officers Hardesty and Hulburt of the Stafford Springs barracks. The officers were rewarded with a haul of 16 quarts of gin, 3 gallons moonshine, 25 gallons grain alcohol, 2 quarts white mule, 1 1-2 quarts of juniper, used in the manufacture of gin, and five cases of empty bottles bearing Gordon dry gin labels. The bottles were found hidden in clumps of grass in a swamp some distance from the house. The bulk of the liquor was found hidden in a bedroom. Mrs. Mareno was taken before Justice of the Peace Andrews of the Mansfield town court at 3.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. She was found guilty and fined $150 and costs and a 15 days' suspended jail sentence was imposed.

Two young men who gave their names as Emerson Riach of Faribault, Minn., and Richard Russell of Hamilton, O., were taken into custody Sunday by Chief Allan MacArthur and proved to be two sailors from the ship Utah. They said they had disposed of their sailor uniforms in Boston and had drifted to this city. They admitted that they were penniless and miserable. Chief MacArthur held them for being absent without leave and today (Monday) an officer of the submarine base, Groton, will take charge of the men.

Willimantic is badly in need of a live business men's association. Several of the city's prominent merchants have taken the matter in hand, with the idea of perfecting such an organization. Dues have been fixed at $1 per year and a committee has been appointed to solicit members. The committee feels confident that they can easily secure 100 names, which would be a sufficient number to go ahead with the work. A meeting will be called shortly by the president, J. E. Sullivan.

Probably the shortest session of police court on record was held Saturday morning, the time being 50 seconds. Prosecuting Attorney Samuel B. Harvey informed Judge Foss that the parties involved in the collision of automobiles had adjusted their damages between themselves and he moved the charges against both be nolled without costs. The suggestion was accepted by the court. Peter Driscoll of Yantic and Marcel Fontaine of 80 South street, this city, were the parties involved. Their cars came together on Bridge street, near Main street, Sunday afternoon. They could not reach an agreement as to who would settle for the damages and consequently they were notified to appear in court Monday. They did not appear, however, so warrants were made out for their arrest. It was learned that Fontaine had later assumed the blame for the accident and settled for the damage to the Driscoll car for $40. The men forgot that they had yet to pay for a silent policeman smashed in the melee. Neither seemed to care to pay for this bill and they were told to appear in court Saturday morning. Before the court session Driscoll agreed to pay $10 and Fontaine $9 to make up the $12 bill for the damaged silent cop.

Miss Catherine McCabe of Pearl street was given a surprise party recently at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Rood by 20 friends in honor of her 30th birthday. The house was decorated with flowers, ferns and foliage. Mrs. Rood played several pieces on the mandolin. Mrs. William Maine and Mrs. E. Rood served an excellent chicken and salad supper.

The 95th anniversary celebration of the First Methodist church here began Sunday, to last the entire week. A series of services was held, including special sermons delivered by Rev. William H. Bath of Norwich, superintendent of the Norwich district, and an address by James Haggerty of this city. Music was by the X L choir and the Imperial quartet. For the first time in the history of the church the choir was vested and appeared at the morning and evening general services in white surplices. The choir numbers 30 voices, under the direction of Edwin F. Cross. The Imperial quartet includes Miss Ruth Herrick, soprano, Miss Muriel Kennedy, alto, Arthur L. Clark, tenor, and E. F. Cross, bass-tone. The choir loft was lighted with special electric lamps. For the Men's Bible class at 10 a. m., Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead, the pastor, led. Dist. Supt. W. H. Bath gave a short talk. The morning service was at 10.45 o'clock, with the pastor in charge. Superintendent Bath preached the sermon. Sunday school followed at 12.15 o'clock with a special program, including the promotion of scholars. The devotional service of the Epworth league was held at 6 o'clock.

The final service of the day was at 7 p. m. and was a patriotic service. It was in charge of the pastor and members of the G. A. R. and other military bodies were in attendance. Short talks were given by Rev. F. F. Foshay, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Rev. Mr. Muirhead. James Haggerty gave the address of the evening, his subject being The Local Church's Part in the Civil War. The committee in charge of the program found that Mr. Haggerty was the most fitting person to recall the trying days of '61-'65. Most of the men who went forth from the town of Windham in the Civil war enlisted in the basement of the present church. Mr. Haggerty enjoys the distinction of being the youngest person to enlist in the Union army in the state, being but a week over 13 when he entered the service. His talk was of unusual interest, bringing to remembrance the generous services and sympathy of the church to the boys of '61.

For the first time in the history of the Lee Methodist church, Eastford, a woman, Miss Dorothy Wheeler, occupied the pulpit Sunday. Miss Wheeler is deaconess of the Methodist church in Bridgeport and was supplying for Rev. Henry McCullum, who with Mrs. McCullum left Friday for a ten days' trip to Flanders, N. Y.

The meeting of the executive committee of the Visiting Nurses' association, held after the recent baby clinic was attended by the officers and chairmen of the child welfare, supply and tuberculosis committees. The following report of the work of the nurses for September was read and approved: Number of patients under care first of the month 126, new patients admitted 19, number of cases discharged to hospital 1, to tuberculosis sanatorium 1, to other care 2, number cured or improved 12, total number remaining under care 129, number of nursing visits made 213, advisory visits 111, social service visits 5, total visits 332, time spent in office for dressings, etc., 50 hours, time spent at tuberculosis and baby clinics 10 hours.

The Windham County Farmers' association will hold its meeting on Dec. 7. Speakers of prominence will be heard.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mariette King were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home, 90 High street. Rev. Harry S. McCready officiated. Burial was in Willimantic cemetery. Avery & VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Milo A. Shumway, 60, died at his home in Warrenville Friday night after an illness from cancer of the liver. Mr. Shumway, who was a member of Industrial lodge, No. 2, K. of P., of Lewiston, Me., is survived by his wife and his mother.

Business at the local postal savings office experienced a slump during the past month, according to figures made known at the postoffice department recently. With a decrease of $1,872 during the month, Willimantic dropped in the ranking with other cities and towns of the state, as did New Haven and Ansonia. The Elm City reported a net increase of $267 for the month, while Ansonia showed a net increase of $210. Willimantic's balance when the office closed in September was $112,193.

John Kenyon of Eastford ran his car off the road at Phoenixville late Friday night and the machine went down a bank and was considerably damaged.

The new receiving vault at the new Willimantic cemetery is being completed by Contractors Doyle & Murphy. The vault will hold 88 bodies and is 34x33 feet.

The vegetable harvest at Windham town almshouse this year is the greatest in its history. In quality the vegetables are unsurpassed. Last week Supt. Henry W. Chamberlain completed the harvesting of 410 bushels of Green Mountain potatoes from the almshouse gardens. The yield was unusually big as but 12 bushels of seed were planted.

The wrecker of Leonard Brothers' Garage, Inc., answered its last call late Friday night, when the engine backfired and the machine caught fire and was destroyed. The truck was in charge of Raymond Angier and was on its way to Windham Center with a supply of gasoline for a stranded autoist.

Mrs. Wilfred Lariviere was tendered a surprise Hallowe'en party at her home on Union street recently in honor of her wedding anniversary Lunch was served. Others present were Mrs. Herman Lariviere, Mrs. Roderick Gaudreau, Misses Ophelia LaRue, Rose LaRue, Foda LaRue, Rose LaLiberty, Donalda Lariviere, Hilda Caisse, Yvonne Rousseau, Helen Hinchey, Valerie Belair, Alma, Laura and Gertrude Lariviere.

The Fashion Show given by the Tubridy-Weldon company Friday afternoon from 3 to 4.30 was an unprecedented success and was attended by about 600, besides a big crowd in the street. The models, Mrs. Weiss and Mrs. Murphy of New York, displayed the smartest of fall fashions in gowns, hats, coats, suits and furs. The styles had a tendency to follow the low waistline, long lined models, with little drapery, with now and then a flowing sleeve. The predominating color was brown in its various shades, holding more often to the richness of the darker tints. Fur coats of luxurious seal, and trimmed in skunk, showed linings of bright hue, in plain material rather than the brocades of the past season. Cloth coats, some tailored models, and others trimmed with fur, which included Viatka Squirrel, natural squirrel, Asura fox, beaver and others, were shown in soft rich materials, such as Oxford deer, Roi-de-laine, Talkara, Fashona, Ormandale, Ormandy, Gerona and Marvella. Tailored coat dresses of wool, twillette and poiret twill, were very smart, bound in braid, or with a touch of white at the cuff. The models for these were severely straight in line, panelled front or a very narrow belt of belt material. Evening gowns of chiffon, brocaded velvet, black Elizabeth crepe, studded with sapphires, and afternoon gowns in satin canton, charmee and flat crepes were admired. The hats shown were for both dress and street wear, with accessories of beads, in both long and short strings, with earrings to match, or imported beaded bags. The furs trend toward the long, fluffy styles, single skins in brown and natural fox. The store was attractively decorated with ferns and palms and the promenade was on either side of these, into the show windows and back to the rear.

JEWETT CITY

Daniel L. Phillips of Jewett City, and John E. Prior of Moosup, have returned recently from one of their delightful trips, the sort which they enjoy frequently for the sole purpose of seeing things and learning about them. These men's tastes are much alike, hence the scenes they visit and the facts they are able to gather, concern matters of common interest. Included in the country which they have recently traversed, is a part of Litchfield county, away up in the heel of the Berkshires. At the little town of Mill River, well over toward the York State line, it became their pleasure to get acquainted with a man whose store of knowledge, and fund of information proved to them of much value. It was with the keenest interest that they listened to his tales relative to his early history. Marcus Rogers was the man's name, he is of an older school, and has lived well over the allotted three score years and ten. Mr. Rogers, it was learned, was one of the pioneer newspaper publishers of New England, and first had the temerity to introduce local social matters into the printed pages of his paper. The wonderful things they saw among his priceless collection of heirlooms and antique treasures, were of the sort not commonly met with.

Outstanding among them was a Mosaic table, the rare collection of adornments on its surface serving to prove the wide travel and careful research of its manufacturer and owner. Here in one section was to be seen a chip from the great pyramid of Cheops, a section of rock from a cave in the Mount of Olives, finely set about with pebbles selected from the brook whence David chose the stone with which he slew Goliath. A figure was fashioned with small stones from the distant shores of many Eastern seas, thousands of miles apart, including the Black, Red, Yellow and Caspian seas, and the Sea of Galilee and the Sea of Marmor. All these, with many other rare relics, were fashioned into a display, calculated to challenge the admiration, even of one having little interest in such collections. To these things in tangible form, were added a rich store of stories told, which Mr. Phillips and Mr. Prior declare they will not soon forget.

Local potato raisers have their crops pretty well harvested. Daniel Morgan, takes the blue ribbon for this section. Fred Gilbert's big tractor, which he had to operate his machine digger, rolled out close to 1,000 bushels. The crop here has not only been good but the potatoes are extra large, plenty weighing two pounds.

It would be no trouble to pick from Mr. Morgan's bins 2000 potatoes, almost at random that would weight a ton.

Yes, we have coal! Orders promptly filled. P. J. Melady.—adv.

The Girls' Club of Jewett City is rehearsing for a high class minstrel and musical melange, under the direction of E. Joseph LaFrance, a man of wide experience in the theatrical world as an actor, singer and musician. This event is expected to surpass anything ever attempted in Jewett City as a local entertainers' production. The profits of the entertainment are to be used to buy furniture for the club.

Mrs. Harriett Ingraham Tillinghast, who died Friday in Lisbon, at the home of her niece Mrs. Clarence Mell, formerly lived in Jewett City. She was a frequent visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Cheney, where she had furnished rooms, having owned the house until recently. She was a member of Faith Chapter O. E. S.

While living here some years ago, she suffered a great bereavement in the loss of her only child, a young man Henry Tillinghast, who was drowned in the Ashland pond. Later her husband, John Tillinghast, died in Jewett City.

Deputy Sheriff John T. Dolan, was called to Lisbon Sunday afternoon to break up a crapshooting game, which he found in full blast, by the side of the Newent state road, just west of E. B. Cheney's residence. The sheriff scooped in a hat-full of bills and change and arrested five men all from Jewett City, who will appear before Justice of the Peace George Humboldt of the Town of Lisbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin S. Davis were in Forest Hills, Boston, Sunday, to attend the funeral of the former's uncle, Frank B. Davis for many years a resident of Jewett City. Besides his wife two daughters, both natives of Jewett City, survive him, Mrs. Eunice Beardsley of Michigan, and Mrs. James Smith of Jamaica Plain, Mass., Mr. Davis for the greater part of his life was a teacher of penmanship, connected with several eastern business colleges, and for the last few years had conducted a business of his own in the John Hancock Building, Boston. He was a great lover of athletics, and a promoter of swimming and outdoor sports. Death came as the result of heart trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Gardiner, and Mr. and Mrs. Benj. R. Gardiner, enjoyed visits Sunday from Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maines and children John, Paul and Lois and Mrs. Grace Maines and daughter Evelyn of Wyoming, R. I.

Mrs. Walter A. Richardson, returned to her home here Saturday. Early in September she was severely injured in an automobile accident on the Plymouth road, just east of Middleboro and was a patient for several weeks in hospitals at Middleboro and Clinton, Mass. Her many home friend are rejoiced that her recovery is assured.

Mrs. Emma Field Hyde, widow of Edward Hyde, died early Sunday morning at the home of Mrs. Ida Benjamin, Mrs. Hyde was born in Norwich and later lived in Wyoming, R. I. For years, her home was with her aunt, Mrs. William Johnson, in Lisbon. Later she married Edward Hyde, of Lisbon. After his death, she lived in the home of Mrs. Ida Benjamin, where she has received the most devoted care for fifteen years. Although she was advanced in years, her mind, hearing and sight were perfect. She leaves no near relatives. Mrs. Hyde was the daughter of Stephen and Lydia Lathrop Field.

PLAINFIELD

The Lincoln club held its first meeting of the season in the Congregational vestry with a good, enthusiastic attendance. The fine supper was served by Daniel Connell and Edward King, young men waiting on the tables. The address of the evening was given by Rev. Harry S. McCready of Willimantic Congregational church. It was a Man's Message to Men, sparkling with wit and humor, but with keen, vital truths which arrested the thought and reached the heart, affording an inspiration to all. Mr. McCready was accompanied by two of his parishoners, A. C. Everest and Mr. Aldrich. The entertainment consisted of a musical programme in charge of James Royle, and was as follows: Banjo and piano duet, Misses Eva and Rose Higginbottom; piano and violin selection by Harold R. Barstow and Joseph Shipple.

The business was of unusual interest, especially the reports of the electric light committee and the road committee. Dr. William E. Wilson and Edward Hall, chairmen. Following the reports, Herman B. Chapman gave a brief but interesting talk on his four thousand mile trip to Wisconsin, going out over the Lincoln highway and returning by the Williams Penn highway, and attending in Windom, Wis., the county fair. The president, Ray W. Greene, announced the speaker for the November meeting and brought up the matter of the bazaar to be given by the church. The men unanimously voted to co-operate, as they did last year. Several new members were admitted.

A special night was observed at Plainfield grange signalizing visits from Wold Den and Senexet granges. The following interesting programme was presented by the visiting granges: Recitation, Worthy Master White, Senexet; song, Brother Cardinal, of Wolf Den; violin solo Sister Maher of Senexet; reading, Sister Haines of Wolf Den; Story of Travey, Brother Wells of Senexet; dedication of Wolf Den, Sister Covel; Toast to the Boys of Senexet and Wolf Den, Brother E. E. Brown.

The home grange served a salad supper which was greatly enjoyed by all. The grange of Preston City has extended an invitation to Plainfield grange to visit that grange the 13th of November.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Veary of Montreal are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Butterworth and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Struthers. Mrs. Collins of Baltic is also a guest at the home of Mrs. Struthers.

Miss Arianna Cook of Jewett City who has been visiting Mrs. William Harvey, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bibeau spent the week end in Worcester, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cheney and Miss Grace Cheney of Moosup were recent guests of Mrs. Clara Beaudry.

LIBERTY HILL

Mrs. John Kinnaird was in New Haven over the week end, the guest of her son and his wife.

Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Woolworth and Ada Davis attended the national council of Congregational ministers held in Springfield, Mass. They were gone a week. While away they visited Mr. Woolworth's sister, Miss Ella Woolworth, in Westville, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. J. George Clark spent the week end with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Lewis, in Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clarke are spending a week with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sheffield, in Worcester. Mr. Sheffield is a retired railroad man.

The Christian Endeavor society conducted the services at the Liberty Hill church Sunday evening. There was no preaching service, as the pastor, Rev. W. S. Woolworth, was away.

Mrs. Mary Thompson of Northboro, Mass., who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. O. W. Gurley, the past three months, returned home last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Davoll motored to Worcester Sunday to see Mrs. Davoll's aunt, Mrs. Francis Bellware, who has been ill but is recovering.

Miss Rena Turner is employed in New London.

A girls' club of Willimantic had a chicken supper at the church rooms Thursday evening which was provided by the C. E. society. There were about 40 present.

Mrs Annie M Davoll and two women friends of New Bedford, Mass., motored to Liberty Hill, Andover and Mansfield Wednesday and made a short visit with Mrs. Davoll's relatives.

GOSHEN

A number from here were in attendance at the splendid organ recital given by Professor Baldwin at the Congregational church in Colchester.

Hallowe'en was anticipated at the meeting of the Goshen Community club Wednesday evening. A program of readings and games was enjoyed. There was a display of old-time Jack o' lanterns or pumpkin moonshines. The refreshments consisted of home-made country gingerbread, McIntosh apples and sweet cider.

Through the extension work of Connecticut Agricultural college Mrs. Baker gave a demonstration of home economics in Academy hall Thursday, Oct. 18th.

Farmers are busy husking.

W. H. Kneeland, his son-in-law and daughter and two grandchildren of Hartford attended church service here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wooding and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edwin Wooding, of North Haven, were recent guests of friends here.

Some of the most picturesque scenery in eastern Connecticut the past week was the view of Franklin valley from the summit of Meeting House Hill.

GURLEYVILLE

E. A. Walker, who has been visiting relatives in Southbridge, Mass., returned home with Mr. and Mrs. Harwood in their automobile.

Samuel Morse with his family and Miss Arlene Dunham took an automobile trip the first of the week, visiting friends in Thompson.

Miss Arlene Dunham sprained her ankle very badly last Sunday.

Edward Walker is spending a few days on Knowlton Hill.

Miss Marion Lee, who has been visiting friends in New Haven the past two weeks, returned home Thursday.

George Watson has finished sawing logs here for Maine & Son.

POETRY FOR THE WIDEAWAKES
HOW THE LEAVES CAME DOWN

"I'll tell you how the leaves came down,"
The great tree to his children said,
"You're quite sleepy, Yellow and Brown,
Yes, very sleepy, little Red;
It is time to go to bed."

"Ah!" begged each silly, pouting leaf,
"Let us a little longer stay,
Dear Father Tree, behold our grief!
'Tis such a very pleasant day,
We do not want to go away.

So, for just one more merry day
To the great tree the leaflets clung,
Frolicked and danced and had their way,
Upon the Autumn breezes swung,
Whispering all their sports among.

"Perhaps the great tree will forget
And let us stay until the spring,
If we all beg, and coax, and fret."
But the great tree did no such thing;
He smiled to hear their whispering.

"Come, children, all to bed!" he cried,
And ere the leaves could urge their prayer
He shook his head, and far and wide,
Fluttering and rustling everywhere,
Down sped the leaflets through the air.

I saw them; on the ground they lay,
Golden and Red, a huddled swarm,
Waiting till one from far away,
Should come to wrap them safe and warm.
The great bare Tree looked down and smiled,
"Good night, dear little leaves," he said,
And from below each sleepy child
Replied, "Good night," and murmured:
"It is so nice to go to bed!"

THE INDIGO BIRD

Dear bird, thy light, untiring little song
Comes tinkling to my ear the whole day long—
Those days when life hath gained a richer tune;
When weedy hills, but ankle deep in June
Submerge the knee, and as we saunter down
Toward the stream sink waist, chest, shoulder, crown
Below the ever-lasting floral tide,
Until beneath the wave of bloom we hide—
Days when the meadow buzzes, chirps and creaks,
As though pent sound had found a myriad leaks;
And when the night from fireflies' fitful gleams,
An interweaving constellation seems.
Those days are thine, thou handsome lake-blue mote,
Bound captive in thy slender, lisping note.
But when the sun in glory seeks its rest
And earth hath most of heaven on its breast,
'Tis then, light hearted one, I love the best.
For o'er the glwoing mead I see thee rise
On mounting wing toward the luminous skies;
Then, motionless of feather, downward glide,
Spreading thy happy notes on ev'ry side
This golden hour hath brought to thee and me
A taste of heaven's own serenity.
—Henry Oldys

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO WIDE-AWAKES

Many boys and girls and many members of the Wideawakes have pets of one kind of another. Most of them have a cat or a dog. Some have a pony, rabbits, guinea pigs, birds, sheep or squirrels.

Probably they take care to see that they get enough to eat, for feeding them is one of the pleasures. But do they take care to see that they are properly guarded against the cold in winter time? That is one thing which there should be particular.

Your cat and your dog have thick fur in the winter time and they have thick hides also, but they need a warm place to sleep quite the same as others do. They ought not to be be left to shift for themselves to find a bed where they can, or to get partial shelter against the storms and the north wind. And this is true of all animals even the horse, the cow, the sheep, the chickens. It isn't right to say that anything will do for them. They cannot have the cosy beds and be tucked in like you boys and girls, but they should have tight barns, kennels, coops or sheds with good bedding. The rains, snow, sleet and wind should be barred out just as much as possible.

The need of displaying kindness to animals is probably understood by the Wideawakes, but kindness extends to protection against the cold and storms of winter event as it does against hunger. To let them suffer is that cruel treatment from which you should refrain, and it is well to think about it and plan against it before the real cold months of winter arrive. The animals know when they are well treated and they show their appreciation by being better animals and pets.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES.

The North Wind and the Sun.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the north wind and the sun.

One day the wind and the sun were disputing about who was the stronger. While they were disputing, a traveler passed by. They both agreed that the one who could make the man take his coat off would be the stronger. The wind blew and blew but this only made the man hold his coat more tightly around him. Then the wind said, "See what you can do, Sun."

The sun shone and shone. The man, feeling the warm sun shine, unbuttoned his coat and finally took it off and laid down under a tree to rest.

Who do you think is stronger? I think that the sun is stronger because he made the man take off his coat.

MILDRED VEGIARD, Age 8.
Jewett City.

An Exciting Fire.

Dear Uncle Jed: The meadow larks were singing and flowers bloomed everywhere in all varieties. The streets of this sleepy village were occupied only by a few small folks who were interested in their games only. Everything was calm.

Suddenly a shrill whistle blew and people ran excitedly from their residences. A large fire engine hurried through the streets to a tall building. The flames peeped from the windows and the smoke streamed plentifully.

At last the fire was extinguished and no one was injured and so the exciting day passed on.

EMMA DUGAS, Age 11.
Jewett City.

A Little Child.

Dear Uncle Jed: The sun was just setting beyond the hills. The happy children with books under arms were hastening to their homes. Their smiling faces met the tender and loving look of their mother. As they entered the house the children had new stories to tell their mother.

In the midst fo this happy group of youngsters one child drew my attention. As she was crossing the road she met, face to face, a crippled old man who was begging alms. Little Grace, touched with pity, immediately opened her little purse and drew forth a fifty-cent coin. She placed it in the old man's hand, who thanked her most heartily. This good girl with a light heart and beaming countenance, ran home.

ELSIE JACOBS, Age 12.
Jewett City.

Our Picnic.

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to join the Wide-Awake Circle. I'm going to write about our picnic.

Before the school was ended we had a picnics. All the schoolchildren and the teacher were at the picnic. We went to Mohegan Park in an automobile. The first thing I went to see was a monkey and after that I saw a peacock, deer, rabbits, chickens and ducks. We went on the swings, and had some fun. Then it was time for us to eat our lunch. We had sandwiches, ice cream, cake, cookies and lemonade. When we started to go to Mohegan park it was half past nine. We came back at 5 o'clock. We were very tired, but happy.

Yours truly,
HELEN IDZKOWSKI, Age 13.
North Franklin.

Learning to Fight.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you so I will let you know something about my learning to fight.

I take a bag full of straw, tie it to a bough of a tree with a long rope and begin to punch it. Then I punch harder and harder until I break the rope. Sometimes this fight lasts for a few hours. When I am tired punching I take the bag down. My brother, who is 17 years old, takes another bag full of straw and then we hit each other with the bags. I can oppose him for some time but when I am tired then I lose. This is all about my learning to fight.

I hope this story will interest the Wide-Awakes.

Your friend,
FRANK JACARSO, Age 12.
Preston.

Christmas Eve.

Dear Uncle Jed: One night on Christmas eve, I hung up my stockings by the fireplace and went to sleep. But nothing else was on my mind but the present. I got up early in the morning and looked in my stockings, and guess what I found? At the bottom was an orange and a box of candy. I was very glad that Santa Claus gave me a box of candy because I like candy very much.

Your friend,
MARGARET MIKLOJCIK, Age 11.
Colchester.

My Pumpkins.

Dear Uncle Jed: My pumpkins are big. I cover them up every night. They aren't all ripe, but some of them are ripe. They are in the garden now. A rabbit lives underneath them.

Yours truly,
HORACE E. BITGOOD, Age 7.
Voluntown.

Our Squirrels.

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to write and tell you about the gray squirrels in our walnut tree. There are three of them. I saw them twice. They take the walnuts and run down the fence. I saw a squirrel fall last night. My brother went with me.

I like to read the Wide-Awake letters very much.

I will say good-bye.
MARGARET L. BITGOOD, Age 8.
Voluntown.

A Lesson For Brother.

Dear Uncle Jed: One beautiful day in the fall a little boy named James was seen sitting on a chair by the window in a kitchen of a farmhouse. He was very lonesome for there was no one to play with. His mother and brother were away, his father was at work in the fields, and his older sister was busy sweeping. As he sat there looking out and thinking of what to do, he noticed how many dry leaves were on the ground and how many more were falling. He went out to see if he could not have some fun with them. After tumbling about in them for some time he made a large pile of leaves. He went in the house for some matches and as he was going out his sister (her name was Mabel) came into the kitchen. She looked out of the window to see if she could see James. She not only saw him, but she saw the flames leaping in the leaves. How happy James was! He was clapping his hands and laughing. Mabel snatched the pail of water and ran out and threw it on the fire. James began to cry because she had put out his fire, but she told him that if she hadn't done so the whole house, shed, barn and also the woods could have caught on fire and she explained to him what a lot of harm could have been done. This was a lesson to him about playing with fire and he never wanted to play with matches or anything that would cause fire again.

ALICE ABRAHAMSON, Age 13.
Preston.

The Orchis Family.

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write the rest of the story of the Orchis.

The pink lady's slipper or moccasin flower has one flower, surmounting a scape from 8 to 13 inches high; lip large, drooping pink, with a slit in front, instead of a circular opening as in others. It grows in dry woods and may be found from southern Canada southward.

Next comes the yellow orchis, an attractive and rather common orchis with a tall leafy stem from 12 to 24 inches high. The spike is very closely set with flowers, having rounded petals, fringed lips, and slender spurs about an inch in length. It is found from Maine to Michigan and southward.

Then comes the Hooker's orchis. It had a leafless scape from 6 to 12 inches high, at the base of which are two broad, oval shining, deep green leaves. The ten to twenty flowers are yellowish-green. It flowers during June and July in woods from Maine to Minnesota and south to North Carolina.

Ragged fringed orchis is not very pretty. The greenish-white flowers are in a dense many-flowered raceme at the summit of a leafy stem from 10 to 20 inches high. This species is not uncommon in swamps from Newfoundland to Minnesota and southward.

I have 3306 wild flowers so far this year.

Hoping Uncle Jed and all the Wide-Awakes are well, will write again soon.

MARY L. MAYNARD, Age 11.
Norwich Town.

The Fickle Pine Tree.

Dear Uncle Jed: A little fir tree stood by the wayside, looking discontentedly about, longing to be unlike all other trees that she could see about her.

At first she said: "Oh, how my needles look! I wish they could become leaves of gold, then how every tree would envy me." After she had wished this she looked at her needles and gave a cry of delight because her wish had come true.

Coming up the road she saw two boys. They reached the fir and said, "Ah, we have no further place to go to make our fortune," and began to strip the tree of its golden leaves.

"Just look what they have done," she wailed. "Oh, I wish my needles were of glass!" Immediately her needles became of glass, but just then a storm of hail came and broke all of them.

"Oh, dear, did you ever see such a wreck of my pretty glass needles," said the sorrowing fir tree. "If my leaves were only like other tree leaves I should be happy."

Almost instantly she looked and beheld her needles and they looked exactly like the trees that were near her.

A goat feeding near noticed the tree and came over and began eating on the fresh green foliage until it had stripped the tree of all its leaves.

At last she said, "I am through wishing that my needles were different than they were made and after all needles are the best.

Your friend,
ESTELLA BAND, Age 13.
Preston.

Africa.

Dear Uncle Jed: If I had a thousand dollars I would go to Africa.

In Africa are many interesting things. I would go on many excursions in the jungle to see the bright colored parrots and probably some monkeys. When there are hunts I would like to join them. I would see how the fruit trees grow and see how the fruit tastes when it is fresh. I would be able to go to a tribe of Black people if they are near by and be able to understand their ways better than from a geography. There are huge elephants and I would like to see them work. In the jungle are beautiful flowers and many queer plants. There are also many fish and I would take back a few kinds of them and also I would bring back some of the skins of the animals there.

These are the reasons I would like to go to Africa.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Saved By a Dwarf.

"I will reward you for what you've done," said the grateful bear whom Little Jack Rabbit had helped in the last story, you remember, and untying the bundle, he took out a little silver whistle. "Here, take this," he said, "and if you are ever in trouble, blow upon it three times." Then, picking up the bundle he walked off into the woods.

By and by, after a while, Little Jack Rabbit met a fierce looking tiger cat, with eyes as yellow as flames and teeth as long as spikes.

"Ha, ha!" growled the big cruel beast,
"Now indeed I'll have a fine feast.
A nice tender bunny, and a pony that's fat.
Now, which do I fancy the least?"

But while he was trying to decide the bunny boy blew on his silver whistle three times but no more for he always believed in following the directions on the medicine bottle exactly and before you could say "Jumping Jupiter" or "Dancing Dido," a little dwarf jumped out of the bushes waving a sharp sword.

Goodness gracious me! When that terrible tiger cat saw what might happen to him if he waited to be introduced, he turned tail and fled into the woods without even saying goodbye.

"Thank you, master dwarf," said Little Jack Rabbit gratefully, "you have saved my life."

"That's what I came for," replied the little man, sheathing his sword. "I will tell Lord Bruin that you are safe," and he disappeared as suddenly as he came.

"So that's the name of the bear," thought the little rabbit, but Dapple Gray said nothing, just threw out his heels and galloped away and by and by, after a while he came to a cross-road where stood a tall sign post on which was painted in big blue letters:

"To the South, Candy Town;
To the North, Mr. Brown;
To the West, Robin's Nest;
To the East, Mince Pie Feast!"

"The first and last sound the best to me," cried Little Jack Rabbit.

"Very well," answered Dapple Gray. "We'll go East if it's all the same to you. I'm fond of pie, especially mince," and away galloped the little pony and by and by, not so very long, he stopped at a baker shop where about a hundred little bakers were making mince pies for the fairies. Nobody but a fairy could buy one and oh, dear me! Wasn't the bunny boy disappointed. So, what do you think he did. He blew on his little silver whistle and in the next story I'll

—A chocolate candy mouse
Doesn't nibble up my house,

I'll tell you what happened after that.

DANIELSON

SUDDEN DEATH SATURDAY OF JUDGE M. A. SHUMWAY.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Oct. 21.

Judge M. A. Shumway, 75, Danielson's most distinguished citizen, died suddenly at his home here early Saturday evening. Under the treatment of a physician for only two days, and his illness not regarded as serious, the end came almost without warning and astonished the public. Judge Shumway had been under treatment for indigestion the latter part of the week. Saturday evening his condition became aggravated and he died almost without warning of the approaching end, as the result of cerebral hemorrhage.

During the past week Judge Shumway was about town as usual and apparently in his accustomed health. There was absolutely no indication that his death was so near at hand. He was active and as keen as ever, in close touch with the doings of the world and seemed destined for years more of life. These facts make his death particularly impressive throughout the community where he had lived his life and attained to great distinction in his profession. The entire town of Killingly will feel a sense of loss in the passing of Judge Shumway. A great jurist, a kindly man, sympathetic, interested in his native town and its doings and in its people, he occupied a special place in the affections of the townsmen, and to them he rendered much valuable public service as much through his neighborliness as through a sense of civic duty. This was appreciated, though there may have been no public expression of the fact, and Killingly in considering his death is deeply sensible of the great loss it has sustained—a loss generally regarded as beyond measure. Killingly was proud of the place of honor Judge Shumway had achieved as a member of the Bar of Connecticut and of his splendid record of service to the commonwealth.

Milton Adelbert Shumway, a former supreme court justice of Connecticut, traced his ancestry to Peter Shumway, who was of Huguenot stock and who was born in France in 1635. He came to America between 1660 and 1675, settling in Topsfield, Mass., and records show his name on the list of colonial soldiers at a date as early as 1675, approximately a century before the Revolution. In direct line of descent from this colonial resident was Noah Shumway, father of Judge Shumway, who came to Danielson in 1846, and was engaged here in the woolen business. Judge Shumway's mother was Miss Elizabeth Hill Stiness, descendant of a colonial family whose home was at Marblehead, Mass. Noah Shumway and Miss Stiness had been married a number of years before the family came to Danielson to reside. Judge Shumway being born August 30, 1848, the year the family located here.

Judge Shumway supplemented his public school training in Danielson by study at Phillips Exeter academy and entered Harvard university in 1869. Later he studied law in the office of Judge Albert Mason, of the superior court of Massachusetts, at Plymouth, and then in the office of Judge Earl Martin, of the superior court of this state, here in Danielson. He was admitted to the bar in 1874 and practiced in Danielson until 1894, when he was appointed by Governor Morris a judge of the superior court for a term of eight years. This appointment was followed by another appointment of eight years from Governor George P. McLean and still another by Governor Lilly. In 1917, Governor Marcus H. Holcomb appointed Judge Shumway a justice of the supreme court of errors and he continued to serve until August 30, 1918, when he was retired upon reaching the age limit of 70 years. Since then he has rendered the state much valuable service as a state referee and in taking special sessions of the superior court as pressure of business required the services of additional jurists.

Throughout his judicial career Judge Shumway's perception, clearness of vision and intellectual capabilities and his splendidly adapted temperment served toward the making of his remarkable record on the bench.

Politically, Judge Shumway was a republican. In 1886 and in 1887 he represented Killingly in the state legislature, being chairman of the judiciary committee and leader of the house during the session of 1887. In 1890 he was sent to the senate from this senatorial district and served through the famous deadlock session.

Judge Shumway was a member and an official of St. Alban's Episcopal church. Fraternally, he was identified with Moriah lodge, No. 15, A. F. and A. M., of which he was a past master; with Montgomery council, No. 4, R. and S. M., and of Columbian Commandery, K. T., of Norwich.

He was president of the Harvard club of Connecticut, in 1914. He was a member of the Windham County Bar association, a director of the Windham County National bank and of the Bohemian club of Danielson.

March 7, 1876, Judge Shumway was united in marriage with Miss Mary Adeline Woodward, a native of Canterbury and a daughter of Sylvanus M. and Hannah Lucas Woodward. Mrs. Shumway survives her husband, who was the last of his family.

A light touring car owned and driven by Norman Ross of Broad street was demolished Saturday afternoon when struck by a big motor truck heavily loaded with ice, going down Waterman's hill, a score of miles east of here on the state road leading to Providence. Mr. Ross and the members of his party, Mrs. Bertrand Lindner and her daughters—Beatrice, Dorcas and Marjorie, escaped with some bruises and a tossing about. Mr. Ross was driving down the hill en route to Providence, when a big truck owned by a Providence Ice company came coasting down the hill from behind his machine. It afterwards developed that the driver of the ice truck swung his ponderous machine out to pass the Ross car when he saw a closed car coming up the hill and sensing that he must hit either the approaching car or the Ross car ahead of him, swung the big machine back and it crashed into the Danielson car, throwing it in turn against the closed machine. In the meantime the truck plunged off the road and into a nearby field.

The Ross car lost three wheels in the crash and is otherwise so damaged that there was a question Sunday whether it could be profitably repaired. The machine was left in a yard, near where the accident occurred.

It was matter of satisfaction that no employe was injured, Saturday morning, when a section of broken pulley shot up through the floor into the carding and spooling department in the Quinebaug mill, from the wheelhouse, ripped a creel off a warper and then crashed against the side wall of the room, while another piece smashed through a window. A number of employes were in the vicinity when the accident occurred, but no one was injured in any way. Two large pulleys actually were broken, one of these being a little more than five feet in diameter, the other a little over two and a half feet, while each had a 28-inch face. The breaking of one is believed to have caused the other to let go. The pulleys were part of the equipment driving a 200 K. W. generator from power derived direct from the water wheels. Temporary rearrangement of the power system will allow the plant to operate as usual today (Monday) and permanent repairs are to be made forthwith.

Mrs. Phoebe Ella Snow, 75, widow of Joseph Snow, died at her home here Saturday. Mrs. Snow, a resident here for many years, has been in poor health for several months. For several years past she has spent much of her time at the home of her cousin in Whitinsville, but had been here giving attention to her property for some time. Her illness covered a period of about ten days. Mrs. Snow was born in the neighboring town of Foster, a daughter of Olney and Phoebe Jones Goodspeed. She was a member of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Snow leaves no relatives nearer than cousins and a nephew. Her husband has been dead more than a score of years.

Though no official report had been received on the matter here, it was understood Sunday that a car that figured in an accident at Chop Mist hill, Saturday afternoon, is owned in Killingly. An Oakland touring car, shooting out of the Chepachet road into the Danielson-Providence road directly in the path of the Killingly machine, which was heading toward Providence, was reducde to wreckage and a man and a woman were so badly injured they had to be removed to a Providence hospital. Two children in the car were only slightly hurt. The driver of the Killingly car, which escaped material damage, was not held accountable for the accident. Solitute citizens were brought up over this accident, contending that a traffic officer should be on duty at the point Saturdays and Sundays, as accidents are constantly occurring there.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Arrigan were visitors in Providence Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Shea visited Providence relatives Sunday.

Judging by reports of discharging shotguns, all were not obeying the law against Sunday hunting yesterday. Territory east of here seemed to be favored by the Sunday hunters.

Louis C. Benz of Brockton was a visitor with friends in Danielson over Sunday.

The men's mission closed Sunday afternoon at St. James' church and in the evening the mission for the English-speaking people was opened. There were large congregations at both these special services.

Streams and ponds in this territory have made material gains as the result of the rain of the past few days. Promise of more rain came Sunday afternoon, with a change of wind into the northeast.

PUTNAM

Thomas Dobson, of this city, a graduate of Putnam High school, plans to conduct a camp on Cape Cop next summer. Mr. Dobson has acquired a well known camp at Newtown, formerly the summer home of a prominent Boston man. The place will be opened next summer as a summer camp, including a rest camp for business men, a boys' camp and a girls' camp. The ication is convenient to Boston and Providence. The camp adjoins Cotgit and includes 280 acres with 3,000 foot water front. There are two farmhouses with the outbuildings and four bungalows in the camp proper. Mr. Dobson has gone to Newtown and will remain there through the winter perfecting plans and an organization for next season. The past summer he attempted his first venure of this kind, a boys' camp at Crystal Lake, Eastford.

The director of the campaign for the Nurses' Home fund of Day Kimball hospital, John J. Whitehead, Jr., has turned over to the treasurer of the hospital, Charles H. Brown, a check for $15,656.42 which, with $100 which remains on hand and the sum of $5,991.65 collected prior to the recent campaign, makes the general total of the fund, $21,748.13. Of this amount, $1,383.20 was realized from the street fair. A number of pledges made have not yet been paid. The objective of the campaign, $20.00 was reached and passed but more needs to be raised to pay for the building proposed. In view of this the books of the fund will be kept open for further contributions.

George A. Gardner, for the past four years superintendent of the Nighingale-Morse Mills, Inc., with mills in the city up to a few weeks ago, when thew were sold and closed down, has gone to Crompton, R. I., to become assistant superintendent of the Crompton company, under Manager Frank A. Richmond. Mr. Gardner was with the Crompton concern for 27 years previous to coming to Putnam. It was Mr. Richmond, who was also manager of the Putnam mills, who sent Mr. Gardner to Putnam as superintendent. Now that the mill has been closed Mr. Richmond takes Mr. Gardner back to the Crompton company where he will have charge of the cotton side of the industry, also of the mill village and the mill farm.

Mrs. Jesse E. Rich entertained at bridge at her home on Grove street Saturday evening. Three tables were in play. Refreshments were served.

There was a big powwow at Wappaquasset Tribe of Red Men in their wigwam on Pomfret street, Saturday evening, in honor of the sixth anniversary of the founding of the local tribe, which now numbers 150. An elaborate entertainment programme was listened to and a fine supper was served.

Frederick Bousquet, president, Alexis Bibeault, vice president, Paul Dufault, financial secretary, Frederic Labonte, recording secretary and Lewis H. Mathieu, treasurer of the Putnam Manufacturing company club, were installed Saturday evening, in the club rooms in the north end of the city. It was the second anniversary of the club and was fittingly observed.

This (Monday) morning the Putnam Woolen Company, Pomfret street, starts the erection of a hydro-electric plant which, when completed, will result in furnishing electrical power to run its mill.

The company owns a fine water privilege near the dam at Cargill Falls and for years depended upon water entirelly. When the river was low the mill had to shut down and much valuable time was lost. Some years ago the company arranged with the Putnam Light & Power Company to furnish electricity as an auxiliary power, which overcame the difficulty experienced during the dry season.

In carrying out present plans, a new water wheel will be installed close by the old wheel which has been in use since 1872. This will be used to drive an electric generator for the development of electric power and the whole will be housed in a new brick power house. The plant will develop approximately 375 horse power. This will be more than sufficient to run the machinery of the mill.

Th liquor dealers of Putnam, who recently were convicted and who served fifteen day jail sentences, have been notified through the office of State's Attorney Charles E. Searls, that their bars must be dismantled. The order is generally being complied with. This action is brought under the federal law which empowers the county courts to bring injunctins to have places closed where intoxicating liquor has been sold contrary to law. The orders have been oral, but if not obeyed will be followed by legal action. The statute declares that such places are nuisances. The federal prosecutors or the state prosecutors may seek injunctions to restrain such places from being kept open. After hearing, if the injunction is sustained, the court may order such places closed or may require a bond that no intoxicating liquor will again be sold.

H. Nelson Street, secretary of the Retail Merchants' division of the Providence Chamber of Commerce will be th speaker at the next meeting of the Putnam Chamber of Commerce, Monday evening, October 29th. Chairman Ralph C. Jenkins of the entertainment committee, with committee members is making elaborate plans for the meeting. Mr. Street will speak on "Credits." He is an authority on the subjects.

The Parent-Teachers' association is to hold a meeting in the high school gymnasium, Tuesday evening. The meeting will be in the form of a Hallowe'en party. The evening will open with a reception for the new teachers, to be followed by Hallowe'en games. Refreshments will be served. The meeting is public.

STEPHEN BRADY, SPANISH WAR DIES AT HIS HOME SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Oct. 21.—Stephen Brady, 47, long a resident of this city and very well known, died at his home on church street Sunday. Mr. Brady had been in failing health for some time, but announcement of his death came as a surprize generally throughout the city.

Mr. Brady was a veteran of the Spanish-American war. He had been employed in and about Putnam the greater part of his life. He leaves his father, John Brady, a brother, William and four sisters—Elizabeth, Sarah, Rachel and Mrs. Edward Irving.

WESTERLY

Hiker Memorial Bazaar, conducted under the auspices of Robert Brucker Camp, Spanish War Veterans opened Saturday night, at Westerly Town hall. A street parade was held headed by the Westerly Band, with St. Michael's Boy Scout Drum Corps and Robert Brucker Camp when the principle streets of the town were traversed. The attendance for the opening night was very good. The Hiker Memorial will consist of a Granite boulder surmounted by the bronze figure of the Hiker, a soldier figure of a U. S. Army man in the Spanish War. When completed the memorial will be erected in Wilcox Park, probably near the Granite street entrance.

Because they bought a dog, fixed an automobile and drank some cider, especially the last, three Stonington residents got into trouble and made their appearance in Stonington Town Court before Judge William A. Wilcox Friday morning. It happened in Old Mystic that the three men having purchased the dog devoted their efforts to repairing an automobile, for which they were treated to cider. So potent was the beverage that the three men became intoxicated, their condition becoming such that Officer Robert M. Williams of Mystic was called to Old Mystic to take the men into custody. Clarence Johnson and Oscar Grear were presented by Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna on a charge of intoxication, while Albert Fischer was charged with operating an automobile while in an intoxicated condition. Pleading guilty to the intoxication charge, each man was fined and with costs paid a bill of $19.35. To the operating charge, the plea of guilty was entered and fine and costs were pair, amounting to $118.35.

Frank Venette, formerly manager of the Bliven Opera House, leaves Westerly, Wednesday for a trip to Canada, making his headquarters at Toronto.

A gang of floor-layers from Providence began the work of laying the nearly five thousand square feet of new maple flooring in the Woolworth store, which they expect to have laid in two days' time. The new Fifth Avenue Electric Light Fixtures are rapidly being installed, the new metal ceiling having been completed. With the installation of new counters the appearance of the store will be very attractive.

The Smith Granite Company began about a month ago to pump water from its disused quarry hole nearest Granite street and have now lowered the water level sixty feet. An electric pump on a raft works day and night, the water beingc arried under Granite street and through the brook on the Vose property, down Quarry Hill. It was from this quarry hole that the Wilcox Park lake received its water supply.

George R. Salb left Westerly for a visit with his son, Chester Salb and family in Providence.

Dr. Thomas E. Robinson was in Apponaug Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses A. Lowry of Wharton, N. J., are guests of relatives and friends in Westerly over the week end. They were in attendance at the Stearns-Baker wedding in New London Saturday afternoon.

STONINGTON-MYSTIC ARRESTS—COURT SESSION SUNDAY MORNI

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., Oct. 21.—Four arrests were made in liquor raids in Stonington Saturday night. In the Road district, the place of Matthias Grastar, commonly known as "161 Ranch," was visited about 10.30 o'clock and 150 gallons of home brew beer was reported found.

The two places of John M. Haslin in Mystic were also visited, one a grocery store on Greenmanville avenue, the other a store at 9 Williams street. At these places it is reported that a small amount of liquor was found.

In Stonington, the house at 11 Water street was visited and there alcohol was said to have been found. Frank Rogers and Manuel Monig were placed under arrest. A still was also reported found but was said not to be the property of the men arrested.

The raids were made under the direction of Prosecuting Attorney Geo. R. McKenna and were conducted by Constables Charles B. McCoart, Murphy and Robert McWilliams.

A special session of Stonington town court was held by Judge William A. Wilcox, early Sunday morning when the men were presented. Matt las Grasier of the Road district was held in $4,000 bail for a hearing in Stonington town court this (Monday) morning, R. M. Delagrange becoming his surety. Hazlin was released in $4,000 bonds furnished by his wife, Annie Hazlin. Bail for the other two defendants was not forthcoming Sunday morning and these continued to be detained in the Stonington lockup.

BONUS BLOCKING LOWER TAXES

That the bonus is to be brought up again in the coming session of congress is clearly indicated. There is opposition to it throughout the country, there is opposition to it in congress and there is opposition to it among the members of the American Legion which is supporting it.

This country closed the last fiscal year with a substantial surplus. It has paid off $750,000,000 of its war indebtedness in the past year and it is in a position now where it can safely reduce federal taxes. The country is seeking such relief but there is opposition to such a movement on the part of leading members of congress because they feel that a bonus measure is to be pushed through and the amount which existing taxes would extract from the people, but which might be eliminated, will be required to meet the drain from a bonus measure. That is, such will be the case unless there is a provision incorporated calling for a sales tax or some similar means of raising revenue to take care of a bonus. Opposition to a sales tax or a special tax of any kind for the raising of the bonus requirement is just as strong as that being displayed toward the whole idea of a bonus. It is in fact no more probable that such a tax will be laid than in the last congress, but the threatening possibilities of a bonus compels those in charge of financial matters to insist upon keeping other taxes where they are that the means of meeting it may be available.

Thus instead of relieving the little fellow paying on incomes up to $3,000 or so some of their burden of $100,000,000 yearly there is this sentiment supporting a bonus because of the political benefit that is expected to accrue therefrom.

Members of congress may well give consideration to that sentiment which was expressed by the bonus opponents in the American Legion convention: "For the disabled, everything; for the ablebodied, nothing," and the declaration of an ex-service man that "We are opposed to the granting of any form of bonus to able bodied ex-service men on the ground that to serve a country in time of war is a privilege as well as a duty, and to seek a material reward therefore is an act repugnant to the spirit of true patriotism and a violation of the true principles of American citizenship."

SHIPPING BOARD CHANGES.

A series of experiments has been carried on by the government through the shipping board with the view to keeping our merchant marine as busy as possible. It was realized that it would not be an effort that would show a profit to the government. The best that could be hoped was to reduce the loss and through the various changes losses have been cut, new lines established and some of the ships have been operated successfully.

All this has been made necessary because of the position in which the government found itself relative to ships. Inability to sell that at a figure which would escape giving them away made government operation under some plan necessary, even though the desire to get away from government operation and to dispose of the ships has been repeatedly emphasized.

While one plan has been giving away to another in the hopes of bettering the results, the ship subsidy legislation has been sidetracked and the idea of turning the operations over to other corporations to run, with the government interested, was found to be unconstitutional.

Nevertheless there is a desire to get away from the manager agent system whereby the government pays a percentage on the gross business, the government standing the loss. The new experiment involves the placing of the ships on certain routes under the direction of members of the shipping board and members of the board direct the expenditures and there is established a better business control of the vessels.

Whether the plan is extended to more of the vessels will depend upon the results of this experiment. If all works' out as expected there should be a pleasing reduction in the deficit which is being piled up by the shipping board. It is necessary to endeavor to get as much efficiency out of the handling of the ships and the maintenance of routes as possible, and it is by experiments that the unwise can be eliminated and the wise can be retained.

DISCARDING CEMETERIES.

Within the past few days there has been a demonstration of the feeling that exists against the needless removal of the dust of the dead in the blocking of the effort to bring what remains of General Oglethorpe to this country for interment in Georgia. It was not a case where public necessity demanded the burying ground. It was not a case where honor could not be properly done to him without removing his bones. It was regarded as showing too little respect for the dead and it failed.

Quite the same, though even greater, opposition should be displayed against the plan of the president of Brooklyn borough to take the old Dutch Reformed church, its burying ground and an old Indian cemetery in Brooklyn for a public park, after they have existed for more than two and a half centuries.

In large cities it is not to be denied that public parks are important. They serve as breathing places for old and young, a common meeting place for enjoying the great outdoors. But that doesn't warrant the showing of such disrespect for the death that cemeteries should be discarded and the protection which they are supposed to get ignored, when, as it appears in the case in Brooklyn, it is possible to get just as available sites for a public park without disturbing the church and burying grounds.

Even though it might be the easiest, and possibly the cheapest to tear down the church and rip out the cemeteries, there is more than those features that should get consideration. Apparently such a move has been made before without success and there is good and sufficient reason why it should arouse such opposition as to insure early failure this time. When public needs cannot be met in any other way it is one thing, when they can be served without such desecration no thought of such a move should be tolerated.

NEW ENGLAND FRUIT.

As the apple show to be held in New York hundreds of thousands of apples are to be given away. Many barrels have been sent from New England for the purpose of letting apple eaters know what is raised in the way of such fruit close to their doors and how they compare with apples produced elsewhere.

The aim is to stimulate interest in the apple growing industry of New England, and it may result in developing an interest in something besides a red apple. It has been said that only an old time Yankee can be seen buying other than a red apple, and yet there are plenty who know that some of the best apples obtainable are not red, while some of those which are red and highly polished are distinctly inferior in taste and quality.

Apple-eaters should be as susceptible to appeal and demonstration as anyone else. One experience with the polished red apples which cannot compare with some that are not red and not polished should be sufficient to create a demand for the fruit rather than for the outside covering. The claim that beauty is only skin deep applies to apples quite as much as it does to various kinds of peaches.

There is certainly merit in the effort to create a greater interest in and knowledge of fruit grown in this part of the country. There is excellent reason why New England or Connecticut grown apples and other fruit should be increased, and why it should be able to compete with that which is brought for long distances. If it will mean creating a demand for such high grade fruit and stimulating such production and marketing the New York fruit show will render a much needed service to New England and to apple eaters.

HEALTH PROTECTION.

Efforts to obtain health are to be seen on every hand. Invariably thought in regard to it is deferred until there is sickness, rather than observing necessary precaution for the preservation of that which money cannot always insure.

Instead of spending money for doctor's bills when sick there are those who pay the doctor to keep them well, and his remuneration ceases when illness comes. That is the policy of the chinese but it is also being practiced by the head of a large manufacturing concern in Pennsylvania. He has had a contract with his doctor by which he pays him a certain sum as long as he is well. That payment ceases when he is ill. In a five-year period there have been times when he was sick but the system is one that satisfies and he is willing to acknowledge that he is in much better physical condition and can endure more than when he entered into such a contract. He gets the benefit of stated examinations and gives serious attention to keeping himself in physical trim and avoiding those conditions that lead to sickness and breakdown.

He believes it is much preferable to keep that which is possessed to trying to do the impossible after lack of appreciation has seen it go, and go many times beyond the point of recovery.

Such an arrangement indicates the devotion of serious attention to preserving a priceless possession. Doctors might be kept quite as busy under such an arrangement as under the general practice of dealing only with the sick, and it certainly must be a vital step for health protection and life insurance.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

German efficiency these days is confined chiefly to balking.

Indian summer is one of the things that can be kept on the list of anticipations.

The man on the corner says: Let your contribution show what kind of a hospital is wanted in Norwich.

That Englishman who finds the United States is overwhelmed with money had probably been talking with bootleggers.

Those operators who fear going to jail if they refuse to sell coal to profiteering dealers are standing up so straight as to topple over backward.

Whether in answer to prayers or not, rain has been most welcome though the quantity might have been much greater without meeting requirements.

It is not very creditable to Boston when it is declared that Mr. Lloyd George cancelled his plan to visit that city because he feared for his safety there.

When Dr. Hornaday says the auto is killing wild life does he refer to those snakes, frogs, chipmunks and the like that are occasionally crushed on the highways?

A Boston judge released a man charged with being idle and disorderly because it was claimed the man was selling liquor and the judge held a man selling liquor was not idle. The fact that the man was violating the law by selling liquor didn't concern the court.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

A wire purse sieve makes a very good sink strainer.

Tomatoes used for salad should be cut into chunks, not into thin slices.

Select a small all-over pattern for the table cloth, as the threads of large patterns are liable to be broken when ironing.

Use a long-handled dust pan in conjunction with a child's broom to brush up bits from the floor. It will be a great back saver.

All kitchen utensils should be on shelves or hung at a convenient height. There is no need for stooping to the floor for any utensil.

Before washing dishes, stack 'em up as to size and get all the silverware together and the cooking dishes together. You save time and know when you are through.

If your sink is too low, make a wooden framework for your dishpan that will bring it to convenient height. Nothing is more fatiguing than working in a position that tires the back.

Prepare such desserts and vegetables as you will need for the day in the morning if you can. Then the pots and pans used in their preparation may be washed at that time and the dishwashing in the evening will not be so difficult.

To remove paint on black silk or other material, patient rubbing with chloroform is effective and will not hurt the most delicate color or fabric.

If you heat a lemon thoroughly before squeezing it you will obtain nearly double the quantity of juice.

When boiling an old fowl or tough meat add a pinch of soda to the water. Simmer gently and the meat will be perfectly tender.

For cleaning all kinds of teapots, pot lids, insides of pots and pans, also enamelled goods, nothing can equal wet emery cloth. It is splendid also for polishing tin or zinc basins.

It is true economy to have two pairs of shoes in use instead of one, wearing them on alternate days. It will be found that the two pairs will in many cases last as long as three pairs worn continuously.

DRY OR OILED MOPS.

Dry or oiled mops should be well shaken each time after use, and occasionally should be washed in hot soapsuds, rinsed in clear hot water, and dried as quickly as possible. Oiled mops may be renewed by pouring on a few drops of kerosene or floor oil and letting them stand until the oil spreads through the strings.

RIDS OF MOSQUITOES

If mosquitoes have got into your house and have become troublesome, try using an electric cleaner with hose, and extension arm. The insects will be drawn into the tube and thence into the dustbag. Pass the open end of the tube back and forth a few inches from the ceiling where mosquitoes alight.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Hair brushes can be washed very satisfactorily if warm water and ammonia are used. Don't put back of brush in water; just soak bristles up and down until clean. Dry slowly, but not in the sun as that makes them yellow.

It is really a crime against beauty to hobble about in shoes that do not fit. For such shoes throw the feet out of balance, give the arches a heavier burden than they can carry, and lead sooner or later to fallen arches and a rundown nervous condition.

Once a week filing will keep the nails from growing too long, but every day they should be reshaped with a piece of emery board. This gives a clean looking edge again and keeps up that fresh manicured appearance which every woman finds so desirable. It will also keep the nails from growing too rapidly.

One of the first places where unnecessary flesh is deposited is under the chin. If you diet so that you weigh the proper amount and never any more you are not likely to acquire a double chin. But if you already have one you must not only diet in order that the body may use up the superfluous flesh, but you must also massage in order to break up the particles of fat so that the blood may carry them off to other parts of the body.

NEED OF CEREALS

Cereal grains are rich in starch and protein. Mineral salts and vitamines are found in the germ and near the bran coat. Since these are usually removed in making flour, it seems almost necessary to include whole-grain cereals in the diet unless whole-grain breads and muffins are frequently served. The thin cream and milk served with breakfast mush increases its food value. There is such a variety of cereals on the market today that it is unnecessary to serve one variety of cereal so often that the family becomes tired of it. The ready-to-eat cereals may alternate with those that need to be cooked. The fireless cooker may be used for the breakfast mush both summer and winter. Four or five pounds of cereal food and eight to ten pounds of bread are needed by the average family in a week.

TO POLISH COMBS.

Tortoise-shell combs should be well rubbed occasionally with the palm of the hand to restore their brightness. If they have become very dull a tiny drop of sweet oil may be used, but as a rule rubbing with the palm of the hand only will be found quite sufficient.

CARE OF SHOES

Patent leather shoes should be treated very carefully if they are to be kept in good condition. The dirt should first of all be removed from them with a damp sponge. Then carefully dry with a duster, and apply a very little petroleum ointment. Polish with a silk handkerchief and you will get a brilliant shine.

REMOVES TEA STAINS

A small bottle of glycerin is an excellent thing to keep in every store cupboard, as it is invaluable for removing tea or coffee stains from linen. Brush a little glycerin over the stain as soon as possible after it is made and it will come out in the wash without any trouble.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Long narrow trains are used this season on frocks of velvet or satin.

Gowns of white brocade taffeta are frequently panniered and worn over white lace petticoats.

Between season coats of soft wool and unobstructive checks or plaids have wide collars of opossum.

Buttons of carved wood or ivory are being used as trimming on some of the smart new frocks.

Irregular flounces add distinction to afternoon gowns of satin or serge and are a relief from the straight line.

Black velvet dresses frequently have double skirts and a fascinating glimpse of purple and silver or some other rich color combination is glimpsed through a split front.

The "princess effect" is with us again though not yet in its most pronounced form. It comes hand in hand so to speak, with the flat back.

Outdoor garments are made of soft, light-weight wools in tones which set off the lovely coloring of childhood. They have trimmings of fur that are suitable to the years of these small persons.

It does not take long for a mother to decide just what particular color is becoming to her small daughter and whether her type calls for frills and ruffles or for an almost exaggerated simpness and lack of ornamentation.

As always, certain phases of grown-up fashions, are repeated in miniature. There is, for instance, the sleeveless frock with its wide frill about the neck and the tight-waisted, full-skirted dress which delights the soul of its small owner because it is so like mother's.

SEWING HINTS

When cutting anything from velvet if you pin the pattern on the wrong side the velvet will cut much easier.

In darning the large holes in children's stockings it is a help to stretch coarse net over the holes, catch it around the edges with a few basting stitches and then weave the darning through the meshes.

The buttons on a woolen or knitted coat sometimes tear away from the fabric, leaving a bad hole. To prevent this, place a linen button of equal size at the back when sewing on the pearl button. Sew right through, thus fastening both buttons with the same stitch.

When sewing, instead of being obliged to put the material on the table, have a lapboard made of heavy cardboard or light wood.

A torn placket hole looks most untidy and can quite well be prevented in the following way: Sew hook and eye at the very bottom of it on the wrong side than hook together and pinch the hook down tight. This keeps the placket hole quite neat, and it is almost impossible to tear it.

DECORATIVE BOOK COVERS

Book covers made of silk, brocaded ribbon and satin are attractive, but cretonne and terry cloth are equally as effective. To make a ribbon cover, measure a piece the length of the open book and allow additional material for pockets. Glue to it a piece of plain colored ribbon that serves as a lining and also gives weight to the cover. Novelty ribbon glued to top and bottom of the outside makes a decorative finish. The pockets are glued over so that the book may be slipped in.

FIXING A LOOSE NAIL

A loose nail in a wall often presents a difficult problem, but it can be made very solid in the following way: Soak a piece of cotton wool in liquid glue, then wrap as much of this as possible round the shaft of the nail. Then reinsert the nail into the hole, pressing it as far as it will go. Wipe away any of the glue which oozes out, and with the point of a nail pack the cotton wool into the space between the nail and the side of the hole. Leave it for about a day, when the nail may be used. It will then be perfectly secure.

FOR THE COFFEE POT

To keep the coffee pot sweet and clean put a tablespoon of carbonate of soda into it, fill it nearly full of water, and let it boil for a little while. Then rinse very thoroughly with warm water. If this is done once a week the pot will always be fresh and nice.

CARE OF PLUMBING

To clean the traps underneath set bowls make a soda solution of one pound of soda in a gallon of boiling water. Put a pint of ammonia to the solution. Twice a year put in the plug, fill the bowl to the brim with the solution and let it stand until the solution is level with the waste vent.

ON A MOTOR TRIP

For the woman who motors there is a dainty little footstool of velvet or leather. It conceals beneath a hinged cover a dressing case in velvet or silk to match. The dressing case is large enough to hold everything required for a week-end trip.

CONCERNING WOMEN

At the age of 91 years Mrs. Tabitha Ward, of Marionville, Va., boasts of 200 descendants.

Membership in the Association of Bank Women is contingent upon holding an official or executive position.

Mrs. Bertha D. Horchem, of Ransom, Kan., is the first woman to enter as a contestant in an international air race.

Mrs. Millicent Cooper of Lewistown, Mont., recently joined the Washington Police Department as a fingerprint expert.

Miss Lillian Westropp is the organizer and president of the first woman's saving and loan company in the United States.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, British Columbia, who is visiting England, has been proclaimed Canada's most famous woman politician.

STUFF THE CROWNS

Stuff the crowns of your hats with tissue paper when you put them away between seasons, and they will retain their shape much better than they would without this precaution.

A SIMPLE CLEANER

Aluminum should be cleaned with finely powdered whiting, such as many persons use for silver, or any other silver powder may be employed. The great thing is to avoid anything likely to scratch the surface.

RECIPES

PRUNE SPICE CAKE

Cream half a cupful of shortening and one cupful of sugar. Add one egg and beat until smooth. Stir in one cupful of sour milk, one and one-fourth cupfuls of steamed finely cut prunes, one-fourth cupful of chopped nuts. Sift together two and three-fourths cupfuls of flour and one-half teaspoonfuls of soda. Add three-fourth of a teaspoonful each of cloves and allspice and one and one-half teaspoonfuls of cinnamon. Add to the liquid mixture. Pour into a greased pan and bake in a moderate oven for about fifty minutes.

COLD CHOCOLATE SOUFFLE.

Divide the yolks and whites of two eggs, beat up the yolks, boil one gill of milk and pour it onto the eggs, beating all the time. Return to the pan and stir over a gentle heat until the eggs thicken. Add one and one-half ounces of sugar, a flavoring of vanilla and pour into a dish. Dissolve two ounces of grated chocolate and one ounce of gelatin in one gill of water over the fire, cool, stir into the custard. When the mixture is beginning to set beat up the whites of the eggs to a stiff meringue and stir it in lightly. Pour all into a wet mold. When set, turn out and decorate with strips of angelica arranged in a pattern, with some jam put round the top of the souffle. Place a diamond-shaped piece of angelica on the top of the mold.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

"A very quick, quiet man." That is the repeated description given by intimates of Lord Rothermere, who by his recent acquisitions of papers in London and the provinces has become the biggest newspaper proprietor in the world. A brother of the late Viscount Northcliffe, he was closely associated with the latter's great newspaper and magazine enterprises and after his death succeeded to the control and management of the bulk of the Northcliffe publications. During the late war he did valuable service as President of the British Air Council. He himself suffered heavy grief in the war. Three of his sons served at the front. Two were severely wounded, while the third, after escaping internment in Holland, fell in action a short time later in a particularly gallant manner. Though twice wounded, he continued to lead his men until struck by a shell and killed.

Stories That Recall Others

He Knew That.

"Willie," asked the teacher of the new pupil, "do you know your alphabet?"

"Yes, miss," answered Willie.

"Well, then," continued the teacher, "what letter comes after A?"

"All the rest of them," was the triumphant reply.

Stumping Daddy.

Sammy was on his way to town with his father, when the latter grabbed the boy's hat and pretended to throw it out of the trolley window, but at the same time, unknown to the boy, hidden it under his arm.

"Now," said the father, "watch daddy whistle your hat back."

"To the astonishment of the boy the hat reappeared.

Before the car got to the destination the little boy got up suddenly, snatched his father's hat from his head and, throwing it out of the window, said triumphantly, "Whistle that back, daddy."

CHILD TRAINING

Wet Blankets.

By Ethel G. Peterson.

Agnes rushed excitedly into the room, intent on telling the family about the tennis match. She had not finished two sentences when Jack, who had reached the fastidious stage in his existence, interrupted:

"Gee, you're a sight! Mother, can't you make her fix her hair better? It's forever tumbling down; other chaps' sisters don't look the way she does."

Mrs. Norris said gently, "Jack, let Agnes tell her story."

Agnes made a grimace at Jack but went on with her tale, an account of the game she had won against odds. She was making a very good narrative of it, but now it was Big Sister who said, "Don't talk so fast. Nobody can understand a word you say."

Agnes ignored this, too, but when a minute later her father remarked mildly, "Daughter, bully is not a nice word for a young lady to use," the child, already overwrought with the strain of the game, burst into tears and left the room, sobbing out, "When I tell you folks anything again, you'll know it!"

The family commented in resigned tones on Agnes' dreadful temper but my sympathies were all with the girl, for I remembered my own childhood. I was the intense, emotional type, my mother calm, reserved, and a purist in the use of English.

I would rush in all eagerness to share my news with mother. Probably her first comment would be, "Alice, your voice is several octaves too high. Get it down."

A little subdued, I would recommence, only to hear, "That word is accented on the first syllable, not on the second."

When I had been stopped several times in that fashion, my enthusiasm had evaporated. Mother, noticing this, would laughingly say, "Now go on and tell me about it. I simply wanted to call your attention to that word before I forgot."

And many times I too flounced out of the room with the silent resolve never to tell Mother anything again.

Now I know that it was Mother's love for me, her deep desire that I should excel, that made her critical, but to this day I have a fear of her criticism of any talk I may give, or any article I may write—the childish impression is still too strong. And as a consequence Mother has been hurt many times at my reserve over my personal affairs.

So I have firmly resolved that both for my sake and theirs, I will not "wet blanket" my children's first enthusiasms. If criticism must come, let it be later, after the first excitement has worn off.

Cutty Stools.

The creepie or cutty stool was a stool once used in the Scottish church for punishment of offenders against chastity. The sinner was required to sit in full view of the congregation, and at the close of service, rise for reprimand by the minister.

CONSIDERING SHORTAGE OF MODERATE PRICED HOMES

New York, Oct. 21.—The American construction council is giving serious consideration to the shortage of moderate priced homes, and particularly to the New York apartment situation, Franklin B. Roosevelt, president of the council, said tonight in making public resolutions passed at a recent meeting urging winter building to help cut costs.

The resolutions, expressed the council's belief that substantial preliminary construction in winter, together with such repair and maintenance work as could be done after autumn, would aid in cutting building costs by reducing seasonal peaks of construction activities in summer.

BAD-BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards'Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Murphy motored from Providence and spent Sunday with their cousin, Mrs. Walter S. Skelly, of West Thames street. Mr. Murphy, an architect, is a son of James Murphy, the architect who designed St. Patrick's church and he visited and admired that fine edifice Sunday.

DENIES BAD DIETARY CONDITIONS FOR VETERANS

Bad dietary conditions and overcrowding at the Norwich State hospital for the insane have led the Veterans' Bureau to withdraw all ex-service men from that institution, it is revealed in the annual report of the Veterans' Bureau for the 2nd district (Connecticut, New York, and New Jersey), which has just been made public.

The report states that "all state hospitals in the district are overcrowded," and that "bad dietary and other conditions at the Norwich hospital" have resulted in the removal of all veterans whose parents and guardians would allow this step to be taken.

Dr. E. J. Burdsall, who is in charge at the hospital while Superintendent F. S. Wilcox is in Maine, promptly took issue with this report, when it was read to him Sunday night and declared emphatically that there has been no bad dietary conditions but that everybody recognized that the Norwich state hospital was crowded just as the Middletown asylum is.

He said that the government is withdrawing ex-service men from state and private hospitals to fill the government hospitals and that there are still some ex-service men left at the Norwich state hospital. There have been about 35 or 40 men but about 20 or 25 men have been withdrawn.

According to the report, in the 2nd district 8,973 veterans were in hospitals on October 1, under the jurisdiction of the Veterans' Bureau. Of these 1,365 were suffering from mental afflictions, 1,354 from tuberculosis and 250 were general medical and surgical cases. In one month the Veterans' Bureau gave 26,897 medical treatments, examined 9,853 men, performed 160 operations, hospitalized 616 men, and made 2,232 medical visits.

The biggest work of the bureau deals with rehabilitation. On August 31, 1923 there were 33,946 ex-service men in Connecticut, New York, and New Jersey who had been found eligible for government training. Of these, almost 10,000 were in training the eligibility of 6,241 had lapsed, and more than 5,000 had completed their courses.

The bureau endeavors to place the men in trains after their instruction is completed in this connection, it is stated that "greater difficulty is being experienced in the placing of men in 'white-collar' jobs than in the trades." The Employment Service in this district has done more than search for jobs for disabled men; it has tried to place every ex-service man, disabled or otherwise, who have applied to it for assistance.

"Many little difficulties and obstacles have presented themselves," says the report. "A large number of business houses have been skeptical regarding employing any ex-service men because of unfortunate experiences in 1919, due, doubtless to the restlessness of the men immediately after discharge from service. Many firms have been fearful lest they would be accepting unnecessary risks under the state compensation acts. Many of the trades have found it difficult to adjust themselves to the standard of wages paid in certain lines. Other difficulties, too numerous to mention, have forced us to be ever on the alert and ready at all times, to prove that a disabled veteran is as good a worker as a non-service man, if not better."

The bureau has succeeded in finding positions for 91.3 per cent. of the men rehabilitated; 5.3 per cent. are unemployed because of conditions beyond the bureau's control; and for 3.5 per cent. jobs have not yet been found.

In the penal institutions of Connecticut, New York, and New Jersey 2,149 ex-service men have been found. They receive special medical visits from the bureau.

OBITUARY.

J. B. Hough.

J. B. Hough, 68, who died at Stafford Thursday at his home, where he had lived for many years, was born in Bozrah but was for some years in the '80s engaged in mercantile business in East Lyme, conducting first the store of the Niantic Mills company and afterward embarking in business for himself. He has been in failing health for the past two years. He was a member of the Baptist church of Stafford and was a staunch republican but never sought or held office. He was a member of Niantic lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Niantic. He leaves his wife, who was Miss Ida Grover, of Norwich, a sister and a brother.

FUNERALS.

John H. Ford.

Many relatives and friends were present Saturday afternoon when funeral services were held for John H. Ford at his late home at East Great Plain. The service was conducted by Rev. David A. Pitt, pastor of the Central Baptist church, assisted by Rev. George H. Strouse of Niantic, former pastor of the First Baptist church. There were many beautiful floral tributes, silent testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held by his many friends in Norwich and other cities.

Burial was in the family plot in Yantic cemetery where a committal service was conducted. The bearers were James C. Fitzpatrick, John B. Crary of Hollister, Mass., Herbert B. Cary, James C. E. Leach, E. LaRue Bliven and Courtland E. Colver.

Arrangements were by C. A. Gager.

WEDDING.

Symon—Greenberger.

Sydney Symon of New London and Miss Minnie Greenberger were united in marriage Sunday evening at the home of the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. George Greenberger of 4 Laurel Hill avenue. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock by Rabbi Dr. Dalinsky of New York before a small company of relatives and close friends, the bridal couple standing under a floral arch in yellow and white chrysanthemums in which the color scheme was beautifully carried out in the parlor, dining room and hall.

A wedding supper was served and then Mr. and Mrs. Symon left on their honeymoon trip during the evening. They are to reside in New London where the groom is the president of the Symon Furniture Co., and one of the progressive young business men of this city.

VETERAN NORWICH EXPRESSMAN IS KNOCKED OFF WAGON BY AUTOMOBILE

John Barry of 49 Reynolds street, an old veteran express driver of this city, was knocked off the seat of his wagon, dazed and cut in the head Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock on Washington street about in front of the old Buckingham residence, when an automobile hit the left rear wheel of the wagon. The automobile was driven by Charles L. Morgan of Fitchville.

In their report to the police department, the two drivers gave opposite versions of the way the two vehicles were going at the time of the crash. Barry claimed that both were going north on Washington street while Morgan said he was coming down the street and Barry going up. Both men have been summoned to appear in police court for a hearing of the case.

Barry claimed that he was driving up the Washington street hill and was close to the right hand curb when the Morgan automobile came from behind him, traveling about 30 miles an hour, struck the left rear wheel of the express wagon, smashing the wheel, turning the wagon around and throwing the horse and wagon up onto the sidewalk.

Barry was thrown into the street, receiving a bad cut on the back of his head. He was dazed by the shock and was given medical treatment by Dr. Louis T. Cassidy.

Morgan's report, which was made on Sunday morning, was that he was coming down Washington street while the Barry horse and wagon were going up the hill.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS TO MEET IN WILLIMANTIC

All who believe in the religious education of the boys and girls of Connecticut as the means of making better citizens will be interested in the program which has been prepared for the Annual Convention of the Connecticut Sunday School association at Willimantic November 7, 8 and 9. The Association is one of the oldest religious organizations in the state, having been organized in 1857 and incorporated in 1890. The purpose of the Association is "To Promote the Religious Education and Christian Service in the Local Church Schools and in the Communities throughout the State."

There will be 8 main sessions, with 19 addresses.

A part of each day will be given to group conferences, when twelve groups will assemble simultaneously to consider methods peculiar to the work of each.

Friday afternoon the delegates will divide into denominational groups for the study of the year's program for the local schools.

The fellowship luncheons and suppers will be a marked feature of the convention. The local arrangements make it possible for the delegates with common interests in the work of the church school to spend a delightful and inspiring hour together each day.

Some of the speakers are:

Rev. H. Bainton Wilson, Professor of Church History, Yale Divinity School, New Haven, Conn.; Miss Frances Weld Danielson, Graded Lesson Writer (Beginners) International Course, Danielson, Conn.; Rev. Staley F. Davis, Director, Eastern Division, Board of Sunday Schools of M. E. Church, New York City; Harrison Elliott, Professor of Religious Education, Union Theological Seminary, New York; Marion Lawrance, Consulting General Secretary, International Sunday School Council, Chicago, Ill.; Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D., Asst Sec'y, World's Sunday School Association, New York; Miss Margaret Slattery, Author and Sunday School Specialist, Boston, Mass.

Every school is entitled to send as many delegates as possible. Free entertainment (lodging and breakfast) will be provided.

BRAINARD'S WIDOW AWARDED COMPENSATION FOR FATALITY

In an order issued by Dr. James J. Donohue of Norwich, workmen's compensation commissioner for the second congressional district, an award is made to Mrs. Emily Brainard, widow of Frank C. Brainard, who was killed at the crossing into the Tuttle Brick company's plant on Sept. 11 last, says the Middletown Press.

Mrs. Brainard is allowed $14.24 a week for 312 weeks, from Sept. 12 last, together with $100 for funeral expenses. This award is made by agreement with the brick company and the Travelers' Insurance company of Hartford, which furnished the compensation insurance.

Mr. Brainard was almost instantly killed when the auto truck he was driving was struck by a Berlin electric train as he was crossing to go into the brickyard.

The stipulation regarding the award, filed with the clerk of the superior court, as required by law, outlines that the object of this agreement is to avoid the expenses of administration.

The document recites the facts of the accident and that the company and the employe came under the compensation act. It is stated that the wife and two children, one 3 years old, the other twelve months, were dependent upon the husband's earnings for support. His average weekly pay was $28.48, and in accordance with the law the wife is allowed one-half of that amount for a period of six years.

SILVER WEDDING DATE OBSERVED WITH RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Walz observed their 25th wedding anniversary Saturday evening at their home, 505 Main street. There were 75 guests present, some coming from Willimantic, Pawtucket, Troy and other places. During the evening there were piano selections by Miss Olive Linton and violin selections by Miss Elizabeth Lane. Refreshments of chicken salad cake, coffee, ice cream and candy were served. Mr. and Mrs. Walz received a number of pretty and valuable gifts from their many friends. The house was attractively decorated with palms and ferns by Hawkins, The Florist.

Mr. and Mrs. Walz were married October 20, 1898, in Poquetanuck by Rev. Mr. Buck. Mrs. Walz's maiden name being Theresa Mansfield. All of their married life has been spent in Norwich. Mr. Walz conducts a blacksmith shop at 485 Main street. Mr. and Mrs. Walz have four children, Misses Mary Walz, Miss Viola Walz, Harold Walz and Miss Grace Walz.

SIX NEW DIRECTORS OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

One hundred ninety-five members of the chamber of commerce voted for six new directors for the coming year. The final election closed Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The six new directors chosen by the members are: Rev. A. H. Abbott, Nelson J. Ayling, Herbert B. Cary, Jacob Muns, Arthur E. Story and Charles F. Wells. These men are elected for a two-year term.

The election committee which counted the ballots and certified the results consisted of J. S. Adams, F. H. Wyant, W. J. Fitzgerald, D. E. Fuley, J. A. French, J. H. Leseman, T. F. Cummings, John Rush, H. M. Opitz, W. H. Aldrich, W. S. Elliott.

The board of directors will meet soon and elect all the officers for the coming year.

Return From Wedding Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Greene have returned from their wedding trip over the Mohawk Trail. On the return trip the couple visited relatives and friends in Lowell, Watertown, Boston and Oxford, Mass., also in Providence R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Greene are to make their their home at 214 Laurel Hill avenue with Mrs. Greene's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Smith.

JOHN BUCKLEY DIES SUDDENLY IN PATERSON

Although he had been ill for several days the death of John Buckley, formerly of Norwich, came suddenly Sunday morning at Paterson, N. J., news reaching relatives in this city during the afternoon.

He was born in this city about 53 years ago, the son of Patrick Buckley and Elizabeth Burns Buckley, and received his early education in local schools. Later he entered the employ of the Ulmer Leather company and for many years was connected with the selling department of the company. About 16 years ago he severed his connections with the selling department of the Ulmer company and went to Paterson N. J. where he soon became a salesman for the Holyoke Belting company of Holyoke, Mass., continuing with this company until about three years ago, the last two years being with them only part of the time. For the past ten years he held the office of vice president of the Holyoke company, being in that office at the time of his death. About six years ago he took up the profession of a chiropractic and was meeting success in this profession in Paterson.

Mr. Buckley is survived by his wife formerly Miss Emma McLaughlin, of Carbondale, Pa., and one son, John, of Paterson; four sisters, Misses Mary and Sarah Buckley of Norwich Town, and Nellie and Alice Buckley of Brooklyn, N. Y. His only brother, Thomas Buckley died in Hartford in January of this year.

News of his death will be received with regret by his wide circle of friends in this city and elsewhere and much sympathy is shown for his relatives in their bereavement.

HUNTERS FIRE SHOT AT TWO GAME WARDENS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 21.—It is believed that an attempt was made on the lives of Deputy Fish and Game Wardens Fred Tice and W. J. Fensley of Niantic this evening, for while the county game officers sought to arrest a trio of unidentified hunters one of them fired a shot that came dangerously close to hitting Fensley. The officers obtained a portion of the registration number of the car that the hunters fled in, which was "96-" but the last two figures were not read.

Tice and Fensley were a short distance north of Flanders when they heard shots and soon they came in sight of a trio of huntsmen who started on a run through the woods with Tice and Fensley in pursuit. The hunters succeeded in getting to the highway and jumping into an automobile which was gotten in motion. When the officers appeared in the highway Fensley called to the hunters to give themselves up, and the command was replied to by a rifle shot passing so close to Fensley's head that the warden declares he could hear the bullet whiss by him.

Tice and Fensley came to New London and obtained a list of the registration numbers from the record book of automobiles at the police station, taking such numbers from 96-100 to 96-199. Tomorrow the wardens will endeavor to determine what automobile owners of the hundred names they have in their possession have received hunters' licenses.

JAIL SENTENCES AND FINES ON LIQUOR CONVICTIONS

Edward Spano, accused of sale of liquor at 47 Franklin street, was found guilty of the charge in the city court Saturday morning. There were two counts against him and he was fined $200 on each count and sentenced to 60 days in jail. The fines and costs amounted to $412.66.

Clarence Osborn, who was arrested at this place on Franklin street, was discharged, as the evidence was insufficient.

Tony Fatone, who was arrested at 8-10 Market street, was found guilty of liquor law violation and was fined $200 and costs, besides receiving a sentence of 30 days in jail. He will also be obliged to serve an old suspended sentence of 30 days. Michael Dipaola, who was arrested at the Market street place, had a nolle entered in his case.

Clark Chapman, accused of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, when he ran into another machine last week on North Main street, was found guilty and was fined $200 and costs. He paid $211.72. A jail sentence of 30 days was suspended.

Fred George and Peter Carolinas were fined on a charge of breach of the peace at the coffee house 9 1-2 Thames street. They shared in paying a bill of $19.62. The proprietor of the coffee house was found not guilty of running a gambling place.

SAYS LAITY HAS DUTY TO WORK FOR SOUL-WINNING

The ninety-nine and one-half per cent., representing the laity of the church have their duties to perform in winning souls to Christ and have no right to ask the other half of one per cent., representing the ministers to do 99 per cent. of the soul winning work. was the keynote sounded by Hon. Henry Bond of Brattleboro Vt., in a forceful talk given Sunday night at the Central Baptist church before a congregation representing several of the churches of the city. Mr. Bond took his topic from Luke, 10th chapter, 2nd verse, laying emphasis on the words of Christ, "The laborers are few," telling how the master sent out 70 laymen on a mission from which they all returned rejoicing.

When we took the record of men between certain ages in this country during the war it aided greatly in ending the conflict, he said, as the enemy knew it could not contend with such numbers. Today the Baptists in the Northern Convention number over 1,500,000 and we rank close to the top in all denominations yet the greater part of the building work has been left for the ministers, as fine a body of men as I have ever been privileged to meet.

What about the other 99½ per cent? In business we know that co-operation spells success and you men must do your part; you must no longer leave it to the ministers or to the women who have worked so nobly for the cause. With the entire laity working for the kingdom there can be no limit to membership and the same principle may be applied to the Sunday school class when members and teachers work together.

There are five things for the laity to do. First, take care of the finances. In 1917 we needed money for missions and we raised $1,000,000; in 1918 we raised six million and then came the New World Movement and you know the story. A business man knows that success depend on keeping down the overhead but he is always ready to take a good bond, he considers it a good investment. You should consider it an investment when you give for your child or another's child, and it is a real investment and a good one, too. Second, care of the community. We cannot save the incoming thousands unless we get in touch with them, rub elbows with them. We should be like that holy man who said, "Such as I have (am) give I unto Thee." Our conduct, our dealings with these incomers stamps itself on them, it shows what Christianity stands for. Someone may be following you and you have no right to keep that person back by not giving the best that is in you. Give to Him such as you have. Fourth, brotherhood of man. In the terrible calamity in Japan recently a wonderful spirit of brotherhood was shown by this country. We didn't look at the color or the race; a fellowman suffered and we gave gladly. Our treatment of that people, our treatment of the people right here in Norwich is taken by them as the standard set by the Christian church; it's their right to judge us by that standard and we should meet them and greet them among us. Fifth spiritual soul winning. A prominent minister has said that 90 per cent of the souls are won to Christ by the pastors, the other 10 per cent. by the 99½ per cent. representing the members of the churches. The divine guidance for soul winning is for you as well as the pastor and you owe it yourselves to give that which you have, be willing to say, "I will do it myself."

In summing up his splendid talk Mr. Bond asked several questions and answered others leaving the congregation to ponder on the questions: Do you want a soul winning work in your church, and how deeply do you want it? Have you any fear in this work, fear placed in your hearts by the enemy of Christ and mankind? Is everyone needed in this work for Christ? Have you ever heard of God putting out the sign "No Men Wanted?" You never have seen this sign so familiar in this world of ours and you never will, said Mr. Bond, for the work of the Spirit of God is a balanced work and there is always a demand and supply out there for you to work for if you put aside fear and dare to say, "Oh, God, if you want to use me, use me." This is the answer to the problem of the laity and it's your duty to see it answered for the kingdom.

AUTUMN SERVICE HELD AT TRINITY METHODIST

An autumn service was held Sunday evening at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church with a sermon on America's Seven Natural Wonders, Their Religious Lesson, by the pastor, Rev. J. Harlow Graham. The church was prettily decorated with autumn foliage. A chorus of some two score voices was provided for the service by the C. L. class, the chorus occupying the east gallery. Three nature hymns, America, the Beautiful, Greenland's Icy Mountains and Where'er the Sun, were sung and all were illustrated by stereopticon slides.

The scripture reading was the 19th Psalm and as the offertory anthem the quartette gave The Valleys Laugh and Sing (Maunder). There was a good sized attendance at the autumn service which is an innovation at Trinity church.

RETURNED FROM TRIP BY AUTO TO CANADA

Mr. and Mrs. Xavier Lambert of 224 Broad street have returned from a most enjoyable Canadian automobile trip in which they covered 900 miles and were favored with good weather, roads in good condition and no accidents. Their tour included the White Mountains and Lakes Willoughby, Memphramagog and Broome. They visited their son, Brother Eliseo, at Sacred Heart college, of Granby, and their tour also included visits to relatives and friends at Coventry Newport Center, St. Hyacinthe, St. Hugues and St. Guillaume.

They reached home Friday and have pleasant anticipations of another trip next summer.

WIND DISLODGED WINDOWS AT HARRY LAND'S COTTAGE

In making his rounds at Ocean Beach late Sunday afternoon Patrolman John Hogan discovered four windows dislodged from their frames at the summer residence of Harry M. Land of 180 Washington street, Norwich. The windows undoubtedly were dislodged by the high winds of Friday night, as there was no evidence of anyone having entered the place, and from the fact that crooks could have gained admission to the place through any one of the four windows destroyed. Patrolman Hogan communicated the information to police headquarters and Mr. Land was notified by telephone of the damage at his cottage.

Laurel Hill Parent-Teachers.

The Parent-Teachers' Association of Laurel Hill met at the Laurel Hill school last week for its opening meeting under the leadership of Mrs. Averill, its new president. There was a short business meeting followed by a program in charge of Mrs. F. I. Dodge which consisted of a well rendered musical program on piano and mandolin given by the Misses Elizabeth and Dorothy Spicer and a helpful reading given by Miss Nellie O'Connell on the subject of Home and School Co-operation, after which the usual refreshments of fancy cookies and tea were served in charge of Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Smith.

Guests Brought Radio Set.

Mr. and Mrs. William O. Barker of Canterbury Green entertained Sunday J. J. Curtis, Anthony Bair and nephew, who motored to Canterbury. The guests brought with them a radio which was set up and which furnished a delightful diversion. Included in the stations heard over the radio were KDKA of Pittsburgh, which furnished a concert program, WGY, Schenectady, WHAC, Boston, which broadcasted a sermon from St. Paul's cathedral, Boston, Sunday morning.

Rain Amounts to Little.

The rainfall of Friday measured three-quarters of an inch, according to Supt. John J. Corkery of the water department, and will just about enable the two city reservoirs to hold their own for a day or two. There was a good stream of water running into Stony Brook reservoir on Saturday after the rain.

Reports Skidding Accident.

Michael Grisky of 142 Yantic street reported Sunday night at police headquarters that the automobile he was driving skidded at the corner of Osceo and Sachem streets and struck the northbound trolley car that left Franklin square at 6.45. The automobile had a rear mudguard badly bent.

Week End Arrests.

Nine men were arrested for intoxication and three for breach of the peace over Saturday and Sunday night. This included a batch of three drunken men brought in from Greeneville about midnight Sunday.

ACADEMY LOSES TO CHAPMAN TECH., 16 TO 12, IN LAST FEW MINUTES OF PLAY

Leading Chapman Tech a merry chase until the last five minutes in Saturday's battle at New London, the Norwich Free Academy lost the game 16 to 12, in the last few minutes of play on account of the relentlessness of the Whalers' attack. Things started off with a rush in the first quarter. Chapman kicked off and this was followed by two exchanges of punts. Norwich gained about 30 yards on the exchanges and followed this advantage up with a first down gained on line plunges. This was followed by another battering at the Tech which resulted in first down again for Norwich. Covey then took the ball over the line for the first touchdown while the game was still in its infancy. Tech again chose to kick off and this was followed by a triple exchange of punts after which Covey made first down again. A neat 20 yard pass, Phil MacNamara to Scott, put the ball on the Tech eight yard line. Here the Whalers' line took on new life and four downs were required before Capt. Phil MacNamara made the second score of the game. Covey again failing to kick the try for point. Chapman kicking off again, forced the locals to punt after makin ganother first downs. Brown, the sensational half back for the Whalers, now stepped in and made three first downs in succession and finishing off his performance was a fast 20 yard end run around the right end.

Pierson then scored the first touch down for his crew and Brown kicked goal. The only other score in this period was a drop-kick by Brown. The only reason that Tech chose this method was because Norwich held her rival for downs on the one yard line and this was the only course open. The half ended soon after this score.

Neither team scored in the third quarter although the play was fast and furious. The final period opened with the ball in the Tech's possession by virtue of an intercepted forward on the Tech 16-yard line. Tech here began an overwhelming march down the field in spite of the best efforts of the Norwich aggregation to delay it if not to stop it. The Whalers were not to be denied and the result was that Kannenburg scored the final touchdown. Brown failed in his attempt for the try for point. Both teams opened up a daring forward passing game and Tech almost had another on a long forward which Captain Pierson hurled but which Cruise allowed to slip through his arms.

Scott and Paliocha were the stars in the Academy line while Captain Phil MacNamara and Covey performed very satisfactorily in the local backfield. Brown and Turello together with Captain Pierson were the mainstays of the New Londoners. Paul McNamara was forced to retire from the game owing to an injury to his leg.

The lineup.

| N. F. A. | | Chapman |
|---|---|---|
| Hollander | Left End | Caruso |

ZEV PROVES TOO STRONG FOR ENGLISH HORSE

Belmont Park Race Course, New York, Oct. 21—Coming down the home stretch with a blinding, irresistible burst of speed, Zev, the Rancocas stable's great son of the Finn-Miss Kearney, scored a smashing thoroughbred victory for America Saturday, conquering Papyrus, the English Derby winner by the decisive margin of six lengths over the mile and a half Belmont Park course.

With Zev's sensation victory went $66,000 of the $100,000 purse, for which the classic was fought and the crown of three-year-old champion of the world, at stake for the first time in use of the most colorful spectacles American turf history has ever known.

A vast throng of sixty thousand, the largest in eastern track annals, gathered in this picturesque Long Island setting in expectation of a tense duel for thoroughbred laurels. But while there were thrills aplenty, the crowd saw the American colt sweep into a triumph almost as one-sided as it was spectacular.

Over a track that was heavy and soggy from several days of rain, Zev answered pre-race fears that he was not in the best of condition by galloping to convincing, impressive victory over Papyrus. After a rather bad start Zev overtook his rival before the first quarter pole had been reached and thereafter was never headed despite the game and gallant efforts of the English champion.

Over the first mile and a quarter it was a thrilling race. Zev leading by practically ever thes distance standing off the challenges of Papyrus and apparently running well within himself. Then came the real test, the final quarter and Zev ran brilliantly while Papyrus was found wanting.

Straightening out his mount for the finishing drive, Earl Sande, premier American rider, gave Zev his head and the colt responded with a terrific burst of speed. Papyrus fell behind rapidly, apparently tired and "all out" under the withering pace, for Zev galloped under the wire full six lengths in advance amid a thunderous ovation from the throng that had watched the struggle in pulse-gripping suspense.

ENGLISH TRAINERS MAINTAIN PAPYRUS WAS NOT RIGHT

London, Oct. 21—(By the A. P.)—The man who trained Papyrus for all that colt's important races in England, Mr. Gilpin, still is firmly convinced that the son of Tracery was not right when he faced the barrier at Belmont Park Saturday and went down to defeat before Zev, the American horse, in the $100,000 match race. Papyrus, he thinks, could easily have beaten Zev, had he been in condition.

"I did not think Papyrus was right when he left England," said Mr. Gilpin today. "And with the additional hardship of the journey across seas and the hard dirt track, I expected the result would be what it was.

It is unfortunate, but nevertheless interesting, that Papyrus was not right when he ran in the St. Leger, in which he was defeated. Had he been fit for Saturday's race he easily could have beaten Zev.

"I am sure that nine out of ten of British derby winners would beat any horse the Americans could put forward."

The honorable George Lambton, one of the best known trainers on the British turf, said today with regard to the Zev-Papyrus race:

"The only thing the outcome of the match race reminds me of is the Carpentier-Beckett fight (in which the French boxer knocked out the English heavyweight in less than half a minute). It does not cast any reflection on Papyrus or British thoroughbred race horses. Of course Papyrus would have put up a better performance had he run on a grass track and had he not had the handicap of a long sea journey."

FENGLER BEATS OUT MURPHY IN 250-MILE AUTO RACE

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 21—(By the A. P.)—Harlan Fengler, whipped to victory today in the 250 mile national championship motor race here, breaking all time records on the local speedway and winning $9,000 in prize money.

Jimmy Murphy was second, Eddie Hearne, third, and the others finished in the following order:

Harry Harts, (finishing for Jerry Wonderlich); Bennett Hill, Frank Elliott, Dave Lewis, Ralph De Palma and Leon Duray, fourteen other cars entered the race but only nine finished. There were no accidents.

Fengler, who averaged 113.3 miles an hour drove his own race from the first. The audience paid little attention to him after the first few laps as the gripping battle between Earl Cooper, Tommy Milton and Jimmy Murphy took all of its attention.

Cooper and Milton, team mates, shot in the first few laps with Murphy and several others pressing them hard. Crashing around the board oval at the rate of 123 miles per hour in the first ten laps the two cars set a pace which eliminated most of the cars from the running. Murphy had tire trouble twice at the start of the race and was two laps behind Cooper at the fifty mile mark with Milton in second place, one lap ahead of him. Wonderlich was third only a few yards ahead of Murphy.

Milton, who did not stop once for tires, was in first place when the cars passed the 75 mile mark and the two held their places, never more than a lap apart and never more than two laps ahead of their nearest competitor, until they had covered 150 miles. Murphy, who had taken third position at this point, moved into second a moment later when Cooper was forced out with lubrication trouble, Fengler taking third.

Time after time Murphy's mechanics in the pits signalled him to stop and replace two bad tires but Murphy refused to leave the race at this point and forged on in the wake of Milton who was slightly less than two laps ahead. Their positions were relatively the same at the 200 mile mark and both swung into the final fifty mile stretch with the audience speculating on which would be the first to throw a tire. Murphy steadily picked up on Milton until he was almost in a position to regain one of the two laps which separated them but Milton improved his generalship and seemed to have definitely proved his superiority as the cars finished the 150th lap, the 225th mile.

The break came in the next lap when Milton's lubrication system failed and he went to the pits, but Murphy's lead was short lived as Fengler passed him almost before the audience realized that Murphy had gained the lead.

The race gives Eddie Hearne, leading contender for the national racing championship, 140 points for a season's total of 1,502. Murphy by finishing second, won 260 points and now has a total of 1,330 points. The championship will probably be decided at Los Angeles this fall where both men will appear in the final race of the season.

ORIOLES DROP SIXTH GAME TO KANSAS CITY

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 21—(By the A. P.)—Bunching their base hits and aided by errors and bases on balls, the Kansas City American association team had little trouble downing the Baltimore internationals in the sixth game in the little world series here this afternoon, 12 to 5. This gives Kansas City four wins against two for Baltimore, and means that the Blues must win only one game in the remaining three to clinch the minor league title.

Lefty Groves, Baltimore's strikeout king, started on the rubber for Baltimore, and walked four of the first five men to face him, forcing in a run. Hammond drove in two more with a single to right and Ogden was rushed to the rescue. Thomas and Frank hurled later.

Having got off to a three run lead, the Blues were never headed. The Orioles threatened for a minute in the fourth inning, but lost all hope when their defense weakened and Kansas City runs kept pouring in.

Slim Caldwell, hurling for the winners, was touched up for thirteen hits, but the former big leaguer tightened up in the pinches. All five of Baltimore's runs were the result of homers out of the park. Boley, Stiles, Pitt and Lawry made the four base socks, and Boley was on first in the fourth inning when Stiles hit into the right field bleachers.

Joe Boley, Oriole shortstop, was the chief offender in the error line, making three boots which led to tallies. John McGraw, manager of the New York Nationals, was in the stands and it was reported he made the trip from New York to see Boley and Groves in action. Both players were far off color.

Attendance 11, 399; receipts $17,385.-25.

Nuggets vs. Battery B.

Now that the outdoor baseball season is over the Nuggets team will open the indoor season this evening against the Battery B team at the State Armory. The Nuggets have been in the field for the past two seasons playing both the outdoor and indoor games with a fair amount of success. Last winter they gave the service team some strong opposition and were rated as one of the leading indoor teams in the city.

The game tonight will start at 8.30 o'clock immediately after the drill of the battery. It is expected that a large following of the Nugget team will be present at the opening game.

Judsons Beat Melrose A. A.

The Judson team took a hard fought battle from the Melrose A. A. team on Sunday afternoon by a score of 21 to 14. The Melrose team was outweighed but put up a strong game against their heavier opponents. Kelly was the star for the Melrose team. The Melrose team has an open date for next Sunday.

West Ends Win

The West Ends trimmed the Pearl street All Stars Sunday afternoon 14 to 7. Binderman and Talen starred for the West Ends and Trom and Swartsberg for the Stars.

SISLER APPOINTED MANAGER OF ST. LOUIS AMERICANS

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 21 (By the A. P.)—George Sisler, who was adjudged the most valuable player in the American league in 1922, and who was unable to play his position at first base this year, on account of eye trouble, has been appointed manager of the St. Louis Americans, according to an announcement by Bill Friel, business manager for the club.

In making the announcement, Friel declared that Sisler had signed a contract to manage the team but that no details, such as salary or length of time, have been decided upon yet.

Sisler, who is reported on good authority to be recovering from the effects of sinus trouble which impaired his vision last season, succeeds Jimmy Austin, who was appointed temporary manager of the team after the release of Lee Fohl, the latter part of the season just ended.

It was pointed out in sporting circles that Sisler by affixing his signature to a contract had agreed to pilot the team for at least one year, and that his future as manager depended upon the showing the club made next season.

Sisler has a four-year contract with the team which he signed in 1921 and which still has another year to run, but it was stated that this contract in all probability would be superseded by the one under which he will manage the club.

Sisler will be one of the youngest managers in major league baseball. He is 30 years old, and came direct to the Browns from the University of Michigan about five years ago as a pitcher. His all-around playing ability and heavy batting precluded him remaining a pitcher, and he was stationed at first base.

In 1922, Sisler tied the high batting record of the American league which was set by Ty Cobb, of the Detroit Tigers when he hung up an average of .420.

ZEV READY TO MEET MY OWN AT ANY TIME

New York, Oct. 21.—Zev, conqueror of Papyrus, is ready to meet My Own, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson's thoroughbred, for the three-year-old crown, and Harry F. Sinclair, owner of Zev, is willing that such a match should be staged within the next ten days, it was announced tonight.

It was said on behalf of the owner of the American champion that he preferred Belmont Park as the scene of the proposed race. The Zev-My Own contest would appease those race followers who have felt that My Own was the better horse and should have been the American opponent of Papyrus.

Grayson has sought a meeting with Zev for some time. Both he and his trainer, William T. Burch, are understood to nourish the firm conviction that Zev can defeat Zev over any distance beyond a mile and a furlong. Zev was entered in the recent National Trial Sweepstakes and My Own was brought from Maryland to appear against him, but at the eleventh hour Zev was withdrawn from this race. Then it was proposed that Zev should race my own at Accueduct October 6 at one mile and furlong, but My Own's owner rejected this offer on the ground that a race over this distance as an elimination test of American claimants for the privilege of meeting Papyrus would have no value.

Papyrus showed no signs of the soreness in the knee joint that had worried his trainr Basil Jarvis considerably ten days ago. He spent the day quietly and was given only walking exercise.

Zev also had a day of idleness, his exercise being limited to walking, just enough to relieve the monotony of his box stall.

NO MORE BOXING BOUTS IN AMERICAN LEGION PARKS

Chicago, Oct. 21—Baseball and prize fighting do not go together, President B. B. Johnson, of the American League declared here and hereafter fistic encounters will be prohibited in the American League Parks, Mr. Johnson said that the League is opposed to the association of the two sports and has taken a stand against the use of its park for prize fights.

The subject recently was discussed by Mr. Johnson with Colonel Jacob Ruppert, of the world's champion New York Yankees at whose park the Willard-Floyd Johnson bout was held and the Colonel, who is said to be in accord with the move, asked the league executive to withhold action until certain contracts regarding the use of the Yankee Stadium had been fulfilled. Meantime other club owners were sounded out on the subject and are understood to favor the prohibition of boxing matches in their parks.

President Johnson also is opposed to rodeo contests such as was held in the Yankee stadium recently, on the ground that it was impossible to keep the fields in good condition if such contests were permitted.

FAVORITES ON COLLEGE GRIDIRONS COME THROUGH WITHOUT A DEFEAT

New York, Oct. 21—A long established precedent was broken Saturday when not a single upset developed in the long list of week end college gridiron engagements.

To be sure several of the favored elevens won their games by margins greater than were generally expected, while several others fell somewhat under the predictions, but in every instance the favored team left its respective playing field bearing the traditional trophy of gridiron triumph, a battered football.

Noteworthy among the happenings of that unusual day in football were Notre Dame's slaughtering of Princeton, 26 to 2; Cornell's one-sided win over Colgate, 34 to 7; Harvard's difficult 6 to 0 victory over Holy Cross; Army's remarkable comeback, 28 to 6, against Auburn; Penn State's 21 to 3 swamping of the navy; Dartmouth's 27 to 3 revenge upon Vermont and West Virginia's high scoring display in rolling up 81 points on Marshall.

Clever strategy on the part of the coaches and brilliant individual and combination work on the part of players, particularly in their successful employment of the forward pass, contributed largely to the success of the victorious elevens.

Effective tactical schemes were shown by Coach Knute Rockne of Notre Dame in the Princeton game, and by Coach Gil Dobie of Cornell in the Colgate contest at Ithaca.

The former, through the Notre Dame West Point engagement one week ago, had impressed easterners and particularly the Princeton scouts with the strength of Notre Dame's forward passing attack, and knowing Princeton would be guarding against aerial attack, Rockne ordered his eleven to open up with an end-running and off-tackle sweeping attack. In a half dozen plays of this type the Hoosiers were over for a touchdown and thereafter both his rushing and his passing game proved effective against Coach Roper's team.

The reverse development proved effective in the Cornell-Colgate game, for Colgate came to Ithaca carefully prepared to check Cornell's strong running game, only to find Dobie employing an overhead game of both accuracy and deception.

Cornell's victory marked the twentieth consecutive triumph since Dobie became Cornell's head coach.

Harvard's failure to soundly trounce Cleo O'Donnell's Holy Cross eleven came as a bitter disappointment to many Harvard supporters. The latter stung by the recent 6 to 6 tie with Middlebury expected the Crimson would offer a much superior brand of play and the majority looked for a winning margin of at least three touchdowns against the Worcester College. Visions of a possible defeat when the Crimson meets Dartmouth next Saturday now are entertained.

Smythe, the army quarterback, proved the outstanding figure in the West Point-Auburn game, with two sensational runs, one of more than 70 yards and another of more than 90 yards, to touchdowns.

The other game involving a service eleven, that between Penn State and Navy, also boasted an outstanding individual in Wilson the Penn State backfield man, whose brilliant open field work aided the Nittany Lions in their victory. Wilson made three runs, one of 55, 77 and 95 yards.

The tightest engagement of the day involving big elevens was that at the Yankee stadium where the Syracuse eleven defeated Pittsburgh for the first time in many years by a place-

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Manufacturers' Association Annual.

The Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut announces that its fourteenth annual meeting will be held on November 22 at the Hotel Taft, New Haven.

The meeting will consist of group conferences in the morning, business sessions both morning and afternoon and a luncheon meeting at which there will be a well known speaker.

Broadway Theatre Vaudeville Season Starting Today.

The feature attraction for the new vaudeville season at the Broadway theatre or the first half of this week starting today is Sue Emerson's Emerald Revue, featuring seven people in a variety offering.

Britt Wood is called The Boob and His Harmonica. The Harmony Misses, Leyland and Shannon, follow. Fern and Marie are super excellent comedians, making this a wonderful programme.

The sharp clash of divergent domestic differences between a wife who loves her home, her husband and her child, and a happy-go-lucky husband who loves his "liberty" form the basis of "Marriage Morals," a super-picture of power, punch and purpose, which will be the attraction at the Broadway theatre on Monday.

Strand Treatre.

Directing a director! It's not many directors who get such an assignment.

Therefore, in "Hollywood," James Cruze stands distinctive, as Cecil B. De Mille is one of the most notable players in this unique screen novelty which discloses chiefly a score of the most famous persons in filmdom.

Mr. Cruse found his director-player exceedingly easy to handle, however, for long before he became a director Cecil B. De Mille was a stage player, his last success being sixteen years ago in "The Prince Chap."

Mr. Cruze filmed Mr. De Mille playing himself, in other words signing players to a contract of members of his staff. Thus for the first time the world will be shown the famous room in which Pola Negri, Thomas Meighan, Gloria Swanson, William S. Hart, Agnes Ayres and many others were changed in a minute from leading players to famous stars.

"Hollywood," which was written by Frank Condon and adapted for the screen by Tom Geraghty, comes to the Strand theatre today. It shows the experience of ambitious persons trying to become film players, it flashes Hollywood's boulevards on the screen, the luncheon places, Hollywood hotel and scores of other places made famous by the most talked of city in the world. It is a James Cruze production for Paramount.

A comedy and news are the short subjects.

"The Cheat," Big Photoplay With Happy Ending at New Palace.

A picture story with a happy ending for Pola Negri! That is something which the admirers of this celebrated screen star will see in "The Cheat," her latest Paramount picture, produced by George Fitzmaurice, which will be on view at the Palace theatre for three days commencing Monday. The story written by Hector Turnbull, is said to provide Miss Negri with one of the most delightful roles she has ever essayed.

The story of "The Cheat" deals with a wealthy girl of Latin-American parentage who, to avoid wedding an old man, chosen by her father, elopes with a young American. In Paris she is loved by an art swindler disguised as an East Indian prince who follows her to New York. The girl is disinherited by her father, and unused to poverty, she accepts the supposed Hindu's offer of money with which to gamble. At first she wins, then loses not only her own money but a charity fund intrusted to her. Panic-stricken, she borrows from the "prince" and promises to dine with him alone in return for the loan.

At this juncture her husband wins a small fortune by putting over a lumber deal, and gives her $25,000. She writes a check for the amount due the Hindu and carries it to his home. But he tells her she doesn't want the money — he wants her. When she seeks to escape he drags her to a table and brands her as a "cheat." She takes up a revolver and shoots him, then escapes from the house just as her husband steps into the scene.

From this point on, the action is rapid and races swiftly to one of the finest climaxes ever seen on the screen. The ending is happy. The part of the husband is played by Jack Holt, popular Paramount star, while the lose of the disguised Hindu prince is in the capable hands of Charles de Roche, the famous French screen star.

The style concert vaudeville offered at the palace, which met instant approval will be another feature as will a mirth-provoking comedy. News Weekly and organ recitation by Miss Florence Caton, whose masterly playing has been real treat to Norwich music lovers.

Rex Beach's Story, "The Spoilers," at the Bread.

Rex Beach's story of the Klondike gold rush, "The Spoilers," has lost none of its glamor, none of its vividness and none of its drama in the years that have passed since it was written—and that have passed since it was first put upon the screen ten years ago by Colonel Selig. The new version, produced by Jesse D. Hampton, with Lambert Hillyer directing, was shown last night at the Bread theatre and it held the big audience completely in its grasp. The production is on a bigger and more spectacular scale than was the original as was to be expected, seeing how rapid the progress and technique of making pictures has been, and the great fight staged between the hero and the villain surpasses that of a decade ago.

"The Spoilers" is a true picture of life in the Klondike gold rush and the attempt of certain unprincipled adventurers to jump the claims of the early miners. Its story has a peculiar fascination over the minds of red-blooded Americans. The picture is one of the best made in recent years and there is no doubt that it will repeat the big success of its first screen incarnation.

The case is certainly one of the most notable that has ever been seen in any one photoplay. It reads like a "Who's Who" of the screen—Milton Sills, Barbara Bedford, Anna Q. Nilsson, Noah Beery, Robert Edeson, Mitchell Lewis, Wallace MacDonald, Ford Sterling, Robert McKim, Sam de Grasse, John Elliott, Louis Fazenda, Kate Price, Albert Roscoe, Tom McGuire and Jack Curtis.

The fight between Milton Sills, who is the Roy Glennister, and Noah Beery, impersonating the villainous Alex McNamara, is without doubt the greatest screen fight ever filmed. It is stated that it required five days to film this fight scene. Both men are excellent fighters as well as excellent actors and they really fought. Barbara Bedford and Anna Q. Nilsson share honors in feminine leads. It would be hard to improve upon the casting of this production.

The Pathe News and Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Slater Hall Musical Course.

This morning, October 22, the course tickets for the Slater Hall Musical Course 1923-24 will be on sale at The Cranston Co., Broadway, at 9 o'clock.

Course tickets are $5 (four concerts) tax exempt.

The famous artists to appear in the concert series will be as follows:

On Friday, November 2, Jeanne Gordon, leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company.

Jeanne Gordon has had a sensational rise to fame. Though engaged only three years ago as a member of the Metropolitan Opera Co., Miss Gordon is acknowledged to be a foremost artist of this world's premier operatic organization. Jeanne Gordon possesses a wonderful voice, beauty of face and figure and personal charm. But she does not depend on these requisites for success. She, herself, put it thus: "Art is a jealous mistress and the true artist must realize that the price of success is self denial. She must work, work, work, study, study, study. Miss Gordon has increased her repertoire until it includes all the important parts for her vocal songs.

On Friday evening, January 11th, Percy Gramger the famous Australian pianist and composer will appear. A Gramger recital is a splendid piece of artistry.

On Wednesday evening, February 6th, Olive Marshall, the noted young soprano, and Jean Bedetti, the distinguished 'cellist of the Boston Symphony orchestra will appear in joint recital.

On Friday evening, March 7th, Erna Rubinstein, the phenomenal young violinist will appear. Erna Rubinstein belongs without question to the line of successes that links up with the great days of Joachini and Sarasati.

Critics compare the playing of this young artist to that of Kreisler and Heifitz.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

SATURDAY MARKET.

New York, Oct. 20.—Stock prices developed moderate strength in today's half-holiday session.

Narrow and irregular fluctuations took place at the opening with a renewal of heaviness in the rubbers and some of the oils, but the appearance of substantial buying orders in the usual leaders and another brisk inquiry for the tobaccos set in motion a covering movement which continued active up to the close.

The only important trade developments of the day was the declaration of the regular dividend by the directors of Stewart-Warner Speedometer and another cut of 20 cent a barrel on crude oil by the Humble Oil & Refining Co.

Substantial buying orders in Northern Pacific and Great Northern preferred resulted in net gains of about of 1 3-4 points each, recovering most of the ground lost by the selling of inspired by speculative fear of a reduction in freight rates on grain.

Strength of the tobaccos was attributed to inside buying preliminary to a consummation of merger negotiations. Oil shares were helped by the favorable report of the Phillips Petroleum company, for the third quarter, that stock closing a point higher at 24. Pan-American issues also snapped back about a point above yesterday's closing figures on heavy short selling.

Some of the other strong spots were American Can, American Woolen, Chandler Motor, Coco Cola, Corn Products, Dupont, Gulf States Steel, Hartman corporation, Kelly-Springfield, Maxwell Motors A, National Enameling, Studebaker, U. S. Rubber, Willys Overland preferred and Woolworth, all up 1 to 3 points.

Foreign exchanges turned decidedly weak on reports that Germany was about to break with France on the question of reparations. Demand sterling dropped nearly 1 1-2 cents to $4.50 2-4. French francs yielded 3 1-2 points to 5.89 1-3 cents and Belgian francs registered a similar decline at 5.19 cents. German marks dropped to .05-100 of one cent a hundred million, the weekly Reichsbank statement showing an increase of more that 18 quadrillion marks.

The weekly clearing house statement showed increases in all important items. Loans, discounts and investments increased $10,590,000; reserve of member banks in the federal reserve bank $22,819,000; net demand deposits, $46,115,000; time deposits, $10,960,00 and circulation $20,000. Aggregate reserve totaled $630,248,000, leaving excess reserve of $22,100,730, an increase of $17,476,520 over the week before.

Thomas Greenwood, Jr., of North Second avenue, has accepted a position with the Central Vermont railroad.

Officer Dolan of Jewett City arrested five young men in Lisbon on Sunday for gambling on the state highway and they will be presented by Grand Juror Helmboldt before Justice Drew this week.

NORWICH HAS HIGHEST NUMBER OF AUTOS REGISTERED IN TOWNS OF COUNTY

Motor vehicle registrations in Connecticut for 1923 had reached 177,661 by October 1, a figure in excess of the registrations for all of 1922, according to statistics given out at the state motor vehicle department. By the same date last year 151,014 motor vehicles had been registered.

Receipts of the department for the 1923 registrations on that date aggregated $3,326,854.48, an increase of $535,972.84 over the receipts for the corresponding nine months of 1923. Private owners registered 141,684 of the cars; there were 27,717 trucks, 2,663 motor cycles, 1,651 side cars, 2,353 public service cars 312 jitneys, 1,931 combination cars and the remainder were, dealers' cars.

The exact number of motor vehicles registered from each town and city of the state is not usually determined by the department until the close of the calendar year, but an estimate was made of the number of registrations from each town of the state.

The figures show the county registrations as follows: Hartford, 42,839; Fairfield, 40,393; New Haven, 36,536; New London, 11,344; Litchfield, 10,645; Middlesex, 6,032; Windham, 5,513; Tolland, 4002. The three big cities of the state naturally show the highest in machines registered. Hartford 15,300, New Haven 13,800 and Bridgeport 13,200. These are the only cities in which 10,000 cars or over are registered.

New London County: Bozrah 100, Colchester 240, East Lyme 340, Franklin 95, Griswold 554, Groton 1,038, Lebanon 201, Ledyard 175, Lisbon 105, Lyme 205, Montville 337, New London 2,800, North Stonington 200, Norwich, 3,814, Old Lyme 200 Preston 200, Salem 45, Sprague 226, Stonington 1,269, Voluntown 100, Waterford 400, total 11,344.

Windham County: Ashford 103, Brooklyn 260, Canterbury 153, Chaplin 48, Eastford 125, Hampton 80, Killingly 730, Plainfield 620, Pomfret 265, Putnam 800, Scotland 59, Sterling 235, Thompson 456, Windham 1,206, Woodstock 405, total 5,513.

Tolland County: Andover 77, Bolton 150, Columbia 76, Coventry 280, Ellington 430, Hebron 125, Mansfield 435, Somers 408, Stratford 600, Tolland 200, Union 29, Vernon 926, Willington 267, total 4,003.

TEACHERS' CONVENTION IN THIS CITY NEXT FRIDAY

Friday will be a holiday for the children in the public schools of Norwich as the fall meetings of the Connecticut teachers' Association will be held that day in Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport and this city. Edward J. Graham, superintendent of the Norwich schools, will be the chairman of the Norwich meeting. The teachers of the schools have received programmes and schedules of the meetings.

It has been announced that the poster contest last year under the auspices of the Connecticut Humane Society is to be an annual affair. There will be an exhibit of humane posters at each of the district meetings Friday. Last year about 3,000 posters were submitted from over 100 towns in the state and the cash awards totaled $800. The posters submitted in the contest were exceptionally good and a number of them showed real artistic skill.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE ON JEWETT CITY ROAD

Shortly before 9 o'clock Sunday night a Star touring car owned and operated by Joseph Polowski, Oak street, Jewett City, ran into an Overland owned and driven by Reuben Ladd of No. 8 Union street, this city, on the Jewett City road, about half way between Tafts station and Jewett City. Mr. Ladd was driving towards Norwich and the Polowski machine was headed the opposite direction. Mr. Ladd stated that he drew off to the extreme right of the road and the Star car suddenly shot across the road, striking his machine. The Overland lost a hup cap on the left rear wheel and the left rear mudguard was bent.

The Star car lost a left front hup cap the rim on the wheel was bent, as was also the left front mudguard. Mr. Ladd reported the accident at the police station on his arrival in this city.

SATURDAY NIGHT FIRE IN JAIL HILL HOUSE

Discovery of smoke on the second floor of the house at No. 37 Happy street owned by Frank Russilli, and a prompt call to the fire department Saturday night at 8.48 o'clock prevented a bad fire. The occupants on the second floor discovered smoke in their rooms coming from the tenement downstairs occupied by Joseph Berghinzo, vendor of nuts, Berghinzo was unaware of any fire in his tenement until notified by the tenants above.

A call was sent in to the department and in the meanwhile a search was made of the tenement. Every room and closet but one was searched but no fire was found. The firemen discovered the makings of a good sized blaze in the remaining room where Berghinzo had his stock of nuts. The blaze was quickly extinguished with a loss under $50. The origin of the fire could not be learned but an investigation will be made by the department.

A word of caution to the people living on the hilly sections of the city was sent out from the fire department Sunday night, calling attention to the fact that the water in the reservior is low and that the hydrant pressure on the hills has greatly decreased. In case of fire on the hilly sections of the city it will be necessary to hook up a pumper in order to get a working stream as there is hardly enough pressure to send the water through the hose lines. Laying long lines of hose and connecting up a pumper consumes valuable moments when a fire is spreading through a building.

OBLIGATIONS TO THE DEAD EMPHASIZED BY RECTOR

As the Catholic church devotes the entire month of November to remembrance of the dead, Rev. M. H. May, rector of St. Patrick's church, spoke Sunday morning at the 7:30 mass of this tender and consoling custom. The classical city of Athens is the only one which erected an altar to Pity; but in the heart of every mortal is an altar of pity—the impulse to show mercy to those in distress, to alleviate suffering. Since this is the inclination of mankind toward the living, it should be even more marked toward the dead, now unable to help themselves—depending for aid upon the prayers and good works of their friends among the living. The preacher quoted the cry of Job, "Have pity on me, have pity on me, at least you, my friends; for the hand of the Lord hath touched me!"

Blessed are the dead, who die in the Lord, their works do follow them. But as these works may be marred by imperfections, and as nothing with blemish can enter into the presence of God, it is but logical to conclude that for those souls tarnished by even the slightest taint of sin there must be a purgation place, a period during which they must atone, before becoming worthy to enjoy the Beatific Vision. In this state of purgatory they themselves are helpless; but they can be aided by the pious prayers and good deeds of those on earth, by the offering of the holy sacrifice of the mass. They are friends of God—merely detained from His presence. Prayer for one's self is a duty, a necessity; prayer for the dead is true charity. It must and will be granted by heaven. In too many instances, those dear ones who have passed on are forgotten; now they cry out in the plea of Job for the remembrance of their friends on earth.

The day was the 22nd Sunday after Pentecost, the epistle being Philippians 1, 6-11 and the gospel Matthew 22, 15-21. The communicants were led to the altar by the members of the Rosary Society. Rev. Myles P. Galvin assisted Father May in giving communion to the many hundreds receiving the sacrament.

FAREWELL GIFT OF WATCH TO G. R. GIFFORD

Associates of George R. Gifford, for the past 11 years buyers of toilet goods, notions and leather goods for Reid & Hughes Co., surprised him on Saturday morning when he entered the store by presenting him a handsome Hamilton gold watch. Mr. Gifford, taken by surprise, thanked his co-workers for their fine gift and said that it would always be a reminder of the many happy years spent with his Norwich friends.

On Saturday evening Mr. Gifford severed his connections with the Reid & Hughes company to take up his new work with a large Providence dry goods store. His many friends here wish him every success in his new field, regretting that he is to leave the city.

THAMES RIVER BRIDGE LEADS IN MOTOR TRAVEL

Exactly 371,286 automobilists paid fees to cross the three trunk line toll bridges in Connecticut during July, August, and September, in comparison with 339,917 during the same period a year ago, the state highway department announced Friday in making public a statement of receipts from toll bridges for the past summer. These three months have always been productive of greater revenue to the state than any others due to the large amount of summer motoring through the state and to the various shore resorts along the Sound.

Inasmuch as the collection of tolls on bridges will, by law, cease on December 31, the statement is especially significant as it is the last summer during which motorists will be taxed to cross the bridges at Haybrook, New London and Haddam.

There was an increase of $6,124.10 in the receipts from the operation of the bridges, which aggregated $145,143.40 for the three months, compared with $139,029.30 during July, August and September in 1922.

Comparative figures show that although twice as many Connecticut automobiles traversed the bridges as there were foreign cars, the traffic of out-of-the state machines through Connecticut at the summer season is very heavy, as shown by the following table:

| | Foreign Cars | Conn. Cars |
|---|---|---|
| Saybrook Bridge | 39,502 | 95,427 |
| Haddam Bridge | 3,164 | 28,166 |
| New London Bridge | 85,038 | 119,969 |
| Totals | 127,704 | 243,562 |

Following is a comparative statement of receipts at the three bridges during the three months:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Thames River bridge, | | |
| New London | $72,059.75 | $72,566.95 |
| Saybrook bridge | 56,181.95 | 58,370.15 |
| Haddam bridge | 10,839.60 | 14,216.30 |
| | $139,029.30 | $145,153.40 |

Interesting data concerning the character of vehicles crossing the bridges is shown in the quarterly report. At New London, horse-drawn vehicles numbered 1,360, while 3,184 one seated, and 3,088 two seated motorcycles paid toll. Small auto trucks numbered 22,355, and large auto trucks 1,729.

Over the Saybrook Lyme bridge, the state's cross was a three-horse vehicle, which paid a fee of thirty-five cents, with three passengers. Large auto trucks numbered 1,152 during the three months, and there were 8,532 small auto trucks recorded. Sixty five one-horse vehicles crossed, as well as twelve two-horse vehicles.

The Haddam-East Haddam Bridge recorded the passage of two four-horse vehicles during the summer, together with 750 one-horse vehicles and 252 two-horse vehicles. Small auto trucks totalled 5,423 and those of larger size were recorded at 268.

A wide use of coupon books, which make possible a lower rate of toll, is shown in the statements from the three bridges.

NAVY DAY OBSERVANCE HAS GOMPER'S APPROVAL

Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, has written a letter strongly endorsing the observance of October 27 as Navy Day, and saying his views on war and unpreparedness have changed since the outbreak of the World War.

"It is the American hope, in which I share," said Mr. Gompers in his lecture, "that the American Navy shall be the envoy and messenger of peace not only of our own country but of the world, and, in any eventuality, defend the lives and the heritage of our citizenship."

Secretary Hoover also has written to Secretary Denby endorsing the Navy Day movement, in which he states, that, in addition to being the first line of national defense and an instrument to maintain peace, the navy has other functions to perform. Mr. Hoover points out that with our degree of civilization Americans have come to be dependent to a considerable degree for national standards of living and comfort upon our foreign trade, through imports of commodities America cannot produce and the export of surplus products.

"The continuance of this service," Mr. Hoover says, "depends at once upon maintenance of order and protection upon the seas in peace as well as wartime. We, as a nation, must contribute to this sea policy. Beyond this, the enterprise and initiative of our merchants in establishing their trade and the launching of their ships rest in great measure in their confidence that this police power exists, that it acts and that it will continue. An efficient navy would be necessary even though we had no major problems of national defense."

The submarine base on the Thames is preparing for an adequate observance of Navy Day next Saturday.

RUSSIAN CATHEDRAL SEXTETTE HEARD IN CONCERT

Sunday afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock a fine concert programme of an hour was given in the United Congregational church under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., by the Russian Cathedral Sextette. An audience that filled the body of the church enjoyed the artistic rendering of the programme in ensemble numbers which were given with well blended voices and the beautiful tenor solo by Nicholas Vasileiff.

The sextette includes Mme. A. Schilkevich, soprano; Mme. X. Oganoff, mezzo-soprano; Alexander Vikinsky, tenor; Nicholas Vasileiff, tenor; Nicholas Antanoff, bass; Alexander Kandiba, bass; Harry Wilhem pianist-accompanist.

It will be the first number on the Y. M. C. A. entertainment course which opens (tonight). The programme given Sunday was as follows: Lord Have Mercy. (Responses from the Liturgy of John Chrysostem). Prayer of the Good Thief, Lvoff; In Church, Tschaikowsky; trio, Gold Clouds, Dargomisky, Mme. Schilkevich and Messrs. Vikinsky, Antanoff: Solo, The Wayward, Massenet. Nicholas Vasileiff; piano solo, Sixth Hungarian Rhapsody, Liszt Harry Wilhelm; Volga Boatmen's Song, Folk Song, quartette; A Song of India, Rimsky Korakoff, sextette; Sextette from Lucia, Donizetti, sextette.

THREE HURT IN CRASH NEAR OCCUM FLATS

Three persons were slightly injured between 10 and 10.30 o'clock Sunday evening when an automobile driven by Louis Fontaine of Baltic and a machine driven by Dona Monty, of Plainfield collided near the Occum flats. Mrs. Charles Monty, her daughter-in-law and a child sustained injuries which were dressed by Dr. George Thompson of Taftville.

Mr. Monty's car was considerably damaged but Mr. Fontaine's car received only a smashed running board. The local police were notified and they in turn notified the state police who conducted an investigation.

SHOWER GIVEN AT LEDYARD FOR NORWICH TOWN GIRL

A miscellaneous shower was given Miss Mildred Kinney of Norwich Town and Ray S. Holdridge, Saturday evening at the residence of Judge and Mrs. S. E. Holdridge, in Ledyard, in honor of their approaching marriage. There was a good number in attendance and handsome as well as practical presents were given them. Cake, sandwiches and apples were served during the evening.

PLAINFIELD MAN ARRESTED BY NEW LONDON POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 21.—The automobile owned and operated by Isadore Bassin, of Plainfield and a machine, owned and driven by Frank Jakubiak 58 Gold street, New Britain, were in collision this afternoon on Main street, near the corner of Mill street. Bassin was arrested on a charge of violation of the automobile laws, in failing to have his registration in his possession. Bassin also had a loaded .38-calibre revolver in the machine. Bassin was relieved of the revolver and explained his reason for being possessed of the weapon as providing protection for himself and declared that he had a permit to carry the revolver at his home, the permit having been issued by an official of Plainfield.

CLASH BETWEEN ENGLISH SAILORS AND BLUE JACKETS AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 21.—A clash between sailors of H. M. S. Valerian, moored at the state pier, and bluejackets stationed at the submarine base, occurred late last night on Main street. Patrolman Augustus Ray was near at hand so a more serious affair was averted. The responsibility for the fight, it is alleged by Patrolman Ray, was with the bluejackets, who, it is claimed, made uncomplimentary remarks to the foreign sailors, the latter resenting the alleged insult and attacking the local sailors. Patrolman Ray put an end to the combat in quick time.

S. H. Spiegel of Pittsburgh, Pa., was in New London Saturday, making inquiries as to the whereabouts of his uncle, Louis, alias Leopold, Weinberger, who, it was believed by Spiegel, was located in New London. No trace of Weinberger was found by Spiegel or the police. Spiegel declared that his uncle immigrated to this country in 1873 and he had been informed that Weinberger had established himself in business in New London.

James M. Graves, agent for property at 147 Main street, complained to the police Saturday that vandals continue to make a practice of entering the property and causing damage.

Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel has caused the operators' licenses of Edward Foley, 39 Terrace avenue, and Patrick J. Cosgrove, 7 West street, to be returned to the owners.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Kenerson have returned to their home, 290 Crystal avenue, having resided in Canaan fourteen months. Mr. Kenerson is a member of the state police and until a few days ago was stationed at Canaan, but who is now connected with the force at Groton barracks.

Earl Merry, 42 Maple avenue, complained to the police Saturday that during Friday a thief boarded his power boat which was moored in the rear of the plant of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company and stole a battery.

Lieut. Dingwell, U. S. N., stationed at the plant of the Ship & Engine company, where a number of submarines are receiving repairs, reported to the police late Friday night that while his automobile was parked in front of the Crocker house a thief entered the machine and stole the two cushions from the front seat.

Harry W. Platt, chief train dispatcher in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, is ill at his home on Berkeley avenue.

The funeral of Miss Flora M. Smith, whose death occurred at a Hartford hospital the 17th inst., was held Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the Methodist church at Niantic. The services were conducted by Rev. George Potter, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. W. D. Woodward, of Gales Ferry and a former pastor. Burial was in Union cemetery, Niantic.

Leigh Craig Holder and Miss Madeline D. Vreeland, both of New London, were married Friday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth.

Mrs. John Dobrow of Groton and Mrs. Ralph Mudgett nad infant of Salem, were patients discharged Saturday at Home Memorial hospital.

Mrs. Arthur Marooney and infant son of Williams street, Ida Otis of Main street and Mrs. Everett Buck of Washington, D. C., patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Cornelius Walker, a chauffeur residing at 14 Blydenburg avenue, has been summoned to appear in the police court tomorrow morning and answer to a charge of non-support. It is claimed by Walker that he has supported his wife, making regular weekly allowances to her, except for about two weeks, during which time he was out of work.

Patrolman William Corcoran is off duty because of illness.

The "stop" and "go" signal, which the police department caused to be operated at the corner of State and Bank streets a week ago, has been discarded, as being unsuitable and a cause of confusion to both autoists and pedestrians. As a result of the doing away with this type of signal the traffic officers are now resorting to the former hand signals in guiding traffic at this point.

Salvatore Covino, 58 West Colt street, complained to the police about 1.30 o'clock this morning that while his automobile was motionless beside the curb on Bank street, near Shaw street, an automobile, owned and operated by William Bedour of 61 Jackson street, Yonkers, N. Y., crashed against the former automobile and caused considerable damage. Bedour was arrested by Patrolman James McKenna, charged with reckless driving, and furnished a bond for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

A window in the store 153 Main street, was smashed in a mysterious manner about 1.15 o'clock this morning. The proprietor of the store, a foreigner, resides in the dwelling over the store and hearing the crash of glass, looked out of the window and saw two men running through Main street. The police were notified and Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Augustus Ray were sent to the store. Later, three young men against whom suspicion pointed as being the window breakers, were taken into custody, but they were quickly released, as no evidence could be obtained that either of them caused the destruction of the window.

George McNickle, 18 Cleveland street, complained to the police this morning that dogs owned by a neighbor are making a nuisance of themselves, being allowed to roam about the premises in the neighborhood. McNickle also alleged that this morning one of the animals killed a cat.

James Fowler, contractor, who is laying granolithic sidewalks in front of the Williams Memorial Institute, complained to the police this forenoon that lanterns placed on the building material there nightly to warn pedestrians and operators of vehicles of points of danger, have been stolen.

Thomas Fitch, 222 Connecticut avenue, reported to the police this morning that a driver of an automobile alighted from the machine and, removing a bag from the vehicle, carried it to the Fitch yard and, finding a window to the cellar open, hurled the bag into the building. Mr. Fitch examined the bag a few minutes later and after obtaining the registration of the machine, and to his surprise found that the bag contained three kittens. The automobile is listed as being owned by Broonno Lasowsky, of Oakdale.

Harold Eldridge, 61 Hempstead street, employed by the Howard Street Coal company, was arrested this afternoon by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, charged with breach of the peace, upon complaint of his sister-in-law, Iola Richards, a girl of about 13 years. He was unable to procure a surety on his bond and was locked up, pending the convening of court. Eldridge, according to the complainant, engaged in a quarrel with his wife, Saturday evening, over money matters and the quarrel was resumed this afternoon. Miss Richards became involved in the argument and she alleges that Eldridge struck her and then ordered her from the house.

Morris Koslofsky, in recent years a peddlar from an automobile hereabouts and who supported a couple of cars in that business, was a relieved man when Judge Smith in the police court Saturday pronounced a fine of $100 as the penalty Koslofsky would have to pay for an offense against morality in the possession of cigarettes which were not for smoking purposes. Koslofsky might have been sent to jail for two years and fined $1000 if the maximum penalty was imposed in his case. He did not offer any defense except a technical objection to the proceedings taken.

The liquor law violation complaint against the proprietor of the Ideal rooming house and his woman assistant on a charge of keeping liquor for sale and for actual sale, is not to get to trial till the 29th inst. Robert Rasmussen is the accused owner of the place and Nora Young, a woman who has been employed in restaurants, is accused as the person in whose room the liquor was found. The absence of a witness has caused the delay in getting the case before the court for a hearing.

Anthony Cawley, an employe of the Robert Gair company at Montville, will receive his mail at the county jail for the next fortnight. He was found intoxicated in this city Friday night and when Policeman John Courtney, a considerate officer, endeavored to induce him to get on a trolley car and go to his boarding place, Cawley was disposed to resent the advice and to be so nasty that the officer arrested him. He was fined $5 in the police court. As he had no cash he had to go to jail to work out about $13 for the county.

E. F. Taylor, a Beichertown man, fared better. He came here to ship on a vessel, but didn't succeed in doing that so he became so intoxicated that he was helpless in the street. He begged to be allowed to get away from here and there seemed to be sincerity in his appeal he was given one chance, and left New London.

Groton is to have a new schoolhouse at a cost of some $90,000, the land costing $5,000 and the building the balance of that sum which was appropriated by the Second school district at a meeting Friday evening.

The stationary store of J. Solomon, 30 Main street, was burglarized some time today, for this evening the proprietor so notified the police. Entrance to the store was gained by smashing a rear window. A hasty investigation by Mr. Solomon resulted in the discovery of a number of air rifles having been stolen. Patrolman Augustus Ray, who was assigned to the case was informed by residents of the neighborhood that during the afternoon and after Mr. Solomon had left the store, several boys were observed hanging around the rear of the building.

Complaint was made to the police this evening by residents of East New London that boys were making a nuisance of themselves and causing a danger by the careless use of slingshots.

Minnie E., 64, widow of David C. Branch, died Saturday night at her home, 232 Jefferson avenue. She is survived by three sons, Earl, Walter T., and Leslie Branch. Mrs. Branch was born in Jewett City Aug. 31, 1869, the daughter of Benjamin L. and Harriet Davis Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian D. Moran returned this evening, having spent a fortnight in New York.

Naval Association Reunion

The fifth annual reunion of the Section One Naval association will be held Saturday, October 27, 1923, at Abard Inn, Morris Cove, New Haven. ## Visitors' Week

OCTOBER 22nd to 27th

We want to show you. The week of October 22nd to 27th is "VISITORS' WEEK" in all laundries throughout the country—and here is an especial opportunity for you to inspect a laundry.

Perhaps you have always thought of a laundry as a hot, stuffy, ramshackle building, dirty and filthy; with machinery which tore your clothes into shreds. This prejudice against the laundry industry is unjustified and we want you to come in and inspect us and see for yourselves.

You will be amazed at the cleanliness everywhere—our light, airy plant, and the care that is taken with your clothes. Our machinery is of the latest and most modern design, built especially to preserve your cloth and which really wears them out less than scrubbing. We use the best quality soap we can buy and there are no strong acids used.

COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF. Of course, the laundry will operate on its regular schedule, we will show you just what happens EVERY WEEK!

YOU WILL BE INTERESTED!

POETRY

"OUR REFUGE AND OUR STRENGTH"

Psalm 46.

Thou art our Refuge, O our God!
When tempests wild surge 'round the soul;
We bide us 'neath Thy sheltering rod,
While raging seas around us roll.

Thou art our "Strength" when weakness holds
Our trembling frame in fetters strong;
A "present help," Thine arm enfolds
With tender succor, all day long.

When fear surrounds, as doth a foe
And Earth seems sinking 'neath our feet,
"God is our Refuge" quells our woe,
And calms us with assurance sweet.

"Be still, and know that I am God"—
"The Lord of Hosts is with us still!"—
Yea, though we feel His chastening rod
We'll trust His love, and fear no ill.

Our "God is in the midst," we know,
And, trusting, we shall not be moved
Our "God shall help," as sure as snow,
His word is sure; His promise proved.

"God is our Refuge and our Strength"—
Through blinding tears we sing this song;
His wisdom we shall prove, at length,
And praise Him with the heavenly throng.

—Jennie Wilson-Howell, in Boston Transcript.

THE PASSING.

The hazy hours of the Autumn day have passed,
Through sunlit morn and bronze-red afternoon
Dusk shades of violet gray slant all too soon—
The hazy hours of the Autumn day have passed.

My flaming sumacs give a sense of grieving;
They glow so bright before the coming dark;
When Winter gales shall leave them chill and stark—
My flaming sumacs give a sense of grieving.

So pass the Autumn hours in sober silence;
They creep away, and never can return;
Each day more vaguely does the sunlight burn—
So pass the Autumn hours in sober silence.

—Agnes Choate Wonson, in Boston Globe.

RHINELAND MOVEMENT HAS ENTERED THE FRENCH ZONE

Separatists Are Ready to Execute Reparations Obligations Proportionately to the Number of Rhineland Inhabitants—The Allied Troops and Civil Occupation Authorities Are Remaining Neutral, Treating the Affair as a Matter Entirely Between the Germans—German Government is on the Defensive in Bavaria.

Paris, Oct. 23.—The Coblenz correspondent of the Havas Agency confirms the occupation by the Rhineland separatists of Ruesselsheim, Berncastle, Mayen Duren and Badems, and adds that Sarrburg and Pruem in the Thevez area, and Linz in the Coblenz district, have also gone over to the movement.

Muenchen-Gladbach, he reports, was occupied like the other places, without opposition, and proclamations were posted in Crefeld, Montjoie and Erkelenz. No movement has been manifest in Treves, Coblenz or Bonn, he declares.

(These advices differ in some respects from dispatches received through Germany, declaring that the separatists had little success at Muenchen-Gladbach but on the contrary were successful at Bonn.)

The correspondent of The Temps at Aix-La-Chapelle says the authorities there are not offering the least resistance but on the contrary have tendered their services to Leo Deckers and Dr. Guthardt, the leaders of the movement. The completeness of the agreement and the peacefulness of the change, in which the only bloodshed was the killing of a man caught tearing down the proclamations of the provisional government, at first gave rise to the belief that the Berlin government was behind the movement, hoping thus to control it later, says the correspondent, but this opinion has been abandoned.

He describes the Rhinelanders as completely depressed and suffering under numerous decrees from Berlin which have paralyzed the economic life of the district "and have ended in killing in them that which made them vibrate to an appeal from the German Fatherland.

"They seem to have reached the point of believing that no regime could be worse than the present," he writes. "The population appears indifferent but not hostile to the new regime, which may improve their lot."

The correspondent does not venture an opinion on the importance of Sunday's events. It must be remembered, he points out, that the Rhinelander guards are unarmed. The clubs they carry only detract from their peaceful appearance, he says, whereas the municipal police, the only German force in the Rhineland, are armed. He believes the attitude of these local police will decide how things will turn, as the allied troops and civil occupation authorities are remaining neutral in the affair, which is passing entirely between the Germans.

Dorten and Guthardt are quoted as declaring "We wish to found a state like Belgium was before the war—which would prevent war. We expect difficulties, notably in the British zone, owing to the non-impartial attitude of the occupying powers, but the will of fifteen million inhabitants cannot be resisted.

"Matthes, Smeets and Dorten are not connected with our movement, but we are willing to co-operate with them. Their shuffling policy could only compromise the success of our movement.

"We are prepared to execute our reparation obligations under the treaty of Versailles proportionately to the number of Rhineland inhabitants, but trust that the allies will facilitate our task in return for the security they will at last attain."

HOLDERS OF PAPER MARKS UNABLE TO UNLOAD

Berlin, Oct. 22.—The mark was officially quoted today at forty-million to the dollar. Unofficial quotations ran as high as sixty billions.

Scenes approaching a panic took place on the Bourse today and at the time there was some question of closing the Bourse. The political situation sent the dollar up to forty-seven billion marks after the official rates had been quoted, and all the possessors of large quantities of paper marks tried their utmost to rid themselves of them, while the holders of securities refused to sell for paper marks.

With the rise of the dollar, food prices reaching fantastic heights and the word "millions" gradually disappearing as scarcely anything can be purchased under billions, many of the stalibolders in the public markets preferred not to open today for fear of being plundered, while others anxiously sold their goods from behind the protection of iron shutters. Butter was disposed of in limited quantities at ten billion marks per pound, and it is announced that the price of a loaf of bread will be raised tomorrow to five billion.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT ON DEFENSIVE IN BAVARIA

Berlin, Oct. 23.—(By the A. P.)—With Dr. Von Kahr, the military dictator, and General Von Lossow, commander in chief of the Bavarian reichswehr, completely masters of the situation in Bavaria, the German government for the moment has been forced by the Munich insurgents on the defensive. Its only temporary recourse has been an appeal to the nation and an indictment of Bavaria on the ground that Bavaria is violating paragraph 48 of the republican constitution.

Political leaders confidentially express the opinion that the Berlin authorities have lost out in the judicial contest with the Munich autocrats, in that the latter have so well defended their contention that the whole issue will not be referred to the federal council for interpretation.

This will occur at a special executive session next Wednesday, and the outcome of the debate, involving an interpretation of the Weimar constitution, may be predicted as presaging a further victory for Bavaria, in that her delegates will present her case and in all probability will decline to have her versions disputed.

The Berlin government issued a communique late tonight taking issue with Dr. Von Kahr on his construction of paragraph 48 of the constitution. In the present situation it has no other weapons or methods for obtaining redress, its authority within the borders of Bavaria being wholly superceded by that state's political and military dictatorship.

General Von Lossow's conduct is branded in even the conservative organs as extraordinary and a complete contradiction of the traditions of the German army. "Such conduct would not be tolerated for a single moment in any other army in the world," says the conservative Hamburger Nachrichten.

Private advices from Munich report the situation there as quiet. They say the populace outwardly is supporting Dr. Von Kahr, while General Von Lossow is completely in control of the Bavarian division.

Believing that the conflict between the Munich and Berlin governments will be adjudicated without precipitating serious internal convulsions, Chancellor Stresemann and his cabinet today canvassed the situations in the Ruhr, the Rhineland and Saxony, all three of which suggest far graver complications than the rutpure with the Munich government. In both Saxony and the Ruhr basin the food and social conditions continue to grow worse at a pace which the Berlin government apparently is unable to counteract with relief measures, while the secessionist movement in the Rhineland, also finds the central government a helpless onlooker.

The coupe of the secessionists at Aix-la-Chappell and at other Rhenish points, and Bavaria's rebellion against the central government have gravely complicated the prestige of the Reich in the Ruhr in the opinion expressed in official quarters today, the belief prevailing that the unfortunate syncronizing of the two eruptions has had a lamentable effect upon the morale of the Ruhr people.

Bavaria's intransigeancy is proving a timely ally to the secessionists, in the opinion of the government leaders who see in the activities of the separatists a concealed determination to force the political detachment of the Ruhr basin from Prussian dominion along with the left Rhine bank territory.

DECLINED TO REVIEW CASE OF RUM SCHOONER

Washington, Oct. 22.—The supreme court today declined to review the case of the rum schooner Henry L. Marshall, seized some months ago, 12 miles off the Atlantic City coast, involving the question of the jurisdiction of the United States over foreign vessels outside the three mile limit, but within the twelve mile limit.

The government had told the court that the international phase had been removed from the case by the repudiation by the British government of the British register claimed by the schooner.

The lower federal courts had held that the sale of liquor by the Marshall to persons in small boats constituted establishing contact with the shore and gave the federal government jurisdiction under the customs laws.

DEATH OF MRS. G. G. WEBB DUE TO NATURAL CAUSES

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 22.—The grand jury investigation into the death of Mrs. Gertrude Gorman Webb, wealthy New York and Philadelphia society woman at the Westchester-Biltmore country club in Rye several weeks ago ended today when a presentment was handed down specifically exonerating her husband, Charles, and finding death due to natural causes.

The only echo of the case which still may be heard will come when relatives who had expressed the belief the woman had been poisoned, contest her will, leaving an estate amounting to about $2,000,000 to her husband.

SELECTION OF BEAR UP TO PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

Washington, Oct. 22.—President Coolidge in addition to his other duties, was called upon today to select one of two bears for presentation to the National Zoological Park.

The bears—Grizzlies from northern Mexico—were brought to the White House by R. B. Pearson, an old frontiersman, who said he specializes in roping wild animals. Mr. Coolidge went to the front of the White House offices to choose his bear while the Oklahoma City Firemen's band, which had just called on the chief executive, played a circus tune.

IMPEACHMENT PROGRAM IN OKLAHOMA DELAYED.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 22. (By The A. P.)—A delay of two or three days in the impeachment program of the state legislature was seen late today when the lower house voted to have read all the testimony received by its committee of investigation and impeachment before voting on the acceptance of the committee's report. It was estimated that several hundred thousand words were included in the voluminous transcripts from which the testimony will be read.

UNITED FRUIT STEAMER ASHORE OFF NICARAGUA

Kingston, Jamaica, Oct. 22.—(By The A. P.)—The United Fruit Company steamer San Gil went ashore on the northern coast of Providence Island, off Nicaragua, at six o'clock this morning. The steamship San Blas went to her assistance and the passengers were taken off despite the most unfavorable weather conditions. It is believed the vessel can be refloated when the sea abates.

The steamer Calamares, another United Fruit vessel, is also standing by, and the wrecking steamer Killerig has left here for the scene. The San Gil was bound for Cristobal from Boston, by way of Havana.

STONEHAM ADMITS THAT HE ARRANGED FOR LOAN

New York, Oct. 23.—Charles H. Stoneham, part owner of the New York Giants, and under indictment in the case of E. M. Fuller and company, bankrupt stock brokers, today admitted before Referee Coffin, that, in addition to $147,500 he advanced the company on the request of Former Sheriff Thomas F. Foley, he arranged for a loan of $25,000 to the company from Harry Stevens, concessionaire at the Polo Grounds.

The $25,000, he said, was obtained on a note endorsed by himself and by Foley. Of the amount, he added, Foley had paid back $15,500 and "probably will pay the rest." He denied he had advanced any of the $25,000 himself.

"I did it," Stoneham declared, "because I thought Foley was being imposed on. I said to Foley: 'Now, Tom, this is just like throwing good money after bad. From what I know of Wall street and the run Fuller and McGee are having, this will not be enough. You go back to Fuller and tell him I didn't have the money and that I had to go out and get it, unless you tell him that, he will be coming back for more in a day or two.' So I went to Stevens and told him I wanted $25,000 on Foley's note. Then I had Fuller notified and he took the note up and got the money."

Foley, recalled as a witness, denied he had heard of any agreement whereby Stoneham was to acquire a quarter interest in the Fuller company for $200,000. He said Fuller and W. F. McGee urged him to interest Stoneham in the firm's affairs and that on request of McGee, he had gone to see Stoneham. He insisted that his sole hope in all of the transactions was to speak to Stoneham about McGee's requests.

CONSTITUTION CONVENTION OF Y. M. C. A. HAS RECESSED

Cleveland, O., Oct. 22.—After a day devoted to the discussion of the question of the substitution of one general agency and the unified control of a national council for the "dual agency" system, the constitution convention of the Young Men's Christian association recessed tonight to await the outcome of voluntary conferences between the opposing factions.

A sub-committee of twenty which considered the problem of the general agencies, unable to agree by last midnight, brought in a divided report to the full committee, composed of sixty members.

Hudson C. Rosebush, Appleton, Wis., manufacturer, was spokesman for delegates who would continue the two agencies, state and national, attempting to settle conflicts, competition and overlapping in work by the conference method. Fred W. Ramsey of Cleveland appeared as principal spokesman for those favoring the single agency system.

The convention voted to hold in abeyance further discussion or organization schemes until Mr. Rosebush and Mr. Ramsey have an opportunity to report progress of their efforts to reach an agreement.

PUBLIC HEARING ON THE VETERANS' BUREAU

Washington, Oct. 22.—Sharp objections by Charles R. Forbes, of Seattle, former director of the Veterans' Bureau, marked the opening today of public hearings before the senate committee investigating the operations of the bureau. Mr. Forbes declared that he had come 3,000 miles and from a sick bed to assist the committee and to defend his integrity which, he said, is under attack, and insisted that he should be given the right to be heard in reply to statements concerning his administration as they are made.

"This matter is going all over the country," he said, "and unless I can make reply it will be assumed that I am sitting here without offering any objection."

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee of three senators, told Mr. Forbes that neither he nor any other particular individual is "on trial" and that at the proper time he would be given ample opportunity to "explain, object to or contradict" and statements presented in the hearings. The former director interrupted several times during the day.

PROMINENT MAN CRUSHED TO DEATH IN ELEVATOR

New York, Oct. 22.—Charles Coleman of Goshen, N. Y., widely known dairyman and a leading promoter of the Dairymen's League, of New York, was crushed to death by an elevator in an uptown office building today.

Coleman was en route to the fifth floor to the membership department of the Dairymen's League Cooperation association, of which he has charge. He was forcing his way through the crowd to get off and collided with the operator whose hand was on the lever. The cage shot downward, and the dairyman was pinned between the floor and elevator. The body dropped back into the car when the operator got the elevator under control after some delay.

John Foskolisos, the elevator operator, was arraigned on a technical charge of homicide and held in $3,000 bail.

VICTOR MAUREL, FAMOUS FRENCH BARITONE, DEAD

New York, Oct. 23.—Victor Maurel, one of the foremost French baritone opera singers and for many years a principal in the Metropolitan Opera company, died today after an illness of two years. He was 75 years old.

Mr. Maurel last appeared in public in the Metropolitan Opera house, where he gave an act from Faistaff before General Joffre during the latter's tour of the United States. He first appeared in this country in 1884.

THIRD SEMI-ANNUAL ROBBERY OF SHOE STORE

New York, Oct. 22.—Bandits today paid their third semi-annual visit to the Beck-Hazzard Shoe company's store on Avenue B and walked off with $500 from the safe.

Three robbers, at pistol point, forced Benjamin Biedman, a clerk, to open the strong box. Their technique was the same in the two previous robberies.

Military Revolt in Garrisons in Greece

Greek Government Claims to Have the Situation Well in Hand.

Athens, Oct. 23 (By the A. P.)—A military revolt has broken out in some of the provincial garrisons. The mutineers, numbering about 2,000 and reported to be under the leadership of the Royalist General Metaxas, demand the resignation of the revolutionary government in order to ensure the impartiality of the coming elections.

The government, under Colonel Gonatas, is taking measures to put down the revolt, and claims to have the situation in hand.

COUNTER-REVOLUTION IS ROYALIST IN CHARACTER

London, Oct. 23 (By the A. P.)—The counter-revolution which has broken out in Greece is of a royalist character, according to the meagre despatches reaching here from Athens, where a strict censorship has been imposed. The movement is led by General Metaxas and other generals opposed to the republican regime. There has been some fighting, but so far as known not of a serious nature, and one despatch describes "the disappearance" of Metaxas and the directors of his newspapers, which may mean that he has fled and that the movement has been nipped in the bud.

A Central News despatch from Athens tonight reports that the revolt has been overcome and that order reigns in Athens, Macedonia and Chalcis. M. Vamventson and M. Goudas, lieutenants of General Metaxas, are said to be under arrest, and General Pangalos, former generalissimo of the army, has been appointed military governor of Athens.

An earlier despatch from the Greek capital announced that the commander of the fleet, Admiral Dimoulis, had declared to Colonel Plastiras, who headed the revolution which ousted King Constantine, that the officers and men of the navy would remain faithful to the revolutionary regime.

Ever since the Gonatas government decided to hold elections it has been experiencing new difficulties, and a sort of cabinet crisis has been simmering. Advices from Athens indicate that the revolutionary ministers incurred the odium of and cemented the alliance between a number of parties opposed to or lukewarm towards the revolutionary regime by restricting the liberty of the press after pretending to abolish the censorship, thus preventing any allusion to Constantine or any matters relating to the events which led to the recent revolution.

Apparently the revolutionary leaders are apprehensive that a free press discussion of these subjects would enable Metaxas and his party to work up whatever monarchist sympathies still remained in the country, but their action was interpreted as an attempt to unduly influence the elections.

One thing which it was feared might arouse the dormant monarchist sentiments of the country was the fact as represented by the Metaxas party, that the revolutionary government had refused to allow the body of the late King Constantine to be interred in Greece beside those of his father and son. The whole position, however, is still obscure, but despatches which have been allowed to pass the censor represent the Gonatas government as controlling the situation.

PROCLAMATION SIGNED BY VENEZELIST GENERALS

Athens, Oct. 23.—Some 2,000 men, led by the royalist general, Metaxas, have revolted against the military government of Premier Gonatas.

The proclamation announcing the revolution, signed by the Venezelist Generals Leonardopoulos and Gargalidis and Colonel Giras, was published this morning in the opposition newspapers and also scattered over the capital from an airplane.

The military government immediately took measures to quell the revolt, which in government circles is declared to be of no great importance. Some arrests were made during the day and it was reported this afternoon that the rebels had been dispersed. Martial law was declared by Colonel Plastiras. The police confiscated the newspapers which printed the proclamation, of the revolt, which it is rumored here is receiving support from abroad.

An encounter occurred today at Chalios between mutineers and regular troops, but everything is quiet in Athens and at Salonika.

The generals who are leading the outbreak no longer are on the active list of the army.

The revolt had as its object the bringing about of the resignation of the present revolutionary government in order that strict impartiality would be shown the voters at the approaching elections.

GREEK GOVERNMENT MASTER OF SITUATION

Athens, Oct. 22.—Military headquarters maintain that the government is master of the situation and that there is no sign of uneasiness in Athens. No opposition papers were published this afternoon, the directors of all of them having disappeared with General Metaxas to avoid arrest. The re-establishment of martial law is philosophically received by the masses.

So One of the proclamations issued by the counter-revolutionists, besides calling upon the government to resign, appealed to the king to assume his sovereign rights and appoint a new government.

GIVEN YEAR SENTENCE FOR HORSEWHIPPING HIS NIECE

Belmont, N. Y., Oct. 23.—John K. Meineka, wealthy hardware merchant of Belfast, and one of the prominent men in the county, was today sentenced to serve a year in the Monroe county penitentiary and to pay a fine of $500 for horsewhipping Lillian Wood his nineteen year old niece and ward. He pleaded guilty to charges of assault, third degree, when his case was called for trial.

The attack took place last June. His wife questioned the girl about a personal matted and when she could get no information, called her husband. Enraged by her refusal to answer, the man struck her with his fist and then forced her to remove her dress and horsewhipped her.

Meineka was indicted by the Allegheny county grand jury. The girl is a school teacher.

Vast Amount of Whiskey Involved

502,200 Cases, 12,000 Barrels Figures in Conspiracy Case.

New York, Oct. 23.—Gaston B. Means, a former special agent of the bureau of investigation of the federal department of justice, today was arraigned on four indictments charging use of the mails to defraud and violation of the prohibition and internal revenue liquor laws in the transfer of 512,000 cases and 13,000 barrels of whiskey from licensed distilleries to bootleg channels.

Means once was acquitted of the murder of wealthy Maude A. King, of Chicago; he figured in the famous King forged will case; he confessed to having been financial agent for Captain Karl Boy-Ed, Germans naval attache in Washington in 1917; for years he has been an investigator for the department of justice and William J. Burns.

Means, with his secretary, Elmer W. Jarnecke, was indicted by a federal grand jury last week, the indictments having remained sealed until he could be apprehended. He appeared before Federal Judge Knox with counsel today, said "I hear you want me" and was released on $15,000 bail. Jarnecke would appear tomorrow, said Means' attorney.

At least 10 persons were named in the indictments as parties to the alleged conspiracy, but would escape with no prosecution because they testified before the grand jury, according to federal attorneys.

In the transfer of 512,000 cases and 13,000 barrels of whiskey from licensed distilleries and government warehouses to bootleg channels, Means and his secretary are charged with having:

Used the mails to defraud bootleggers by promising to use his influence as a department of justice operative in getting liquor out of bond for them.

Conspired to violate the Volstead act through the illegal transportation of liquor.

Conspired to defraud the government by removing bonded whiskey from federal warehouses without paying revenues.

Conspired to defraud the government by removing vast quantities of liquor from licensed distilleries to places other than designated government warehouses.

Means smiled as the indictments were read to him. Through his attorney he immediately pleaded not guilty, and asked that bail on all four indictments be set at $10,000 instead of the $20,000 demanded by prosecutors. Judge Knox made it $15,000 offering to give the prisoner until tomorrow to produce the money.

"We'll put it up right now," said Means.

William Chilvers, of counsel for Means, said his client stood ready to submit to congress for investigation the result of a general investigation he had made into prohibition conditions in and around New York city. The Means investigation, he said, was discontinued when it brought to light the names of "certain high officials connected with the internal revenue department."

DENOUNCED WEARING OF FURS AND BIRDS BY WOMEN

New York, Oct. 23.—In opening the second American world humane conference, Dr. William O. Stillman of Albany, N. Y., president of the American Humane association, today denounced the wearing of furs and birds by women. His remarks were enthusiastically applauded despite the fact that there were many women in the audience wearing either furs or feathers or both.

The opening of the conference, held in connection with the forty-seventh annual meeting of the American Humane association, was attended by delegates from all parts of the United States and thirty foreign countries. The first three days will be devoted to discussion of the problems of the prevention of cruelty to animals and the last three to the prevention of cruelty to children.

"Wild west" roderos came in for denunciation by Dr. Stillman and others, who declared it was "a lingering evidence of a barbaric spirit of sport which is fast expiring."

Dr. Charles L. Colton of the Connecticut Humane society addressed the conference on "Slaughterhouse Reform in Connecticut."
